UNION COUNTY COURT OPENED THIS MORNING.

Damage Suits Against Steam and Street Railways Are The Chief Features of this Term.

NUMBER OF LOCAL CASES.

MANY PLAINFIELD LAWYERS WENT TO ELIZABETH THIS MORNING.

Unusually Large Number of Cases Are On The Calendar—Many Appeals From Local Justice's Courts—Big Damage Suits.

The Union county courts opened at Elizabeth today and a large number of causes, varying in a wide degree, will come up for disposal. In the Supreme Court alone there are thirty-one cases, twenty one of these being other than contract matters. Fourteen cases will be tried in the Circuit Court and there are two Quarter Sessions causes. Nine appeals from justices' courts and one ar. ument in the Circuit Court go to make up the long list of intricate legal matters that will engage the courts' attention.

The calendar of cases in the Supreme Court is marked by the extraordinary number of actions in tort against corporations. Out of a list of twenty one cases of this nature nineteen are suits for damages, arising from alleged causes of action against railroads and a trolley company. In this class of legal disputes Plainfield lawyers are conspicuous among the attorneys of record.

Codington and Swackhamer represent the defendants in the contract case instituted by Benjamin W. Jones against Charles Chapot and others. Craig A. Marsh will endeavor to obtain verdicts in two damage suits for injuries received by his clients through the alleged negligence of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company. In one case Mr. Marsh represents Albert W. Moffet and in the other Simon W. Lambert and others.

William H. DeMeza represents Miss Anna Conway in an accident case against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company and Robert M. Clark is counsel for Alfred V. Hart, Miss Edna Hart, Theodore Kleman and others against the company on a like cause of action.

The case on contract brought by Asa F. Randolph against William K. McClure will be fought out by William A. Stillman, as counsel for the plaintiff and W. S. Angleman, who has entered his appearance for Mr. McClure. The First National Bank of this city has a suit pending against Mrs. W. K. McClure and the attorneys of record are William M. Stillman for the plaintiff and W. S. Angleman and William K. McClure for the defendants. Codington & Swackhamer represent Anthony C. Vail and others, who have instituted proceedings against the Continental Insurance Company.

Ejectment proceedings commenced against Laura B. Shimar by the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company will be contested by W. S. Angleman and Coddington & Swackhamer, who appear for the plaintiff and defendant respectively. These lawyers also appear in the same manner in a suit instituted by Victor L. Scofield through his guardian against Halstead C. Compton. This is a suit for $10,000 damages for injuries received through the alleged negligence of the defendant, who it is claimed injured the young plaintiff by recklessly discharging a gun, the contents of which hit the boy in the leg.

Among the cases in the Circuit Court there are three of local interest. The contract case of M. Antoinette Debaud against Emma R. Naylor and others brings out Codington and Swackhamer as attorneys for the plaintiff and W. S. Angleman for the defendants. Another contract case is that started by Seaman Williams and others against Walter S. Arthur and others. Isaac P. Runyon appears for the plaintiffs.

George W. V. Moy represents William VanAlstyne in his contract suits against Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M. Mr. Moy also represents the cause of Harry B. Taub against Samuel Herzig and others, which is set down for argument. In this matter W. S. Angleman will make the contention for the defendant.

There is but one case of local interest on the calendar of the Quarter Sessions causes. This is the matter of the appeal of Thomas Garrigan, in the suit brought against him by Dairy Commissioner George W. McGuire,

APPOINTMENT AT HOSPITAL.

DR. NORMAN H. PROBASCO APPOINTED BY BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

Will be Pathologist and Bacteriologist at Muhlenberg Hospital to Fill the Place of B. VanD. Hedges.

Dr. Norman H. Probasco, son of Dr. J. B. Probasco, was last night appointed the pathologist and bacteriologist of Muhlenberg Hospital at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Governors. This position was until recently held by Dr. B VanD. Hedges, and was left vacant by the transfer of Dr. Hedges to the medical department of the Medical Staff of the hospital.

Dr. Norman H Probasco graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 94 and afterward from the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons. In order to more fully prepare himself for his adopted profession he subsequently took a special course in pathology and bacteriology at the Post Graduate hospital.

On completing his studies, he entered Bellevue hospital, New York, and served two years as house physician. Another year was spent as resident physician in the New York Infant Asylum. In the latter two courses he came in contact with all branches of the medical profession and gained a wide experience which will aid him greatly in filling his new appointment.

LITERARY YOUNG MEN MET.

OPENING MEETING OF Y. M. C. A. LITERARY SOCIETY LAST NIGHT.

An Informal Debate and Several Talks by Members Formed the Programme for the Evening.

The first formal meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Literary Society this season, was held in the parlor of the association, last evening, and an interesting programme was carried out. A short business session preceded the literary affair.

President J. Henry Crane addressed the members on the object of the society and subsequently three applicants were admitted to membership. E. K. Hartley delivered an eulogy on McKinley, and in the course of his remarks he referred to the rare fortune the Nation had in possessing such a man of the hour. His civic and Christian character was lauded by the speaker.

"The Political Conditions of the Coming Elections" was the topic discussed by C. M. Dolliver. Mr. Dolliver dwelt upon the state of the political atmosphere in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey and contrasted the issues presented in the several States.

An informal debate on the subject, "resolved that the President of the United States should be elected for six years and be ineligible for re-election," was participated in by the members generally. Although no decision was rendered the trend of the majority of the remarks were favorable to the affirmative side of the debated question.

At the conclusion of this feature of the programme Carl E. Dranger read an essay, entitled "Why a Literary Society or Congress Should Exist." The sketch brought out many interesting facts bearing on the much mooted subject.

WORK OF A SPLINTER.

May Cost Jacob Sacher, of Watchung Avenue, His Finger.

A few days ago, Jacob Sacher, of Watchung avenue, accidentally imbedded a splinter in one of his fingers. He allowed it to go at first without attending it, but it soon became so painful it was necessary to summon Drs. Clawson and Probasco. They treated the member but it still continued to become inflamed and yesterday he entered the hospital for treatment. It is not yet certain whether the finger can be saved from amputation.

HILLSIDE CLUB WILL GIVE ITS RECEPTION.

Elaborate Programme of Golf, Tennis and Social Events Prepared for Saturday.

PARK GOLF CLUB INVITED.

TEAM MATCH BETWEEN REPRESENTATIVES OF TWO CLUBS.

Tennis Tournament for Club Championship in Morning—Golf Events of Afternoon—Reception in Afternoon—Dance in Evening.

Golf and the social set will join hands Saturday for one of the chief events of the season at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. On that day the Hillside Club will hold its annual reception and will entertain the members of the Park Golf Club. A lengthy programme of golf, tennis and social events has been arranged for the day, and there is every prospect that it will eclipse all previous attempts of that nature which the club has attempted in the past.

The principal event scheduled for Saturday morning is the opening of the play in the lawn tennis tournament for the annual championship of the club. The championship cup, won last year by Kenneth Bulkley, will again be played for. It goes to the player capturing it twice. The play will be on the courts of George P. Mellick adjoining the grounds of the club. The contestants in that event, who will probably number at least twenty, will have the right to practice on Mr. Mellick's courts this and tomorrow afternoon. The entries, which have to be made with Mr. Mellick, will close tomorrow. All classes of members are eligible to play.

By way of attraction for the golfers, a mixed foursome will be held during the morning. It will be a handicap competition, eighteen holes, medal play, open to members of both clubs. There will be prizes for the two best net scores.

In the afternoon the chief event, as far as the golfers are concerned, will be a handicap competition, eighteen holes, medal play, open to all members of both clubs. There will be prizes for the best gross, the best net and the second best net scores.

In connection with this handicap, there will be a team contest, each club to be represented by a team of ten or twelve men. It will be a handicap event, medal play, the team scoring the smaller total number of strokes winning the event. A silver putter will be the prize.

At 3 o'clock, a clock golf competition for women will start. Two prizes will be awarded. At 4:30 o'clock, the approaching and putting contest will begin with prizes for the team making the best score. All these events will be open to members of both clubs.

Invitations have been issued to Plainfield society folk for the reception which will be held at the clubhouse during the afternoon. Brooks and Denton, the celebrated banjoists, are to play during the afternoon and for the dance in the evening.

Steward Ivamy will be prepared to serve dinners from 6:30 until 8 o'clock. Tables will be placed in the main clubroom during the dining hour instead of on the piazzas, as was done last year. During the evening a dance will be held.

Work of a Press Ad.

Miss Lizzie Stafford, of Grove street, placed a cent a word ad in The Daily Press yesterday to the effect that she had lost a gold watch. Within two hours after the paper was issued William Baker, of 47 Chatham street, appeared at The Press office with the missing article. It was returned to Miss Stafford who rewarded Baker for his honesty. Thus the value of The Press' advertising columns is made apparent.

To Rule O. U. A. M. Joyfuls.

At a business meeting of the O U A M Joyful Club held Friday evening, the following officers were elected to serve three months: President, James Pope; vice-president, Clarence Brokaw; treasurer, William Pope; secretary, Harry Rogers; sergeant-at-arms, George Aller. The report of the treasurer showed the organization to be flourishing. A number of new members were admitted.

Sabbath Observance.

Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, preached an interesting sermon Sunday evening on Sabbath observance. He compared the observance between Paris and London, and then referred to the commendable way in which Plainfield observes Sunday.

FALL MILLINERY.

Fine Display Which is Now to Be Seen at Bonn's on West Front Street.

The fall and winter display of trimmed millinery at Bonn's on West Front street, which opened today, is by far the finest of all his openings. Expert trimmers and designers have perfected an assortment seldom seen in this city.

There are several hats of exceptional beauty, including one Continental shape. This has a crown and part of the inner brim of folded maline. Surrounding it is black and white chenille braid and long black and white ostrich plumes adorns the side. There is also a large picture hat with a crown of white chiffon and panne velvet in folds.

A child's hat that is attractive is of scratched beaver with the inside brim stitched and trimmed with large rosettes of shirred silk. There are steel ornaments in front and soft silk around the crown, with a bow and sash.

Mr. Bonn has made great effort this year to excel previous displays, and is fully prepared to please the most particular. His window display is unusually attractive.

Patrick Gotsell, a former resident of this city, was married in Brooklyn Friday evening to Miss Nellie Dorman of that place. The ceremony was performed in St. Joseph's church before a large number of friends.

Mr. Gotsell was formerly employed at the Pond Tool Works, where he has many friends. The young people will reside in Brooklyn.

Smith and John Post as delegates to attend the convention of Odd Fellows to be held at Whitehouse Monday evening, when a district deputy grand master will be selected. A delegation of members from Westfield Lodge, I. O. O. F., paid a fraternal visit to Queen City Lodge last evening and had a social time.

Cut by Saw.

William Long, of Bound Brook, an employe at McCullough's mills on Steiner place, is carrying his right hand in a sling. Yesterday while sawing boards at the mill his hand slipped and before he could recover it the saw struck it inflicting a deep and ugly gash across the thumb and first finger. Long went to Dr. Mattison's store where nine stitches were required to close up the opening.

The Press Did It.

Mrs. Walter Sisty, of Dunellen, lost a pair of gold eye glasses. She advertised in another paper without success. A man found them and inserted an ad in The Press. Mrs. Sisty saw it and recovered her property. The moral is plain.

TEMPERANCE TALKED BY THREE CLERGYMEN.

Local Sons of Temperance Gave a Meeting at Vincent Chapel Last Evening.

LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT.

REV. J. R. BRYAN TOLD OF FICHT AGAINST SALOONS YEARS AGO.

Grand Worthy Patriarch Brady, of Trenton, Was Present and Spoke on Assassination and Temperance—Rev Mr. Shott Spoke.

A meeting in the interest of temperance was held in Vincent chapel, last evening, under the auspices of Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance. Worthy Patriarch Sylvester Scribner, of the local division, presided.

The first speaker was Rev. J. R. Bryan, formerly of this city, but now of Somerville. He gave a review of the temperance work, especially twenty-seven years ago, when he resided in this city. He told how intense the feeling against intemperance was in those days. A law and order league was organized of which he was president and through the efforts of the league the licenses of all saloons and hotels were taken away. Mr. Bryan believed that the widespread and profound feeling of apathy today in a large measure defeats the aim of temperance workers. He favored local option and thought it was a big mistake when the legislators who caused the enactment of that bill were retired after a year's trial. The bill was then repealed.

After Mr. Bryan's remarks there was a solo, "Save the Boys," by Mrs. John Manley. The next speaker was Rev. C. F. Brady, of Trenton, grand worthy patriarch of the Sons of Temperance of New Jersey, who referred to the assassination of the late President McKinley. He said that assassination was no new thing, for the first death there is any record of was when Cain murdered Abel. He believed that sin, pure and simple, is the cause of all such dastardly work. Mr. Brady reviewed the assassinations of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley and drew from each lessons on temperance. He strongly favored local option as one of the best means to a desirable end.

An appropriate recitation was then given by Miss Alice Scribner. The next and last speaker was Rev. G. M. Shott, of Scotch Plains. He dwelt upon the subject of intemperance as affecting the individual, the home, the church and society, and drew helpful lessons as to why the accursed traffic should be stopped.

At the close Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, was called upon for a few remarks, but as the hour was late he simply endorsed the words of the three speakers. After the singing of a hymn the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Shott.

Never Phased It.

A reckless bicycle rider ran into another wheelman at the corner of Front street and Park avenue yesterday noon and his front wheel was a total wreck. The wheel run into was a Pierce and this was not damaged the slightest. Nelson VanWinkle, of North avenue, sells the Pierce wheel and it has a strong reputation for strength.

Just in Time.

The household goods of Allen Burroughs, of East Sixth street, were attached yesterday by Constable Weaver, as they were in the freight station awaiting transportation to Pennsylvania. The writ was taken out in Justice Moffett's court by Charles H. Hand, who was Burrough's landlord.

Held For Trial.

On complaint of Miss Edith McCracken, Thomas Muldowney, of West Third street, was arrested Saturday on a serious charge. He was locked up but was later released in $300 bail. He will appear before City Judge Runyon Saturday morning.

Inspection Day.

"Inspection Day," at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday school Sunday afternoon was largely attended by members and friends. The interesting programme as published in The Daily Press was rendered entire and a profitable time was spent by all present.

Celebrated Wedding Anniversary.

Collector and Mrs. F. H. Smith, of Madison avenue, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Nutall at Tappen, N. Y., and incidentally celebrated the fourth anniversary of their marriage. They returned home yesterday.

ONLY ONE MORE PRIMARY.

REPUBLICANS EXPECT TO COMPLETE ALL PREPARATIONS THEN.

City Committee Will Act on Proposed Change to Primary Rules Tonight.

It is probable that there will be only one more set of Republican primaries before the November election. The subcommittee of the Republican city committee, appointed to revise the primary rules, met last evening and decided in favor of consolidating the county and city primaries. The city committee will act on the report this evening.

When the Meeker Act went through the Legislature, consolidating State and municipal elections in all cities in the State, it became necessary for the local Republicans to revise their primary rules to suit the new conditions. The plan, as outlined by the subcommittee last evening, is to hold but one more primary at which delegates to the county and city conventions, members of the county and city committees and a nominee for ward Councilman will be chosen. The primary will last from 5 to 9 o'clock and will be conducted on the same lines as the city primaries last year.

The enrollment scheme will undoubtedly be continued but it is probable that the city committee will, this evening, set another day for completing the enrollment. The day for the primaries will also probably be fixed.

PRICE OF COAL GOES UP.

RETAIL PRICE IIS ADVANCED TO $6 A TON.

Wholesale Rate was Increased Some Time Ago—Increase is One of Fifty Cents a Ton.

All the local coal dealers announced this morning that the price of domestic grades of coal would be increased from $5.50 a ton to $6 a ton.

In explanation of the rise a local dealer explained this morning that the wholesale price went up sometime ago, but that the retail men had maintained their rate the same. The margin was not enough, he said, to meet expenses and so the price had to go up. It was customary, he explained, to raise the price of coal every year at the approach of cold weather and that this act was in conformity with the usual custom, although the retail dealers had delayed this time until sometime after the wholesale men had advanced the price.

This rise is general throughout the city, all the members of the Retail Coal Merchants' Association having agreed to it. The dealers do not, at present, anticipate a further rise.

SCHOOL SENATE.

Officers of Self-Government Plan Elected at City High School Yesterday.

Dyer, Carrie F. Fuller, Mabel Jenkins, Clarence B. LaRue, Harold A. Nomer, Louise M. Taylor, Charles P. Titsworth.

PREACHED ON ANARCHY.

Sermon by Rev. Dr. Yerkes on That Important Subject Sunday.

Rev. Dr. Dr. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached a strong sermon Sunday morning on the subject of anarchy. The doctor likened anarchists to wild beasts and suggested that they be imprisoned for life the same as beasts are caged in Central Park, New York. He said that he could not denounce too strongly this class of people whose sole efforts are the overthrow of the Government. He believed that they would overthrow the Kingdom of God if it were possible with them, and he thought the time had arrived to suppress these anarchists once and for all.

MAY NAME FERRELL; SEYMOUR IS WEAKER.

Hot Times at Democratic State Convention in Session at Trenton.

IS STILL ANYBODY'S RACE.

AN ADJOURNMENT MADE UNTIL LATER IN THE AFTERNOON.

Little Mention Made of Martine's Name But a Show For Him Still — Seymour's Been Waning—Senator Smith Says Ferrell.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Trenton, Oct. 1—Although the day of the convention has arrived, it is impossible to say who will be the choice of the Jersey Democracy. It is anybody's race. The excitement is high and the town is filled with the followers of Democracy. They came yesterday and their gatherings continued way into the night. A new batch was on hand this morning and now the excitement is higher than ever and promises to continue so until the nomination is actually made. It is without doubt one of the most hotly waged ante-convention battles that the Democrats have seen.

All through the evening, the Democratic cohorts assembled. Chief interest centred, perhaps, in the meeting of the State committee. It was continued until the early morning hours. It was the first real test of strength between the rival factions and resulted in a victory for Former Senator James Smith and his anti-Seymour forces. By a vote of 18 to 6, the committee selected Former Judge Robert Woodruff, of Mercer county, as temporary chairman of the convention. The candidate of the Seymour men was Congressman Allan McDermott, of Hudson.

Meanwhile Senator Smith held forth in the famous room 100, while E. F. C. Young and Robert Davis, acknowledged leaders of the Seymour boom, had headquarters elsewhere in the Trenton House. Col. E. L. Price was the Essex county manager for the Seymour boom.

When the last of the crowd deserted the corridors of the Trenton House early this morning it was simply impossible to say which way the tide would turn. This morning there was but little more accurate information. Everybody was making all kinds of rash claims, so even the veteran politicians were wondering which way it would go.

In the course of the morning the boom of Former Congressman Thos. M. Ferrell assumed a more formidable appearance than it did the day before. Ferrell buttons were freely worn and were practically the only ones in evidence. Seymour did not appear to be holding his strength and predictions were freely made that he would not be nominated. Would Smith and his lieutenants settle upon Ferrell as the anti-Seymour candidate? That was the all-important question which was being asked on every side.

At 10:30 o'clock the writer interviewed Mr. Smith in room 100 at the Trenton. He said:

"I think Ferrell appears to be the strongest man present but it is too early to say who will be nominated. You may be assured that Mr. Seymour will not be nominated."

Former Congressman Ferrell, when interviewed by the writer at that hour, seemed very confident of his nomination. "We have taken a turn for me," he declared, "I will get 600 votes on the first ballot and I will be nominated."

Mayor Seh, of Trenton, who is a strong anti-Seymour man from Mercer county, remarked "Seymour is losing strength and I would not be surprised to see Former Judge Child, of Essex, nominated."

Regarding the probable permanent chairman of the convention, Mr. Smith said that William Gourley would probably be chosen.

The morning has not developed any inclination of a boom for James E. Martine. Among the first arrivals, his name was not even mentioned as a possibility. It is generally conceded that much depends on the committee on credentials. The action of that committee in passing on the contests in Essex will probably decide the day. If the anti-Seymour forces can capture a majority of the Essex delegates, an enforcement of the unit rule will practically end the fight.

The various county caucuses were held during the morning and the results showed unexpected strength for Ferrell. Middlesex was solid for him.

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should be Answered Easily by Plainfield People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow citizens, or depend on statements made by utter strangers? Read this:

Mr. C. E. Hepburn, of 123 Duer street, formerly of Canada, where he first heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have my endorsement for they cured me of a long-standing case of backache which annoyed me very much, especially if I took cold for at such times I was in pretty bad shape. I heard different people speak very highly of Doan's Kidney Pills, concluded to try them, got a box from my druggist, Mr. L. W. Randolph, and used them according to directions with the above results. I do not hesitate to give my endorsement of a preparation like Doan's Kidneys Pills."

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

Americans Killed One Hundred and Forty Bolomen.

OFFICERS OF COMPANY C SLAIN.

Further Particulars Regarding the Affair In Samar Show It to Have Been One of the Most Sanguinary Since American Occupation.

MANILA, Oct. 1.—General Hughes, from the island of Samar, reports the arrival of Sergeant Markley and one private at Tannan (?) from the fight at Balangiga, where more than forty men of Company C, Ninth infantry, were killed by insurgents, who attacked the troops while at breakfast Saturday last.

The men who have reached Tannan say that the officers of the company, who were at first reported to have escaped, were killed with the majority of the company.

The troops were attacked while unprepared by 400 bolomen, of whom the Americans killed about 140. Many of the soldiers were killed in their quarters before they had time to grasp their rifles.

General Hughes is going to the scene of the disaster and will personally command the troops.

A new branch of the Katipunan, a Filipino secret society, has been discovered at Tarlac, capital of the province of that name. The object of the society is the slaughter of the whites. Marcelino Marivilla, presidente of Banoang, is the chief of the new branch, which includes members of the native constabulary who were recently armed.

One policeman admits that he was taxed a dollar and was ordered to make bolos. A regular collection has been made by the organization from the natives either by persuasion or threats. An uprising has been planned for an early date.

The conditions at Tayants (Tayabas) and Batangas are not reassuring. The worst form of guerrilla warfare prevails there. The insurgent forces are distributed under cover along every road and trail and wait in ambush for travelers. The insurgent leader Caballes, who formerly belonged to General Cailles' command, but who refused to surrender with Cailles, is retreating to the mountains. The main forces of the insurgents are scattered in bands over the province, where they dig up rifles when there is an opportunity to use them.

Senator Dietrich on the Philippines.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 1.—Senator Dietrich, who has just returned from the Philippines, while in this city talked of the conditions in the islands. He was pleased with the progress and, speaking of the new civil government, said: "Civil government is a success. The governments which have been formed with natives at the head are running smoothly and are giving the best of satisfaction. This is especially true in Luzon, where the rebellion has been crushed." Senator Dietrich visited the island of Samar, where Company C of the Ninth infantry was ambushed on Saturday. "The island is filled with banditti and outcasts," he explained. "When the insurgents were driven out of Luzon and the other nearby islands, those who did not take the oath of allegiance fled to Samar. In a short time the island, which had been peaceable, was the hotbed of trouble. All the bad characters of the archipelago gathered there and forced the natives to join their forces. These banditti have violated every rule of war and civilization, and it will doubtless require considerable force to bring them to terms."

Officers Also Killed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—A corrected copy of General Chaffee's cable dispatch from Manila in regard to the massacre of American soldiers in Samar was made public at the war department. By a mistake in translating the cipher the dispatch was first interpreted as saying that Captain Connell, Lieutenant Bumpus and Surgeon Griswold had escaped. The corrected copy shows that the cipher words mistaken for "have escaped" really meant "investigation will be made." The corrected copy does not show that the officers mentioned are safe.

Captain Connell a New Yorker.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—According to the latest reports from Manila, Captain Connell of Company C, Ninth infantry, perished in the disastrous fight at Balangiga, Samar. Captain Thomas W. Connell was a New Yorker, being a son of David J. Connell, who lives at 45 South William street, and a brother of Deputy Assistant District Attorney John J. Connell. Captain Connell entered the Military academy Sept. 1, 1889, and graduated in 1894.

Cuban Election Law Changes.

HAVANA, Oct. 1.—The constitutional convention held a private session yesterday and considered a letter from Governor General Wood advising the appointment of a committee of five members to have charge of the forthcoming elections and also advising that two elections be held instead of four. The attendance did not amount to a quorum, but General Wood's suggestions were approved by all present. Another session will be held today for the purpose of appointing the commission and making the necessary changes in the election law. A manifesto has been issued by prominent revolutionists approving the recent letter of T. Estrada Palma as a programme for the future republic to follow and strongly advocating his election to the presidency.

EVANS ON THE STAND

Commander of the Iowa Before the Schley Court.

CAPTAIN JEWELL'S CONTRADICTION.

The Statement Made by Admiral Schley Before the Senate Committee Declared to Be False.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Rear Admiral Evans, who as captain commanded the battleship Iowa during the Santiago campaign, was a witness before the Schley naval court of inquiry yesterday. His testimony covered the entire period from the time the Iowa left the port of Key West on the 20th of May, 1898, until the 5th of July, when Admiral Evans testified he had a conversation with Admiral Schley concerning the battle of the 3d. He described in detail the principal battle off Santiago and also gave particulars concerning the bombardment of the Colon on the 31st of May.

Other witnesses of the day were Captain Theodore F. Jewell, who was commander of the cruiser Minneapolis during the Spanish war, and Commander James M. Miller, who was in command of the collier Merrimac until that vessel was turned over to Lieutenant Hobson to be sunk in the mouth of the harbor at Santiago. Admiral Evans had not concluded his testimony when the court adjourned for the day.

Captain Jewell flatly contradicted Admiral Schley's statement made to the senate committee that when he (Schley) arrived at Santiago he was informed by Captains Jewell, Sigsbee and Wise that they had been in the vicinity for a week and had heard nothing of Cervera's fleet since it had left Curacao.

Captain Miller of the Merrimac testified as to the possibility of coaling the warships off Cienfuegos. In the main he seemed to think such an operation would have been possible, but uncomfortable and hazardous.

During the examination of Rear Admiral Evans the judge advocate asked the witness concerning a statement by a lieutenant of the Spanish navy, printed by the navy department, to the effect that at dark the American ships withdrew to the southward, disappearing.

The introduction of this book was objected to, and Admiral Dewey said:

"The witness has already told what distance was maintained by the fleet. We don't care for that kind of information. Admiral Evans was there and can answer for himself. We want facts, not newspaper articles."

Rear Admiral Evans told of the attack on the Colon, when his vessel fired at a range of 11,000 yards. He said no attempt had been made to stop work on the batteries at Cienfuegos, though they were within easy range of his guns. He had not told Schley of the signal arrangements with the Cubans.

Admiral Evans said that he had not gone in nearer to the Colon on the occasion of the bombardment of that vessel because he was "in formation following the flagship."

Rear Admiral Evans gave a graphic description of the battle of Santiago and told of the Brooklyn's famous loop. The flagship, he said, was at one time directly in front of and within 100 yards of the Texas.

The Texas, he said, apparently was backing and dangerously close to the Iowa.

Rear Admiral Evans said that the weather was such that the Iowa could not have coaled from the Merrimac between the morning of the 25th and the 26th of May.

He said that the official chart showing the Brooklyn's loop was wrong.

Honored by the Sultan.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The state department has been notified that the sultan of Turkey has appointed Alexander R. Webb honorary consul general of the Turkish government at New York. Besides having honored Mr. Webb with this position, which is permanent, the sultan has bestowed a decoration upon him. Mr. Webb was given the medal of merit by the Turkish ruler, which in Turkey is considered a high honor.

Sad Plight of Dr. Burroughs.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 1.—Distressing word has been received concerning the condition of Dr. George S. Burroughs, former president of Wabash college. He lost one arm by amputation last spring as the result of a fall, and in August he had the other arm broken at a railway station in New York. Word now comes that this arm must also be amputated, leaving the doctor a helpless cripple.

A Place For Former Secretary.

ALBANY, Oct. 1.—Hon. W. J. Youngs of Oyster Bay, who during the term of Theodore Roosevelt as governor of New York state was his private secretary, today received the appointment of deputy state superintendent of banks. He succeeds Colonel James S. Thurston of Tioga county, who has resigned. The salary of the position is $4,000 per year.

Money In Flowers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The census bureau has announced its statistics of commercial floriculture in sixteen states, showing an aggregate value of $11,000,000 of flowers and foliage plants raised in 1899, with 3,895 establishments and $35,000,000 as the value of the lands and buildings.

THE CANTON SENSATION.

Story of Prowlers About the McKinley Tomb Sifted.

CANTON, O., Oct. 1.—The officers and men of Company C of the Fourteenth United States infantry on duty at West Lawn cemetery guarding the resting place of President McKinley have worked diligently investigating the strange story in which Private De Prend, who was on duty at the top of the vault Sunday night, figured so prominently. The same reticence imposed by military regulations which prevented the officers and men from making detailed statements concerning the incidents was operative. From interviews with all the commanding officers, several noncommissioned officers and a number of privates the following was gathered:

All the commissioned officers and the officers of the company in general accepted fully the story related by Private De Prend at the time and really believed that the prowlers were about the vault with no good purpose. Yesterday only one of the commissioned officers adhered to the belief that an attempt had been made upon the sentinel for ghoulish purposes. He said: "It was the real thing. It was prompted by the pure cussedness of some people who thought to bring reproach upon the nation by doing damage to the resting place of the dead president."

All the men who were seen expressed the belief that Private De Prend acted in good faith and that he related only what he believed to be the real circumstances. With the captain and others he went over the details of the whole affair at least a dozen times, and, it is said, he did not vary in a matter of importance. Particular inquiry was made as to his sobriety at the time, and it is said that it is established beyond all reasonable doubt that he had not been drinking and that he was in his normal condition.

The most common belief is that the sentinel was overwrought by the loneliness of his position, that his nerves were overtaxed and that imagination contributed some of the details related in good faith. The post was regarded by all as particularly isolated and depressing to the man guarding it at night, and it is understood that more sentinels will be stationed at the point in the future.

FIVE REPUBLICS CELEBRATE.

Central America Keeps Independence Day at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Oct. 1.—The five republics of Central America celebrated their independence day in the New York state building at the Pan-American exposition last evening. It was on Sept. 15, 1821, that the republics declared their independence in concert, and arrangements had been made to observe the anniversary of that date, but owing to the assassination of President McKinley the exercises were postponed. The ceremonies began with the reading of the acts of independence, followed by the opening address on behalf of the republics by Dr. F. Corea.

John G. Milburn, president of the exposition, welcomed the guests of the evening and expressed the hearty appreciation of the officials of the Pan-American and the people of the city for the interest displayed in the exposition by Central America.

N. Velos Goiticia responded on behalf of Guatemala; General N. Boletz-Peraza for Honduras, Allejandra Bermudez for Nicaragua and Dr. J. J. Alloa for Costa Rica.

All of the speakers praised the work of the exposition in drawing the countries of the two Americas into closer relations and in encouraging and fostering the pan-American sentiment. Feeling reference was made to the sad ending of the glorious life of the late President McKinley.

Cabinet Crisis In Colombia.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Dr. Silva, the Colombian minister, yesterday received a personal message from Bogata announcing a cabinet crisis there. The dispatch came from his brother-in-law, Mr. Miguel Abadia Mendez, who announced that the crisis had resulted in his appointment as minister of foreign affairs. The new premier has been the secretary of the treasury in the Colombian cabinet. He is a young man about thirty-five years of age and is a lawyer by profession. The dispatch gave no further particulars than those above stated, nor did it make any mention of the reasons for the crisis.

SUNKEN TREASURE FOUND.

Ten Thousand British Sovereigns Recovered From Lake Champlain.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Oct. 1.—Ten thousand English sovereigns, after lying for nearly a century and a quarter in an old hulk at the bottom of East bay, Lake Champlain, have been recovered and are now deposited in the Allen National bank in Fairhaven. For many years there had been a tradition in this part of the state that at the bottom of East bay, near Carver's falls, was a sunken boat containing a large amount of English gold, with which it was intended to pay off the troops of General Burgoyne in 1777.

The gold was shipped from Quebec in a small sloop, with crew and guard of ten men, the expedition being under the command of one Captain Johnson. It was intended to deliver the money to Burgoyne at Ticonderoga, as his men were almost in a state of mutiny because they had not been paid. At Ticonderoga, however, Captain Johnson found that Burgoyne was in pursuit of St. Clair's army in Vermont, so he started for Skeensboro, now Whitehall, intending to meet the general there.

Learning that the American forces had been defeated at Hubbardton and were in full retreat, he concluded to change his course, go up East bay to Carver's falls, near which was a bridge that Burgoyne's army would have to cross in order to reach Skeensboro. He anchored his boat within sight of the falls and awaited Burgoyne's arrival. The vessel was attacked by Americans, scuttled and the crew killed.

A civil engineer who drew the plans and superintended the construction of the big dam at Carver's falls for an electric power station concluded that he would investigate. Taking with him about thirty men, he changed the course of the stream and then with pick and shovel soon had one side of the sloop free. A charge of dynamite broke up the hull. The timbers were found in good condition. In the cabin was found considerable glass and other ware, fifteen muskets, much the worse for their long immersion, and other minor articles. An old iron chest was found in the captain's room. When opened, it was found to contain 10,000 sovereigns.

Gold Headed Cane For Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—F. Abreu, a wealthy Filipino planter, called at the White House yesterday and presented to the president a gold headed Palassan wood cane. The head bore a design emblematic of justice and power done in the highest skill of the Filipino engraver's art. Admiral Schley called at the executive mansion early and paid his respects to the president. Other visitors were Senators Proctor, Mitchell, Hansbrough and Foraker and Representatives Grosvenor and Brownlow. The president was waited upon by a delegation composed of William S. Odell, ex-commander of the Potomac department of the G. A. R.; Floyd King, president of the National Memorial Bridge association, and Judge R. E. Doan, vice president of the association. At the recent encampment of the G. A. R. at Cleveland resolutions were adopted approving the idea of a memorial bridge across the Potomac, one arch of which should be erected with special reference to its being a memorial to the late President McKinley. Mr. Roosevelt gave his hearty approval of the proposition.

A TURKISH OUTRAGE

Particulars of the Capture of Miss Stone.

BRIGANDS MASKED AND ARMED.

The Missionary and Her Party Expected to Be Killed, and One of the Men Was Murdered Before Their Eyes.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 1.—A detailed account of the capture of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the missionary, by brigands in Turkey has been received in a letter from Mrs. H. C. Haskell of Samokov, Bulgaria, to a relative here. Her letter says Miss Stone had been holding her usual summer school for Bible workers at Bansko, Macedonia. On Sept. 3 a party of six students from the collegiate institute at Samokov, three or four Bulgarian teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Tsilka, who had spent several years in America; Mrs. Coshera and Miss Stone started for Djumiak, twelve hours' travel. From there they were to go to their different homes.

At 4:30 o'clock that afternoon as they were resting in the mountains, Miss Stone and Mrs. Tsilka being on horseback and the rest on foot, they were surrounded by thirty or forty armed men. These men were dressed in Turkish costume, but were masked or blackened. They ordered the party to march and drove them up the steep mountain side. Miss Stone told the boys they were taking them away from the road to rob and perhaps kill them. She did not speak of capture, as it is almost unheard of for brigands to take women.

After going an hour's distance the brigands stopped and demanded their money. They took what gold they had, but returned the silver.

When this was done, one of them said to Miss Stone, "We want you," and ordered her and Mrs. Tsilka to go with them. She made no remonstrance. Mr. Tsilka made a move to follow his wife, but they forced him back. A part of the brigands kept watch on those that remained to keep them from hurrying to inform the government, but the next morning let them go.

The brigands murdered one of the men of the party before the eyes of the captives to get his horse. They took this animal as well as the horses ridden by Miss Stone and Mrs. Tsilka. The students came to Samokov and wired Dr. House at Salonika, Miss Stone's station. He immediately went to the American consul and also telegraphed Consul General Dickinson, who knew Miss Stone.

The news spread over Bulgaria like a flash, for Miss Stone was widely known and greatly beloved.

Porto Ricans In Hawaii.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—R. C. A. Peterson, connected with financial institutions in Honolulu, who has just arrived here in speaking of the fears that laborers imported from Porto Rico would be reduced to the condition of peons and coolies, said that the opposite was true. "To correct this fear wherever it may exist I will state that the condition of the immigrants could not be happier. They are employed at salaries ranging from $18 to $25 a month on sugar plantations. Houses, water, fuel and medical attendance are furnished them gratis, and those employed by planters are carried daily to work by hacks. They say that their new country is paradise compared with Porto Rico. Hawaii is now enjoying a season of prosperity equal to that of the United States proper, although on a smaller scale. More hands are needed on the plantations."

Street Car Strike Continues.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Oct. 1.—The street car strike is still on. No cars have been run since 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The motormen and conductors are organized under a charter from the Knights of Labor, but fourteen of them have applied for a charter from the Amalgamated Association of Street Car Workers, who are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and with the local Central Trades Council organizations of union men. The new organization has signed a contract with the officials of the Electric Terminal railway to run the cars just as soon as they get their charter, which possibly may be tomorrow. This action has caused bitter feeling, and the Knights of Labor will fight the new organization.

Contradictory Reports From Haiti.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 1.—Official advices from Haiti report the suppression of the revolutionary movement at Jeremie. The arrests there are now reported to have been confined to one family, which was working in the interest of M. Fouchard, the former Haitian minister of finance. It is said on good authority that Fouchard was recently advised by a party of Haitians who were making a landing to join the revolutionary force in the south of Haiti, where he is exceedingly strong. He, however, declined to do so and expressed his willingness to await developments here or wait until election time. The Haitian exiles here say there is no truth in the reports that the revolutionary movement has been suppressed.

At the Convention.

It will not be many hours after this issue goes to press that the Democrats will select their candidate for the governorship. What his chances of election are only the future can show. He will have to overcome a normal Republican majority which has prevailed in Jersey for many years. The Democrats are hopeful but so are the Republicans. The Republicans are in power now and a Democratic victory will largely depend upon their ability to show that the State will profit by a change in administration.

Meanwhile the fight in Trenton is on. In another column will be found the latest news from the seat of war. Unless there is a remarkable change in the course of events, today's convention promises to be one of the hottest that the Democrats have held in Jersey for several years. It's a fight for the Democratic leadership in Jersey and the two men who aspire to that place have marshalled their forces ready for a vigorous fight today. Former Senator James Smith, of Newark, has been at the head of the State Democracy but E. F. S. Young, the Hudson county trolley magnate, aspires to the place and, should the Democrats gain control of the State Legislature, to go to the United States Senate.

At this writing it is impossible to say just what are the chances of James E. Martine to secure the nomination. As was stated yesterday, his only chance seems to be in winning out through a deadlock between the two factions. A powerful speech might stampede the convention. Then there is a possibility that one faction or the other might combine with the Martine forces in order to secure the defeat of the opposition.

The first issue of the Sunday edition of the Philadelphia North American has appeared. It is about what one might expect from that enterprising newspaper. The supplements are full of interesting matter, profusely illustrated, while the news section is conducted on the same lines as the daily edition. Particularly interesting is a section which is devoted to a description of how the paper itself is prepared, beginning with the gathering of the news and following the work to the distribution of the printed sheets to all parts of the world.

Several of the local clergymen have already preached on anarchy and the anarchists, and how this nation should rid itself of these pests. One speaker characterized anarchy and the saloon as the two great evils of the day. There is no doubt but the land is powerfully stirred on this subject and that the next session of Congress will see some active steps taken to do away with the dangers from these banded enemies of government and society.

A pastor has been found by the trustees of Hope Memorial chapel to fill the place left vacant through the resignation of Rev. G. Kennedy Newell. Rev. L. T. Howard, a nephew of the illustrious Major General Howard who served his country so valiantly in the Civil War, is the man chosen. We welcome Mr. Howard to Plainfield and trust that his pastorate may be a happy and successful one.

One of the most active of Plainfield's organizations is the Young Men's Christian Association. The various departments of that association are to be formally opened for winter activity Saturday night. The plans for the coming winter are on a greater scale than last year and there is promise that the association will accomplish much.

During all these beautiful days the driveways leading to the new eastbound station of the New Jersey Central Railroad remain in their present incomplete condition. When the rainy days come it will be too late. Surely the officials of the company can infuse a little vigor in that department of the road.

A leading London daily recently announced to its gullible readers that on the death of the President of the United States, the Governor of New York succeeds to the office. Mr. Dooley or his friend, Hinnissey, should be eligible to the editorship of that newspaper.

John Adelmann has returned today to his old place with the trolley road. This change in management is the result of an attempt on the part of the company's officials to prevent a resumption of the accidents which followed each other so rapidly during the last year.

The present term of court is a wonderfully strong object lesson to the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company as to the need of more care in the operation of its lines.

It really looks as if it was up to the management of the St. Mary's team to arrange a game with Scotch Plains for Saturday. This question of the local championship ought to be settled.

The telephone poles are fast beginning to disappear on Somerset street. It will not be very long before Mayor Smalley's pet scheme regarding that thoroughfare will be an accomplished fact.

And now for the new batch of water bills. There will be a new howl in a day or two and then the people will remember that they wanted water meters.

The football season will open for Plainfield Saturday when several of the local elevens will play their first games.

At last she aroused herself and managed to crawl down the steps and open a front door. In the meantime Mr. Tinsman made three attempts to find the cause of the trouble, but each time fainted away. William Gulick, a neighbor, was called in and immediately secured the services of Dr. Brakeley, who succeeded in reviving Mr. and Mrs. Tinsman. South Plainfield, Oct. 1.—The following story appeared in yesterday's morning edition of the Philadelphia North American:—"Mrs. Patrick Fitzgerald, owner of the South Plainfield Hotel, is richer by the neat little sum of $1,980, the gift of an old man who came to her hotel three years ago and asked for breakfast. The old man said he was hungry, but that he had no money with him, although he had money elsewhere, and would repay her. He died at her house on Thursday, giving to Mrs. Fitzgerald a few hours before the contents of an old satchel, which he had kept under his pillow. In it was the money which, he specially stipulated should be hers in return for her hospitality to him when he came to her as a stranger. Who the man was is not known."

Buffalo Bill as a King Among the Ranchers

PERHAPS it is not generally known that Col. Cody, the famous scout, owns three big ranches of his own; but this is the case. His favorite, the Big E. T. E. ranch, is situated in the very heart of the Rocky mountains, and when the show season is over Col. Cody loses no time in "making tracks" for this ranch, where he spends the most of his leisure time hunting elk, deer, antelope, mountain sheep, bear and lions or in the more quiet enjoyment of fishing. Those who have been to Buffalo Bill's Wild West show and have seen the fate of the glass balls which he has shattered with such unerring aim while at full gallop, can be excused for wondering what chance the wild game of the Rockies has when Buffalo Bill is once on its trail.

Col. Cody has, on his favorite ranch, 320 acres under cultivation and numerous fenced pastures, but his stock is free to range on a wide expanse of wild government land. Of stock he has on this ranch 500 head of Herford cattle with thoroughbred Herford bulls, in irrigated. Of the cultivated ground 2,000 acres are devoted to alfalfa and the balance to corn and grain. Col. Cody has, at present, on this ranch, 200 head of thoroughbred horses and mules, 100 head of fine cattle and 1,000 hogs. The most interesting fact about this great farm is that it is all under the management of a woman—Mrs. W. F. Cody.

Col. Cody, at one time, made a single shipment of ten car loads of bronchos, each car containing 25 animals. And some of them brought as high as $600 a pair in New York. Col. Cody has been trying the experiment of crossing the range or broncho horse with thoroughbred stock and by this method he has been able to produce what he considers the finest cavalry horse in the world. He says that the high altitude in which the animals are raised gives the creatures great lung power; and that the limestone formation has a good deal to do with the strong bone, hoof and sinew of the animal. At the age of four years some of his bronchos weigh from 900 to 1,500 pounds and which he takes no little pride; and he also keeps near him on this ranch 500 head of his finest horses.

Col. Cody does a bigger business in bronchos than almost anyone else in the country, and hundreds of his bronchos are used in the cavalry service of the English, German and Russian armies. On Carter ranch, in the Big Horn basin, he keeps 1,000 head of thoroughbred and graded horses and ten thoroughbred and imported stallions. On this ranch he has 640 acres under cultivation. Being a stock farm, the chief crop which he grows is alfalfa and timothy hay and oats. Imagine an 8,000 acre pasture land and all fenced in, too! That is the size of the pasture on the Carter ranch. The manager of this ranch is Guss Thompson and he is by all odds the best broncho breaker on any of Col. Cody's ranches. It is the usual practice of Col. Cody to have his colts halter-broken during the first winter, but, save for this simple breaking, little attention is paid to them until they are three or four years old. They roam at will over the wild range unless they are wanted for some specific purpose. They are fed very little and learn to depend, winter and summer, upon the grass of the prairie. When they are three or four years old those that have not been handled are wild enough to give the man who endeavors to break them a lively tussle. But there isn't a horse in the country that's too much for Guss Thompson. He has earned a reputation in the Big Horn Basin as an expert in this work.

The third range belonging to Col. Cody is known as the Scout's Rest ranch and it is located at North Platte, Neb. This is a 5,000-acre ranch and 4,000 of these acres are cultivated and they are a fit horse for almost any purpose.

Until recently the United States has been much less prone than European nations to look upon the western broncho as a fit cavalry mount. Now, however, every year finds more bronchos in the American cavalry. In Col. Cody's opinion they will ultimately supersede every other breed of animal for this purpose. His faith in them, he says, is based upon their activity, durability, sure-footedness, intelligence and the fact that they can carry soldiers quicker and farther on less feed and water than any other horse in existence. There are many bronchos that are plenty heavy enough, according to Col. Cody, for heavy cavalry, and even for infantry work; and the United States army is now beginning to realize this fact and to employ them in the service. Russia has become so convinced of the superiority of this hardy little animal of our western prairies that she is sending great numbers of them to Siberia for breeding purposes.

It should not be understood that the wild native horse of the plains meets the requirements of the cavalry service; but that the ideal cavalry horse is had by crossing that animal with the Kentucky thoroughbred or the English hunting horse. The ideal horse had in this way will be more than 15 hands high and tip the scales at 1,100 or 1,200 pounds.

"There is no such thing," said Col. Cody, "as breaking down one of these crossed animals. The creature will come out of a day's journey of 100 miles not a whit the worse for wear—and carry a heavy rider, too. The German cavalrymen didn't think much of the animal when they first saw it. They'd been used to big, heavy horses and were taken back when they saw the little range horse. But they have at last come to appreciate the half broncho, which is taller than the old native Oregon broncho and quite large enough and heavy enough to meet all the requirements of the service. The English army has used thousands of these animals in South Africa and the report is that the half broncho is the best all-around cavalry horse that has ever been used."

At the present time Col. Cody has on his ranches no fewer than 600 brood mares—and this is an indication in itself that his stock farms are run upon no small scale. In his long plains-experience Col. Cody has had many valuable animals given to him, one of which came from the noted Chief Rain-In-The-Face.

When Col Cody retires from active life it is his purpose to repair to his favorite ranch in the Rockies where he can have enough sport with his gun to keep himself in practice.

R·I·P·A·N·S

I am thirty-five years of age, by profession a traveling salesman, and being continually on the road am compelled to eat my meals at all hours and times of the day. The result of these irregular hours for eating was that I had indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation. After eating a meal I would feel all bloated, was constantly belching, had a sour taste in my mouth, and at times, while I was eating, the food would be forcibly ejected from my mouth, placing me in a very embarrassing position when eating with any one. I had violent headaches, was very restless at night, unable to sleep, became yellow as a colored person, the result of being constipated; in fact, my health became such that I was compelled to give up my position. After suffering five years I became discouraged with life until about three months ago, while stopping at Rockland Lake, N. Y., where I had gone for my health, I became acquainted with a professor of medicine of the Yale University, who was stopping at the hotel and who was struck by my miserable appearance and asked me what the trouble was, and I told him. He said to me: "How much have you spent for doctors and medicine?" I said I guess about $500. "Well," he said, "what would you think if I should tell you I can relieve you instantly and cure you in a month?" I told him I would be in the seventh heaven of delight and under lasting obligations to him; but I was afraid that his bill would be more than I could pay. He smiled and said: "Never mind. If you think my bill is too large then you are not under any obligations to pay me." So I said all right, and placed myself under his care. He then went upstairs to his room and came down with a little vial full of brown tablets (Ripans Tabules) and said: "Take one of these after each meal and also one whenever you feel that bloated feeling." After dinner I followed his advice, and for ten minutes after eating felt that bloated feeling; also the desire to vomit, sour belching, etc., when suddenly the feeling began to leave me, and in about a half hour I felt better than I had for six months, and by supper time the relief I had obtained from the tablet was so great that I sat down and ate my first hearty meal for nearly three years. I continued using them for three weeks, my health and color improving every day, and I have since had no indigestion; bowels are regular every day. The third week I asked the professor for his bill, which he presented me, and on opening it I was surprised to find that the entire amount was 60 cents. I asked him what he meant and thought he had made a mistake. He said: "No; you owe me 60 cents. In three weeks you have consumed five 5-cent cartons of Ripans Tabules, the greatest and cheapest cure that has ever been known for dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation, and you see the result."

THE NEW SLEEVES.

Increase of Fullness Held In Skillfully by Tucks.

The new fall sleeve shows an increase of material in its construction. This material is corded, tucked or gauged to fit in closely at the top, and any fullness of a baggy description occurs either at the elbow or between it and the wrist.

Silk coats with plenty of chiffon frills around the neck and front and under sleeves of the same soft texture are now being shown in the big shops. Sable capes are again relieved with rich lace. Even the plainest gowns are made elegant with coats or capes of this rich fur. One reason doubtless why it will ever be the fur of the well dressed woman is that it cannot be imitated successfully even in this age of skillful imitations. It is only the real article which is worth buying.

Boleros made of two kinds of fur promise to be among the winter novelties.

In today's cut we have a charming house gown made of old rose taffeta and trimmed with a wide irregular edge of black chantilly lace. The waist is made with a square decolletage which can be worn with or without a lace guimpe. There is a bertha of the old rose mousseline de sole edged with the black lace. The sleeves are also of the mousseline de sole gathered at the seams and finished with a black lace cuff. The narrow crush belt is of black panne. The skirt is cut in four flounces edged with black chantilly applique.

SHORT COATS.

The Russian Blouse Is Fast Becoming Popular.

In regard to trimming coats there is a variety of ways. Stitchings and strappings, horizontal and otherwise, form a favorite mode, three or five lines terminating at the left side of the front, with large pierced bone buttons or small leather buckles. There is choice, too, in coats, which can be short or long, single or double breasted, reaching below the waist or just above it. The Russian blouse style promises to be immensely popular. Some of these blouses are strapped with bands of Persian embroidery or strips of delicately colored suede.

PALE GREEN CLOTH DRESS.

For women who have passed their first youth and those whose figures present a certain amount of embonpoint the three-quarter length coat and the Eton with the postillon back are eminently suitable styles.

The dressy costume here shown is of pale green broadcloth, trimmed with wide applications of heavy ivory white lace. The corselet bodice is made of this lace, the upper half being of the broadcloth laid in clusters of three and two tucks, the upper portion of the sleeves are formed of the [illegible] lace, the dressleeves are laid in fine [illegible] way down the skirt, which is [illegible] tacked in clusters. There is a [illegible] band of the lace which heads a gathered ruffle.

But it was pleasant to see that she still wore her clothing. Raiment, whether of fabric or skin, has its value, and custom has always given the garments of the condemned to the soldiers guarding them. So, as Nais was not stripped, I could not but see that some one had given money to the guards as a recompense, and in this I thought I saw the hand of Ylga, and felt a gratitude towards her.

The soldiers brought her forward to the edge of the pavilion's shade, and she was bidden prostrate herself before the empress; and this she wisely did, and so avoided rough handling and force. Her face was pale, but showed neither fear nor defiance, and her eyes were calm and natural. She was remembering what was due to Atlantis, and I was thrilled with love and pride as I watched her.

But outwardly, I, too, was impassive as a man of stone; and though I knew that Phorenice's eye was on my face, there was never anything on it from first to last that I would not have had her see.

"Nais," said the empress, "you have eaten from my platter when you were fan-girl, and drank from my cup, and what was yours I gave you. You should have had more gratitude, you should have had knowledge also that the arm of the empress was long and her hand consummately heavy. But it seems that you have neither of these things. And, moreover, you have tried to take a certain matter that the empress has set apart for herself. You were offered pardon on terms, and you rejected it. You were foolish. But it is a day now when I am inclined to clemency. Presently, seated on that carved throne of granite which he has built me yonder, I shall take my Lord Deucalion to husband. Give me a plain word that you are sorry, girl, and name a man whom you would choose, and I will remember the brightness of the occasion; you shall be pardoned and wed before we rise from these cushions."

"I will not wed," she said, quietly.

"Think for the last time, Nais, of what is the other choice. You will be taken, warm and quick and beautiful as you stand there this minute, and lain in the hollow place that is made beneath the throne-stone. Deucalion, that is to be my husband, will lay you in that awful bed, as a symbol that so shall perish all Phorenice's enemies; and then he will release the rams and lower the upper stone into place, and the world shall see your face no more. Look at the bright sky, Nais, fill your chest with the sweet, warm air, and then think of what this death will mean. Believe me, girl, I do not want to make you an example unless you force me."

"I will not wed," said the prisoner, quietly.

The empress loosed her fingers from my arm and lay back against the cushions. "If the girl presumes on our old familiarity, or thinks that I jest, show her now, Deucalion, that I do not."

"The empress is far from jesting," I said. "I will do this thing because it is the wish of the empress that it should be done, and because it is the command of the empress that a symbol of it shall remain forever as an example for others. Lead your prisoner to the place."

The soldiers wheeled, and the two guards with the chains of the collar which was on the neck of Nais prepared to put out force to drag her up the steps. But she walked with them willingly, and with a color unchanged, and I rose from my seat and made obeisance to the empress and followed them.

Before all those ten thousand eyes we two made no display of emotion then, not only for Atlantis' sake, but also because both Nais and I had a nicety and a pride in our natures. We were not as Phorenice to flaunt endearments before others.

Yet, when I had bidden the guards unhasp the collar which held the prisoner's neck, and clapped my arms round her, showing all the roughness of one who has no mind that his captive shall escape or even unduly struggle, a thrill gushed through me so potent that I was like to have fainted, and it was only by supreme strain of will that I held unbrokenly on with the ceremonial. I, who had never embraced a woman with aught but the arm of roughness before, now held pressed to me one whom I loved with an infinite tenderness, and the revelation of how love can come out and link with love was almost my undoing. Yet, outwardly, Nais made no sign, but lay half-strangled in my arms, as any woman does that is being borne away by a spoiler.

I trod with her to the uppermost step, the vast throne-stone overhanging us, and then, so that all of those who were gazing from the sides of the pyramids and the roofs of the buildings might see, though we were beyond Phorenice's view, I used a force that was brutal in dragging her across the level and putting her down into the hollow.

"I WILL NOT WED," SAID THE PRISONER, QUIETLY.

And yet the girl resisted me with no one effort whatever.

So that the victim might not struggle out and be crushed, and so gain an easy death when the stone descended, there were brazen clamps to fit into grooves of the stones above the hollow where she lay, and these I fitted in place above her, and fastened one by one, doing this butcher's work with one hand, and still fiercely holding her down by the others. Gods! and the sweat of agony dripped from me on to the thirsty stone as I worked. I could not keep that in.

I clamped and locked the last two bars in place, and took my brute's hand away from her throat.

The hateful finger-marks showed as bloodless furrows in the whiteness of her skin. For the life of me, yes, even for the fate of Atlantis, I could not help dropping my glance upon her face. But she was stronger than I. She gave me no last look. She kept her eyes steadfastly fixed on the cruel stone above, and so I left her, knowing that it was best not to tarry longer.

I came out from under the stone and gave the sign to the engineers who stood by the rams. The fires were taken away from their sides, and the metal in them began to contract, and slowly the vast bulk of the throne-stone began to creep down towards its bed.

But ah, so slowly! Gods! how my soul was torn as I watched and waited.

Yet I kept my face impassive, overlooking as any officer might a piece of work which others were carrying out under his direction, and on which his credit rested; and I stood gravely in my place till the rams had let the stone come down on its final resting-place, and had been carried away by the engineers; and then I went round with the master architect with his plumb-line and level, while he tested this last piece of the building and declared it perfect.

It was a useless form, this last, seeing that by calculation they knew exactly how the stone must rest; but the guilds have their forms and customs, and on these occasions of high ceremonial they are punctiliously carried out, because these middle-class people wish always to appear mysterious and impressive to the poor vulgar folk who are their inferiors. But perhaps I am hard there on them. A man who is needlessly taken round to plumb and duly level the tomb where his love lies buried living may perhaps be excused by the assessors on high a little spirit of bitterness.

NEWS FROM JAPAN.

Shooting of McKinley Caused Great Excitement—Marquis Ito's Health.

YOKOHAMA, via Victoria, B. C., Oct. 1.—The dispatch announcing the attempt on the life of President McKinley created the utmost excitement and sorrow not only in the American community, but among the entire population. The native papers and public bodies have been most eager and sincere in their expressions of sympathy.

Almost precisely coincident with the attack has been the sentence pronounced upon the assassin of Hoshi Toru, condemning him to life imprisonment.

The extraordinary bearing of the prisoner, his Samurai education and his high moral character inclined judges and people alike to the utmost possible leniency. The difference between him and the American assassin, the latter a product of the modern civilization of the west and the former of the very best blood and training of ancient Japan, is generally commented upon.

The health of Marquis Ito has of late been the cause of much solicitude on the part of his friends, who have finally prevailed upon him to take a sea voyage, and he will soon leave for America. As he has long been the most prominent figure in Japanese politics his absence will bring about a decided change in party movements and possibly become the occasion for an entirely new alignment. As it is impossible to distinguish any issues dividing Japanese political parties, however, the formation of a new set is of the smallest consequence. The marquis sails for Seattle by the Kaga Maru on the 18th inst.

The signing of the peace protocol by the Chinese is looked upon as the beginning of a new era of prosperity and of a revival of the business conditions in the far east. China is deemed to have got off on very easy conditions, the long time given for the payment of the indemnity making the pecuniary burden a very light one. The result, however, is entirely in accord with Japanese feeling. This nation knows how it would have felt and what it would have done under the same circumstances to which the Chinese have been subjected and, as its own demand of indemnity has shown, has no disposition to be hard upon her neighbor. The further drawing together of the two nations is inevitable, and the signs are unmistakable that it is now rapidly going on.

The reception of the embassy for an apology for the murder of Mr. Sugiyama took place on Sept. 13 and was in marked contrast to the similar mission to Germany. While the emperor's reply was entirely dignified and adequate, there was in it none of the sternness of tone which the German kaiser used. While perhaps this may be attributed in great measure to the forms of oriental politeness, it was but another evidence of the desired affiliation of the two governments for protection against western encroachment.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Arrangements are being made by Manager Foster, of the Hope chapel nine, for a final game. The concluding contest, which will wind up the season so far as the Hope boys are concerned, will be played Saturday in all probability on the Plainfield avenue grounds.

Manager Monahan, of the St. Mary's nine, in booking the game with Scotch Plains for Saturday, it is said, had in mind the famous home runs of George Kean, the third baseman on the local team. Kean has a happy faculty of driving the leather for a home run occasionally and a grand-stand play of this nature will be a welcome feature, if Kean will make the attempt Saturday.

Hope chapel will have an entire new team in the field next season. Some of the present players will be retained on the nine, but in many instances their positions will be changed. Feiring is likely to be assigned to first base, and Fred Dixon is a probability behind the bat. There is no dearth of material, and the Hope boys are optimistic of a strong team for next year.

Westfield will close its baseball season Saturday with a game against the Aeolians. It is the intention of the Aeolian organ people to place a nine in the field next season, composed of the pick of the semi-professional players about New York, who will be given permanent employment. Lance and Cary, two first-class players, who have worn the Westfield uniform this season, are now in the Aeolian employ and there will be a strong make-up in Saturday's game to show what the Aeolians propose to do next year. The Westfield line-up will be the same that crushed the Pearsalls, 14 to 0, and, as it stands, is the equal of any team that has defeated it this season.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

Clarence Hand, captain of the Fairview Giants, has secured a game with the Union F. C. It will be played shortly on the latter's grounds.

William Firstbrook, manager of the Jockey Club football team, wishes to accept the challenge of the Union Field Club, made by Captain Stephany. He can be addressed at 316 Liberty street.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

It has been decided to again conduct a women's gymnasium class in the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. and the season will open Thursday, October 10. The classes will be held in the morning, the same as last year.

The advisability of selecting a physical director to take charge of athletics at the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel is being discussed. It is probable that some one will be chosen in the near future to discharge these duties. There are several candidates and from these a choice will be made.

BASKET BALL.

The Young Men's Association of Hope chapel will organize a basket ball team in the near future. At the present time a couple of picked fives are taking preliminary practice in the chapel gymnasium and it is likely that the best of the material at hand will be selected in a short time to make up a team to represent the association.

COLUMBIA AND SHAMROCK SHARE IN KEEPING THE LEAD.

The American Boat Crossed the Line First—Wind Freshens Again—Hope to Finish.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, Oct. 1—The second of the series of international yacht races was started this morning over a triangular course. As the wind was blowing from the east, the first leg of the triangle was sailed right into the wind with a course due east.

At 10:15, the yachts were on their way to the starting point, accompanied by a large fleet of excursion boats. The wind at that time was blowing eight knots an hour.

At 11, the yachts crossed the line, the Columbia leading by a few seconds. The wind had increased to ten knots.

At 11:24, the Columbia was an eighth of a mile ahead. The wind is light and variable.

At 12:24 Columbia slightly in the lead. Winds very light.

At 1:34 the Columbia still leads. The wind is very light and there is little chance of finishing the race within the time limit.

At 1:40 the wind is increasing and the Shamrock has just passed the Columbia.

Meetings Held at Local Factories When Association's Advantages Were Related.

The Young Men's Christian Association, of Plainfield, is showing a commendable spirit of enterprise in holding noon-day educational shop meetings and presenting to the men the advantages and opportunities which the association offers through the evening classes.

For the purpose of pushing and assisting General Secretary J. H. Manning in this valuable work, the State committee has delegated the associate State secretary to spend several days in Plainfield.

The first meeting was held at the Potter Press Works yesterday and much interest was manifested by the men.

The State secretary, in a brief address, told the men of the benefits of education, especially to the mechanic, and gave several illustrations of men whom he personally knew, who had increased their wage-earning capacity and had risen to better positions though a single winter's course of studies in the Y. M. C. A. The secretary urged the men to make the most of themselves, and improve the golden opportunities which the association offered the men of Plainfield through its evening school.

At the close of the address Physical Director Heywood secured an excellent photograph of the meeting.

Other places to be visited include the Hibbard Bodman-Ely Safe Works and Scott Printing Press Works.

HOBO SHOT.

Negro, Another Tramp, Was Arrested And Held For the Crime.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Oct. 1—Timothy McCarty, aged thirty-five years, of Jersey City, was shot this morning at Bound Brook Junction by a negro, who gives his name as Samuel Roberts, of Trenton. Both are hoboes and engaged in a fight. Roberts got away, but was arrested this afternoon by Marshal Sebring near this place and taken to Somerville. McCarty is in the Somerset Hospital at Somerville and it is believed he will die. Roberts says that the two were engaged in target practice and the shooting was accidental.

MAY NAME FERRELL; SEYMOUR IS WEAKER.

So was Hunterdon and Atlantic.

At the Somerset county caucus W. J. Keys was elected member of the State committee over S. S. Childs by a vote of 15 to 11. N. Y. Dungan, of Somerville, was made chairman and David J. Carney, of North Plainfield, secretary. The convention officers were chosen as follows: Vice-president, George E. Pace, of East Millstone; committee on permanent organization, William J. DeMond, Somerville; resolutions, Peter B. Hall, of Neshanic; credentials, Chas. J. Fury, Somerville; rules, Selah Schoonmaker, of Hillsboro. Eighteen out of twenty-six voted for Farrell in an informal ballot. One was for Seymour, one blank and four did not vote. In a previous informal ballot Martine received two.

The convention was called to order at 12:29 by State Chairman William Gourley. The greatest confusion prevailed. There were loud cheers for Senator Smith and Col. Price. The Seymour crowd was particularly noisy.

Former Judge Robert S. Woodruff, a gold Democrat from Mercer, was presented as temporary chairman. William J. Deavereau, of Monmouth, was announced as secretary with S. S. Childs, of Somerset, and John J. Matthews, of Union, as his assistants.

Chairman Woodruff's speech referred in high terms to the late President and was enthusiastically received. At its conclusion, the entire convention arose and sang "Nearer My God to Thee."

The appointment of committees followed and all went smoothly until Essex county was reached when there were two complete sets of convention officers presented. It was finally left to the committee on credentials to decide between them. There was much excitement on the floor of the convention.

After the band played again, the convention took a recess until 2:30 to allow the committees to meet. The nomination will probably be delayed until well into the afternoon.

While it looks like Ferrell, it is still an open question as to who the nominee will be. Seymour says he is in the hands of his friends.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Cosey Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The following verses appeared in the Sunday edition of the New York Herald as proper words for the "Star Spangled Banner" written in a minor key, as published in the Herald at the time of President McKinley's death. They were written by Miss Minnie Genevieve Morse, of Franklin place:

In the nation's dark hour,
When struck down by the power
Of the lovers of darkness, our leader has left us,
Heart to heart, hand to hand,
All across the broad land,
We are one in our hate of the deed that bereft us,
And we cry to the Lord
To unsheathe His keen sword
And avenge us on anarchy's murderous horde,
That the flag they dishonor more truly may wave
O'er the land of the loyal, the home of the brave.

Yet we bow to His will
Who will watch o'er us still;
We shall read His great meaning in days yet before us;
For we know 'tis "His way,"
And we praise Him today
That, whatever befall, still His mercy is o'er us.
And we earnestly pray
He will point out the way
To put down every wrong and His mandates obey;
That our banner, now sin-stained, may peacefully wave
O'er the law-guarded home of the free and the brave.

MAYOR SEYMOUR NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR AMIDST SCENES OF THE WILDEST DISORDER.

It Was Anybody's Fight Up To The Very Hour That The Convention Finally Made Its Choice.

STORY OF THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

E. F. C. YOUNG, THE TROLLEY MAGNATE, PROVED HIMSELF THE STRONGER LEADER.

Former Senator Smith's Forces Were Beaten On the Second Ballot—At Times the Convention Was Uncontrollable—Hot Fight Over Essex Delegation—Other Details Of the Convention.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Trenton, Oct. 2—After a fierce struggle in a convention marked by scenes of disorder in its wildest form, James E. Seymour was named as the Democratic gubernatorial candidate in this city yesterday. The battle lines were much mixed and there was not one politician in that vast gathering of contending hosts who dared to predict the outcome. From it all the Mayor of Newark came out a victor, though not until a second ballot had been cast.

The decision of the convention embraced more than the nomination of a standard bearer for the highest State office. It was in reality a combat between Former U. S. Senator Smith, of Essex county, and E. F. C. Young, of Jersey City, for the leadership of the party and only after the most bitter factional fight did the Jersey City man, who led the attack for Seymour, became supreme. The coveted honor came to Seymour, when the roll had been called for the second time. At its conclusion, delegations, one at a time but all in quick succession, swung into line in a merry attempt to make the nomination unanimous, but the effort failed for some of the Smith cohorts from Essex county withstood the harmonious impulse. Time and time again during the two sessions it looked much as if the rival demonstrations of enthusiasm would end in serious difficulties.

Although it had been arranged to hold the convention in Taylor's Opera House exactly at noon it was getting well on towards 1 o clock in the afternoon when State Chairman William B. Gourley rapped for order. At that time the hall was filled with a mass of humanity. There was no artificial manifestations of enthusiasm, for genuine pandemonium reigned. Seymour and anti-Seymour forces clashed continuously and many of the compliments cast to and fro were not in the least dignified. Essex and Hudson county figured most conspicuously in this respect, and Camden also came in for a goodly share.

Former Judge Robert Woodruff, of Morris county, a friend of Former Senator Smith, was selected as temporary chairman. This officer proved to be dignified and mild and in short order he completely lost control of the convention. Wm. K. Devereaux, of Monmouth county, was chosen secretary, and among the list of his assistants were S. S. Childs, of Bernardsville, Somerset county, and John J. Matthews, of Union county.

Temporary Chairman Woodruff made a long address the feature of which was a tribute to the martyred President At its conclusion, the band, stationed in the gallery, struck up "Nearer, My God, To Thee" and the delegates spontaneously and as one man arose and touchingly sang the hymn. This was in peculiar contrast to the attitude of the convention during the remainder of the session.

During the roll call for county representations on the various convention committees, an unexampled evidence of heated political welfare was presented. When matters reached a high pitch and the convention was unmanageable, State Chairman Gourley grabbed the gavel and hammered with herculean strength for order. He succeeded and in some time a resemblance of order was obtained.

Long after 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the convention adjourned for a short recess.

The battle was transferred to the meeting of the committee on credentials during the intermission. This committee ratified the action of the Essex county executive committee and the majority of the delegates seated by it was favorable to Senator Smith's interests. During the recess it was still felt to be anybody's fight and Senator Smith continued to be optimistic in regard to his ability to defeat the Newark candidate. While the committee was deliberating, shouting delegations in the interests of various candidates, paraded the streets headed by bands of music, as had been the case during the forenoon.

The adjournment had been taken until 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, according to the action of the convention, but it was more than an hour later when business began. Allan McDermott was counted upon as the permanent chairman, but the tumultuous condition existing led the State committee to select State Chairman William B. Gourley, of Passaic county, for the arduous task. He proved to be well equipped for the position, and notwithstanding that several of the delegations continued their boistrous conduct, he succeeded well in quelling the disorder when occasion arose. The temporary secretaries were made part of the permanent organization. A platform was presented and adopted with ringing cheers.

Then came another exciting demonstration, which consisted in a wrangle over the adoption of the report of the committee on credentials. It was finally passed after a vote was taken by counties, during constant interruptions. Whenever the least opportunity was afforded the Seymour boomers, as well as the Ferrell supporters, kept the hall ringing with shouts for their favorites.

A chorus of the Hudson county delegates every now and then would break into song. To the tune of "Annie Moore" they sang:

"He is the man,
You understand
And we don't want
Anybody but Seymour!"

The boom of James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator, of the Cedar Brook Farm," was not apparent at any stage of the proceedings. Within as without the convention hall everyone appeared to look upon his candidacy as an expression of esteem on the part of his friends in Union county and such it proved to be. Mr. Martine was not hankering after the nomination, and all the delegates seemed to fully understand the action of the twenty delegates from Union standing loyally together, strengthened by two members of the Somerset county delegation in support of the Plainfielder.

At last the convention got down to the real work of the day, long after 4 o'clock had passed. The roll was called for nomination of candidates for the gubernatorial office.

Atlantic county led off by placing before the convention the name Thomas M. Ferrell, of Gloucester, Burlington county introduced Seymour's candidacy. Camden seconded Ferrell's nomination and also named Judge Howard Carrow. Passaic followed with Braun and Union wound up with Martine.

The intense excitement, which the calling of the roll for casting the various county votes, was shown in the most pronounced noise caused by the terrific shouting of the delegations. Whenever a delegation announced its ballot pandemonium was allowed to spend its force unchecked. Eight of the twenty-one counties cast split

CLAIMS 'TWAS IN DEFENCE.

ROBERTS' STORY OF THE SHOOTING AFFRAY NEAR BOUND BROOK.

Arraigned Before Justice Kitchen Yesterday—Made Complaints Against McCarty And His Pals.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 2—Tim. McCarty, who was shot in a box car at Bound Brook and is in Somerset Hospital here, is doing nicely. The bullet has been extracted and there is a fair chance for his recovery.

Samuel Roberts, the colored man who did the shooting, when arraigned before Justice Kitchen here, yesterday entered a complaint against McCarty and his pals, Henry Smith and Thomas Murray. Roberts says he was on the way to Trenton, where he was going to attend the fair, and had quite a little sum of money about him. He declares the three men came in the car for the purpose of robbing him and that McCarty attacked him with a large knife. The two whites and a colored fellow who were in the car with him fled, and he was so scared he fired point black at McCarty.

The colored man told a straightforward story and the officers seemed to place a deal of confidence in what he said. He was captured by Officer Sebring at the Lehigh Valley Railroad tanks below Bound Brook. He did not seem to be in hiding, as he had been in the town in the morning to procure food.

Roberts was committed to the county jail.

VANAUKEN AND MINER WINNERS IN DOUBLES.

Finals in City High School Tennis Tournament Played Yesterday Afternoon.

TOOK FIVE SETS TO FINISH.

TWO TEAMS PLAYED A CAUTIOUS GAME AT THE START.

Play Was Steady and Hard With an Occasional Brilliant Rally—Briggs and Bocap Put Up a Strong Fight, But in Vain.

The finals in the tennis tournament in doubles for the championship of the Plainfield High School were played off on the courts of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club yesterday afternoon. Fred T. VanAuken and Vincent B. Miner succeeded in defeating Chester H. Briggs and Clarence C. Bocap in three out of five closely contested sets. The scores were 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

From the very first, both teams played a cautious game. The first set was marked by some rather poor play, both sides apparently feeling the strain. VanAuken and Miner developed better team work and won out. Briggs and Bocap braced up for the second set and captured it. An overhand out proved a troublesome thing for Briggs and Bocap and they lost the third set. The play showed a marked improvement on both sides and there were occasional rallies which were quite brilliant. It was evident, however, that both sides were playing a careful game.

The fourth set went to Briggs and Bocap but their opponents braced up for the final set and won without a great deal of trouble, their superior team play being quite evident.

For Briggs and Bocap, the latter did most of the work at the net while on the other side, the two players divided the work equally. While the play lacked the brilliantness of some of the previous matches it was hard and fast tennis.

The cups won will be presented at the High School Monday morning.

BAD NEWS.

George Anderson Learned of Father's Death and Serious Illness of His Mother.

George Anderson, the popular headwaiter at the Park Avenue Hotel, was apprised yesterday of a very sad state of affairs at the home of his parents at Nassa, N. P., in the Bahamas.

His father, whom he had not seen in ten years, was taken ill suddenly on the second of September and died within the week. The shock prostrated his mother and now her life is despaired of, but with what vitality she possesses she continues to call for her son who is in Plainfield.

On receipt of the news, Mr. Anderson immediately took steps to return home, but, on account of no boats sailing for some time yet, it is doubtful as to whether he can reach Nassau before his mother passes away.

Back to Work.

Joseph Robinson, of West Third street, who severely crushed his left hand while at work in the Pond Machine Tool Company's Works some time ago, has returned to his employment. The thumb and some of his fingers are considerably disfigured by the accident, but he is able to make use of the injured members.

Received Death Benefit.

The relatives of the late Lawrence Doyle have received from Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe, Improved Order Red Men, $100 death benefit. Since the first of last January this tribe has paid near $500 in death benefits to the relatives of the deceased members.

May Break Early Closing.

There was an evident disposition on the part of some merchants to keep their stores open in the evening Monday night, but it resulted in their closing as usual. Just what action will be taken in the future cannot be foretold at present.

History of Fire Department.

The Firemen's Relief Association will shortly issue a pamphlet on the history of the local fire department. The book will be put on the market for the purpose of raising funds for the association.

Miss Adella Phelps has returned home after having spent the summer at Asbury Park. Miss Phelps will resume her art classes at once in her studio.

DENOUNCED LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

PROHIBITION RALLY HELD IN W. C. T. U. ROOMS LAST NIGHT.

Proposed To Form a League But Sufficient Material Was Lacking—Another Meeting.

A rally of local Prohibitionists took place last evening in the W. C. T. U rooms. While it was not largely attended, those present manifested much enthusiasm and assisted in the proceedings.

The speaker of the evening was Henry Bluhm, of Newark, an earnest temperance worker, who is well known throughout the State. He gave a stirring address, in which he denounced the liquor traffic in forcible terms. He cited numerous instances of the ruin which follows the use of ardent spirits and traced the growth in all its enormity for the past century. In conclusion Mr. Bluhm declared that the only remedy for the abolition of traffic in liquor was in the ballot, and he bade the Prohibitionists remain true to their party on election day.

Mr. Bluhm was followed by District Organizer William B. Boyer, of Elizabeth, whose remarks were of the same trend.

It was the intention to form a Prohibition League at the close of the meeting but owing to the scarcity of numbers this was found impossible. A start was made by electing A. A. Phelps president for the purpose of holding a further meeting at his home Tuesday, October 15, when the league will be completed.

Miss May Shreve Now in Lead for the Trophy—First Honors Yesterday to Miss Eisberg.

REPUBLICANS PREPARE FOR LOCAL CAMPAIGN

A Reception to the Gubernatorial Candidate Will be Held in Near Future.

WILL PUT UP TRANSPARENCY

ENROLLMENT PRIMARIES ARE CALLED FOR MONDAY EVENING.

Resignation of J. B. Dumont Was Accepted With Regret — Candidates For Naturalization go to County Seat This Evening.

A regular meeting of the Republican city executive committee was held last evening, when considerable business of importance was discussed. In the absence of the chairman, Dr. O. L. Jenkins, who came in later, the meeting was called to order by vice chairman, Charles S. Foote.

It was reported by the secretary, Wm. Newcorn, that J. B. Dumont had insisted on retiring from the membership of the committee. He had informed the committee that he could not take an active part in the campaign this year. The committee then very reluctantly accepted Mr. Dumont's resignation. The secretary was instructed to prepare the transparency with a picture of Franklin Murphy, the nominee for governor, and have the same put in its proper place.

The committee on revision of rules reported progress and asked for an opinion regarding the drafting of rules, and it was instructed to prepare the rules in accordance with the State law.

The committee on naturalization was notified that Judge Vail will be at his office in Elizabeth tomorrow evening to receive applicants for naturalization who have received their first papers. The committee as well as the applicants and witnesses, must be at the North Avenue station in time to take the 7:05 train for Elizabeth.

The secretary was instructed to issue a call for the enrollment primaries, which will be held Monday evening, when the lists will be revised. There was some talk regarding a proposed reception to Franklin Murphy, but the matter was finally laid on the table until the next meeting, which will be held Wednesday evening, October 9, when a call for the primaries will be issued.

SCHOOL TICKETS.

Special Agent Collins Will Meet Board of Education to Settle Troublesome Question.

Special Agent Collins, of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, will appear before the Plainfield Board of Education at its next meeting, when he will endeavor to settle the question regarding trolley tickets for school children and teachers.

The question has been a perplexing one to the company. Mr. Collins proposed a plan whereby each person entitled to ride for three cents should have a small ticket of identification to be shown to the conductor. This plan was refused, the Board preferring to purchase $15 or $20 worth of tickets and sell them to the teachers and children as they needed them.

This plan is not satisfactory to the company and it is now proposed to settle upon some plan that will be agreeable to both sides.

CURSED THE PRESIDENT, FOUR MONTHS IN JAIL

Summary Justice For Man Who Cursed The Name Of McKinley On City Streets.

HAD FOUGHT IN THE ARMY.

CROWD WAS CLOSING IN ON HIM WHEN HE WAS ARRESTED.

Shouted His Curses On Libert. Street—Arranged In City Court This Morning—Had Suffered In The Philippines.

Thomas Doyle, an ex-United States volunteer, awoke to the realization in the city court, this morning, that openly declared hatred of the late President McKinley would not be tolerated in this city. In the middle of Liberty street, last night, Doyle cursed the President's name in shouts that could be heard for blocks. He was not intoxicated and there were no extenuating circumstances. City Judge Runyon rebuked the man in scathing terms and then sentenced him to four months in the county jail.

Doyle had been about the vicinity of Liberty and Third streets, last evening, and several times made himself conspicuous by his blasphemous talk. Most of those who heard him remonstrated, but unfortunately did not care to administer the beating he deserved. Eventually the maligner found matters becoming serious.

At 10 o'clock he moved up Liberty street to West Second street, where he stood shouting back, "I'm glad McKinley is dead, shooting was too good for him; he ought to have got it long ago, and Roosevelt will get it too some day." Patrolman Vanderweg heard Doyle two blocks away and hurrying to the corner placed him under arrest as a crowd, which had gathered, was closing about him.

On the way to police headquarters Doyle heaped all sorts of abuse upon the patrolman and declared that he, too, as well as McKinley and Roosevelt, deserved to be shot. When put in a cell his abusive talk grew worse and the curses he heaped upon the government were resented by the station men, but they sought in vain to stop him.

When arraigned this morning, Doyle showed a discharge from Company L, 28th Infantry, U. S. V., as proof that he had been in continuous service in the Philippines for two years. During his army life he had endured great suffering and it was this, he said, which fostered in his breast a feeling of hatred for the government and its chief executive. Beyond this he offered no excuse for his infamous behavior and the court told him he was entitled to no mercy, especially as he was not intoxicated, although he had been drinking.

Doyle claimed to live in Iowa but papers found in his pocket showed him to be a rover, numerous clippings from newspapers indicating that he spent a great deal of time in Pennsylvania towns.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

The Great Cinquevalli continues to entertain at Keith's popular Union Sq. Theatre. His great feat this past week was one that has never before been attempted. Cinquevalli drove on the stage in an ordinary dog cart, the vehicle being drawn by a pony. The artist alighted from the cart, unhitched the horse, which his attendant led away, and then, drawing the cart to the center of the stage, he lifted it aloft and balanced it by one of the shafts on his chin. While in this position he caused the cart to revolve. This is a wonderful test of strength, endurance and skill in the art of balancing. It was the sensation of the week. One would have thought that the weight of the cart, which is made of wood and iron, would have caused the shaft to bore a hole in his chin. The cart is an ordinary one, which has been driven about the streets of New York. Cinquevalli changes his programme weekly, and next week he promises the patrons of this theatre a series of equally startling and original feats of strength and skill. Other artists on next week's bill are Katherine Bloodgood, the well-known soloist; Al Leeds and the Three Rosebuds; the Three Diamonds in an entertaining musical act; "The Girl From Egypt," a bright, sparkling sketch; Harding and Ah Sid, the Clown and the Chinaman, in the funniest act ever seen in vaudeville; Mlle. Oliver, juggler; Pete Baker, German comedian, and many others. Continuous performance. Popular prices.

I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO, February 5, 1901.

A MINING DISASTER.

Seventeen Perish In a British Columbia Colliery.

CAUGHT FIRE FROM MINER'S LAMP.

Rescuers Baffled In Attempt to Reach Workmen by a Series of Explosions—One Man's Thrilling Experience.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 2.—Seventeen men are dead as a result of a fire and explosion in extension mine No. 2 belonging to the Wellington Colliery company. The flames started from a curtain which caught fire from a miner's lamp.

Fire broke out at the bottom of level No. 3 and was communicated across the slope by one of the curtains. In half an hour the whole slope was on fire. Rescuers flocked to the mine and reached the place where the miners had been at work, but the men had gone. They had run with the fresh air instead of against it in an attempt to get out by the accustomed route, thus meeting death half way.

While the rescuers were at work several explosions occurred. When it was realized that the men could not be saved, a strong force started to choke the mine, but their work was undone by a terrific explosion which blew down the barricade. A little later the fanhouse was burned.

James Thomas, a rope rider, had a thrilling escape. He was riding down the slope and, seeing the fire coming, jumped off the car and ran. George Southcomb and Eugene Griffith, timbermen, called to him to follow them, but he ran on up the slope for a thousand feet to its mouth and barely escaped with his life. The other men were overtaken by the flames and perished.

The fire is still raging, but it is thought it can be extinguished without flooding the mine.

High Figures For Mares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—At the final sale of the late Marcus Daly's breeding establishment at Sheepshead Bay the richly bred matrons from his stud in England were in great demand, and the prices were very high, forty-one head selling for $205,100, an average of $5,002 per head. James R. Keene paid $18,500 for Field Azure, a famous English brood mare, and $11,000 for Lady Reel, the dam of Hamburg. J. E. Madden paid $17,000 for Pocahontas and August Belmont $17,000 for Lucy Cross, another famous English mare. The two-year-olds also brought big prices, W. C. Whitney taking a brown filly by St. Simon-Lady Reel for $16,000, and J. B. Haggin paid $15,500 for a chestnut colt by Ayrshire-L'Esclave. August Belmont paid $25,000 for a weanling sister of Hamburg.

State Board Defies Johnson.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 2.—The state board of equalization decided yesterday that it had no power to increase the value of the railways of Ohio as appraised for purposes of taxation. The board was guided in its action by the opinion of the attorney general. A demand was made upon the board by Mayor Johnson of Cleveland that the appraisement of the railways of the state should be raised to 60 per cent of their value as shown by the market value of their stocks and bonds. He claims that their present appraisement is only about 21 per cent of their value computed on this basis. Mayor Johnson had previously declared that if the state board refused his demand he would bring mandamus proceedings to compel them to accede to it.

Smallpox Among Chippeways.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 2.—Sheriff Claggett of Mille Lacs county called on the state board of health to report a serious condition of affairs among the Indians about Mille Lacs lake. Smallpox is prevalent. At least fifteen cases exist now, and there have been several deaths. No attempt is made to regulate the disease, and the local health authorities are powerless. There are about 500 Chippeways squatting on the shores of Mille Lacs lake on land owned by a syndicate, and they resent any interference.

Half a Town Burned.

BRADYVILLE, Ia., Oct. 2.—Fire destroyed half of the business portion of this town, including Fine & Maxwell's hardware store, Worley's restaurant, White's dry goods store, the postoffice, Holton & Gray's hardware store, Mrs. Davison's millinery store and dwelling. The Times printing office and the bank; loss, $60,000; insurance, $25,000. Lightning is thought to have been the cause.

A Postoffice Robbery.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The store of Edward Johnson at Jacksonville, six miles from here, was entered Monday night by burglars, who blew open the safe belonging to the postmaster. They got $200 in stamps and small currency. Searching parties pursued the trail of the robbers for miles without success. The sheriff and deputies are still on the hunt.

No Escape For Bissert.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—George Bissert, wardman for Captain Diamond of the East Fifth street station, will have to serve his sentence of five years and six months in prison and pay a fine of $1,000 for extorting money from the keeper of a disorderly house. The attempt of his attorneys to save him by appeal to Supreme Court Justice Hooker of Fredonia, N. Y., has failed.

Eight Hundred Miners Out.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 2.—Eight hundred employees at the Pine Brook shaft of the Ontario Coal company have struck against working with other men who had no working cards.

AGAINST THE ICE TRUST.

New York Court of Appeals Decides For Investigation.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The court of appeals has decided that the proceedings instituted by Attorney General Davies against the American Ice company to determine whether it is an illegal combination in restraint of trade and is violating the antitrust law of the state shall be continued. The decision is a victory for the attorney general and is against the American Ice company, which sought to prevent a combination of the proceedings on the ground that the Donnelly antitrust law, under which they were brought, is unconstitutional.

The proceedings were begun in May, 1900, when Justice Chase of the supreme court issued an order appointing Myer Nussbaum a referee to take testimony for the purpose of ascertaining if the American Ice company was an illegal trust and requiring Charles W. Morse and other officials of the American Ice company to appear before him and answer such questions as might be asked of him. Justice Alden Chester at a special term sustained the orders of Justice Chase, but the appellate division of the supreme court reversed that decision.

The court of appeals in its decision reverses the order of the appellate division and affirms that of the special term.

Pittsburg Takes the Pennant.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 2.—For the first time in baseball history Pittsburg is first in the National league. After attempts galore, followed by many discouraging failures, Pittsburg has at last outfooted her rivals and for a year to come will proudly float the championship pennant that has been in Ned Hanlon's possession for several seasons. Not since 1887 has the National league pennant been won by a western club. In fact, the flag has gone west only eight times since the organization of the National league in 1876. Chicago won it six times and Detroit once. Since Detroit's victory in 1887 the pennant has been won twice by New York, three times each by Brooklyn and Baltimore and five times by Boston.

Jockey Reiff Ruled Off.

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 2.—The stewards of the Jockey club yesterday examined Lester Reiff and heard testimony on the accusation against the American jockey of suspicious riding of William C. Whitney's De Lacy Friday last. Later it was announced that the Jockey club had decided to withdraw Lester Reiff's license. This finishes his riding in England. The incident is the subject of an almost violent debate between the American and English racegoers. The former to a man stand by Reiff and consider the accusation part of a general campaign against the Americans, who are no longer welcome because they have been too successful.

The Abbot Broke No Records.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 2.—The second day's races of the closing meeting of the grand circuit drew a larger crowd and the events were of a more sensational nature than on the opening day. The Abbot made an effort to give the world and the track a new record, but could do no better than 2:04¼.

IT WAS ONLY A FLUKE

Winds Failed the Yachts and Spoiled Race.

BIG PLEASURE CROWD DISAPPOINTED

Shamrock II. Was Well In the Lead When Time Limit Expired—Sir Thomas Is Optimistic, as Usual.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The attempt to sail the second of the present series of international yacht races for the blue ribbon of the sea proved a dismal failure.

Between 25,000 and 30,000 people who crowded the pleasure fleet off Sandy Hook lightship in the hope of seeing a repetition of the thrilling sport of last Saturday witnessed instead more of a drifting match than a race. The wind was exceedingly light and variable, at times falling so low that the gossamer wind pennants, which are as light as thistle down, hung limp against the masts of the big single stickers.

At the end of four and a half hours the two yachts had covered less than one-half of the prescribed course of thirty miles, and as there was no possibility of their finishing within the time limit the regatta committee declared the race off.

When the gun was fired announcing this decision, the challenger was about half a mile ahead of the defender, and to that extent the trial was a victory for Shamrock II. But the fluke demonstrated little as to the question of supremacy between the two boats, except perhaps that Sir Thomas' new champion is more dangerous in light airs than was supposed after her two former meetings with the white flier to which the patriots are pinning their faith. In fluky winds of variable strength, shifting as they did through six points of the compass, luck cuts almost as much figure as model and seamanship, and fortune was unmistakably with the foreigner. The course was an equilateral triangle, ten miles to the leg.

Always optimistic, Sir Thomas Lipton after the race was in the best of spirits. He said: "I really don't see anything yet on which to base a definite opinion regarding the two boats. While Shamrock was leading when the race was called off, there's nothing to brag about. While the winds were very light there was little fluking, therein differing from last Thursday's breezes, which in spots failed utterly, each boat in turn striking dead calms. After the showing made thus far by both boats I should not hesitate if I were a betting man to lay even money on Shamrock. Both boats were handled to the best ability of the best men each country could produce. I don't think there's a better skipper in America than Captain Charlie Barr of the Columbia."

Sir Thomas expressed himself as personally in favor of racing every day, providing any suggestion looking to that end should be made.

Colombian Victory Reported.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The following cablegram from Bogota has just been received at the Colombian legation in this city: "We have obtained a signal victory over the Venezuelan troops that invaded the Goajira, under Venezuelan officers and under the Venezuelan flag, without a previous declaration of war." Some uncertainty exists in the minds of the officials of the legation as to whether this victory over the Venezuelans is identical with that heretofore reported by way of Curacao in the press or is the result of another fight. Dr. Silva, the minister, is inclined to the former opinion. The officials feel very much gratified over the advices. Some stress is laid on the statement that this invasion was without a previous declaration of war on Venezuela's part.

Poles Repudiate Czolgosz.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The national convention of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of the United States is in session in this city, with delegates present from all parts of the country. The delegates were welcomed by Mayor James K. McGuire, the response being made by Peter Kiolbassa of Chicago. In his speech Mr. Kiolbassa said: "We abhor the crime of Czolgosz, but we are not responsible for it. Had his father been a good Catholic the son would have been brought up in the faith of the church we revere. His mother was not a Pole. She is a German. Therefore do not blame us. We have proved our loyalty on many a battlefield. Never was the hand of a Pole stained with the blood of assassination."

A Notable Wedding.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 2.—Miss Mary Landon Mason and General E. P. Alexander of South Carolina were married at the residence of the bride in this city yesterday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry Evan Cotton, rector of St. John's Episcopal church. General and Mrs. Alexander will reside on South island, South Carolina, which is owned by the groom and contains large plantations. General Alexander is a distinguished ex-Confederate officer, having served through the civil war as chief of artillery on the staff of General Robert E. Lee.

Mayor Seymour Chosen.

Many eventful things happened in a brief space of time at Trenton yesterday. The Democratic State convention met and nominated a candidate for governor. In accomplishing that result, however, it furnished one of the liveliest contests that has occurred in the ranks of any political party in New Jersey for some years. Mayor Seymour, of Newark, was the standard bearer chosen but it required a long and thrilling contest to bring it about and a less confident leader than E. F. C. Young might have given up the fight. But his carefully laid plans were successful and the candidate supported by Mr. Young and his lieutenant, Robert Davis, of Hudson, won the nomination on the second ballot.

There has been unusual bitterness shown in the fight for the place, and it was expected by many that none of the candidates prominent at first would achieve the coveted honor, but that the very bitterness of the fight would make it necessary to select a "dark horse" in order to preserve the proper harmony in the ranks. It was on this contingency that the friends of James E. Martine, of this city, hoped to see the "Farmer Orator" carried to the front. Promoters of other booms for "favorite sons" were hoping to utilize this same animosity in a similar way.

The convention is over and the true Democrats will make the best of the situation and work their hardest for the election of the candidate named. While the opponents of Mayor Seymour have done their best to bring to light something which would not bear the light of day, they have failed signally. He is a man of unquestioned integrity and wonderfully popular with all who know him well. It is no slight task to be mayor of a city the size of Newark but Mayor Seymour has held and is holding that office to the satisfaction of the vast majority of the people who reside in its borders. The Democratic party is to be congratulated on securing a man of his character and ability to head its ticket. He will undoubtedly be a positive candidate and will use every fair means to secure his election.

There is a saying that as Essex county goes, so goes the State. Both Republicans and Democrats have chosen a citizen of that county as their candidate for governor. It is there undoubtedly that the hottest fight will be waged and on the result the election may depend. Essex will be the pivotal point in the coming campaign and the fight there will bear watching.

The time is coming round when the city taxes ought to be paid. If they are not paid by November 20, they become delinquent and then Tax Collector Smith will go forth on the war path again. There are so many people who, for no really good reason, put off the payment of taxes until a day or two before the time they are due. The result is that the collector is overwhelmed with work at that time. Another result is that the city has to borrow money in anticipation of taxes. If a few of the taxpayers would think to settle their bills earlier in the year, it would be more convenient all the way round.

According to the Philadelphia Record an experienced advertiser suggests to the man who has trouble in getting up an advertisement: "Write a letter to a distant friend telling him about your store, your goods, prices, etc. Then have it printed as a newspaper advertisement." This is only another way of saying that the merchant should talk in his advertisement just as he would talk to a prospective customer. Every storekeeper can give reasons why people should buy at his place, and to do this in plain words is to make a "fetching" advertisement.

The local Republicans have decided to continue the enrollment plan. The friends of that measure say that it has not been given a fair trial and that it will soon give proof of its efficiency. There is no doubt, however, but that many Republican voters throughout the city are not pleased with it.

The match between the baseball nine of Scotch Plains and the St. Mary's team Saturday afternoon will be well worth seeing. It promises to be a game of the kind you read about. The managements of the two teams are to be commended in arranging this final game.

The rumor that Elston M. French would represent Somerset county on the Democratic State committee proved to be groundless. In the caucus of the Somerset county delegation the fight was between William J. Keyes and S. S. Childs.

Does the nomination of Mayor Seymour by the Democrats yesterday mean the defeat of Former Senator James Smith and his retirement from the leadership. In E. F. C. Young, the trolley magnate, he has found a worthy foe.

One of the acts of the Somerset county delegation to the Democratic State convention, while in caucus yesterday, was to give a complimentary vote for S. S. Childs as gubernatorial candidate. But that was as far as it went.

Another yacht race had to be called off because the yachts could not finish within the time limit. This one was not so pleasing, however, for the English craft was in the lead by four minutes when the race was declared off.

It was The Daily Press which was the first to announce to the Plainfield public the nomination made at the Democratic State convention.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Mayor Smalley, of North Plainfield, N. J., lost no time in ridding that pretty borough of a pestilence with which it was afflicted. He issued orders the other day that anyone selling New York Journals in that town should be criminally dealt with. Before taking action against the New York Journal Mayor Smalley consulted Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed and got his opinion that the hawking of the Journal was undoubtedly an offence provided against by several sections of the local ordinances.—Bucks County (Pa.) Gazette.

Design of Court House.

A large design of the proposed court house building for Union county has been on exhibition in a store window in Elizabeth for some time. It has attracted considerable attention at that place and it is suggested that the building commission permit the people of this city to see the design. It should be exhibited in this city.

Council Meeting.

The next regular meeting of the Common Council will be held Monday evening, October 7.

MAYOR SEYMOUR WAS NOMINATED.

tickets, the majority of the vote generally being for Seymour or Ferrell. When Martine was credited with 20 of the 57 votes, to which Union county is entitled, there was a good share of enthusiasm demonstrated by his personal political friends scattered here and there in the convention. The result of the ballot was: Seymour, 488; Ferrell, 380; Braun, 91; Carrow, 66; Martine, 22.

It was necessary to have 574 votes to make a selection and hence a second ballot was ordered. At this juncture the Seymour people made a final effort to stampede the convention, while Senator Smith, sitting with the Essex county delegation, looked as pleasant as if he was having his photograph taken. During the second and final ballot some of the delegations broke away and gains were rapidly made by the Mayor of Newark, Camden setting the pace. Warren county did the trick, and when it was seen that Seymour was elected there was a grand hurry made by the opposing delegations to get in line.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

As pointed out by Rev. Erskine M. Bodman, rector of Grace Episcopal church, in a memorial sermon delivered recently, the death of President McKinley had so stirred the press and people that comparatively little thought was given to the sudden passing away of Henry Whipple, the Bishop of Minnesota, who was commonly called the "Apostle to the Indians." Had the bishop's death occurred at any other time it would have attracted international attention. It was this "great and good man" who conquered the wrath of the red man by entering into his every-day life and by dealing with him with kindness and true Christian gentleness. He went among them when they lived far from the habitations of their pale-face brethren, had nothing to fear when they were on the war-path. When the bishop first took up his abode in the great northwest, naturally he knew little of the Indian's nature. A story is told that one occasion it was needful for him to leave some rich ecclesiastical vestments in the teepee of an Indian chief, and having some thought for their safety, he took the precaution to ask the red man whether it was really safe to place them where they were. The man of the forest quickly replied that he should have no fear, for there was no pale face within three miles of the place. Bishop Whipple's early career laid the foundation for the noble work to which he had consecrated himself. It is said by H. H. Baker, of East Fifth street, who was Henry Whipple's school-master when the latter was obtaining his rudimentary education, that as a boy he was studious, bright and manly. Mr. Baker was his preceptor in a select school in Adams, Jefferson county, New York, in the early 40's. He was looked upon as a fine young man, and it was no surprise to those who knew the bishop in his younger days that he undertook the self-sacrificing work among the Indians of the northwest.

The construction company has a large number of men at work, but it will be well toward spring before the improvements are completed.

WELCOMED AT VICTORIA.

Duke and Duchess of Cornwall Received With Royal Honors.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 2.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York arrived at Victoria at 11 o'clock yesterday, and a royal salute from the ships of the north Pacific squadron was the first feature of a long programme of welcome. The royal party made the trip from Vancouver to Victoria on the steamer Empress of India, which was convoyed by the ships of the north Pacific squadron. The warships were dressed in bunting, and the flotilla was an imposing one as it steamed through the gulf of Georgia and into the strait of Fuca. The day was bright and warm, and the duke and duchess spent most of the time on deck.

A great crowd gathered in Royal road and on the heights of Beacon hill as the fleet steamed into the outer harbor and the Empress of India docked at the outer wharf. The royal party, the Countess of Minto and Premier Laurier were formally greeted by Lieutenant Governor Sir Henry Joly and driven through cheering crowds to the parliament building, where addresses of welcome were presented by Mayor Hayward on behalf of the city and John W. Pratt of Seattle for the British-American citizens and Presbyterians of Victoria.

The handsome government buildings were attractively decorated, and assembled in a great square on the lawn were the school children of the city, who sang patriotic songs. The duke thanked the people for their welcome.

After the presentation of medals to the South African volunteers the royal party was driven through flag lined streets amid great tumult. The duke lunched with Admiral Bickford. In the afternoon the duke formally opened the Victoria exposition.

At night there was a state dinner at the government house and a reception at the parliament building.

EPISCOPALIANS MEET.

A Large Attendance at the Convention In San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—The general conference of the Episcopal church opened today. The convention began with impressive communion services in Trinity church, where the main convention is to be held. The convention will continue in session for nineteen days, with various meetings. Prominent among the delegates who arrived yesterday were J. Pierpont Morgan, Bishop Potter and a party of eastern bishops and laymen, the guests of Mr. Morgan. The convention is largely attended. Ninety bishops, 400 clergymen and 2,500 laymen are expected to be here.

The convention promises to be the most notable since the original convention 112 years ago. Many important questions are scheduled for consideration. Foremost among them are the final acceptance of the constitution drafted by the convention at Washington in 1898 and since carefully scrutinized by every diocese in the country, the canons, or laws, of the church and the special report on the canon on marriage and divorce.

Mexican Day at the Fair.

BUFFALO, Oct. 2.—Mexican day at the Pan-American exposition brought out crowds. In addition to the usual number of Americans a large number of Mexicans were noticed on the grounds, among others his excellency Senor Aspiroz, Mexican embassador; the members of his official family and the Mexican consuls from Chicago, New York, Cleveland and St. Louis. The elaborate reception in the stadium restaurant was the most superb function which has been held within the exposition grounds. The guests were presented to the embassador and others in the receiving party by the chief commissioner, Senor Nuncio. After an elaborate banquet dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

Farmers' Congress.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 2.—The Auditorium was comfortably filled at last night's session of the farmers' congress when the roll of states was called for the selection of men to serve on the resolutions committee. The principal address of the evening was made by F. B. Thurber of New York. His subject was "Foreign Markets For Our Surplus Products." Owing to the importance of the question to agriculturists in general his words were listened to with marked attention.

German Mission Sacked.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—"Thousands of rebels," says a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Hongkong, "after sacking the German mission at Piangthong attacked Hinnan, a city near Canton. They were repulsed, but they then attacked Shakma, where they were again repulsed. Two thousand Chinese troops have been sent to suppress them."

At many of the best known Cafes and Cigar Stands in New York they sell Ripans Tabules and sell a lot of them. "They are a very good thing!" is the universal verdict. One of the barkeepers relates that his duties require him to be on his feet nearly the entire day, and he at times used to experience a very heavy or depressed feeling physically. Finally he began taking Ripans Tabules as an experiment, taking one after each meal. He says that R-I-P-A-N-S keep him regular in his habits, and of late he only takes one when he feels a special need of something to brace him up.

Ripans Tabules have come into such common use as a medicine for the every-day ills that beset human beings that there is a pretty universal inquiry for them wherever anything is kept for sale.

WANTED:—A case of bad health that R-I-P-A-N-S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R-I-P-A-N-S on the package and accept no substitute. R-I-P-A-N-S, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded by the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

DAINTY TOUCHES.

Little Things Which Are Being Adopted by Smart Women.

Negligees of alternate strips of ribbon and lace are all the vogue, and the latest are of shaded and Persian ribbon. A very stunning house gown can be made of alternate strips of white panne and black panne dotted in white. The ruffle down the front and around the bottom, together with the short bolero and the long scarf ends, is made of sky blue liberty satin brocaded with a pattern of pink marshmallow flowers.

Mull scarfs in Persian patterns are very serviceable to throw over one's shoulders when wearing a decollete evening gown. Those of white mull or mousseline are appliqued, hand painted and embroidered in heavy silks. They also make delightful fichus and boleros to wear with thin evening gowns.

A remarkably dainty gown for a young girl is the subject of today's illustration. It is of pink liberty silk over taffeta of the same shade. The decolletage is defined by a wide band of yellow mechlin lace, with another slightly narrower band following the same outline five inches lower down on the waist. The interval between these two strips of lace is filled in with perpendicular bands of narrow velvet ribbon. The lower part of the blouse waist is full and is held in by a crushed belt of pink panne. The skirt fits plainly around the hips. It is trimmed with two full accordion plaited ruffles headed by a diamond shaped pattern composed of bands of the yellow lace filled in by strips of the black velvet ribbon. Around the neck there are a full gathered stock and a fluffy rosette of pink tulle.

GIRLS OF THE AWKWARD AGE

They Should Be Dressed With the Greatest Care and Simplicity.

It is usually very difficult to dress a girl who has reached what is known as the awkward age. One thing is sure—simplicity must predominate in her wardrobe. Pretty party gowns can be made of china silk, soft liberty satins and crepe de chines. The popularity and youthfulness of the sash should be the excuse for its being introduced as often as possible. Full blouses pouched both back and front are becoming to a youthful figure, and so are broad collars and fichus of net and lace.

Care should be taken not to hide the angularities of a girl's figure with too many ruffles and bows which mean nothing and detract from the simplicity of the whole. Neither should the waist line be accentuated by conspicuous belt or styles requiring a tightly laced corset.

For a tailor made suit the most becoming jacket is an Eton, with a long, loose front and a short back, terminating at the waist line.

This pretty cloak for a young girl is of gun metal bengaline silk, lined with white china silk or taffeta. It is made with a full hood falling well over the shoulders and fastening in front with a rosette of pale pink ribbon, with long ends. There is a square yoke shaped collar of pink panne edged with heavy guipure lace.

I had gone up the steps to do my hateful work a man full of grief, though outwardly unmoved. As I came down again I had a feeling of incompleteness; it seemed as though half my inwards had been left behind with Nais in the hollow of the stone, and their place was taken by a void which ached wearily; but still I carried a passive face, and a memory that before all these private matters stood the command of the high council, which sat before the Ark of the Mysteries.

So I went and stood before Phorenice, and said the words which the ancient forms prescribed concerning the carrying out of her wish.

"Then now," she said, "I will give myself to you as wife. We are not as others, you and I, Deucalion. There is a law and a form set down for the marrying of these other people, but that would be useless for our purposes. We will have neither priest nor scribe to join us and set down the union. I am the law here in Atlantis, and you soon will be part of me. We will not be demeaned by profaner hands. We will make the ceremony for ourselves, and for witnesses there are sufficient in waiting. Afterwards the record shall be cut deep in the granite throne you have built for me, and the lettering filled in with gold, so that it shall endure and remain bright for always."

"The empress can do no wrong," I said, formally, and took the hand she offered me and helped her to rise. We walked out from the scarlet awning into the glare of the sunshine, she leaning on me, flushed, and so radiantly lovely that the people began to hail her with rapturous shouts of "A goddess! our Goddess Phorenice!" But for me they had no welcoming word. I think the set grimness of my face both scared and repelled them.

We went up the steps which led to the throne, the people still shouting, and I sat her in the royal seat beneath the snake's outstretched head, and she drew me down to sit beside her.

She raised her jeweled hand, and a silence fell on that great throng, as though the breath had been suddenly cut short for all of them.

Then Phorenice made proclamation:

"Hear me, O my people, and hear me, O high gods from whom I am come. I take this man Deucalion to be my husband, to share with me the prosperity of Atlantis, and join me in guarding our great possession. May all our enemies perish as she is now perishing above whom we sit." And then she put her arms around my neck and kissed me hotly on the mouth.

In turn I also spoke: "Hear me, O most high gods, whose servant I am, and hear me also, O ye people. I take this Empress Phorenice to wife, to help with her the prosperity of Atlantis, and join with her in guarding the welfare of that great possession. May all the enemies of this country perish as they have perished in the past."

And then I too, who had not been permitted by the fates to touch the lips of my love, bestowed the first kiss I had ever given a woman to Phorenice, that was now being made my wife.

But we were not completely linked yet.

"A woman is one, and man is one," she proclaimed, following for the first time the old form of words, "but in marriage they merge, so that wife and husband are no more separate, but one conjointly. In token of this we will now make the symbolic joining together, so that all may see and remember." She took her dagger, and pricking the brawn on my forearm till the bead of blood appeared, set her red lips to it and took it into herself.

"Ah," she said, with her eyes sparkling, "now you are part of me indeed, Deucalion, and I feel you have strengthened me already." She pulled down the neck of her robe. "Let me make you my return."

I pricked the rounded whiteness of her shoulder. Gods! when I remembered who was beneath us as we sat on that throne, I could have driven the blade through to her heart! And then I, too, put down my lips and took the drop of her blood that was yielded to me.

My tongue was dry, my throat was parched, and my face suffused, and I thought I should have choked.

But the empress, who was ordinarily so acute, was misled then. "It thrills you?" she cried; "it burns within you like living fire? I have just felt it. By my face! Deucalion, if I had known the pleasure it gives to be made a wife, I do not think I should have waited this long for you. Ah, yes; but with another man I should have had no thrill. I might have gone through the ceremony with another, but it would have left me cold. Well, they say this feeling comes to a woman but once in her time, and I would not change it for the glory of all my conquests and the whirl of all my power." She leaned in close to me so that the red curls of her hair swept my cheek, and her breath came hot against my mouth. "Tasted you ever any sweet so delicious as this knowledge that we are made one now, Deucalion, past all possible dissolving?"

I could not lie to her any more just then. The gods know how honestly I had striven to play the part commanded me for Atlantis' good, but there is a limit to human endurance, and mine was reached. I was not all anger towards her. I had some pity for this passion of hers, which had grown of itself certainly, but which I had done nothing to check; and the indecent frankness with which it was displayed was only part of the livery of potentates who flaunt what meaner folk would coyly hide. But always before my eyes was a picture of the girl on whom her jealousy had taken such a bitter vengeance, and to invent spurious lover's talk then was a thing my tongue refused to do.

"Words are poor things," I said, "and I am a man unused to women, and have but a small stock of any phrases except the driest. Remember, Phorenice, a week agone I did not know what love was, and now that I have learned the lesson, somewhat of the suddenest, the language remains still to come to me. My inwards speak; indeed they are full of speech; but I cannot translate into bald cold words what they say."

And here surely the high gods took pity on my tied tongue and my misery, and made an opportunity for bringing the ceremony to an end. A man ran into the square shouting, and showing a wound that dripped, and presently all that vast crowd which stood on the pavements and the sides of the pyramids and the roofs of the temples took up the cry and began to feel for their weapons.

"The rebels are in!" "They have burrowed a path into the city!" "They have killed the cave-tigers and taken a gate!" "They are putting the whole place to the storm!" "They will presently leave no poor soul of us here alive!"

NEW YORK TAX RECEIPTS.

Comptroller's Report Shows Results Far Beyond the Estimates.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Sept. 30 being the close of the fiscal year in the state government, Comptroller Erastus C. Knight has made an examination with reference to the enforcement of the corporation organization and transfer tax laws during the year last past and finds that the total receipts from the corporation tax law have been $4,966,680.93, whereas the receipts for the year 1900 aggregated $2,624,508.05, which shows an increase for this year of $2,342,172.88. There was received under the new law from trust companies $1,398,799.30 and from savings banks $705,333.12.

During the year there was received in organization tax the sum of $293,856.72, while the receipts for the preceding year were $356.778.61. The decrease in receipts from this source is largely due to a reduction in the rate of tax during the last five months of the fiscal year, provided for by the new law. It is confidently expected that as the new laws with relation to the organization of corporations are better understood the taxes from these sources will be largely increased.

The receipts during the year from the enforcement of the transfer tax, familiarly known as the inheritance tax, amounted to $4,084,606.87. The receipts from this source during the year preceding were $4,334,803.27.

At the time that the tax rate was fixed by the legislature it was estimated that the receipts from the corporation tax law, including the organization tax for the fiscal year just ended, would amount to $2,500,000 and that the receipts from the transfer tax law would amount to $2,000,000, making an aggregate of $4,500,000. It will be noted in this connection that the receipts from these three sources were $9,345,144.52, of which amount the sum of $2,104,132.42 received from the savings banks and trust companies is from sources which could not be considered in making up the estimate, as the laws under which it was collected had not been passed at that time.

THE SCHLEY COURT.

Captain Sigsbee the Star Witness In Yesterday's Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The Schley court of inquiry made good headway again, concluding with Admiral Evans and hearing three new witnesses, although the testimony of one of them was not concluded when the court adjourned for the day. Admiral Evans' testimony was along the same general lines as was his statement of Monday, but some points were presented in greater detail in response to questions by Mr. Rayner. The new witnesses were Captain Sigsbee, who commanded the scout St. Paul during the Santiago campaign; Mr. Thomas M. Dienaide, a newspaper correspondent, who was on the Texas during the battle of July 3, and Chief Yeoman Gustave E. Becker, who was a clerk to Admiral Sampson during the war.

Captain Sigsbee's testimony covered his communications to Commodore Schley upon the latter's arrival off Santiago May 26, 1898, and at subsequent dates and dealt with the state of the weather at that period. He was asked a great number of questions by the court. Mr. Dienaide described the loop of the Brooklyn as seen from the Texas. Mr. Becker testified as to dispatches sent by Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley.

NOT LOSING MONEY.

The Steel Trust's Net Earnings For Six Months Nearly $55,000,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—After the directors of the United States Steel corporation had declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1¼ per cent on the preferred stock, payable Nov. 7, and 1 per cent on the common stock, payable Dec. 20, there was issued a statement over President Schwab's name showing net earnings for the last six months, with September estimated, of almost $55,000,000.

This is fully $5,000,000 in excess of estimates made by conservative experts and bears out recent statements that the billion dollar trust has made handsome profits from the outset.

The net earnings for April were $7,855,744; for May, $9,612,349; for June, $9,394,747; for July, $9,580,151; for August, $9,810,880, and for September (estimated), $9,200,000; total, $54,954,871.

These months include those during which the great strike was waged, and it will be observed that the profits were little affected.

The balance in treasury reported as "applicable to surplus or new construction, as the board of directors may decide at the end of the year," is $12,326,742.

Sampson's Flag Hauled Down.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Rear Admiral William T. Sampson's flag was hauled down for good yesterday at the Charlestown navy yard, over which he has been commandant for the past two years. Previous to its being hauled down it was saluted with thirteen guns, the rear admiral's salute. Rear Admiral Johnson will assume command tomorrow.

HAVANA, Oct. 2.—The constitutional convention has addressed a letter to Governor General Wood informing him that the changes which he suggested should be made in the election law have been made and that the convention, deeming its work completed, is ready to dissolve. The invitation to attend the fire department parade at Elizabeth, October 31, was accepted by Warren Engine Company at its regular monthly meeting last evening. This was one of the many matters transacted by the company at its short session.

Much discussion was had relative to the borough fire department parade, which will take place October 17. Some important changes were recommended in the proposed line of march, and will be announced when the committee on arrangements take final action. The company will have its house handsomely decorated. On the morning of the parade the members will gather at the headquarters in uniform for the purpose of having their photographs taken.

Mrs. Charles Rydell, of Spooner avenue, and Mrs. Augusta Peterson, of West Fourth street, reported to the police yesterday that a smooth-tongued stranger had visited their homes and had attempted to pilfer a number of small articles. At the former place he took a silver snuff box and, at Mrs. Peterson's, he picked up a ring, but afterward put it back.

On investigation the police found that the stranger had been visiting Swedish residents of the city and, on pretext of knowing the head of the house, asked permission to write and leave a note for him. While the women went in search of writing material, he would pick up whatever small articles he saw lying about. It is thought he secured a number of valuables.

The man is described as being tall and slim, smooth-faced and attired in a gray suit.

ACTION AT LAST,

Gang of Central Employes at Work on Driveways Leading to New East Bound Station.

Through the repeated remonstrances of the Daily Press, the New Jersey Central officials have at last been brought to take some action in regard to the condition of the driveways leading to the Fourth street station. A gang of park laborers commenced work this morning, covering the rough, loosely placed stones with a layer of gravel, which is to be thoroughly rolled and covered with fine stone dust. When completed the driveways will not only be presentable but can be used with some degree of comfort.

ON EARLY CLOSING.

Local Pastors Will Preach on That Subject.

The members of the Retail Clerks' Association have secured the sympathy and interest of the ministers of Plainfield in their early-closing movement and, commencing Sunday evening, a series of sermons will be delivered on the subject. The first sermon will be given by Rev. E. M. Bodman at Grace P. E. church. These sermons will be delivered every Sunday evening during the winter at the various churches, each pastor taking his turn in speaking on the subject.

But the Friends of Miss Mary Lannon Had a Good Time.

Miss Mary Lannon, of West Front street, was greatly surprised by the appearance of twenty-five young people at her home, last evening, who came unannounced to help celebrate the anniversary of her birthday. But Mrs. Jacob Emery Escaped Serious Injury in Fall.

Mrs. Jacob Emery, of 1101 West Front street, attempted to get off a trolley car opposite her home yesterday afternoon before the car stopped. She was thrown heavily to the ground. That she escaped serious injury is considered miraculous by those who saw the affair. In the opinion of those on the car the woman was to blame in not waiting until the car stopped before alighting.

Killed By Train.

Stephen Bogart, fifty-five years old, and a resident of Orange, was killed at the Grove street crossing of the Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad at East Orange Monday night. He was struck and instantly killed by a westbound passenger train. Mr. Bogart was the father-in-law of Mr. Stryker, of Mariners avenue.

OFFICERS OF PARK CLUB.

CHANGES IN BOARD OF GOVERNORS AND NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

Reports of a Successful Year — Plans Made for the Winter Season Soon to Begin.

B. A. Hegeman, Jr., J. C. Peck and Edward T. Wilson, members of the Board of Governors of the Park Club, have retired and in their places Nelson A. Miller, Samuel Townsend and Allan B. Laing have been elected. The officers are as follows: President, George D. Hallock; vice-president, John Valiant; secretary, Charles L. Nichols; treasurer, J. H. Howell.

The report of the treasurer shows that the cash receipts during the past year were $6,471 95. The club's assets amount to $974 94. The property owned amounts to $13,104.41. As an offset to this there are bonds for $9,300 and certificates of indebtedness amounting to $800. There is a balance in the treasury of $380.

During the coming fall and winter many social festivities are being planned. There will be bowling, frequent dances and various entertainments to interest the members and their friends. The clubhouse has been thoroughly overhauled and renovated and it will now be kept open every evening. No definite plans have thus far been made for a series of bowling matches, but no doubt there will be several matches arranged during the winter. Billiards and pool will also furnish much amusement for the members who like these ever popular games. Altogether a most prosperous and successful season is predicted for the Park Club.

SENT A CHECK.

Generous Gift of E. S. Hooley Toward Expenses of Borough Firemen's Parade.

The fund to defray the expenses of the borough fire department parade was substantially increased yesterday by a check transmitted through Mayor Newton B. Smalley from Edwin S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue.

The check was a voluntary contribution of $50, and coming as it did, entirely unexpected and unsought, the appreciation of the firemen was all the greater. The Council started the fund by passing an appropriation of $100 for expenses incidental to the firemen's affair.

A considerable sum will be necessary to defray the expenses of the entertainment to be provided by the borough fire laddies, and hence the department will welcome the donation of any one who desires to follow the generous and thoughtful action of North Plainfield's public-spirited citizen—Edwin S. Hooley.

Served in Luzon.

Captain R. M. English, surgeon in the U. S. A., and formerly with the Ninth Infantry, now stationed in the Philippines, was the guest yesterday of Dr. A. H. Dundon, of Somerset street. FENTON HAYNES MURDERED.

BODY FOUND IN CHAUTAUQUA LAKE —SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

Former Plainfielder Is Believed to Have Been Murdered—Tied to a Stone —Valuables All Gone.

Word has been received in this city that the body of E. Fenton Haynes, formerly a resident of this city, was found Tuesday evening floating in Chautauqua Lake, New York, under circumstances that indicate murder. Mr. Haynes disappeared from his boarding-house at Jamestown, N. Y., September 23. The body was fastened to a heavy stone by a stout wire twisted tightly about the waist. A valuable diamond ring, watch and money were missing, and there were bruises on the forehead.

No motive for suicide seems to have existed. The young man was in good health and financially well off, as he had nearly $900 in salary and many wealthy relatives who would have aided him had he needed money. The fact that the physicians who conducted the autopsy refuse to give out any information is regarded as indicating foul play.

Mr. Haynes was well-known in this city. He was a member of the Park Avenue Baptist church for many years, also its treasurer. He leaves a sister, Alice, who is now living near Little Silver. He formerly resided on First place.

AFTERNOON WEDDING.

Somerville Young People Married Yesterday in a Pretty Ceremony.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 3—At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the marriage of Miss Carolyn M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Smith, and Harvey Dayton Hoagland, took place. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride on Cliff street, by Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, of the Second Reformed church. The parlors were prettily decorated with golden rods and ferns.

To the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," played by Miss Mabel Corboy, of Montclair, the bridal party appeared, led by the ushers, Edward Eini, of Raritan, and P. C. VanNeaya, of this place.

The flower girl was Miss Margaret VanNeaya, of this place. She wore a gown of white Persian lawn, trimmed with valencia lace, and carried a basket of carnations and roses. The bride was attired in a navy blue traveling gown.

An elaborate collation was served and shortly afterward the couple left for a two week's journey. They will reside on Cliff street on their return.

The gifts were very beautiful, consisting, in part, of silverware, furniture, cut glass and hand painted china.

DEATH OF C. W. KELLOGG.

Former Resident of Plainfield Passed Away at Hempstead, L. I.

Charles W. Kellogg, who several years ago resided in this city, died yesterday at his home at Hempstead, L. I., where he had been living for several years. Recently Mr. Kellogg suffered a paralytic stroke and he never recovered from its effects.

Mr. Kellogg was at one time organist and choirmaster at the Church of the Holy Cross, and, while a resident of Plainfield he made a host of friends. For several years he was employed by Bradstreet and was a valued employe. He leaves a wife and three children.

TAKEN IN.

Thrilling Adventures of a Travelling Tinker Named Michael Vain.

Michael Vain, a traveling tinker, took two drinks at a Westfield hotel last evening. He then took a trolley car and came to this city. He took in the sights about town but not in the customary way and Patrolman Lunger took Michael in.

LISTENED TO WORDS OF FORMER PASTOR.

Rev. Dr. Charles B. Mitchell, of Minneapolis, Addressed a Meeting at M E. Church.

RECALLED OLD TIMES HERE.

HE SPOKE CHIEFLY ON THE ECUMENICAL CONFERENCE.

Had Attended It as a Delegate—Told of the Discussions and What Was Accomplished—Informal Reception Followed.

Rev. Dr. Charles B. Mitchell, at one time pastor of the First M. E. church, but now of Minneapolis, has been visiting his friend, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass. Last evening he visited the scene of his former pastorate at the church, where he was greeted by a large number of friends and acquaintances. In Vincent chapel Dr. Mitchell gave a very interesting talk on the Ecumenical Conference, held in London last month. He was a delegate to that conference and took part in some of its discussions.

He expressed his pleasure in being able to return to the church and said that he would never forget the happiest years of his life spent in this city. He said that he believed that he never had greater assurance of the divine blessing than while in Plainfield. Incidentally, he remarked that next Sunday he preaches his farewell sermon in Minneapolis, and on the following Sunday he would preach his first sermon as pastor of the First M. E. church, of Cleveland, O.

In speaking of the conference, he said that it was the third such held under the auspices of the Methodists, and was attended by delegates from all Methodist churches which have grown out of the Wesleyan movement. The object was to get together for counsel. The first conference was held in London twenty years ago, and strangely, on a Friday during that conference the members adopted resolutions concerning the death of President Garfield. Twenty years later and on the same day of the week and at the same place, similar resolutions were adopted on the death of President McKinley.

Dr. Mitchell said that there were five hundred delegates at the conference, two hundred from the Eastern Hemisphere and three hundred from the Western Hemisphere. There were many colored delegates and they were accorded every privilege. The speaker said that the conference was made up of a representative body of men and topics of vital importance were discussed. Dr. Mitchell said that the fact that he was at one time a pastor in Plainfield made it possible for him to go as a delegate to the conference, through the kindly efforts of Dr. Carroll.

Among the few things accomplished at the conference, the speaker said, was a marked and distinct movement made toward church unity, a consolidation of all kinds of types of Methodism. Another important step was the blow struck for total abstinence and prohibition. He said that in England there are local preachers and church officers connected with the liquor traffic, but the sentiment is steadily growing against this practice. He considered the whole conference as optimistic and the outlook very bright. It showed that the Bible is stronger today than ever and that Methodism is retaining its spiritual vitality. It was on this subject that Dr. Mitchell spoke in London and he reviewed a portion of his talk last evening.

After the meeting all present joined in a hearty welcome to Dr. Mitchell and were glad of the opportunity to renew acquaintances once more.

IT WILL BE BETTER.

Sunday North American Announces it Will Maintain High Standard of First Issue.

All records, both as to quality of matter and number of sales, were broken by the Sunday North American last Sunday, when its first issue was offered to the public. In each of scores of Pennsylvania towns several hundred more copies might have been sold if the supply had been equal to the demand. There was a great curiosity to see what the first number would be, and newsdealers everywhere report "clean sales."

Curicelty is quite as strong in regard to the next Sunday North American. The question is this—Will it maintain the pace and keep the high standard set in its first issue? The assurance is given out that next Sunday's paper will be even better than the initial number.

The sheet music supplement, which is printed on heavy paper and is in every way equal to the music purchased in stores, will be "Ida from Idaho," by John H. Flynn, the author of that great success, "Annie Moore." This new song is just as catchy as the one which the people of the United States are now singing and whistling.

In the Women's Supplement, in beautiful colors, are illustrated pages of new fall jackets and some of the latest mourning costumes; the very latest silk waists, which will interest those who make their own clothes; Marion Harland has some good new cooking recipes, and discourses on household topics, including the care of children; Mrs. Henry Symes gives many more recipes for beauty, and tells how to acquire health by new breathing exercises; McDougall contributes wonderful stories for children, besides which there is a puzzle picture and some interesting illustrations.

In the comic supplement there is an excruciatingly funny series by Walt McDougall, called "How Bims Lost the Election." There are other comic sketches in colors to excite hilarity, and two pages of short humorous prose written by the men who have made "Puck," "Life" and "Judge" famous.

The cover of the twelve-page magazine shows Pope Leo and his "Cabinet." It is a wonderfully striking color page and will attract national attention. There are ten more pages of attractively illustrated and genuinely interesting news features.

I heard different people speak very highly of Doan's Kidney Pills, concluded to try them, got a box from my druggist, Mr. L. W. Randolph, and used them according to directions with the above results. THE COURT'S RETURN

Chinese Emperor Preparing For Journey to Peking.

WILL LEAVE SIANFU ON OCT. 6.

Caravan Will Number Several Thousand Persons—Reform Edicts Being Issued by the Wholesale.

PEKING, Oct. 3.—Dispatches from Sianfu announce that the Chinese court is preparing to start about Oct. 6. The temporary palace there is being dismantled, and all the furnishings will be carried for use en route. The officials and servants will constitute a caravan numbering from 3,000 to 5,000 persons, with 1,200 carts and several thousand horses and mules that have been collected in the Sianfu district.

Two parties of officials have already started to make preparations along the line. The towns through which the court will pass are engaged in decorating temporary palaces and collecting supplies. The emperor or the empress dowager in his name has issued an edict strictly commanding the officials to pay for all supplies.

The native papers report that several eunuchs have been beheaded for practicing extortion upon the people. An imperial edict commands Li Hung Chang as governor of the province of Chili to borrow 700,000 taels from the other provinces to defray the expenses of the court's journey. Special local taxes are being levied, which the people, already impoverished by bandits, foreign punitive expeditions and missionary indemnities, are ill able to afford.

Li Hung Chang said yesterday:

"The court will certainly arrive in Peking within two months."

Despite such official statements many foreign officials here believe the empress dowager fears the foreign troops are kept to entrap and punish her, and the theory is that she will pass the winter in Kaiyuenfu, sending the emperor to Peking.

The continual broadside of reform edicts is the topic of much varied comment. Those best able to judge of their sincerity or effectiveness withhold judgment. Prince Ching, conversing with foreign officials yesterday, asserted that the emperor and the empress dowager were agreed as to the necessity of changing the Chinese methods of government and that steps for the enforcement of edicts would be taken so soon as the court returned to Peking.

Unquestionably the reform movement is stronger among the upper classes than ever before. Prince Su, who was recently appointed collector of taxes on goods entering Pekisg, an office heretofore considered worth 100,000 taels per year, has announced that he purposes to deposit all the collections in the treasury and to request the emperor to pay him a fair salary. His subordinates resent this plan, and Prince Su has been threatened with assassination.

Blondin In Boston?

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—For the second time within a week it has been reported that Joseph W. Blondin, the alleged wife murderer for whom the police have hunted over half this country and Canada, has been seen in Boston. He is reported to have been seen by a man who knew him on Albany street within two blocks of the bakery where he worked at the time his wife was murdered. Great efforts were immediately put forth by the police department, and scores of "plain clothes men" scoured the district.

Grocers' Warehouse Burned.

MARIETTE, Wis., Oct. 3.—Fire destroyed the warehouse of Smith, Thorndike & Brown, wholesale grocers, together with contents, entailing a loss of about $200,000. Among these goods was a large quantity of kerosene oil, which exploded with damaging effect to other goods. It was with the greatest difficulty that the mills and lumber yards of the N. Ludington company were saved. The damage is partly covered by insurance.

Accident on the Erie.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The Erie railroad vestibule train No. 4, eastbound, running at a high speed, crashed into coal cars here. The engine telescoped the first car and mounted the second. Several passengers were slightly injured. The engineer of the express train did not see the signals as he rounded the curve in time to prevent the accident.

A Montana Lynching.

HELENA, Mon., Oct. 3.—A mob of citizens which had been secretly organized during the night made an unexpected attack on the county jail and seized James Brady, who had been arrested for an assault on a young girl. The mob took the prisoner to the hay market, in the center of the city, and lynched him.

Methodists In Council.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The central New York Methodist Episcopal conference, Bishop C. H. Fowler presiding, is in session here, with about 300 ministers in attendance. The reports from the conference show enlarged contributions and accessions to church membership.

Trial of Caleb Powers.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 3.—Caleb Powers has been removed to Georgetown jail to await his trial, which begins next Tuesday. Powers has summoned sixty witnesses for his defense.

Foreign Tobacconists at Sea.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The conference of tobacco manufacturers held in Liverpool to discuss plans for meeting American competition failed to decide upon any definite course of action.

TUTTLE'S HARD TASK

Commander of the Bear Worthy of a Medal.

DRIFT CASKS PLACED ON ICE FLOES.

Departure of the Revenue Cutter Was Greatly Delayed, but Work In the Arctics Is Praised by Admiral Melville.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—News has been received by Admiral Melville that Captain Francis Tuttle, the commanding officer of the revenue cutter Bear, placed the Melville-Bryant drift casks on several of the largest ice floes to the northward and westward of Point Barrow.

The first landing was effected Aug. 19 in latitude 72 degrees north and longitude 166 degrees west. Five casks were placed on this floe. As the southerly winds had driven the loose ice against the main pack the placing of the casks upon the main floe was a hazardous undertaking.

Captain Tuttle then steamed along the edge of the pack in a northward and westward direction and, reaching a solid floe in latitude 75 degrees 5 minutes north and longitude 171 degrees 33 minutes west, placed four casks on that floe and later placed five more casks on a floe in latitude 72.18 north and longitude 175.10 west.

About this point the ice trended to the southward and eastward, making it extremely hazardous for Captain Tuttle to continue his work.

Through necessity Captain Shoemaker, the chief of the revenue marine service, was compelled this year to delay the departure of the Bear on her arctic cruise until a month after her regular starting time. Captain Tuttle therefore, in his opinion, has done remarkably well in landing the Melville Bryant drift casks on three separate floes.

Admiral Melville says it will be exceedingly satisfactory information to those interested in arctic discoveries to learn that the trend of the ice floe this year is easterly and that the current has considerable strength. As the floes were a good many miles apart and as there are local currents in the Arctic sea it is to be presumed that the casks will turn up in different places.

Admiral Melville is exceedingly pleased with the character of the work performed by the Bear and regards the work of Captain Tuttle as worthy of a medal of honor of the treasury department if not of congress.

Clemency Asked For Czolgosz.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—When Governor Odell arrived in this city from Newburg, he was greatly surprised to find on his desk two letters requesting him to commute to life imprisonment the sentence of Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley. One letter was sent by a man in Illinois and the other by a man in Maine. They were evidently written by cranks, in the opinion of the governor, and of course no attention will be paid to them. "You may be assured that nothing will be done by me," said Governor Odell, "to prevent the execution of Czolgosz on the day fixed by law." The governor also received a petition that the body of the murderer after the electrocution be buried at sea. The governor understands that the body must be surrendered to the condemned man's relatives if they claim it after death and that they have charge of its disposition.

Vagrancy Crusade Against Strikers

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 3.—The police were ordered yesterday to start the vagrancy crusade against the remaining strikers. The police patrol wagons were kept busy, and more than fifty were arrested. The police court kept open all day. The men were given the privilege of going to work in the factories or thirty days on the streets. Hundreds of them will be arrested. Those who do not work in factories or somewhere must serve the city. No opposition was offered to this move, but many sullen crowds were encountered and driven to the police station.

Most Set Free.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—John Most, the editor of Freiheit, was taken from the county jail in Long Island City and arraigned for the fifth time yesterday. He was arrested a week ago Sunday in a hall in Corona, where, according to the police, he was making an anarchist harangue. The case has been put over from time to time because it was said the prosecution wanted to have translated some papers that were found on Most when he was arrested. When arraigned before Magistrate Healy, he was discharged from custody.

Mills and Wheat Burned.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3.—Fire broke out in the plant of the Stanard Milling company at Alton, Ill., destroyed that structure and 300,000 bushels of wheat and, driven by a high wind, spread rapidly to adjoining buildings. The St. Louis fire department was called on for help and sent up two complete fire companies on a special train. The Stanard milling plant, which was entirely destroyed, covered an entire block with its elevators and mill. The total loss so far is estimated at $500,000.

Social Secretary Reappointed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Mrs. Roosevelt has appointed Miss Belle Hagner, daughter of Justice Hagner of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, her social secretary. Miss Hagner acted in the same capacity for Mrs. McKinley.

Typhoid Epidemic In Westphalia.

BRITISH LOSS HEAVY

Casualties at Moedwil Were 16 Officers and 155 Men.

THE VICTORY WAS DEARLY BOUGHT

Delarey's Night Attack Repelled After a Hard Fight—Boer Loss Severe at Itala and Prospect.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria, Oct. 2:

"Delarey's night attack on the camp of Kekewich, the officer who commanded the besieged garrison at Kimberley, at Moedwill, which was reported on Sept. 30, was pressed by the enemy, who were 1,000 strong, with great vigor. After two hours of close fighting the enemy was driven off.

"Our casualties, I regret to say, were severe. Of the officers one was killed and one so dangerously wounded that he has since died, eleven were severely wounded and three slightly. Of our men thirty-one were killed, six dangerously wounded, forty-two severely wounded and twenty-six slightly. The wounded have arrived at Rustenberg and are being well cared for. Forty more remain to be accounted for.

"No details have been received. Colonel Kekewich, who was slightly wounded twice, reports that all the ranks behaved extremely well.

"The reports of the enemy's heavy loss at Itala and Prospect are confirmed. It is reported that 250 Boers were killed and 300 wounded."

A later message from Lord Kitchener says that the two Royal artillery guns which were captured by the Boers at Vlakfontein have been recovered.

"For months past we have been told," says The Daily Graphic this morning, "that if the Boers would only abandon their elusive tactics and come to close quarters we should see what we should see. The Boers have taken us at our word, and the results are certainly not encouraging."

The chorus of dissatisfaction with the inertia of the government is daily gathering force. Winston Churchill, M. P., speaking last night at Oldham, described the situation in South Africa as "serious and disquieting." He said the war could not be ended by proclamations or threats, but only by vigorous military operations.

The Daily Mail and The Daily Chronicle comment upon the fact that the huge British army is seemingly only able to remain on the defensive.

A Big Cut In Rates to Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Oct. 3.—An important meeting of the Central Passenger association was held yesterday at the Pan-American exposition. All the roads in the association were represented. The most important decisions were those relating to the Pan-American exposition. Beginning with the 5th of October the various Buffalo-Chicago lines will sell round trip tickets good for six days for $6.75 between Chicago and Buffalo. These tickets will be on sale Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday for the remainder of the month of October. This is one of the greatest reductions ever offered in the history of railroads, the cut amounting to about 75 per cent of the rate under ordinary circumstances.

Another Steel Mill to Start.

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 3.—Rod mill No. 2, the last but one of the departments closed by the great steel strike here, will resume operations next Monday, notices to this effect having been posted by the Illinois Steel company. More than 200 men will go back to work. This leaves only the Merchant mill in idleness. It is expected that this will start up soon. Efforts by prominent citizens are under way to settle the strike at the Bates Machine works, which has been in progress several weeks and has led to bitter personal encounters between union and nonunion men.

Difficult Cable Repairing.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 3.—The cable repair ship Mackay-Bennett has arrived here. She had been out for a month endeavoring to repair the Commercial cable. She grappled the strand and brought it six times to the surface, but on five occasions it broke clear. The weather was favorable, but foggy. As coal and provisions ran short the captain deemed it advisable to enter the port of St. John's and replenish his supply. The end of the cable was buoyed. The Mackay-Bennett will be ready for sea again in a day or two.

Three Coal Washers Killed.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Oct. 3.—Three men were killed and four were painfully injured by a rush of culm at the North American washery early last evening. The men were working at the foot of the bank when the rush occurred which entombed them. Six of the men were buried under tons of fine culm, but a large force of men went to the work of rescue at once, and in a short time the huge pile of dirt was removed. It was thought at first that all were dead. The rush was caused by a heavy downpour of rain.

Colonel Bisbee Made a Brigadier.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The president has appointed Colonel William H. Bisbee a brigadier general of the regular army. He was recommended highly by Major General Lloyd Wheaton and Major General Arthur MacArthur for his recent service in the Philippine Islands. He entered the service as a private of the Eighteenth infantry in 1861 and served throughout the civil war.

Campaign Has Begun.

The campaign has begun. The two leading political parties of the State have selected their candidates for governor. In several of the counties candidates for the county offices have been chosen. Republicans and Democrats have established State headquarters and the work which will not end until the last ballot is cast Tuesday, November 5, is fairly under way. While the city committees of both these parties have begun to plan for the local campaign, the Prohibition party is the only one that has taken any active measures so far.

Any campaign, in order to be anything of a success, must be more than a simple struggle for office. So the two great parties in Jersey have outlined their work in the platforms adopted at their respective State conventions. There are some things significant about the two platforms which gives the clue to the course to be followed in the present campaign.

The Republicans called particular attention to the present prosperity of the whole land and while the State situation was referred to and dwelt upon, particular emphasis was given to the national situation. The Democrats, on the contrary, dwelt exclusively on the present political conditions of the State. There was nothing said about the National platform, nor the silver plank, nor William Jennings Bryan. It was strictly a State platform.

It is easy to see that the Republicans are going to try to use the success of the Republican administration all over the country to maintain their hold on State affairs. The political harrangues by the Republican orators will undoubtedly follow that line. State issues will not be avoided but greater prominence will be given the National prosperity. The Democrats, on the contrary, believe that their chief hope of victory is in pointing out the defects of the present State administration. The people of New Jersey have been sufficiently explicit as to their opinions on the currency question and the Democrats have apparently decided to let National issues remain in the background, and not risk the inevitable defeat which would surely follow a campaign fought on National issues alone.

It is far too early to say how public opinion seems to stand regarding the present administration. There is no doubt but that the Republicans have made some mistakes, they are no more infallible than anyone else. The question that will have to be answered is whether these mistakes have been of sufficient importance to warrant the changing of the administration. As in former years, The Daily Press will take an independent stand. It will fulfill its duty as a newspaper by presenting the situation in a fair and impartial manner. The Daily Press readers want the news and it will be our aim to give it to them without introducing any personal or partizan feeling in the news columns. State, county and local politics will be followed with care and accuracy and The Daily Press readers may be assured that they are getting the truth as near as it is possible to get at it. Both parties have so far chosen men who, if elected to office, will we believe, be able to fulfill their duties and in whose hands the public funds will be safe.

The action of the officials of the New Jersey Central Railroad in completing the building of the driveways leading to the new east-bound station, is commendable. Only it should have been done long ago. The work was started yesterday and it will not require many days to complete it. The Daily Press has been pointing out the need of this action for some time and the railroad company's officials seem to have realized the need at last. There are hundreds of owners of horses in this city and borough who will view this improvement with much satisfaction, as the former condition of these driveways made it actually dangerous to drive a good horse or rubber-tired vehicle over them.

Another man startled the streets of Plainfield by cursing the name of the late President of the United States and declaring that the present Chief Executive should follow in his footsteps. He was promptly arrested and given an extremely heavy sentence by City Judge Runyon. Worst of all, this man was formerly a soldier on duty with the volunteers in the Philippines. There is no place in this land for men of his calibre. Of course, it is impossible to control a man's thoughts, but when remarks of the nature of those of this last offender are made here, there is no question as to the need of dealing summarily with such men.

The bearing of Former Senator Smith, of Essex, in the State gubernatorial convention, when defeat confronted him, furnished an example of proper political deportment. Whatever might have been his thoughts, his countenance and actions gave no expression to them. Throughout the deliberations of the convention and especially when the cheers for Seymour were ringing in his ears, the shrewd leader sat quietly in his seat, while a gentle smile could be seen in his face.

An advertiser who is engaged in a business enterprise which is not a novelty should not expect to get all the trade of the community at once as the result of his advertising, relates the Philadelphia Record. An experienced man has said: "Advertising does not jerk. It pulls. It begins gently, but the pull is steady. It increases year by year until it finally exerts an irresistible power."

The trolley company and the Plainfield Board of Education cannot seem to agree on the subject of school tickets. It happens, however, that there is direct provision for school tickets in the company's franchise and it looks as if the board had the upper hand in the argument.

The Prohibitionists are planning to conduct more of an active campaign in Plainfield this fall than they have for several years. The first step is to be the organization of a Prohibition League which will set about the winning of votes for that ticket, if possible.

The election of Col. Mason W. Tyler to the presidency of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was a very proper act. Col. Tyler has served the Library well and has taken much interest in the advancement of that very worthy institution.

It has finally been decided that rubber tires are to be placed on the chemical engine. The fire committee believes that it will be economy.

The retail clerks have secured valuable allies in the local clergymen who have agreed to preach on the subject of early closing.

"Survivals," is the name of a book of poems written by L. V. F. Randolp, of East Front street, who is president of the Atlantic Trust Company. It is the press from G. P. Putnam's Sons. The book has received the highest words of praise from those best able to review such a worthy work.

Proceedings of the Board o Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, September 5, 1901, at 2 30 p. m.

Roll-call showed all members present—17.

Owing to the absence of the clerk Mr. E M. Wood was designated and appointed to act as clerk pro tem.

The minutes of the previous meeting (reading of bills being omitted) were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

From Chas. D. Reese, clerk of Westfield township, stating that the township committee desired to call the attention of this board to the condition of the gutters on the easterly side of Central avenue, in said township, between the Central R. R. of N. J. and Pipton s reet. The pipes and sluiceways placed in the gutters for making of private driveways had become clogged, and the water did not run off It was claimed that some of the residents had called the attention of the county road inspector to the matter, but that nothing had been done.

In order that further annoyance may be avoided it was requested that this board give the matter its attention.

Received and referred to the county road committee and county attorney.

From W. F. Brower as follows:

Sept 3, 1901.

To the Board of Freeholders of Union county:

Gentlemen: At your last meeing you sent a resolution for the clerk to notify the trustees of the Presbyterian church at New Providence to remove forthwith certain tile pipe illegally laid along the county road line. I beg leave to notify your honorable body that no attention has been paid to said notice, or from present indications likely to be paid to same. Have you any power in the matter?

I am, very truly yours,
W. F. Brower.

Received and placed on file.

From E. R. Morehouse, clerk, per W. J. B.:

To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county:

Dear Sirs—We hereby beg to acknowledge the receipt of your communication regarding the drain pipe in front of the Presbyterian parsonage at New Providence, and at a meeting of the board of trustees of the church, after considering what it will mean to take up the pipe—that is, it will mean a pond to drain with no place or opportunity to drain it, we humbly ask your honorable board to reconsider the matter, and permit the drain to remain as it now is.

We would mention the fact that there are other drains in the county roads which are similar to this one and if it were not so there would be much property which could not be drained.

We believe that there is no real damage to any property on account of the drain as it is at present, and to corroborate what we say we hereby present the following names of those persons who live either near, or adjoining, the property in question, and following the signatures are the number of years the said persons have lived in their own homes on this street.

E. R. Morehouse, Clerk,
Per W. J. B.

We, the undersigned, endorse the above petition.

Health Ins. John W. Dickinson, 50 years; Samuel Badgley, 70 years; Mary E. Tyler, per J. L. Tyler, 10 years; John R. Burnett, 60 years; A L. Burnett, 38 years.

Several members of the board of trustees of said church were present at the meeting, one of whom, in addressing the board, stated that a 4-inch tile drain had been first laid, but was later taken up and replaced with an 8 inch tile drain by order of the board of health.

Since then satisfaction had been rendered, and it was hoped that this board would reconsider its former action by which it was ordered that the drain be done away with entirely.

The communication was then ordered to be placed on file.

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 5th, 1901.

Mr. S. Rusling Ryno,
Clerk Board of Chosen Freeholders.

My Dear Sir: Enclosed please find copy of communication received from his honor the Mayor of the city of Elizabeth, by the City Council, at a meeting held on the 3rd instant, also copy of resolution in reference thereto:

By Mr. Collins:

Resolved, That a committee of five members of this council be appointed by the chair to consider the communication submitted this evening by his honor, the Mayor, and to appear before the Board of Freeholders and urge upon them the necessity of taking such action as may be expedient and necessary to relieve the situation cited in the Mayor's communication.

At the same meeting president pro tem pore Engel presented the following named members as the committee called for in the above resolution, viz:

Messrs. Collins, Horre, Taylor, Ford and Nol.

Most Respectfully Yours,
James J. Manning,
City Clerk.

Accompanying the foregoing communication was the following letter from Acting Mayor Ryan, addressed to the Elizabeth City Council:

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1901.

To the Honorable City Council:

Gentlemen: I desire to call your attention to the results of the recent rains along the line of the Elizabeth River, from West Grand street to Prince street. Not only were the bridges seriously damaged, but private property greatly suffered and cellars and front yards were filled with mud and debris. The difficulty of providing against extraordinary freshets such as have visited our city recently, and indeed for some years past is admitted by all, but I think if the Board of Chosen Freeholders could be persuaded to replace the old arch bridge with modern structures, much of the injury which citizens have suffered would be avoided. Besides all this the lumber yard of Mulford & Co. has been the cause of additional trouble because their lumber, which has been piled along the low banks of the stream north of the Grand street bridge, has been floated down against the arches of the bridge, forming a dam, which raised the water unusually high, even as far as Prince street, and inflicted damage upon the premises of residents in that locality. I trust your honorable body will take action without delay to induce the Freeholders to replace the bridges at Grand and Prince streets with spans similar to those at Jersey street.

P. J. Ryan, Pres. City Council,
Acting Mayor.

Councilman Collins being present addressed the board, and urged that the board investigate the flood question, and give careful consideration to Acting Mayor Ryan's suggestions. He was certain that the city of Elizabeth would co-operate with this board in any way possible. The two communications were then received and placed on file.

From James W. Fink, county road inspector, as follows:

Westfield, Sept. 3, 1901.

To the Honorable the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county, N. J.:

Gentlemen: The undersigned would respectfully report to your honorable body that since June 7th, at which time the repairs to county roads were begun, there have been 6½ miles of road repaired with 1½ inch stone, 1½ miles of road top dressed with fine stone, 16¾ miles of gutters cleaned.

The cost of this work is $11,442.01

Included in this is the cost of extra work done on county roads which was caused by the recent storm, amounting to $208 46.

The work of repairs is still in progress on North avenue. Signed,

Very respectfully submitted,
James W. Fink, Inspector.

Received and placed on file.

For the last year and six months I had been troubled with the HIVES, and had two physicians, who prescribed a blood tonic and to bathe the hives with saleratus. The tonic did not seem to do me any good, so I gave up all medicine and used nothing but the saleratus. The hives were so itching and painful that I did not have one good night's sleep while I was troubled with them. I had them so bad that I wore gloves at night in order not to scratch them, as it took so long for them to heal. I also had to go to the expense of buying a rug in order not to ruin the carpet in the bedroom when taking the saleratus bath, which I would have to take three and four times a night, and I tell you it was an awful trouble every night. At first when the hives appeared they were as large and had the same appearance as a peanut, and then they were more easily cooled and disappeared quick, but when I started to take the Tabules they were as small as a pea and stung more and were hard to cool off. I don't know how to praise Ripans Tabules enough, and it seems like a new life to me, for the hives have mostly all disappeared and some nights I have not any. I am now on my eighth 5-cent package, and shall continue to take RIPANS until they establish a permanent cure. To recommend them to all my friends is the best I can do for Ripans Tabules. I am thirty-seven years of age, and have been attending bar for twenty years.

WIDER SHOULDERS.

They Are Necessary to Go With the Gainsborough Hats.

Wide shoulders are now in vogue, and we have the large, flat hats to thank for this. The wide effect is gained by the additions of broad collars, ample fichus, etc. The sailor blouse is one of the most popular shapes for morning and general wear, and with this is often worn the new shape of turban, which differs from the old in its wide brim and generally ample effects, while the outlines, instead of being severe, are often softened by sundry twists and bends to suit each individual face. The tiny basques with the upward curves are rapidly gaining ground, and these are very becoming to a slender and youthful figure.

Lace is still largely used on all gowns, even on the heavier ones, although that of the Arab type is preferred on woolen figured materials. Jeweled laces are not solely for the rich, as imitation gems are now being used, which bring the lace within ordinary means.

A striking French gown is made of light gray wool poplin. The jacket, which is cut in the form of a loose Eton, is entirely composed of gored ruffles edged with narrow black velvet. These give a long pointed effect in front and on the upper half of the sleeves. The underwaist is composed of ecru lace. The skirt is likewise made up of many gored ruffles edged with the black velvet ribbon.

LONG COATS.

Warmth Is Considered of as Much Importance as Beauty.

Ulsters and raincoats are being worn as much as the much talked about automobile garment. The new raincoats are made of silk on the outside and rubber on the inside. They are often quite elaborately trimmed with strips of contrasting leather.

Three-quarter length coats for driving are a necessity at this time of the year. These coats are made of heavy fawn colored cloth, fitted in the back with straight fronts and cape collars fancifully stitched. Usually there is a wide black silk tie or a fall of lace at the throat. Fortunately women are learning at last the important fact that no matter how smart the wrap a woman never looks well if she is not warmly clothed. Consequently even the lighter weight coats are warmly and luxuriously lined.

Bits of color are introduced into the most somber garments by the addition of large and beautifully worked buttons of metal.

Here is a neat tailor made suit useful for traveling and morning wear. The material is dark blue cheviot trimmed with stitched bands of the same. The jacket is cut with scalloped edges and has a short back barely reaching below the waist line. It is single breasted and has a bolero effect, given by a line of curved strapping. The upper half of the sleeves are ornamented with a chevron shaped strapping. The skirt is cut with a wide gored flounce laid in a multitude of tucks and headed by a stitched and strapped effect studded with smoked pearl buttons. The same kind of buttons serve to fasten the single breasted jacket.

There then was a termination of our marriage cooings. With rebels merely biting at the walls, it was fine to put strong trust in the defenses, and easy to affect contempt for the besiegers' powers, and to keep the business of pageants and state craft and marryings turning on easy wheels. But with rebel soldiers already inside the city (and hordes of others doubtless pressing on their heels), the affair took a different light. It was no moment for further delay, and Phorenice was the first to admit it. The glow that had been in her eyes changed to the glare of the fighter as the fellow who had run up squalled out his tidings.

I stood and stretched my chest. I seemed in need of air. "Here," I said, "is work that I can understand more clearly. I will go and sweep this rabble back to their burrows, Phorenice."

"But not alone, sir. I come too. It is my city still. Nay, sir, we are too newly wed to be parted yet."

"Have your will," I said, and together we went down the steps of the throne to the pavement below. Under my breath I said a farewell to Nais.

Our armor-bearers met us with weapons, and we stepped into litters, and the slaves took us off hot foot. The wounded man who had first brought the news had fallen in a faint, and no more tidings was to be got from him; but the growing din of the fight gave us the general direction, and presently we began to meet knots of people who dwelt near the place of irruption running away in wild panic, loaded down with their household goods.

It was useless to stop these, as fight they could not; and if they had stayed they would merely have been slaughtered like flies, and would in all likelihood have impeded our own soldiery. And so we let them run screaming on their blind way, but forced the litters through them with but very little regard for their coward convenience.

Now the advantage of the rebels, when it came to be looked upon by a soldier's eye, was a thing of little enough importance. They had driven a tunnel from behind a covering mound, beneath the walls, and had opened it cleverly enough through the floor of a middle-class house. They had come through into this, collecting their numbers under its shelter, and doubtless hoping that the marriage of the empress (of which spies had given them information) would sap the watchfulness of the city guards. But it seems they were discovered and attacked before they were thoroughly ready to emerge, and, as a fine body of troops were barracked near the spot, their extermination would have been merely a matter of time, even if we had not come up.

It did not take a trained eye long to decide on this, and Phorenice, with a laugh, lay back on the cushions of the litter, and returned her weapons to the armor-bearer who came panting up to receive them. "We grow nervous with our married life, my Deucalion," she said. "We are fearful lest this new-found happiness be taken from us too suddenly."

But I was not to be robbed of my breathing-space in this wise. "Let me crave a wedding gift of you," I said.

"It is yours before you name it."

"Then give me troops, and set me wide a city gate a mile away from here."

"You can gather 500 as you go from here to the gate, taking 200 of those that are here. If you want more, they must be fetched from other barracks along the walls. But where is your plan?"

"Why, my poor strategy teaches me this: these foolish rebels have set all their hopes on this mine, and all their excitement on its present success. If they are kept occupied here by a Phorenice, who will give them some dainty fighting without checking them unduly, they will press on to the attack and forget all else, and never so much as dream of a sortie. And meanwhile a Deucalion with his troop will march out of the city well away from here, without tuck of drum or blare of trumpet, and fall most unpleasantly upon their rear. After which a Phorenice will burn the house here at the mine's head, which is of wood, and straw-thatched, to discourage further egress, and either go to the walls to watch the fight from there, or sally out also and spur on the rout as her fancy dictates."

"Your scheme is so pretty, I would I could rob you of it for my own credit's sake; and as it is I must kiss you for your cleverness. But you got my word first, you naughty fellow, and you shall have the men and do as you ask. Eh, sir, this is a sad beginning of our wedded life if you begin to rob your little wife of all the sweets of conquest from the outset."

She took back the weapons and target she had given to the armor-bearer, and stepped over the side of the litter to the ground. "But at least," she said, "if you are going to fight, you shall have troops that will do credit to my drill," and thereupon proceeded to tell off the companies of men-at-arms who were to accompany me. She left herself few enough to stem the influx of rebels who poured ceaselessly in through the tunnel; but, as I had seen, with Phorenice heavy odds added only to her enjoyment.

But for the empress, I will own at the time to have given little enough of thought. My own proper griefs were raw within me, and I thirsted for that forgetfulness of all else which battle gives, so that for awhile I might have a rest from their gnawings.

It made my blood run freer to hear once more the tramp of practiced troops behind me, and when all had been collected we marched out through a gate of the city, and presently were charging through and through the straggling rear of the enemy. By the gods! for the moment even Nais was blotted from my wearied mind. Never had I loved more to let my fierceness run madly riot. Never have I gloated more abundantly over the terrible joy of battle.

Nais must forgive my weakness in seeking to forget her even for a breathing-space. Had that opportunity been denied me, I believe the agony of remembering would have snapped my brain-strings for always.

PHYSICIAN ASKS BIG FEE.

Wants $5,200 For Keeping Patient Alive to Make $1,000,000.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 3.—Because he kept Henry M. Curry alive long enough to add $1,000,000 to his fortune Dr. J. O. Flower rendered a bill for $5,243.25, which included for a short period fees at the rate of $100 a day. Mr. Curry, who was one of Andrew Carnegie's early partners, died a year ago. The executors of the estate refused to pay the physician's bill, and the case came before the orphans' court yesterday.

In connection with Dr. Janeway of New York, Dr. Thomas McCann, Dr. Swope and Dr. Osler of Johns Hopkins university, Dr. Flower, it was testified, gave much time to Mr. Curry. He charged $25 a trip to Mr. Curry's home and accompanied him to Atlantic City, remaining twenty-one days, for which he asked $100 a day.

A number of physicians who were examined testified that they considered the charges reasonable. Dr. Edmund Fisher said he would fix the price according to the ability of his patient to pay.

It was testified that Mr. Curry had pernicious anaemia and that while Dr. Fowler was prolonging his life the value of his estate grew at least $1,000,000, being now $6,000,000.

LARGER ARMOR PLANTS.

Extensive Changes to Be Made at Homestead and Bethlehem.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 3.—The enlargement of the Carnegie armor plants, which was decided upon before the organization of the United States Steel corporation was effected, is shortly to be made. The last big contract for armor plate given by the government amounted to over 36,000 tons, and the requirements were for deliveries beyond the capacity of the only plants of the kind in the country. After many conferences the officials of the Carnegie company agreed to increase the capacity of the Homestead plant to meet the demands of the government.

The recent control of the Bethlehem Steel company secured by President C. M. Schwab is believed to mean that these two armor plate concerns are to be held by the United States Steel corporation. The enlargement that is to be made by the Bethlehem company has been arranged, and it is understood that work will be started on it simultaneously with that in Homestead. The enlargement of the Carnegie plant will cost about $3,000,000. When the work is completed, the tonnage of this plant will be nearly doubled.

Yachts Will Race Daily.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—At a meeting of the representatives of the Royal Ulster Yacht club and the New York Yacht club the agreement as to the days for the races was modified, so that it now reads the races shall be sailed every day except Sunday, provided, however, that immediately on the conclusion of each race the regatta committee shall inquire of each contestant whether he is willing to start the next day, and should either contestant reply in the negative one day shall intervene before starting the next race. Sunday shall not count as such intervening day.

Scranton Street Cars Tied Up.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 3.—The prospects of an immediate settlement of the street railway men's strike do not appear to be very bright, though a conference has been arranged for today between General Manager Silliman and a committee of the strikers. The tieup of the system is practically complete, the only cars run being the mail cars and one or two others which carried a few passengers. All these cars were manned by the officials of the company and by some of the office help.

A Fatal Georgia Quarrel.

M'DONOUGH, Ga., Oct. 3.—In a fight which occurred between a storekeeper, T. J. Upchurch, his sons, Victor and Charlie, and Willis Goodwin, Jr., in Upchurch's store here Charlie Upchurch was instantly killed with a baseball bat and his father and brother severely wounded. Goodwin was shot twice, and it is feared his wounds will prove fatal. There were no witnesses to the difficulty.

Rejected Lover Kills Himself.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Because the girl he loved had rejected his attentions Walter Booth, aged thirty years, a watchman in the employ of the American Bridge works at Pencoyd, near here, attempted to kill the girl, Emily Lantz, and then shot himself dead. The couple had been betrothed, but a quarrel arose, and the engagement was broken.

Not Easily Disheartened.

GLASGOW, Oct. 3.—It is said here that if the Shamrock II. is not successful in the present series of races for the America's cup a west Scotland syndicate is prepared to issue another challenge for the cup.

SPORTING.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The football squad of the City High School held a practice on Martine Common yesterday afternoon. The players have not gotten down to hard work yet but their showing has been creditable. It is believed that Monyihan will be one of the tackles and that Miner will be shifted to end. Cahoone, who has been considered as the proper one for centre will probably be used as a guard. This, of course, is the talk at present, but no action has been taken. Instructor Best, who is acting as coach, will not select the team for some time and the players put in at Saturday's initial game with Flemington High School will only be for the purpose of trial.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Local baseball lovers are looking forward to a great game Saturday afternoon. After several weeks of parleying the managements of the crack St. Mary team and the winning Scotch Plains nine have agreed to a game which will be played in this city on the former's grounds. Both teams have played winning ball all season, but this is the first time they will cross bats with each other. The contest will no doubt be a fitting windup for the past season.

WILL PARADE.

Boys of Relief Hose Company Will Appear in Uniform.

At a meeting of the Relief Hose Company, No. 3, of the borough, held last evening, Clarence Smalley, Harry Angleman and Elmer Angleman were elected members of the organization.

FOLLOWED HER SON.

Mrs. Mary H. Chamberlin Finally Succumbed to Shock of the News of Her Son's Death.

After an illness lasting several weeks Mrs. Mary H. Chamberlin, wife of Orlando E. Chamberlin, died this morning at her home, 612 Madison avenue.

Her severe illness dates back to the death of her son, Wilbur J. Chamberlain, who died August 14 at Carlsbad. From that time her condition grew steadily worse. This, together with the fact that she had lost two other sons, had a depressing effect and she did not seem to be able to overcome her grief. The sons, Ernest, Walter and Wilbur, were all engaged in newspaper work and had distinguished themselves in their profession. Mrs. Chamberlain leaves a husband and a daughter, Miss Georgie Chamberlain.

Mrs. Chamberlin was a native of Pennsylvania, having spent the early years of her life at Great Bend, Pa. She afterward lived with her father at Dunellen for a time. It was about twenty years ago that the family came to Plainfield. Mrs. Chamberlin was seventy-eight years of age and she retained her faculties to the last. She was a devout Christian and lived an exemplary life. The notice of funeral will be given later.

COLUMBIA WINS THE RACE.

IT'S LIPTON'S WEATHER, BUT HE DID NOT WIN:

English Yacht Crossed Line First, But Columbia Finally Caught Up.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, October 3—The second of the international yacht races started this morning under very auspicious circumstances. The weather was clear and bracing and a twenty knot breeze was blowing from the north. More than the usual number of excursion boats were in attendance, everyone of which was taxed to its capacity with passengers.

At 11:10, both yachts crossed the line with Shamrock to windward. At 11:29 she was one minute in the lead.

At 11:50, both yachts were nearing the first mark, going at a terrific pace. Shamrock is well in the lead.

In turning the first mark Columbia gained fourteen seconds, but on the reach for the second mark Shamrock is still in the lead.

At 12:25, both boats were half way toward the second mark, with Shamrock still leading.

At 12:34, the yachts were nearing the second mark. The Columbia appeared to be gaining.

At 1:30, the Columbia was steadily cutting down the Shamrock's lead and the yachts were about even.

At 1:35, the yachts were on their way home. They were practically on even terms.

At 1:39, the Columbia had passed the Shamrock and was within four miles of the finish.

At 1:49, the yachts were nearing the finish with the Columbia leading by several lengths.

At 1:59 the Columbia was well ahead and was within a mile of the finish. She was to the windward of the Shamrock.

At 2:17, the Columbia crossed the finish line and was one minute ahead of the Shamrock.

LEGAL QUESTION SETTLED.

Decided in Current Court Case in Which Parties Were Plainfielders.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, October 3—Justice Van Syckle, in the Circuit Court, this morning decided that a mortgagor, who has parted with his equity of redemption, need not be made a party defendant to foreclosure proceedings in order to permit the mortgagee to recover on the bond for a deficiency.

The question arose in the contract case of Mrs. M. A. Debaud against Emma R. Naylor and others. Codington & Swachamer represent Mrs. DeBaud, while W. S. Angleman is counsel for the defendants. An appeal will be taken.

TAX BOOKS OPEN.

City Collector Smith Ready to Receive Taxes But Cannot Change the Assessments.

Collector Frank Smith opened his books for the collection of taxes for the current year Tuesday. All tax bills are due and payable and unless they are settled on or before November 20, the bills will then be delinquent and the usual warrants will be issued by the City Judge.

There has been much false impression on the part of the people as to the powers and duties of the collector. This officer is simply authorized to collect taxes and has no jurisdiction to reduce the amount assessed. All objections should be made to the Commissioners of Appeal. This commission will sit in the Common Council chamber, October 22, for the purpose of listening to arguments for the abatement of taxes.

MAY BE ESCAPED PRISONER.

Middlesex County Authorities Believe Samuel Roberts is Really Samuel Scudder.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Oct. 3—The one-eyed negro, arrested in Bound Brook, Tuesday, for shooting "Tim" McCarty, who gave his name as Samuel Roberts, is belied by the local authorities to be Samuel Scudder, a colored man who escaped from the Middlesex county jail four years ago.

A short time ago, Jailer Messler learned that Scudder had been seen in the vicinity of Bound Brook but was unable to locate him. The description of Roberts tallies exactly with that of Scudder and an officer will be sent to the Somerville jail to view the prisoner.

GOLF AND TENNIS PLANNED.

EVERY CONVENIENCE FOR TRANSPORTATION AND CARE OF GUESTS.

Luncheon and Dinner to be Served at Club House—Music by Brooks and Denton During Afternoon and Evening.

The devotees of the favorite games, lawn tennis and golf, will engage in contests on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course tomorrow, when the home club will have for its guests the Park Golf Club. There has always been a cordial and happy relationship between these two clubs and heretofore there have been similar affairs that have prompted the mutual interests of each club.

Tomorrow's all-day programme includes tennis and golf in the morning and golf in the afternoon. A number of events have been arranged which will give everyone an opportunity to enjoy either one of the games. Suitable prizes will be offered the winners in these events and this will afford an incentive to play. The clubhouse has been prettily decorated within and without for the occasion and the golf committee has spared no pains in arranging every detail that will add to the pleasure of all.

During the day and evening the reception committee of women, including Mrs George A. Chapman, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. O. T. Waring, Mrs. J. W. Reinhart and Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury, will be present and welcome those who attend.

Brooks and Denton, the well-known banjoists, will be present and give one of the best programmes. This will be an enjoyable feature that will add to the brilliancy of the affair.

The golf committee has arranged to have stages running between the trolley terminus and the clubhouse so that no one will be obliged to walk that distance. Another feature will be the cold lunch served at noon and the dinner in the evening. Those wishing to avail themselves of these meals must notify the steward, Mr. Ivamy, as soon as they arrive at the grounds or before hand if possible.

NOT MUCH BUSINESS.

Session of Borough Council This Evening Will be a Quiet One.

The Borough Council will meet in regular monthly session, this evening. There are no matters of material importance to come before the meeting, unless the committee on municipal ownership should have something to report, which is not considered probable. The regular monthly bills will be ordered paid and there is likely to be a communication from the fire department respecting the proposed parade.

BUILDING STORM SEWER.

Contractor Meeker Has Begun Work on Clinton Avenue.

Contractor C. M. Meeker began work yesterday laying the first of the new storm sewers recently ordered by the Common Council. When completed it will run from a point south of South Second street, on Clinton avenue, to West Third street, thence east to a point in West Third street. The pipe has already been laid on Clinton avenue and the work is being pushed rapidly.

Wonderfully Expanded Tale.

The clerks at Crosby & Hill's store are indignant over a newspaper story circulated about the country that they have formed an anti-slang society. They say that there is no truth in the report. Two young women clerks in the store had a mutual understanding that neither one was to use slang words, and as a forfeit for violation of the agreement a penny was to be paid.

NEW COURT HOUSE.

Subject Will Be Brought Before the Somerset County Freeholders Next Week.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 4.—When the regular meeting of Freeholders is held here Tuesday it is very probable that the matter of a new court house and county buildings will be brought up.

The County Bar Association, through its committee, L. H. Schenck, of Neshanic; H. C. Suydam, of Plainfield, and E. P. Johnson, of this place, is making a vigorous fight to bring the matter before the people, and there is a rumor that a petition will be presented to the board.

A prominent member of the association is credited with saying that the present structures are a disgrace to the town.

WILL ASK CITIZENS TO AID

FUNDS MUST BE RAISED FOR EXPENSES OF DIVISION ENCAMPMENT.

Committee of Arrangements From Antietam Command U. V. U. is Preparing to Solicit.

In order that there may be sufficient funds in the treasury to defray incidental expenses of the encampment of the Union Veterans' Union of the department of New York and New Jersey, Antietam Command, No. 3, has instructed the committee on arrangements to solicit contributions from the citizens of Plainfield.

The committee designated is now at work among the people of this city asking for financial support. The encampment will be held here November 12 and 13. Only veterans who stood on the firing line during the Rebellion are members of the organization and it is believed that there will be a large representation of this class of old soldiers in attendance at the reunion.

The command has been mindful of the fact that it will be very easy for the public to be deceived should imposters be inclined to make revenue out of the plan. In consequence it has registered the names of the committee which is authorized to collect subscriptions. The membership of the committee consists of John Naylor, John A. Goodwin, Albert G. Perry, Henry C. Drake, Frederick Wenzell, Henry Frazee, Nathan C. Pennington, Edward E. Townley, John W. Wagner, Lewis Willett, James Clarkson, Lucian C. Sheppard, Asa Collier, Andrew Cox, William H Brown, J. F. Berg, James Baglin, Patrick Moran, Edward Vanderweg, Thomas B. Titsworth, Preston B. Goodfellow and Christian P. Becatel.

COUNTY CONVENTION CALLED.

DEMOCRATS OF SOMERSET COUNTY WILL NOMINATE OCTOBER 14.

Chief Fight For Sheriff—Deputy Sheriff Anderson In Lead For That Nomination—Other Candidates.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 4—Chas. L. Voorhees, chairman of the Democratic county executive committee, has issued the call for the convention, when candidates for sheriff, member of Assembly and coroners will be named. It will be held in the Court House, Oct. 14, at 10 o'clock. The primaries will be held the Saturday previous, excepting in North Plainfield and Rocky Hill boroughs, which will be the Friday evening before.

The principal contest will be for sheriff. At present it looks very much as if John L. Anderson, ex-county superintendent of schools and at present deputy sheriff, will secure the nomination. He has a host of followers and many friends in Bernards township, where he formerly lived.

Other seekers for the honor are Freeholders E. B. Hoagland, of Hillsboro; Eugene V. Crouse, of Montgomery, and Aug. Mobus, of North Plainfield, all of whom are confident. Mr. Mobus has a great many friends who hope to see him get the nomination.

According to reports Wm. J. DeMond, who was a factor in the fight, has dropped out. As it is, the contest promises to be a brisk one.

FOR YOUNG WOMEN ONLY.

FOMAL OPENING OF WOMAN'S CLUB LAST EVENING.

Well Known Ads Pictured in Clever Tableaux—Also a Musical Programme—Plans For Winter.

The formal opening of the rooms of the Young Woman's Club for the fall and winter season took place at the Babcock building, last evening, when an unique entertainment was given under the auspices of the organization. The members of the club were the only ones participating in the affair which was of a purely informal nature.

Well-known advertisements were represented by amusing tableaux, many of which were cleverly executed. Some well-rendered piano solos, as well as numerous vocal selections interspersed the chief feature of the programme. There were also one or two very good recitations given by the members of the society.

The affair was given under the direction of the house committee. It is the intention of the organization to repeat entertainments once a month during the fall and winter seasons. The first regular business meeting of the club will be held Monday evening, when officers for the ensuing year will be elected. All young women in this city and vicinity are invited to join the organization for mutual enjoyment and instruction.

TO CLOSE BABY CAMP.

Great Work Has Been Done There During the Summer—Much Work for City Nurse.

The Executive Board of the City Union, Kings Daughters, held its first fall meeting yesterday in the Y. M. C. A. building, when arrangements were made to close the baby camp on the mountain.

It was decided to close the camp next week. All of the babies are now well and the weather is too cool to keep the camp open longer. The Union is very grateful to everyone who in any way assisted in the work carried on during the summer.

The city nurse has been doing most excellent work. She has been very busy, making on an average of thirty visits a week. There are now five chronic cases that have to be visited daily. One of these cases has required daily attention for the past eight months. During the summer the nurse was severely taxed. Many times she would walk to the camp on the mountain and remain there with the babies all night, walking back to town the next morning. Her services have been greatly appreciated by all.

No Important Business.

WOODEN WEDDING OF A POPULAR COUPLE.

Mr. and Mrs George O. Stevens Fittingly Celebrate Fifth Wedding Anniversary.

THERE WAS PLENTY OF WOOD

SOME OF THE GUESTS ASSISTED IN THE ENTERTAINMENT.

Wooden Souvenirs For Guests—Wooden Gifts For the Couple—Refreshments Served on Wooden Plates—Those Present.

Just five years ago last evening Mr. and Mrs. George O. Stevens, of Compton avenue, were united in the bonds of matrimony. To fittingly observe the event forty friends assembled at their home for that purpose. It was a wooden anniversary and through the host and hostess's forethought the guests were constantly reminded of that fact. Wood predominated during the entire evening.

On their arrival, the guests were handed a slip of paper bearing a number and instructed to commence searching about the house for a slip with a corresponding number. This was done and when the slips were found, it was seen they were attached to a pretty little souvenir of the occasion. Of course all were constructed of wood in many fantastic shapes and designs.

The assemblage was afterward treated to some genuinely humorous recitations and songs by George Stevens, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., known in many States as "Wade Whipple." His rendition of several of Eugene Fields' selections showed him to be an adept at entertaining. Several solos were given by City Judge William N. Runyon, Dr. Frank Hallock and George O. Stevens. They afterward sang together and their voices blended delightfully. The majority of the songs contained many "would," "wouldn't" and "wooded" phrases which were particularly appropriate. Rev. Charles E. Herring also rendered a pleasing solo.

Following the musical part of the evening's programme, the guests were served with dainty salads, sandwiches, ice cream and other delicacies on wooden platters. Several other vocal and musical selections brought the pleasant celebration to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were generously remembered by their many friends with appropriate gifts which will serve in after years to remind them with much pleasure of their wooden anniversary. At least the celebrants said they would.

Among those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Langdon, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Hess, Mrs. Hobart Peck, Mr and Mrs. J. O. Stevens, the Misses Davis, Miss Susan Peck, Miss Florence Stevens, Miss Anna Harford, Miss Margaret Atkinson, Miss Ella Bush, City Judge Runyon, Dr. Hallock, Rev. C. E. Herring, Malcolm Davis and Donald Davis, of this city; Mrs. Taylor and Louis Phillips, of New York; George Stevens, Mount Vernon; Harry Spellman, Washington Heights; Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Brakeley, Miss Louise Brakeley, Archibald, Max and Paul Blakeley, of Dunellen.

ANOTHER DONATION.

Faank Bergen, of Elizabeth, Sent Check For $50 to Borough Fire Department.

Closely following the generous action of Edwin S. Hooley in donating $50 towards the expenses of the borough firemen's parade, the North Plainfield department received a check from Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth, for a like amount.

As in the case of the first contribution the subscription of Mr. Bergen was entirely unsought by the borough department and it came as a welcome surprise. These donations together with the appropriation of the Borough Council makes the total amount at hand $200. Of this amount, two-thirds will be given to Warren Engine Company, while one third will go to the West End Hose Company.

FIGHTING KURZHALS' LICENSE

CITIZENS OF WESTFIELD HELD PUBLIC MEETING LAST NIGHT.

Protested Against Its Granting—Fifty People Agreed To Appear In Person At Court.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, October 4.—The fact that H. B. Kurzhals has applied to the Courts for a liquor license has aroused a strong sentiment among the townfolks against the location of the saloon in this place. Mr. Kurzhals wants to open a saloon in his building on Elm street and he has petitioned for a license. Judge Vail was to have given a hearing in the matter Tuesday, but an adjournment was made until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Last evening there was a meeting of citizens in the township rooms, where three hundred people had assembled to give expression against the license. Arthur N. Pierson was chairman and G. R. V. Hankerson was the secretary. There were many prominent citizens present, including the local ministers.

The fact was learned that several persons who have signed Mr. Kurzhals' petition did not fully understand the case, and they will go to Elizabeth tomorrow and ask to have their names withdrawn. Of those present last evening at the meeting fifty agreed to go to Elizabeth tomorrow morning and enter their protest in person against the granting of the license.

Kurzhals formerly conducted a saloon on West Third street, Plainfield.

CHIEF WAS BEFORE HIM.

THRILLING LITTLE INCIDENT ON A TROLLEY CAR LAST EVENING.

"Conjunction" Jones Made A Grab For His Razor When Chief Kiely Took A Hand.

"Conjunction" Jones and a colored friend, from this city, in company with a dozen more shining lights in Plainfield colored society, were on a trolley car returning from a party at Westfield, last evening, when the two first mentioned became involved in a row. "Conjunction" was slapped across the face. Without any parleying, his right hand made a movement with lightning like rapidity toward a rear pocket. Before the hand reached its destination, Jones was seized from behind and, on looking up, found himself in the clutches of Chief Kiely, while the razor which he had been feeling for was gone. The surprised Jones wilted and meekly agreed to visit the chief's office this morning. The razor was then returned with the admonition to leave it home when attending parties in the future.

Chief Kiely happened to be on the car returning from the police banquet at Roselle. It was not yet in the Plainfield limits and consequently he had no authority to arrest the man, but he evidently saved someone from a carving.

FIRED TWICE.

But the Burglar Succeeded in Escaping From Mrs. Lozier's Home Without Injury.

The home of Mrs. H. A. Lozier, of LaGrande avenue, was entered by a burglar at 1:45 this morning.

Mrs. Lozier was awakened by a slight noise and immediately rose to make an investigation, when she discovered a man attempting to escape by the library window. She seized a revolver and fired two shots at the intruder, neither of which took effect. He made his escape before she could get a glimpse of his features.

Entrance was effected by forcing a kitchen window. Mrs Lozier made an investigation but found nothing had been taken.

The police were notified of the occurence and Chief Kiely found on investigation that two other Netherwood homes had also been visited.

At H. K. Miller's, 919 LaGrande avenue, two silver spoons, two silver knives, a silver watch and an old pair of trousers were taken. At Mr. Austin's, 505 Belvidere avenue, the burglars were heard prowling about but nothing was taken. An open kitchen window showed the mode of ingress.

LOCAL PAINTERS' UNION WITHDRAWS FROM ALLIED TRADES.

Trouble Over Settlement With Bosses Led to the Action—Decided By Ballot.

Following the action taken by the local masons several weeks ago, the local painters' union at the regular meeting Wednesday night, resolved to withdraw from the Building Trades Council. A vote was taken on the question and it resulted in a ballot of thirty-seven to eleven against remaining with the allied trades.

The matter has been under consideration with the painters for some time, owing to certain arbitrary methods which the Trades Council was wont to pursue in dealing with them. Numerous times when the painters wished to settle employe and employers' differences through their own union, the privilege was denied them. Small matters which they did not deem of enough importance to bring before the officials were taken in hand by the allied unions and, they claim, greatly magnified.

By withdrawing the painters will now have full control over all matters concerning the members of their union.

WEDDED ONE YEAR.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh Informally Celebrated The Event At The Bride's Home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, October 4—The first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh, of Plainfield, was pleasantly celebrated last evening at the home of Mrs. VanEmburgh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Kline, 534 Maple avenue. The affair was given to the bride and groom, the members of the bridal party and the immediate relatives of the celebrants, and was an informal one.

The beautiful home was prettily decorated with golden rod, palms and asparagus fern, while the table in the dining room was embellished through the use of choice flowers.

The evening was passed in playing progressive hearts, prizes being given to the man and woman winning the games. The play throughout was spirited and full of interest. After the play an elaborate supper was served, followed by many social features.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE WAS CAUSED BY CHEMICALS

Barn, With Valuable Contents, on West Seventh Street, Burned to Ground.

LOSS WILL EXCEED $5,000.

FLAMES GAINED GREAT HEADWAY BEFORE BEING DISCOVERED.

Barn was Owned by Chas. Eisenmann and Contained Machinery and Chemicals for Manufacture of Photographic Supplies.

Spontaneous combustion, caused by the action of chemicals, last evening resulted in the complete destruction of a costly French roof barn and its contents, belonging to Chas. Eisenmann, and located in the rear of his home on West Seventh street, near Clinton avenue. On account of the inflammibility of the materials stored within it, the building was doomed long before the firemen reached the scene and they were unable to check the flames. A conservative estimate places the loss at $5,000, which is only partially covered by insurance.

Residents in the vicinity noticed smoke issuing from crevices during the afternoon, but it was not until 5:50 that one of them took the trouble to investigate, Mr. and Mrs. Eisenman being away.

A telephone alarm was first sent in saying the house was on fire and Chief Doane and the chemical engine responded. They had reached the scene but a few seconds when Driver Townley was sent to pull box 37. Before he could reach it an alarm was sent from box 49, which resulted in the greater part of the apparatus going out of the way.

Owing to the long run, the flames made great headway and the department devoted its efforts to saving surrounding property. A small barn in the rear and both Mr Eisenmann's and W. S. Lowery's houses were several times threatened.

It required 1350 feet of hose from the nearest hydrant to reach the scene of the conflagation, and the steamer was necessary to force the water through. The ruins burned fiercely and it was not until 10 o'clock that the recall was sounded. It was necessary to fill the cellar of the building with water before the embers could be left in safety.

Mr. Eisenmann is a manufacturing photographer and had great quantities of chemicals and valuable machinery for the manufacture of plates and paper stored in the structure. Several times the chemicals exploded and increased the fierceness of the flames. The chemicals are supposed to have been the cause of the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Eisenmann were at the former's place of business on West Front street, or it might have been seen in time to save the greater part of the building.

The building was worth $3 000, and the contents were valued at over $2,000.

BROOM DRILL.

Affair at Calvary Baptist Church Was a Decided Success.

The broom drill given in the Calvary Baptist church last evening was a decided success financially as well as socially, and the church will realize a neat sum from the affair. There were twelve young women in the drill, under the captaincy of Nelson Batts. They gave many intricate movements which showed they had been carefully instructed.

Following the drill the women of the church served refreshments. The entire affair was in charge of Miss Nora Carey.

LITERARY.

"William McKinley" is appropriately the subject of the leading article in the October Forum. It is a brilliant character sketch by Henry Litchfield West, whose work as a leading journalist at Washington brought him frequently into contact with the deceased President. Representative Henry Sherman Boutell contributes an instructive and interesting account of "Our National Debt; its Origin, History and Peculiarities." "The Outlook for Public Ownership" is dealt with by Albert Watkins, who summarizes the experience of foreign countries in such matters as government railroads, etc. E. Friend describes the history and operations of "The Paris Bourse." Herbert W. Horwill utters a warning against "The Monastic Danger in Higher Education."

The October issue of Leslie's Monthly has a number of unusual features. One of these is the first short story which Charles Frederick Goss has yet been induced to write. "The Redemption of David Corson" aroused more debate, perhaps, than any other book of last year, and this shorter tale, "The Story of a Thief," is bound to come in for vigorous discussion. Other features in the number worth talking about, are an interesting description of Maximite, the most powerful of practical explosives, by its inventor, Hiram Maxim, and a rattling account of "The Texas Rangers," an organization which the author rightly styles the most efficient police force in the world; and "The Autobiography of a High Climber"—a most diverting history. Among the stories are "A Corner in Trolley," by S. A. Nelson, explaning the true inwardness of market manipulation, and a story of conscience, entitled, "The Moral Sense." Marginalia, the half humorous department of the magazine, is also unusually good.

—Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet this evening. A full attendance of members is requested.

—W. T. Wesson, Gholsonville, Va., druggist, writes: Your One Minute Cough Cure gives perfect satisfaction. My customers say it is the best remedy for coughs, colds, throat, and lung troubles. L. W. Randolph.

—Miss VanZandt will meet her class in dancing and deportment at the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School Friday afternoon, November 1.

—"I had long suffered from indigestion," writes G. A. LeDeis, Cedar City, Mo. "Like others I tried many preparations but never found anything that did me good until I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. One bottle cured me. A friend who had suffered similarly I put on the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. He is gaining fast and will soon be able to work. Before he used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure indigestion had made him a total wreck. L. W. Randolph.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

Manager F. F. Proctor's new departure in theatrical presentations has proven an immediate success. A few months ago he changed the policy of his six theatres from presentations of "straight vaudeville" to a combination of dramatic and variety bills. Preparations have been made for some noteworthy attractions, both in the comedy and vaudeville line, and as the scheme is elastic there need be no end of the changes and introduction of novelties and notable performers. There will be a scenic revival of Joseph Arthur's celebrated comedy drama, "Blue Jeans," and a revival of David Belasco's dramatization of John Luther Long's pathetic tragedy, "Mme. Butterfly." Pilar Moran, the celebrated French actress and pantomimist, has been re-engaged to assume the title role. The Hanlons are engaged for productions of a series of little pantomimes, and will give an elaborate presentation of a Christmas pantomime intended as a faithful reproduction of the holiday pantomimes which are so popular in England. In the vaudeville department the engagement of Sandow, the marvelous strong man, takes first rank. Sandow comes for exclusive appearances at the Proctor theatres, and an enormous amount of money is represented in the value of his contract. There will be many other notable importations for the Proctor houses, and the scheme of combining vaudeville with the drama will be given the best efforts of this manager of experience.

COLUMBIA AGAIN LED

Yankee Yacht Won the Victory Easily.

THE CUP RACE RECORDS BROKEN.

The Start For the Second Race Was a Stirring One and the Finish Thrilling — Will Be Another Trial Today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The American yacht Columbia won her second victory over Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, the Shamrock, in a hot race yesterday over a triangular course of thirty miles in all. The race was a stirring one from start to finish, and the Columbia, after trailing the Shamrock over two legs of the course, outfooted and outpointed the challenger on the beat home.

It was a thrilling finish. Columbia had been looking like a possible winner from the time the first mark was reached. It was seen then, when her gain of twenty-two seconds on the first leg was figured out, that she was doing the better reaching work. When it was learned that she had picked up twenty-four seconds more on the second leg, the hopes of the American contingent ran high, and when on the beat she began to outfoot as well as outpoint the challenger the enthusiasm was riotous. The white flier had established herself to windward and in the lead shortly after 1:20 o'clock, and from then on it was merely a case of by how much she would win. The excitement was not gone out of the contest, however, for the Yankee boat's uphill fight from the rear to a long way in front had stirred all beholders too much for feeling to subside soon.

The race is said to break the record for a cup race by more than ten minutes.

A brisk breeze of about fourteen knots was blowing from northwesterly quarters at 11 o'clock in the morning, when the Columbia and the Shamrock were sent away from the Sandy Hook lightship. The course was triangular, two reaches and a beat, the first leg along the Long Island shore and the third up the Jersey coast.

EDWIN D. MORGAN.

Shamrock crossed the starting line at 11:00:13 and Columbia at 11:01:47. The pace to the first mark was terrific, the turn being made before 12 o'clock. Shamrock rounded first at 11:51:10 and Columbia at 11:52:22.

Columbia had gained twenty-two seconds on Shamrock on the rather close reach to the first mark. Both set out on a little broader reach to the second mark on the starboard tack.

The wind was holding from the north-northwest and at 12:30 o'clock was apparently a little stronger than at the start. The Columbia seemed to be decreasing the Shamrock's lead.

Shamrock rounded the second mark at 12:45:51 and Columbia at 12:46:39, official time.

Columbia had on the second leg picked up twenty-four seconds more.

After turning, the racers stood toward Long Island on the port tack under jibs, staysails, mainsails and club topsails, Shamrock having the weather berth.

Shamrock footed fast for awhile, but Columbia outpointed her. Both went to starboard a few minutes after 1 o'clock, and it was seen that Columbia was closing the gap, and when, shortly after 1:20 o'clock, Shamrock went to port and Columbia followed the Yankee boat was plainly to windward and hauling rapidly away from the Irishman and at 1:28 was well ahead. Ten minutes later the Columbia's lead was estimated at a quarter of a mile, and she was put down as a sure winner on actual time, barring accidents.

The Columbia continued to shoot fast for the mark and kept opening the gap between her and the Shamrock.

At 1:57 both racers had gone about on the starboard tack and were heading for the finish line, about a mile away. Columbia finished at 2:15:05, official time. The Shamrock finished at 2:16:23, official time.

Columbia won by 2m. 52s. actual sailing time and by 3m. 35s. corrected time.

There will be a race today. This will be over a windward or leeward course and return.

Edwin D. Morgan, the Columbia's manager, when seen on board the Park City after the race, said: "We won against an excellent foe. I always thought such a day as this would be a Columbia day. Both boats were superbly handled. We have now two races against Shamrock sailed in what was supposed to be Shamrock's weather. There was no reason why Shamrock should not win. Therefore I believe the Columbia is the best racing yacht in the world."

Mr. Morgan said the combination of Jameson and Sycamore had been a hard one to beat.

Disappointment In London.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The extent of Great Britain's disappointment at the defeat of the Shamrock II. can be thoroughly appreciated only by those who saw the thousands of spectators lining the embankment. Almost to a man they were expectant of victory. The early editions of the afternoon newspapers announcing that it was the Shamrock II.'s weather had keyed up hopes here almost to a pitch of certainty, and many people entertained the idea that the depression over South African affairs might be relieved by a victory of the Shamrock II. A curious feature of the race was the announcement of the result in London over two minutes before it actually occurred off Sandy Hook.

TAMMANY NOMINATES.

Croker's Cohorts Appear Enthusiastic For the Ticket Named.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The city convention of Tammany Hall met last night in the Grand Central Palace to formally name candidates that Tammany's hosts hope to carry to victory on their ticket in the approaching municipal election. The big hall was crowded to the doors.

George B. McClellan presided as temporary and permanent chairman.

The platform adopted by the convention was voluminous, and Senator Grady occupied some time in reading it.

Much attention was paid to the question of personal liberty in the platform and Tammany's administration of municipal affairs during the past of course lauded.

Credit was attributed to Tammany for the extension of rapid transit and arguments put forth for the holding of all public franchises by the city.

The excise law was denounced, as were the present labor laws, and amendments to the latter were advocated.

The ticket, as announced in the afternoon by the executive committee, was Edward M. Shepard of Brooklyn for mayor, William W. Ladd, Jr., of Manhattan for comptroller and George M. Van Hoesen of Manhattan for president of the board of aldermen.

Whatever may have been the feal sentiments of the Tammany delegates who gathered at the Grand Central Palace in convention to indorse Richard Croker's nomination of Edward M. Shepard for mayor, on the surface there was naught but enthusiasm.

Every mention of the name of the man who supported Seth Low and flayed Tammany in the last municipal campaign evoked loud applause.

His friends—Messrs. Shevlin, McCarty and McCarren—received tumultuous applause when they entered and took seats in the Brooklyn delegation, near the stage. For Richard Croker there was a genuine ovation.

Shepard Seeks Rest.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Edward M. Shepard, Democratic candidate for mayor of New York city, arrived in this city last evening and remained at the Hotel Ten Eyck until this morning, when he left for his summer home on the banks of Lake George. He will remain there for some time. When seen, he said there was nothing about which he cared to express his views. He is in quest of a much needed rest.

Farewell to Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 4.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York bade farewell to Vancouver yesterday. They came over from Victoria on the Empress of India in the morning, escorted by five ships from the naval station at Esquimalt. The local militia turned out at the wharf, and a guard of honor and a number of bands were also present. By special direction of his royal highness the Indian musicians were brought to him, and he talked with them through an interpreter for half an hour, shaking hands with each, to the intense delight of the Indians, who were in animal skins and feathers and had their faces painted. The party then entered their train.

Ore From South America.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 4.—Seventy-five cars of gold and silver ores were received at the local smelter of the American Smelting and Refining company, which comprises the last consignment of the extensive South American shipments for this season. This ore is the first from South America to be shipped to this country and came in the nature of an experiment, to be followed by other shipments if successful. It came by way of Mexico, the duty on ore shipped from that country being lower than from South America.

"I have gone 14 days at a time without a movement of the bowels, not being able to move them except by using hot water injections. Chronic constipation for seven years placed me in this terrible condition; during that time I did everything I heard of but never found any relief; such was my case until I began using CASCARETS. BIG DEMONSTRATION

Cubans Ask Reduction of Certain American Duties.

A STRONG ANNEXATION SENTIMENT.

Popular Gatherings In All Parts of the Island — Havana Bankers Indorse Government Intervention and Praise General Wood.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Oct. 4.—Upward of 8,000 men, representing every element in Santiago, responded to a call issued by the chamber of commerce inviting them to participate in a demonstration organized to present to the military government a memorial urging a reduction of American duties on Cuban sugar and tobacco.

All business was suspended during the demonstration, which was the largest ever seen in the city. Lieutenant Henry C. Whitehead, Tenth United States cavalry, who is temporarily representing the commander of the district, wired the memorial to Governor General Wood in Havana.

Senor Marcane, a leading lawyer, addressed an immense crowd on the plaza, explaining the memorial. He asserted that several sugar planters would be unable to grind next year and pay the present wages unless the American duties were reduced.

The people are coming to understand that industrial conditions here depend upon Cuba's relations with the United States, and the opinion was generally expressed that the demonstration was but the first expression of a sentiment which would soon result in the formation of a strong annexation party.

Large delegations from all parts of the province participated in the demonstration.

General Wood Waited Upon.

HAVANA, Oct. 4.—A very large demonstration of Havana bankers, manufacturers, merchants and other business men waited upon General Wood at the palace and presented to him a plea for the reduction of duties on Cuban products on lines of reciprocity. Similar demonstrations occurred in many other parts of the island. A general holiday was observed, and telegrams from every municipality supporting the plea of the Havana merchants were sent to Washington. The annexation sentiment was strongly in evidence in the demonstration here. A letter signed by numerous bankers indorsed the government of intervention, complimented General Wood and asked the United States to make Cuba's cause its cause.

Arbitration For Asphalt Differences.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Oct. 4.—It is learned from an authorized source that after a conference of more than two hours at the United States legation Minister Bowen has succeeded in persuading the parties to the asphalt controversy, the representatives of the Bermudez company and of Warner & Quinlan, to accept arbitration. The state department has been requested to urge the asphalt companies in New York to accept this plan, which will settle the perplexing question. Every one here is pleased with the result, and there is praise on all sides for Mr. Bowen.

Adulterated Vinegar Sold.

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The commissioner of agriculture has commenced suit in the supreme court of Oneida county against C. B. Crouse & Son, jobbers and grocers at Utica, and Lewis Windholz, manufacturer of vinegar in Syracuse. The people claim 100 penalties amounting to $10,000 for the sale of adulterated vinegar between June and October of the present year. The plaintiff obtained an injunction order in the suit restraining the defendants from further selling or offering for sale vinegar which did not meet the requirements of the state standard.

Gloomy Cotton Crop Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The monthly report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the condition of cotton on Sept. 25 to have been 61.4 as compared with 71.4 on the 24th day of the preceding month, 67 on Oct. 1, 1900; 62.4 on the corresponding date in 1899 and 70.3 the mean of the October averages of the last ten years. Rarely has so general an impairment of condition been reported at the department's various crop reporting agencies.

Constitutional Convention Dissolved.

HAVANA, Oct. 4.—Governor General Wood yesterday issued an order formally dissolving the constitutional convention with the understanding that if its services are again desired he will issue the necessary call. The salaries and allowances, amounting to $15,000, ceased yesterday. The members of the convention were allowed transportation expenses to their homes.

English Cricketers Won.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The international cricket match between Bosanquet's English experts and twelve players from this city was completed on the grounds of the Knickerbocker Athletic club, Bergen Point, N. J., the Englishmen winning by seven wickets.

A Third Term For Zelaya.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 4.—The Nicaragua presidential election will occur next month. Numerous clubs are being formed throughout the country to promote the election of General Zelaya for a third term. No other candidate is yet talked of.

Transport Meade Coming.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—General Chaffee reports to the war department that the transport Meade sailed from Manila on the 1st inst. with nine companies of coast artillery for San Francisco.

PRAISE FOR SCHLEY.

Lieutenant Doyle Says He Was Well Possessed.

COURT'S END IS NOT IN SIGHT.

A Large Number of Witnesses on Judge Advocate Lemly's List. Schley Himself Is to Be Called Later.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—After Lieutenant Doyle, formerly of Commodore Schley's flagship, the Brooklyn, had completed his testimony before the Schley court of inquiry yesterday, Captain William C. Dawson of the marine corps was called and was followed by Lieutenant Charles W. Dyson of the bureau of steam engineering of the navy department.

Captain Dawson was signal officer on board the battleship Indiana during the naval engagement off Santiago, and he gave an account from recollection of the behavior of the various ships of the American fleet during that battle. He said the Brooklyn had gone about 2,000 yards to the southward before joining in the pursuit of Cervera's ships. Lieutenant Dyson was introduced to testify concerning the coal supply of the flying squadron, but the court adjourned for the day before he could be heard to any extent.

While all agree that it would be desirable to have the case terminated at an early day, they also agree that there is little prospect in that direction.

Judge Advocate Lemly probably will not call more than six or eight witnesses, but Mr. Rayner has almost forty names on his list. He says, however, that he does not expect to examine more than half of the number.

He does not expect to call Admiral Schley to the witness stand for some time yet.

Lieutenant Doyle said that at the bombardment which had taken place June 6 the Zocopa battery had replied at first very spiritedly, but that it soon "went out of business." After the ships withdrew the enemy had again manned their guns and then shot at the ships.

Mr. Rayner then asked Lieutenant Doyle how often he had seen Commodore Schley under fire during the Santiago campaign.

"Every time we were under fire," he replied, "during those bombardments and in the battle of July 3."

"What was his conduct?"

"I did not have an opportunity, as the commodore was always near about the conning tower, to observe his conduct during the battle, but immediately previous and after I did have an opportunity to do so. He always struck me as being just as well possessed as it was possible for anybody to be under the circumstances."

Farmers' Congress.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 4.—At the farmers' national congress yesterday Professor H. W. Campbell of Kansas delivered an address on soil culture in the semiarid west. Hon. John P. Brown of Indiana discussed ancient American forests, living and petrified. At the night's session interest was unabated, and the large auditorium was well filled. The American girl and home were discussed by Mrs. Bertha Dahl of Laws, Minn. Hon. M. F. Greely of South Dakota delivered a carefully prepared address on farm, home and life.

Coal Workers Strike.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 4.—Twelve hundred men and boys went on strike at the Natalie colliery yesterday to force the Shamokin Coal company to evict James Bateman, an ex-foreman, from a company house at Natalie. Bateman gained the enmity of a number of miners several months ago, and they headed a strike for his discharge. They succeeded in having Bateman dismissed, and they now demand to have him driven from the village.

Germany Plans Railroad Extension.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—Herr von Thielen, Prussian minister of railways and public works, has issued an order to the railway authorities directing them to prepare plans for comprehensive improvements and new construction next spring. Owing to the present low prices of material, the low wages and the surplus of laborers the step is considered timely, and the announcement had an excellent effect upon iron shares upon the boerse yesterday.

Business Picks Up In Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—The industrial activity which has prevailed in this city for many months on account of the labor troubles has been dispelled, and the manufacturing and wholesale districts begin to assume their normal condition. The agreement entered into by the employers' association and the strikers will be followed by a general resumption of business throughout the state.

Kaiser "Paid the Freight."

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—Although it was asserted when Prince Chun arrived in Germany that he would be the guest of Emperor William for only two days in Potsdam, it is now ascertained that the kaiser footed all his bills while in Berlin and traveling about, together with the expenses of the entire party, until the expiatory mission crossed the Austrian frontier.

Wealth In Pauper's Bed.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 4.—Five hundred dollars, a gold watch, several gold rings and two loaded revolvers were found in the bed of Mrs. Margaret Griffin, a supposed pauper, after her death at Defiance. She had been supported for some time by the township trustees.

Will It Succeed?

It will not be very many weeks before the people of Plainfield will be called upon to select the men to fill certain offices in the city government. A majority of the members of the Common Council are to be elected. Other important city offices are to be filled. Neither political party has yet named its candidates for the places, but it is safe to assume that each party will have a complete ticket in the field. There is at present no prospect of an independent ticket.

For the first time since Plainfield became a city the charter election will be held at the same time with the State and county election. This is a result of the Meeker Election Law, which was passed at the last session of the Legislature. The advantages claimed for this consolidation of elections is that it will materially reduce the cost to the various municipalities, and that they will be the gainer in that many more will vote for city officials than have heretofore been accustomed to. While many men who do business outside of Plainfield usually stop for the general election, it has been difficult in the past to get them out to vote for the municipal ticket.

There is, however, one great danger from this combination which must be carefully guarded against. State politics have nothing to do with local issues. The latter should be decided entirely on the merits of the local situation and the candidats. When the elections were at different times, this was not difficult. It is likely to prove much harder this year.

When the local candidates are tacked on the list of State and county candidates, it will be the most natural thing in the world for the Republican to vote for the entire ticket when he might take another course if the candidates were separated. It also makes it an extremely difficult to conduct a campaign for an independent ticket with any success. Naturally the party managers prefer the change for, it means, in Plainfield at least, that they will have a much easier time in electing the city officers. If, however, the people will vote thoroughtfully and not allow the change to prejudice them, then the consolidation will work results advantageous to all concerned. Only the future will show, however, just how successfully the plan will work.

The boom of Mayor N. B. Smalley for the shrievalty nomination of the Somerset county Republicans may be expected to assume some kind of shape at the Republican primaries in the borough this evening. It is expected that the delegations elected will be instructed to support Mayor Smalley for the place. There is little likelihood, however, that any of the borough Republicans would attempt to oppose the Mayor even if no instructions are given. With North Plainfield solid for him, Mayor Smalley will go into the convention with a good backing.

The water bills have been sent out When you pay them just let the Plainfield Water Supply Company know that you favor the adoption of water meters as a means of equalizing the changes. A united appeal will surely bring about the desired result.

Very elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of the friends of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club tomorrow. Not only will be it a big day in golf and tennis circles, but all the society folk will turn out for the reception and dance.

The call has been issued for the Democratic convention in Somerset county. North Plainfield has a candidate for the shrievalty nomination in Augustus Mobus, but present indications are that a Somerville man will capture the place.

The reports of the year at the Park Club show that that popular social organization of the borough is conducted on successful lines and will be able to cater to the pleasures of its members during the coming season.

It was just four minutes after the news of the Columbia's victory reached Plainfield yesterday that the first copy of The Daily Press, containing the news, appeared from the press.

It was just the weather that Sir Thomas Lipton had asked for and still he could not win. The Columbia is certainly a speedy craft.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, October 4—Weather permitting, the Scotch Plains baseball team will cross bats tomorrow with St. Mary's team, of Plainfield, on the latter's grounds. Those desiring to attend the game and intending going by trolley will transfer for the Fourth street car at Plainfield and get off at Spooner avenue. It is hoped that a large representation from town will attend and lend encouragement to the home team. Manager Johnston has made no change in the team and the lineup will practically be the same as has been putting up winning ball during the season.

The members of the Junior Epworth League of the Methodist church have changed the time of their weekly meeting from Wednesday evening to Wednesday afternoon at 3:30.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence.)

South Plainfield, October 4—South Plainfield for a town of its size has a good share of bad as well as good incidents. It is alleged against Edward Smith, a man employed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad at the coal storage grounds, that he has in the past spoken against William McKinley. Smith is quoted as saying that he "Did not believe in anarchy, but that it is a good thing that McKinley was shot as he never did any good in the country anyway!" These expressions are said to have been spoken before fellow workmen at the coal storage grounds and also at the Oak Tree station, but because of the regard in which Smith has heretofore been held, his companions are loth to testify before the Lehigh Valley officials, who have taken the matter up, and will discharge any employe found guilty of uttering any such words. The affair is now in the hands of the railroad's president and will be sifted to the bottom.

Washington Camp, No. 41, P. O. S. of A., held an interesting meeting in its hall last night. After transacting routine business some affairs of considerable importance received attention. Cigars were then passed around, after which the meeting broke up, only to reunite about the table, at which four domino players were competing for the honors of the Camp. Against Harry J. Manning and Richard Elliott G. Washington Smith and Louis Randolph were arrayed. Considerable interest was felt in the games, the spectators cheering on their men.

Miss Carrie VanNest, Miss Edna VanNest and Charles Gaffeny are among those who went from here to attend the Trenton Fair.

Adam Deiter left this morning for Philadelphia and the Trenton Fair, where he will spend the day.

A wagon-load of young people attended the rock concert at New Market, last night.

FIRST ENDEAVOR SOCIABLE.

"SPECTRE BRIDE" WAS PICTURED IN SERIES OF TABLEAUX.

Given By Endeavor Society Of First Presbyterian Church Last Evening—The Programme

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church held its first social of the season in the chapel of the church last evening. The attendance of members and friends was most gratifying to the committee in charge and there was a sociability throughout the evening that was greatly enjoyed by everyone present.

The programme opened with a mandolin solo by William Derby, accompanied on the piano by Clifford Braider. Then a number of young people gave a series of tableaux representing Washington Irving's "Spectre Bride." The story was read by Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, while those selected interpreted it. Those taking part wore the costume of the sixteenth century. The story was divided into eleven tableaux. The characters were taken as follows:

Bride, Miss Jessie Pruden; aunts, Mrs. John Johnson and Miss Abbott; baron, John Johnson; Starkenfurst, Fred Cranston; spectre, Douglass Murphy; priest, Fred Lounsbury; poor relations, Miss Ulrick, Miss Conover, Miss Edith Pruden, Fred Lounsbury and A. B. Bond. Frequent and hearty applause was accorded by the audience. During the tableaux various colored lights were thrown on the platform by A. V. Searing, Jr., who operated a lantern.

After the entertainment refreshments were served and a social time followed. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of A. B Bond, Miss Lettie Remsen, Miss Edith L. Pruden, Miss Clara Dunham, Douglass Murphy, William MacKillop and Harold Luckey.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 6, "This Grace Also"—Text, II Cor. viii, 7-9.

"God loveth a cheerful giver."

Through the preaching of Paul the churches had been gathered in Macedonia and Greece. One of the largest and most influential of these gentile churches was in Corinth. The city was populous, wealthy and luxury loving. The Christian congregation was mostly composed of converts from heathenism and not largely of those trained in Jewish customs. Naturally many perplexing problems arose, in dealing with which the opinion and authority of Paul were sought. These letters were written to answer some of the questions asked him and also to give directions for the proper conducting of their affairs. Paul was now in Macedonia. After years of most strenuous effort on his part he saw the church of Christ firmly established in this part of the world and no longer in need of his presence. He had a strong desire to go to Rome and aid the little band of disciples there, and then, if possible, pioneer Spain and the west.

Before he takes this journey he wishes to bind as closely as possible the gentile Christian churches he has established in eastern Europe with the Jewish Christian community at Jerusalem. There is danger of alienation of feeling, if not of complete division, because the Jews were very particular to keep all parts of the Mosaic law, even though they were Christians, while the gentiles entirely disregarded it except in a few particulars concerning idol worship. So Paul, to cultivate the feeling of good fellowship, proposes that a contribution of money shall be collected in his churches for the benefit of the needy ones in Jerusalem. In carrying out this purpose he writes and also sends messengers to gather the funds in an orderly manner. His instructions to the church at Corinth lay down the principles of Christian benevolence and give rules for the practice of systematic beneficence which have been of highest value to the whole church of Christ in all the years since.

Every young Christian who wishes to start right and adopt life rules and practices for the use of his money in the service of God should study this whole section with care. The grounds of obligation on which the support of the institutions of the church rest are clearly set forth. Emphasis is placed on the spirit of willingness in giving as opposed to niggardly covetousness and ostentatious offering for praise. Regularity and system are recommended.

Who can estimate the influence of this work of Paul in modifying the sharpness of feeling of the times and cultivating affectionate fraternity as well as relieving the distress of the poor? How much broader and deeper has been the influence of this letter on the great currents of church life in other lands and later ages!

Whatever may be one's attainments in the Christian faith, this grace is indispensable. The most pressing need is not the poverty of others in goods, but our need of soul riches, which this grace alone can impart.

Faith and Hope.

I believe that the sorrows of man will all cease; that every woe will find an oblivion, and that God will at last bring all men to a state of felicity sublime in its nature and endless in duration; that the body will return to the dust and the spirit to God who made it. The man who thus believes can pass serenely through life chanting in cheerfulness. God yet shall wipe away creation's tears, and all the world shall summer in His smile. I esteem this great hope to be the crowning excellence of all religion, and if there be any other faith more grand and sublime it has never been read to me in history, sung to me in poetry nor whispered by angels in my sweetest dreams.—Rev. James Shrigley in Gospel Banner.

Paragraphs.

A cup cannot be full of water and of poison at the same time. The soul must be cleansed from sin to be filled with righteousness.

Death is not a union station in which the soul that has been traveling steadily away from God can take a train direct to the mansions in the skies.

God does the best things for us, whether we like it or not, and leaves His acts to explain themselves.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Forget Their Faults.

If you would increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbors' faults. Forget all the slander you have ever heard. Forget the temptations. Forget the fault finding and give a little thought to the cause which provoked it. Forget the peculiarities of your friends and only remember the good points which make you fond of them.—Lutheran.

Home Together.

The road is rough before our feet,
The hills are steep and high,
And clouds are gathering overhead
To shut away the sky.
Perhaps our paths may run apart
In dark and stormy weather,
But at the nearing evening time
We'll all be home together.

Oh, friend of mine, I grieve to lose
The grasp of loving hands!
How much we need each other here
Each fully understands.
But if our pathways meet no more
In meadow land or heather,
Believe that when the night is come
We'll be at home together.

So here's a hand that's true, my friend,
And steadfast, come what may;
God grant our paths run side by side
And part not all the way;
But if it be that part we must,
God only knoweth whether,
There's comfort in the thought that night
Will bring us home together.

—Christian Herald.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 6—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—This grace also.—II Cor. viii, 7-9. (Giving.)

The grace that Paul here alludes to is the grace of giving or of Christian liberality. In the part of his letter to the Corinthians he is urging them to be ready to meet the obligations which they had taken upon themselves toward the poor saints of Jerusalem. Titus is to come for their offering and Paul is anxious that they shall have it ready, and presents to them a number of reasons why it should be. These reasons are applicable to us today. The grace of Christian liberality needs to be practiced today. The calls for money are many and varied. The church must be supported. God's poor saints must he helped and sustained. The spiritually poor in heathen lands must have the gospel sent to them. That these causes and others may be sustained great liberality must be practiced by the people of God.

1. Paul urged the Corinthians to practice the grace of giving because they had received so much. "As ye abound in everything, in faith, and utterance, and knowledge, and in all diligence and in your love toward us, see that ye abound in this grace also." God had freely given to them the most desirable Christian graces. They were rich. Why should they not, out of gratitude and love to God for what he had given to them freely, also give of theirs to the children of God who had not? Having freely received, they should freely give. This principle applies to us. Spiritually and temporally God has blessed us. Let us, therefore, in gratitude and love cultivate the grace of liberality.

Dark days have their mission in the world. "All things work together for good," and we are taught many useful lessons in the days of darkness that we would never learn otherwise. 1. Dark days teach us our dependence upon God. In prosperity how independent we feel; how easily we yield to the temptation to trust in ourselves or in our possessions! But sickness comes or adversity sweeps away our earthly belongings. How helpless we become and how quickly we flee to God and find in him a refuge, a strength and a help in time of trouble. 2. Dark days teach us the preciousness of prayer. Who prizes and appreciates prayer like the man who is in trouble? We "cry unto the Lord in our trouble" and appreciate then as at no other time the priceless privilege and power of prayer. 3. Dark days teach us to appreciate the goodness of God and to praise Him for His goodness. Continued prosperity would lead us to lose sight of the providence of God in our lives. Were the days all sunshine, and no darkness, the hand of God would not be seen. But, "lest we forget," God sends the dark days, and when they are passed we appreciate the goodness of God and are more than ready to praise Him for it. God's providential care is over us at all times. Let us appreciate this fact and praise Him for it. "Oh, that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for his wonderful works to the children of men."

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Arrange a special programme covering completely the subject of the providence of God.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 10-22; xlv, 1-8; Ps. xlvi, 1-3; Isa. xliii, 1-7; Math. v, 10-12; John xiv, 1-3; I Pet. i, 1-9; v, 10, 11; Rev. vii, 9-17.

In the Hands of Our Father.

The firm persuasion that all things which concern us are completely, every moment, in the hands of our Father above, infinitely wise and merciful, that He disposes all these events in the best possible manner and that we shall one day bless Him for even His most distressing visitations—such a sublime persuasion will make the heart and the character sublime. It will enable us to assemble our interests together, our wishes, our prospects, our sorrows and the circumstances of the persons that are dear to us and present them in one devout offering to the best Father, the greatest Friend, and it will assure us of being in every scene of life the object of His kind, perpetual care.—John Foster.

Misunderstanding God.

We misunderstand each other—it would be strange if we did not often misunderstand the ways of God. The essential thing is that we should be at rest in heart in the remembrance that it is impossible that He should misunderstand us or judge us hastily or harshly. It is when our minds are most perturbed that we are inclined to quarrel with His dealings, and then (if we will but stop to consider) our opinion is not valuable. As one who waits for a cloudless day to estimate the genial warmth of the sun, we must wait for the clearing of our clouds of doubt before we imagine that we know the purpose of God's love.—Congregationalist.

He Cares For Us.

We are the portion the Lord takes out of the hand of His enemy and ours, and He cares for us as such. A love that is everlasting, a care that is likened to that which guards the pulpit of the eye, a fidelity of attachment to which the mother's love finds no parallel—these have been expended on us and are still in operation toward us. Can it be doubted, then, that He cares for us?—Dr. John Hall.

Faith.

In all the star dust of God's universe,
With the smiles and hopes and pain,
There is none forgot or neglected
Or left to struggle in vain.
He knoweth what's best
Thy soul's faith to test,
And sendeth thee sunshine and rain.
But trust Him still longer;
Thy faith will grow stronger;
Reward will follow the pain.

A lady in New Salem, New York State, recently received information from one of her friends in regard to the value of Ripans Tabules, where headache is caused from stomach troubles. She repeats the good news to her neighbors, and thus the fame of Ripans Tabules was spread about. She relates an enthusiastic story of what the Tabules have done for her. A kind friend, she says, first obtained a promise that she would try Ripans Tabules. She did so, and in a very short time the change for the better was so marked that her doctor asked her what was the cause of her improved condition. The Tabules were so effective in curing her of biliousness that she gave them to her husband and thinks it was due to them that his life was spared through the winter. She feels that she can not praise Ripans Tabules too highly. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief.

Conveniences In Country Homes

Upon a great ranch in Kansas is a house which is the realization of the ideal country home. It is a frame house, like the others in the county, but provided with every city convenience and luxury. It is heated by steam, with the warming coils in every room. It is lighted by gas manufactured on the premises. Hot and cold water are on tap on every floor, and there are bathrooms where the habitually clean person may take his daily scrub. The water is supplied from a tank upon a bluff back of the house, and the tank is supplied from a creek that flows through the ranch.

Instead of a dozen dirty, smoky, wasteful little fires, oftener no fire at all in the sleeping and living rooms, there is one great furnace under the mansion, and that makes the steam which is sent in pipes to diffuse summer warmth over the building. It is well enough to be toned up by cold when one is outdoors and in constant motion—there is nothing better—but the antiquated theory that it is good for mortals to freeze and shiver inside their homes was long since exploded.

Again, think what blissful content there is instead of carrying a dripping tallow candle or a loud smelling, heavy kerosene lamp with you every step you take you simply light the gas or, better yet, turn on the electric light. In the summer there are the sapphire sky, the crystal pure air, the glorious green of the earth, the bird song and sound of living things that no city home can have around it, though its owner possessed a million dollars.

You will probably say this ideal Kansas country home belongs to a millionaire. That is true enough, but any farmhouse of no more than five rooms may possess precisely the same conveniences.

WINDMILL FOR WATER SUPPLY.

Women are vitally interested in having things comfortable and convenient in their homes. Man does not care so much, for man without woman is a savage. If country wives, mothers and daughters would use their influence to have the conveniences of refined life in their homes and never let up till they got them, the well to do farm home would soon rank in this respect with the average city home.

The first thing of course with farm people is to get their land paid for. The next thing in decency is to provide a home that a daughter need not be ashamed of or a wife uncomfortable in. The more money a farmer spends upon his property at home the more valuable it becomes. Half a hog crop for one year would put a furnace under a farmer's house with hot air pipe connections all over it. Well to do farmers in Canada had such furnaces fifty years ago. A wheat or tobacco or corn or beef crop for one year would do the same with respect to water supply throughout the home. Great cisterns in the rain belt or a brook or a driven well and windmill would furnish the water, a few minutes pumping three times a week if there were no water pressure would supply perfectly all parts of the house.

A man who would build a house today without a bathroom is not civilized. A galvanized iron high cylinder tank may be so connected with pipes running through the fire box of the kitchen stove that it will be full of scalding water whenever there is fire in the stove. There will be then always water for kitchen and bathroom. A shining white porcelain bathtub can easily be put into a little closet next the kitchen and joined to the hot and cold water tanks by pipe and faucet. The hot water tank is made to fill itself with cold water automatically as fast as the hot is drawn off.

American city homes are the most comfortable and convenient in the world, more so than most of the palaces of kings. The American farmer's home oftentimes has no more of the conveniences of living than the log cabin of pioneer days had. It is a disgrace to his country.

CHAPTER XII.

AGAIN THE GODS MAKE CHANGE.

Now it would be tedious to tell how, with a handful of highly-trained fighting men, I charged and recharged, and finally broke up that horde of rebels which outnumbered us by 15 times. It must be remembered that they grew suddenly panic-stricken in finding that of all those who went in under the city walls by the mine on which they had set such great store none came back, and that the sounds of panic which had first broken out within the city soon gave way to cries of triumph and joy. And it must be carried in memory also that the wretched rebels were without training worthy of the name, were for the most part weaponed very vilely, and, seeing that their silly principles made each the equal of his neighbor, were practically without heads or leaders also.

So when the panic began it spread like a malignant murrain through all their ragged ranks, and there were none to rally the flying, none to direct those of more desperate bravery who stayed and fought.

My scheme of attack was simple. I hunted them without a halt. I and my fellows never stopped to play the defensive. We turned one flank, and charged through a center, and then we were harrying the other flank, and once more hacking our passage through the solid mass. And so, by constantly keeping them on the run, and in ignorance of whence would come the next attack, panic began to grow among them and ferment, till presently those in the outer lines commenced to scurry away towards the forests and the spoiled cornlands of the country, and those in the inner packs were only wishful for a chance to follow them.

It was no feat of arms, this breaking up of the rebel leaguer, and no practiced soldier would wish to claim it as such. It was simply taking advantage of the chances of the moment, and as such it was successful. Given an open battle on their own ground, these desperate rebels would have fought till none could stand, and by sheer ferocious numbers would have pulled down any trained troops that the city could have sent against them, whether they had advanced in phalanx or what formation you will. For it must be remembered they were far removed from cowards, being Atlantean all, just as were those within the city, and were, moreover, spurred to extraordinary savageness and desperation by the oppression under which they had groaned and the wrongs they had been forced to endure.

Still, as I say, the poor creatures were scattered, and the siege was raised from that moment; and it was plain to see that the rebellion might be made to end if no unreasonable harshness was used for its final suppression. Too great severity, though perhaps it may be justly their portion, only drives such malcontents to further desperations.

Now following up these fugitives to make sure that there was no halt in their retreat, and to send the lesson of panic thoroughly home to them, had led us a long distance from the city walls; and as we had fought all through the burning heat of the day and my men were heavily wearied, I decided to halt where we were for the night among some half-ruined houses which would make a temporary fortification. Fortunately a drove of little cloven-hoofed horses which had been scared by some of the rebels in their flight happened to blunder into our lines, and as we killed five before they were clear again, there was a soldier's supper for us, and quickly the fires were lit and cooking it.

Sentries paced the outskirts and made their cries to one another, and the wounded sat by the fires and dressed their hurts; and with the officers I talked over the engagements of the day, and the methods of each charge, and the other details of the fighting. It is the special perquisite of soldiers to dally over these matters with gusto, though they are entirely without interest for laymen.

The hour drew on for sleep, and snores went up from every side. It was clear that all my officers were wearied out, and only continued the talk through deference to their commander. Yet I had a feverish dread of being left alone again with my thoughts, and pressed them on with conversation remorselessly. But in the end they were saved the rudeness of dropping off into unconsciousness during my talk. A sentry came up and saluted. "My lord," he reported, "there is a woman come up from the city whom we have caught trying to come into the bivouac."

"How is she named?"

"She will not say."

"Has she business?"

"She will say none. She demands only to see my lord."

"Bring her here to the fire," I ordered, and then on second thoughts remembering that the woman, whoever she might be, had news likely enough for my private ear (or otherwise she would not have come to so uncouth a rendezvous), I said to the sentry: "Stay," and got up from the ground beside the fire, and went with him to the outer line.

"Where is she?" I asked.

"My comrades are holding her. She might be a wench belonging to these rebels, with designs to put a knife into my lord's heart, and then we sentries would suffer. The empress," he added, simply, "seems to set good store upon my lord at present, and we know the cleverness of her tormentors."

"Your thoughtfulness is frank," I said, and then he showed me the woman. She was muffled up in hood and cloak, but one who loved Nais as I loved could not mistake the form of Ylga, her twin and sister, because of mere swathings. So I told the sentries to release her without asking her for speech, and then led her out from the bivouac beyond earshot of their lines.

"It is something of the most pressing that has brought you out here, Ylga?"

"You know me, then? There must be something warmer than the ordinary between us two, Deucalion, if you could guess who walked beneath all these mufflings."

I let that pass. "But what's your errand, girl?"

"Aye," she said, bitterly, "there's my reward. All your concern's for the message, none for the carrier. Well, good my lord, you are husband to the dainty Phorenice no longer."

"This is news."

"And true enough, too. She will have no more of you, divorces you, spurns you, thrusts you from her, and, after the first splutter of wrath is done, then come pains and penalties."

"The empress can do no wrong. I will have you speak respectful words of the empress."

"Oh, be done with that old fable! It sickens me. The woman was mad for love of you, and now she's mad with jealousy. She knows that you gave Nais some of your priest's magic, and that she sleeps till you choose to come and claim her, even though the day be a century from this. And if you wish to know the method of her enlightenment, it is simple. There is another air-shaft next the one down which you did your cooing and billing, and that leads to another cell in which lay another prisoner. The wretch heard all that passed, and thought to buy enlargement by telling it.

"But his news came a trifle stale. It seems that with the pressure of the morning's ceremonies they forgot to bring him a ration, and when at last his gaoler did remember him, it was rather late, seeing that by then Phorenice had tied herself publicly to a husband, and poor Nais had doubtless eaten her green drug. However, the fool must needs try and barter his tale for what it would fetch; and, as was natural, had such a silly head chopped off for his pains; and after that your Phorenice behaved as you may guess. And now you may thank me, sir, for coming to warn you not to go back to Atlantis."

"But I shall go back. And if the empress chooses to cut my head also from its proper column, that is as the high gods will."

BRITISH LINES THREATENED.

Armored Trains Patrolling the Disturbed Districts.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—A press dispatch from Bloemfontein says that in order to safeguard returning refugees armored trains are patrolling the lines of communication passing through the temporarily disturbed districts. Telephonic communication with the blockhouses connecting Kimberley and Norvalspont has been completed, and the construction of the lines is being continued through the Orange River Colony and the Transvaal.

Small bands of Boers have lately been seen in the Hex mountains. They were dressed in khaki, and some of them wore British officers' uniforms.

The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener, with further details of the attack on the camp at Moodwill:

"I have received particulars from Kekewich in regard to the attack on his camp. A yeomanry patrol which was sent out before dawn met the enemy advancing. They gave warning, but it was too late to prevent the pickets being rushed and enabled the Boers to occupy a position with good cover, from which they poured in a heavy fire at an effective range, while at the same time there was an attack on both flanks. The attack was driven off after two hours' fighting. The enemy expended an enormous amount of ammunition."

The latest South African casualty list shows that the fighting in the attack on Colonel Kekewich's camp at Moedwill Sept. 29 put twenty-six British officers out of action. Four were killed outright or died of wounds, and tweaty-two were wounded. Colonel Kekewich was wounded severely, but is doing well.

"We learn on very high authority," says The Daily Chronicle this morning, "that a sudden and complete collapse of Boer resistance and the speedy termination of the war in South Africa are anticipated. The attacks on Fort Itala and Moedwill and the other recent engagements are regarded as the last desperate efforts of men who are wearied by the struggle and tired of being hunted. Therefore, beyond sending drafts to compensate for losses by casualties and disease, there is no intention or to dispatch further re-enforcements or to employ Indian troops, as rumored, for guarding the lines of communication."

The Release of Miss Stone.

Boston, Oct. 4.—The Rev. Judson Smith, foreign secretary of the American foreign missions, in behalf of his executive officers, prompted by numerous inquiries and criticisms, has issued the following official statement in connection with the abduction of Miss Stone: "The American board from the first has done and is still doing everything in its power to secure the release of Miss Ellen M. Stone from the hands of her captors in Turkey or Bulgaria at the earliest possible date. Miss Stone is an American citizen and rightfully looks to our government for protection and release. The American government took up the case instantly, has worked constantly to deliver Miss Stone and is still making every possible effort to this end. For obvious reasons the details of negotiations carried on by our government are not made public and cannot be made public for the present."

Massachusetts Democrats.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The Democrats in state convention yesterday nominated Josiah Quincy, for four years mayor of Boston, as the head of their ticket. The Hon. William S. McNary was chosen temporary chairman and Stephen M. Walsh the temporary secretary. Permanent organization was effected by the choice of Hon. Thomas J. Gargan of Boston as chairman.

Hungarian Elections Were Bloody.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—"It is estimated," says The Daily Mail's correspondent, "that twenty-four persons were killed and hundreds injured during the Hungarian election riots. In various places voters were coerced by threats of death or torture. At Udurassa a prominent politician, together with his wife and three sons, was murdered by his fanatical opponents."

An Arbor Day Suggestion.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 4.—In his proclamation for Arbor day, Oct. 27, Governor Durbin will recommend that trees be planted in honor of President McKinley and out of respect to his love for trees and his utterance a short time before his death with regard to their beauty. The plan has been taken up by the governors of several states.

King Edward's Illness.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Sir Francis Laking, King Edward's physician, went to Balmoral yesterday. His majesty is reported to be suffering from an attack of rheumatism, but he went for a drive during the afternoon.

BIG VERDICT FOR MARLEY.

WON DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST PLAINFIELD AND ELIZABETH COMPANY.

Jury Returned Last Evening With a Verdict of $3,600—Was Forcibly Ejected From Car.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, October 4—The case of Thoms Marley, of Plainfield, against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, was tried yesterday before Judge Van Syckle. The plaintiff sued the company for $20,000 damages received, it is alleged, by being forcibly ejected from one of the company's cars on October 19 last near Scotch Plains. After hearing the case, the jury returned last evening with a verdict of $3,600 for the plaintiff.

Mr. Marley is a horseshoer by trade. He claimed that he boarded a trolley car and paid ten cents, which was sufficient to carry him as far as Scotch Plains; that the conductor afterward came to him for a second fare, and he refusing to pay it, was forcibly ejected from the moving car, striking upon his knees in such a way that the injury which resulted confined him to his home for several days at first, then compelled him to go to the hospital and ultimately crippled him permanently.

The conductor of the car was Mr. Mathien, who was one of the witnesses. He claimed that Marley was under the influence of liquor at the time, and that after he refused to pay his fare he stopped the car and practically carried Marley off. A number of passengers who were on the car were called as witnesses, and they told their side of the case which seemed to favor the plaintiff.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED.

Picked up on Railroad Near Cranford This Morning With His Skull Crushed in.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, Oct. 4.—The body of an unknown man was found lying on the tracks of the New Jersey Central, 200 feet east of the Cranford station at 5 o'clock this morning. His skull was fractured.

He was seen about the Cranford station at midnight and said that he was going to relieve the engineer at the water tank, but he was not known by any of the men employed there.

The body is that of a man forty five years old, six feet tall, with black hair, brown moustache and gray eyes. It was attired in white undershirt, blue outing shirt, black coat and vest, corduroy trousers and heavy laced shoes. The body is now at Cole's undertaking parlors, at Plainfield, awaiting identification.

ANOTHER TERM.

Quite Likely That Assemblyman Hoagland Will Be Renominated.

An Assemblyman as well as a sheriff will be nominated at the coming Republican county convention of Somerset county. Assemblyman Hoagland is the present incumbent. He is serving his first term and by the custom of the party is entitled to a renomination. As yet no action has been taken by anyone to overthrow this custom, and it is likely that Mr. Hoagland will be renominated without opposition.

POLICEMEN WERE THE HOSTS.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF SUPERIOR OFFICERS PROTECTIVE ASS'N.

Held at Lorraine—Many Distinguished Guests Present at the Banquet Held.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 4.—The annual convention and banquet of the Superior Officers Protective Association of New Jersey, held at Lorraine yesterday afternoon and evening, was successful in every respect. After the transaction of the regular business the members, together with specially invited guests, numbering all told some 260 persons, gathered about the festive board at Bender's Hotel.

Benjamin Campbell, of the Elizabeth, presided at the banquet and made the opening remarks after the had sumptuously partaken of the bounteous repast. Governor Voorhees, who sat to the right of Mr. Campbell, responded to the toast "Our State." United States Senator John Kean made a patriotic little speech on "Our President." Congressman C. M. Fowler was set down for "Our Country," but at the last moment a telegram was received that he could not be present. James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator, of Cedar Brook Farm," was called upon to take the Congressman's place as a speaker. As is usually the case, Mr. Martine received great applause.

Among the other toasts were: "Union County," Judge Cross, of Elizabeth; "Our Police," Former Mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth; "The City of Elizabeth," Mayor Ryan; and "The Press," Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth. The Plainfield ers who sat about the table included City Judge William N Runyon, Councilmen James F. Buckle, Wm. Gloak, B I Tolles and Frank Randolph, Postmaster Bird, Former Sheriff William T. Kirk, James E Martine, Amos Andrews and Chief of Police P. S. Kiely.

Interspersing the after-dinner talks a company from New York furnished a laughable entertainment in the way of witty songs, humorous recitations and funny sketches. It was early this morning when the banquetters adjourned for their homes

COLUMBIA CATCHES RIVAL.

THIRD YACHT RACE FURNISHES ANOTHER CLOSE CONTEST.

Shamrock Led on First Stretch, But Yachts Changed Positions on the Run Home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, October 4—The prospects for the third international yacht race today are very good. The course is fifteen miles to windward and return.

A 11:06, the boats had started, with the Columbia in the lead. The wind was blowing sixteen knots an hour.

At 11:35, the Shamrock had overhauled the Columbia and was at least a minute ahead of the American boat.

At 11:55, the Shamrock was still a few lengths ahead and was half way to the outer mark.

At 12:46, the Shamrock led by thirty seconds and both yachts were about to turn the stake. The wind was blowing eight knots an hour.

At 12:49, the Shamrock was turning the stake and was forty-five seconds ahead of the Columbia.

At 1:28, Lipton's boat was still holding the lead and the breeze was falling off. The yachts were not making fast time.

At 1:50, the Columbia had overtaken the Shamrock and was in the lead.

The Commissioners of Appeal will sit in the Council Chamber November 26 for the purpose of listening to all remonstrances against assessments made. The last day for paying the tax bills is December 20 and thereafter they become delinquent. Should it become necessary to collect the amounts due by legal process costs will be imposed as well as ten per cent. as interest from the date of delinquency.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The members of Watchung Council, of the Knights of Columbus, are much interested in a communication of Bishop Jannssen, of Belleville, which has just been made public, relating to his attitude in regard to the Knights. Some weeks ago, the story was published broadcast that the bishop had forbidden the formation of councils of this order within his diocese on the ground that it is a secret society. In truth the bishop did forbid the formation of new organizations, but his real reason for doing so was "since various Catholic organizations were established in the diocese, it would be a detriment to the Catholic cause to split the Catholic forces still more." The Episcopal mandate was directed to all orders in general.

FAKE TUNERS.

Have Used Lauter & Company's Name to Gain Entrance to Homes.

The S. D. Lauter & Company, Newark piano dealers, are warning their customers and the public generally, in their advertisements in the newspapers and otherwise, against allowing strangers to tune their pianos in their name.

There are several instances where persons have gained entrance into and robbed homes by simply saying that Lauter & Company sent them to tune the instrument in their house. The tuners in their employ are all provided with cards certifying that fact and all others should be denied admission to homes.

LITTLE BUSINESS DONE AT COUNCIL MEETING.

Borough Fathers Swiftly Dispatched What Business There Was to be Transacted.

USUAL REPORTS RECEIVED,

WEST END HOSE COMPANY WILL HAVE A NEW HOSE WACON.

Council Was Late in Meeting as All the Members But One Attended the Republican Primary—The Reports.

It was long after the regular hour when the Borough Council convened its monthly session last evening. The sole Democratic member, S. S. Swackhamer, was on hand bright and early, but, inasmuch as he did not constitute a quorum, he waited until the adjournment of the Republican primary, which was held farther up the thoroughfare, in Saengerbund Hall. The majority of the members of the Councilmanic body were largely interested in the outcome of the primary, and hence a slight delay was caused in the opening of the meeting of the borough fathers, at which, after all, nothing of material importance transpired.

When the Mayor and Council did meet the business was swiftly dispatched. Frank Rowley, the borough clerk, was absent and Collector George Brown was chosen clerk pro tem. In his capacity as treasurer Mr. Brown presented his report for the month of September, which was duly approved. Summarized the receipts in his report were as follows: Taxes and interest, $1,773 26; Board of Health, $22 13; special school, $870 91; rent of property sold for taxes, $17; Frank Rowley, clerk, macadamizing, $85; Frank Rowley, clerk, fines, $9; bills payable, note, $65; balance on hand September 1, $295 63. Total receipts, $9,572 93; disbursements, $6 923 94. Cash on hand October 1, $2,648 99.

Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., chairman of the committee on streets, presented his report for the month of September, and it likewise was speedily approved. The expenses in this department of municipal work for the month just closed were as follows: Labor on streets, $346.45; street sprinkler, $76 88; crushed stone, J. H. Wilson & Company, $711.13; water for storm sewer work, $13; A. M. Griffen, packing for storm sewer, $11.27; F. J. Hubbard, engineer, $34 50 and storm sewer $104.50. Total expense, $1 297.73

A communication was received from the fire department stating that Winfield Conover had been elected a member of Warren Engine Company, and that Frank Kesselring having served seven years as a member of the same company is entitled to exemption papers. The communication received favorable action.

The West End Hose Company in a communication asked permission to place a new hose wagon in its headquarters to be used in place of the two-wheel wagon now doing service. The petition was granted, and shortly afterwards the Council adjourned.

PIANO FELL.

Smashed the Flagstones and Put the Instrument Out of Business in Short Order.

While a number of workmen in the the employ of a local expressman were raising an upright piano, preparatory to putting into the apartments of Mrs. Schooley, in the Jackson building, yesterday afternoon, the rope, holding the block and tackle, parted.

The instrument was even with with a window on the second story at the time and dropped to the pavement with a crash. It was practically ruined by the fall but was taken to an expert for his opinion in regard to repairs. The flagstones on which the piano landed were completely shattered.

NO CLUE TO RAILROAD VICTIM.

SAID HE WAS TO WORK AT WATER TANK, BUT IT IS DENIED.

Lunch Box Was Found Near Body, So It is Supposed He Had Been Working Near By.

The body of an unknown man found on the tracks of the New Jersey Central at Cranford, early yesterday morning, still lies at Cole's undertaking establishment awaiting identification. A large number of persons have viewed the remains, but so far none have recognized the features.

The man was seen about the Cranford station Thursday night and appeared to be in an inebriated condition. He declared he was to relieve the engineer at the railroad tank house at midnight, but the officials say he was not known or employed about the place. He left the station shortly after 12 o'clock and nothing was seen of him afterward until his body was found at 5 o'clock.

Undertaker Cole is confident the man was employed somewhere along the railroad between this city and Elizabeth, as a small lunch box was found near the body. The remains will be kept until there is no possible chance of their being recognized.

FOR LOWERING CASKETS.

New Device Which Has Just Been Introduced at Hillside Cemetery.

The difficulty which has always attended the lowering of caskets into graves will in the future be eliminated at the Hillside cemetery by a newly patented device which is used for the purpose. By the old method, inexperienced pall bearers would often let the holding bands slide through their hands with a rapidity which often removed sundry portions of cuticle from the palms. Then again, one end of the casket would descend much faster than the other with the result that it would rest unevenly.

With the new device, the pallbearers' responsibility ends by their placing the casket in a sort of frame which rests by the grave. Running across the frame are several ribbons which are held by a clutch. A turn of a small catch and the ribbons are released simultaneously, allowing the casket to descend evenly at all points and as slowly as the operator may wish. The idea is a new one and will no doubt be taken up by the officials of the other local burying grounds.

Directions For Drivers.

To prevent any confusion among the equipages at the Fisk-Waring wedding in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Tuesday evening, the following directions are announced by Frank Hedden, who will be in charge.

Carriages containing guests from out of town will pass south from La Grande avenue to the Crescent avenue entrance of the church, leaving passengers and turn, forming in line on the west side of Crescent avenue facing north.

The church doors will open at 7:30 o'clock. Patrick S. Kiely,
5 3 Chief of Police.

Trying To Save Horse.

A valuable horse belonging to Lawrence Meyers, of East Front street, injured itself a few nights ago and it is feared the animal will die. It has been placed in a sling and every effort is being made to save its life.

Curtis Case Up Yesterday.

The witnesses in the case of David Curtis were summoned before the Grand Jury at Elizabeth yesterday.

BOROUGH DELEGATES TO SUPPORT N. B. SMALLEY

Five Elected From Borough and Township to Republican County Convention.

THERE WAS ONLY ONE HITCH

CONTEST OVER THE DELEGATE CHOSEN FROM TOWNSHIP.

Some of the Township Republicans Had Endorsed Henry Kilner as Delegate, But John Y. Barrett was Chosen.

A fair representation of borough Republicans gathered in Saengerbund Hall, last evening, and participated in the party primary, which had been called by the Republican committee of Somerset county. With the exception of the election of a delegate to represent the township, which is merged with the borough in primary elections, there was no hitch in the proceedings. The sentiment was decidedly in favor of Mayor N. B. Smalley as the nominee for sheriff and the delegates will support him in the county convention.

The object of the meeting was to elect four delegates from the borough and one from the township to the county convention, which meets in Somerville Monday. Senator Charles A. Reed, who is a member of the county committee, called the meeting to order, and in due time Charles Place was elected chairman and James K. Arnold secretary. There being no opposition B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Thomas Doud, John G. McLaughlin and William C. Smith were selected as the delegates from the borough, the secretary of the meeting casting one ballot.

Matters did not move so smoothly when it came to electing a delegate to represent the township. It appears that all is not harmony in the ranks of the party in the township. Twenty-five Republican voters had assembled Thursday evening and selected Henry Kilner as their candidate for delegate. Mr. Kilner was placed in nomination last evening as was also J. Y. Barrett, the latter being identified as a political friend of Senator Reed.

It was necessary to take a ballot to decide upon a delegate and Dr. J. H. Buchanan and George F. Brown were appointed tellers for the purpose. While this was being proceeded with, Justice George Schmidt, of the township, arose and explained the details of the meeting held Thursday evening and added that Mr. Kilner was instructed to be friendly to the interests of Senator Reed.

When the vote was announced it was found that it was 42 for Mr. Barrett and 19 for Henry Kilner, the ballots cast for the latter being principally those of residents of the township. The friends of Mr. Kilner were not to disposed to take the result agreeably, but the meeting adjourned without any unpleasantness, after the delegates were empowered to choose alternates.

A Fierce Stranger.

Jerry Foss, the Park avenue sea food dealer, has on exhibition at his store, a fierce looking blue nosed shark, considered by ocean fisherman to be the most dangerous of its kind infesting the waters along the Jersey coast. It was captured Thursday morning off Asbury Park by the crew of the smack, "Three Brothers" of which Barney Foss, a brother to Jerry Foss, is captain. The shark attracts a great deal of attention.

READY FOR FALL ACTIVITY.

MEETING OF YOUNG WOMEN'S MISSION BAND OF TRINITY CHURCH.

Committees Made Interesting Reports and Letters Read From the Mission Field.

The Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, held its first fall meeting yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of the church. The president, Miss Lillian A. Force, presided, and there was a gratifying attendance of the members, who expressed pleasure in taking up the work of the band for the fall and winter.

Every committee made a report of work done or plans for the future. The domestic mission committee reported that it was preparing a Christmas box to be sent to Holland, Michigan, and the foreign mission committee reported that twenty-nine petticoats and aprons were made and sent to India. This was extra work on the part of the committee.

It was reported by the entertainment committee that preparations are being made to give an entertainment about the middle of November. The emergency committee reported that a cake sale would be held at the grocery of J. A. Smith & Bro., Saturday, October 12, and it was hoped that the patronage would be liberal.

After the reading of the reports, a most interesting letter concerning the mountain whites of Kentucky was read by Mrs. F. S. Cutter. This told of the work being accomplished by Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Smith, the band's missionaries in that part of the south.

Following the reading of the letter, Mrs. A. E. Leggett gave a talk about the mountain whites. She related several personal experiences showing the character of the people and their manner of living. She said that despite their total ignorance they seemed to have an inate refinement that is encouraging to the missionaries. She said that as a rule their homes consisted of one room, and here eleven people would live. She reported progress in the work of carrying the Gospel to these people and said that the people appreciated what is being done for them.

The members of the band are much encouraged with the prospects for a successful fall and winter season and all are enthusiastic in carrying out the plans proposed.

NEW PASTOR.

Though Lacking a Church, The Swedish Evangelical Congregation Engages an Active Church Worker.

The congregation of the Swedish Evangelical church, which has been without a pastor for some time, has secured Rev. O. G. Norseen for the pastorate. The congregation owns a plot of ground but no building and until matters can be arranged for its erection, meetings will be held Sunday evenings in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue and Thursday evenings in the Congregational church.

Rev. Mr. Norseen is a young man but has had considerable experience in religious work. He was pastor of a church in Perth Amboy until two years ago when he resigned to enter Carlton College, at Northfield, Minn. While pursuing his studies he was also pastor of a congregation and continued his church work.

F. L. MORSE RESIGNED.

His Former Position as Assistant Superintendent of New Jersey Central Has Since Been Abolished.

Frank L. Morse, of 802 West Front street, who has been assistant superintendent of the New Jersey Central for some time past, has resigned his position, the same taking effect October 1. The office held by Mr. Morse has been abolished by the company and there has been a re-arrangement of the work.

Mr. Morse and his wife, together with his father-in-law, David H. Hamlin, will soon return to their former home in Minneapolis, where Mr. Morse expects to accept a position with one of the big western roads. NOT SETTLED.

Not True That Albert Moffett and the Trolley Company Came to Terms.

The case of Albert Moffett, of Rahway, against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company has not been settled as reported. The case, it is expected, will be called next Tuesday for trial. Craig A. Marsh represents the plaintiff.

Mrs. Simeon Lambert, of Westfield, who sustained injuries in the same trolley accident as Mr. Moffett, has settled with the company. It is understood on good authority that she received $4,200.

FIGHTING TO BREAK MRS. GISSER'S WILL.

Some Fine Points in Law Raised by Judge Schenck in Hearing of Yesterday.

THERE WAS ANOTHER WILL.

BUT ALL ATTEMPTR TO FIND IT HAVE BEEN UNAVAILING.

If Mrs. Gisser Lacked Mental Capacity to Make Second Will, Did She Have Capacity to Destory First—Condition to be Investigated.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 5—In the Orphans' Court, yesterday morning, before Judge Schenck, some very interesting points of law were brought up in the will case of the late Mrs. Charlotte A. A. Gisser, who committed suicide by shooting herself at North Plainfield.

When the will was offered for probate to Surrogate Spencer, Mrs. Octavia Myers, a step-daughter of the deceased, through counsel, filed a caveat against it. When the matter came in court, the lawyer, who is the executor of the estate, James P. Powers, of Elizabeth, asked that the citation be dismissed on the ground that the caveator had no interest, not being a beneficiary or a blood relation. W. S. Angleman, of Plainfield, in support of the caveat, said he believed there was a former will in which his client was a beneficiary, and the court gave him until yesterday to produce the same.

Mr. Angleman appealed and presented a petition, stating that Mrs. Gisser's property all came from the father of Mrs. Myers; that they could not obtain the former will, not having access to the papers of the deceased woman. He stated that he knew such a will was in existence in favor of the step-daughter.

W. V. Steele, of this place, who appeared for the executor, said a diligent search had been made and the prior will was not to be found among the effects of Mrs. Gisser. Mr. Powers had informed him, that, at the time the last will was written, a few weeks before her decease, he had given her the former will, referred to by the caveator. What became of it he does not know. Mr. Steele then suggested that inasmuch as the first will cannot be produced and the caveator has no interest under the intestate laws and none in the present will that the citation be dismissed.

Judge Schenck then brought up a fine point when he asked: "If it were shown that at the time Mrs. Gisser made the last will she was not possessed of testamentary capacity, as required by law, would she not lack the testamentary capacity to destroy the former will?"

Mr. Angelman said if such were the case one act was as unjustifiable as the other. If the law decided that she lacked mental capacity to make, it ought to to destroy.

It is probable now that Mrs. Gisser's mental condition, when she made the contested will, will next be investigated, as Judge Schenck postponed proceedings until October 25.

The last will provides that, after all debts are paid, the remainder be divided among Mrs. Gisser's brother's children, Charles A., Arthur and Laura C. Nichols, who, it is stated, are at present in South America. The latter is willed a gold watch and opera chain.

SENTENCED HERSELF.

Mrs. Bridget Coleman Told What She Thought Her Fine Should Be.

Mrs. Bridget Coleman enjoyed the privilege in the city court this morning of pronouncing sentence upon herself. When asked to plead to a charge of drunkenness preferred by Patrolman Sefton, she began to implore the court not to send her to jail but impose a small fine. City Judge Runyon asked her now much she thought she had ought to pay, to which she replied $5 was plenty enough. That amount was imposed and paid.

CRANE BROKE.

Big Crash Followed, But No One Was Near Enough to Be Injured.

A serious accident was narrowly averted yesterday afternoon in the foundry at the Pond Machine Tool Works when one of the big cranes broke.

James McKeon, an assistant in the foundry, was operating the crane and he allowed it to ascend too great a distance. The result was the chains broke and the crane fell a considerable distance. It was carrying a ladle at the time, and when it fell the noise was deafening. Fortunately no one was beneath or near the crane when it descended else a serious accident might have occurred.

Members of Bridal Party Were Entertained By Mrs. Rowland Cox Last Evening.

The first of a series of social affairs attendant upon the approaching marriage of Miss Louise Green Fisk to Lewis Edmond Waring, which takes place next week Tuesday evening in the Crescent Avenue church, was a dinner given last evening by Mrs. Rowland Cox, of 310 West Seventh street, to the bridal party. It was a delightful affair throughout and the beautiful home was made even more attractive by the presence of such an assemblage of young people. The decorations were exquisite and consisted almost entirely of Victoria roses. They also adorned the table in the dining room.

There were twenty-two guests present, including all the members of the bridal party but five. Those who could not be present were Edward Waring, Augustus R. Fisk, Charles W. Fisk, of this city; Cheney Wells, of Southbridge, Mass., and Miss Helen Talmage, of Netherwood.

Those who were present are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Rowland Cox, Miss Louise Green Fisk, Miss Fanny C. Cox, Miss Edith Fisk, Miss Evelyn Fisk, Miss Florence Waring, Miss Helen Bushnell, of this city; Miss Margaretta Wood, of Pittsburg, Pa.; Miss Esther Waterman, of Southport, Conn.; Miss Mabel Judson, of Brooklyn; Lewis Edmond Waring, Orville G. Waring, Richard Warding, R. M. Shepard, Henry Lowe, L. H. VanBuren, Archibald Cox and Dr. Rowland Cox, of this city; Edward Sawyer and Raymond Lefferts, of New York.

Dr. Rowland Cox and Miss Mabel Judson are not members of the bridal party, but were present as guests.

SCORNED BECAUSE HE WAS ONCE A SLAVE.

Thus John Butler Explained the Troubles Between Himself and His Family.

WIFE'S STORY DIFFERENT.

ACCORDING TO HER STORY BUTLER WAS THE AGGRESSOR.

His Step Children, He Claimed, Regarded Him With Scorn—Would Care for His Wife, But Didn't Want the Rest—Sentence Suspended.

From the plaintive tale told by Eliza Jane Butler in the City Court this morning, it is evident that her lord, and some times master, John Butler, has not been acting the part of a dutiful and loving husband. Whenever it suited his fancy, which appears to have been quite often, John would tap Eliza a few playful slaps on the face, pull her out of bed in the small hours of the morning, chase her outdoors with nothing to protect her from the frosty atmosphere, and perform other facetious acts to say nothing of the names which he addressed to her in the meantime. This according to Eliza, has been the nightly routine at the Butler domicile for the past year and a half.

John was called upon by City Judge Runyon this morning to explain his kittenish conduct and to the surprise of the court he claimed it was class prejudice. His wife, he said, had already had two ventures in the matrimonial line before she met him, both of his predecessors being northern men while he was a southern darky. His step children, of whom there were several, on this account regarded him with scorn and made no attempt to conceal it.

"You see, Judge," said John, "my wife's a Jersey woman and I'm a southern gentleman, and when I married her I didn't bargain to take the whole family. Her children call me a southern 'coon' because during the rebellion I was made a contraband of war.

"I think a great deal of Ma (meaning Mrs. Butler who owned up to being half his age) an' I'll take keer of her but I want no 'he-heein' from the rest of the tribe. I am at your mercy an' if you was to give me a ten dollar fine, it would take me six months to pay it. Just let me take care of 'Liza and make the rest stay away. Tell the deacons, that's what I call the policemen, to look after the Boulevard an' leave me an' my house alone an' I'll be all right."

Eliza was backed up by her daughter in saying that John's "takin' keer" of her consisted of giving her twenty cents wherever he felt like it and once in an age bringing home enough meat for supper. The daughter added that her stepfather did his funny acts only when drunk, plotting against them while he was sober. In the next breath she said he was drunk all the time, and it took some figuring on the part of the court to find out when he did his plotting.

Taking all things into consideration the court thought John was acting a little contrary and placed a fine of $10 over his head, which is to be imposed the next time the "deacons" arrest him.

TEA TABLE TALK

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A somewhat interesting but novel sight was witnessed on West Front street a few days ago, when a young woman, dressed in elegant fashion, was seen walking along the street carrying a small maltese kitten on her shoulder. The kitten had a fancy colored ribbon tied about its neck and no doubt was a great pet. The sight was one that attracted the attention of many persons.

* * * * * * *

"It is well for Seymour," said a prominent Republican politician in this city yesterday, "that Jim Martine made that speech on 'Our Country' at the banquet instead of at the State Democratic convention." The speaker had reference to Mr. Martine's address, or rather after-dinner talk, delivered at the Superior Officers Protective Association banquet, which took place at Lorraine Thursday evening. "I tell you," continued the admirer of the "Farmer Orator," "Martine caught the crowd and he made the speech of the evening. So wrought up was Frank Bergen that he jumped to his feet and proposed three cheers for the popular Union county Democrat. Governor Voorhees and Senator Kean helped to give Farmer Jim a send off, and when the speech was finished he got a long applause. Later in the evening Frank Bergen, while making an address, said that if the Democrats didn't hurry up and reward Martine the Republicans would see that he got something worth having. The great feature of it all was that Martine was totally unprepared to make the address. Congressman Fowler was slated to answer the toast, but he did not appear and the chairman called on the Plainfielder, who certainly sized up to requirements. I tell you it was great."

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

The greatest artistic success of the season, if success be measured by the standards of the trained critics of the metropolitan press, is that achieved by the veteran actor, J. H. Stoddart in the exquisite production of "The Bonnie Brier Bush" presented a week ago at the Theatre Republic, in Forty-second street, near Broadway, New York city. James MacArthur and Augustus Thomas have made a dainty, sweet and wholesome play out of the charming stories of Rev. Dr. Watson, and in the role of Lachlan Campbell they have given the Veteran Stoddart a character as tremendous and as effective in its way as King Lear. Mr. Stoddart is supported by a fine company including Reuben Fax, John Jennings, Gertrude Bennett, Irma LaPierre and Marion Abbott.

This road is still fairly filled with fugitives and wounded Venezuelans from the fighting of Sept. 14 and Sept. 15, returning as best they may to Maracaibo. Davila's column left Sinamaica yesterday morning.

"Counting the Colombian Liberals at Treinta, thirty miles from La Hacha; the Sanchez expedition and the 800 reenforcements due to leave Maracaibo Oct. 1, the Venezuelans and Colombian Liberals number 5,000 men in Guajira.

"Venezuela seems determined, if possible, to retrieve her fallen fortunes at Guajira. If she fails in this present endeavor, it is generally believed even among army officers that the Colombian government forces, allied Guajira Indians and Venezuelan revolutionists opposed to President Castro will unite and march on Maracaibo, with good chances of capturing the place. Such action would probably also mean the capture of San Carlos fort and the liberation of the Venezuelan political prisoners there, including General Hernandez, or 'El Mocho.'

"The most serious feature of the Guajira campaign today is the attitude of the Guajira Indians. When the Venezuelans first entered the peninsula, they robbed the Indians of their cattle and generally maltreated them. The Indians are now retaliating, cruelly mutilating and murdering many of the numerous fugitives who have been straggling since the defeat over the waterless, burning flat peninsula in an effort to reach their lines or the coast.

"General Davila's first fight at Curugoa was an absolute rout. Five Venezuelan battalions of 400 men each were engaged, and the Colombians are estimated at the same number. It is now known that General Echeverria was killed on the battlefield and not shot by the Colombians. The battalion called the "Sacred battalion," composed of gentlemen volunteers mounted, was the first to break and retreat before the Colombians. After General Echeverria was killed General Davila, Clodomiro Castillo and Ermilo Castro, a brother of President Castro, fled the field. Another battalion then broke. The three remaining battalions kept up the fighting after the flight of the higher officers until routed. About 600 were killed on the Venezuelan side, including thirty minor officers. All the flags of the Venezuelans were lost, as well as General Davila's cannon, variously reported at from five to fifteen. Such as were not captured by the Colombians were thrown into the river by the retreating Venezuelans.

"The Indians ambushed General Davila's retreating vanguard, composed of 200 men, and annihilated it.

"The general plan of campaign, so far as it can be gathered from the latest Maracaibo messages, seems to be that about 800 re-enforcements left there Oct. 1 to join the Sanchez expedition at Sinamaica.

"Vague, unverifiable but persistent reports are current here and have been current for four days to the effect that President Castro's Venezuelan forces at Tachira and in the vicinity of San Cristobal suffered defeat at the hands of General Rangel Garbiras and his Colombian Conservative supporters Sept. 25 and 26.

"According to yet other reports, General Uribe-Uribe was killed. At present it is impossible to obtain satisfactory confirmation or refutation of these rumors."

Secretary Long's Daughter Dead.

HINGHAM, Mass., Oct. 5.—A beautiful life went out, bringing sorrow to the household of Secretary John D. Long, in the death last night of Helen, his second daughter. The end came almost sooner than expected, although when the secretary was summoned home from Washington earlier in the week it was known that his daughter's condition was critical. Miss Long died of pulmonary trouble, which had its inception after close attention to the social duties during Secretary Long's first term in the cabinet. Mrs. Long's health had failed, and it was necessary that Miss Helen should take her place. The daughter's health also failed, and she went to Colorado Springs in November, 1898. Recently her physicians recommended a return to her home, and two weeks ago she started eastward. The homecoming did not bring the hoped for improvement. She was the younger daughter by Mr. Long's first wife and was born in Hingham June 16, 1875.

Big Blaze In Tampa, Fla.

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 5.—Twenty buildings in the heart of West Tampa were burned, with a property loss of $200,000. The fire was discovered in the large cigar factory of O'Halloran & Co., and as the water supply in West Tampa was inadequate the department from Tampa could not check the flames. The fire spread from the factory in both directions and then crossed the street, consuming everything in its wake until it practically burned itself out. The greatest excitement exists on account of the almost certainty that the fire is of an incendiary origin.

THE CUP STAYS HERE

Again the Columbia Wins In "Three Straight."

THE FINAL RACE WAS VERY CLOSE.

Sir Thomas Lipton Takes His Defeat With Good Grace and Says It Was a Very Fair Contest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Columbia made it "three straight," and the America's cup stays here. Yesterday's race was a gallant struggle over a run and a beat in a wind of about ten knots. The Columbia had an actual lead of fifteen seconds at the start, though both boats failed to cross within the handicap time. The Shamrock passed her in the run and was forty-nine seconds ahead at the outer mark. The Irish boat led all the way home on the beat, but not by enough to insure victory. The finish was very close. The Shamrock crossed the line at 3:35:38 o'clock, official time. The Columbia crossed at 3:35:40 o'clock, official time.

The Columbia had an allowance of forty-three seconds and was well within it.

For the second time she has now successfully foiled the attempt of the Irish knight to wrest from our possession the cup that means the yachting supremacy of the world. And plucky Sir Thomas Lipton, standing on the bridge of the Erin, led his guests in three hearty hurrahs for the successful defender. "She is the better boat," he said, "and she deserves to be cheered."

The series of races just closed will always be memorable as the closest ever sailed for the cup, and Sir Thomas, although defeated, will go home with the satisfaction of knowing that his golden yacht is the ablest foreign boat that ever crossed the western ocean. During both series of races not an untoward incident has occurred, and Sir Thomas will return to England by far the most popular of all the foreigners who have challenged for the America's trophy.

Yesterday's race on paper was the closest of the series, but because of the fukiness of the wind on the beat home as a contest of the relative merits of the yachts it is not to be compared with the magnificent, truly run and royally fought battles of Saturday and Thursday. The conditions of the race at the start were very similar to those of the previous day. The wind was strong and from the shore, embroidering the sea with foam, but piling up no swell, ideal conditions for the challenger.

The racers were sent away before the wind, each carrying a penalty for crossing the line after the handicap gun. No official record is kept of the time after that gun is fired, but the experts with stop watches estimated Columbia's handicap at fifteen seconds and Shamrock's at thirty seconds. The contest of the yachts fleeing before the following wind was picturesque, but not exciting. The big racers, like gulls with outstretched pinions, had every inch of canvas spread and their light sails, including bulging spinnakers and balloon jib topsails. Their crews were gathered aft to keep the heads of the boats up, and thereafter until the outer mark was reached it was merely a question of holding on to all the canvas and letting the wind do the rest.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Columbia beat the Shamrock before the wind last Saturday, the challenger gained slowly but steadily all the way out and rounded forty-nine seconds before the defender, having actually gained one minute and four seconds. Immediately after the yachts turned their noses into the wind for the beat home the breeze moderated and turned fluky. The skippers split tacks, each searching for wind, with the result that first one would get a lift and then the other.

At one time Columbia seemed a mile ahead when a sudden cant of the wind allowed the Shamrock to point nearer the mark, and a mile from home the challenger appeared to be leading by fully half a mile. The talent began to feel nervous, but as the yachts approached the finish the Yankee skipper by some miraculous legerdemain shoved his boat into the light air like a phantom ship, and 100 yards from home the two racers were almost on even terms.

It was a pretty sight and one seldom witnessed when they crossed rail to rail, the white yacht's bowsprit just lapping the golden boat's mast. The usual pandemonium that attends the final Yankee victory in a cup contest followed. Whistles, sirens, bells, bands and cheers united in a grand chorus of jubilation, and J. P. Morgan's steam yacht Corsair added to the terrific din by firing a national salute of twenty-one guns.

After the Columbia had hauled down her sails and set her victory flag the excursion boats crowded alongside to cheer the Yankee sailors and the winning skipper. Nor did they forget either Lipton or his gallant craft. In turn the crowded steamers ran alongside the Shamrock and Erin, and the vanquished received almost as much honor as the victor. And thus, with felicitations all around, the twelfth series of races for the old cup which the schooner America brought over fifty years ago ended with the best of feeling.

While taking his defeat gamely, Sir Thomas Lipton made no attempt to conceal the honest disappointment when he talked about the race last night on the Erin. "I am very disappointed," he said. "I can't hide that. I thought within fifteen minutes of the finish that we had won. I was sure as my life that we had won. When I looked around, the situation had changed, and we had lost. It was a hard blow to be so near winning and then to lose. I should like to have got one race, just by way of consolation. It is a very hard thing to be beaten by a breath, by a few beats of the pulse. It has been a severe strain on me. I have worked so hard for many months now, and I am glad it is over. To have won would have been a joy greater than today's disappointment. Columbia's win today was fair and square and honorable. There is nothing to protest, if I wanted to protest. In fact I have a feeling in my heart that if there had been any error in judgment at all it would have been in my favor. If there had been any possibility of choice in the matter, I believe the New York Yacht club would have given me the race. Sometimes a man may have the better boat, but even having it must have a wee bit of luck to win. I am very grieved indeed, very grieved, and," he added, "I should like to have won one race."

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Multiplied Evidences of Great and Stable Business Activity.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Trade channels are remarkably free from obstruction, although the movement of goods at some points is checked by insufficient transporting facilities. This is attributed to the unusually heavy shipments, which are shown more definitely by railway earnings in September, 9.2 per cent larger than last year and 16.7 per cent above those of 1899. Payments through the clearing house at this city for the week exceeded the same week in 1900 by 38.2 per cent and 1899 by 27 per cent, while at leading cities outside New York the gains were 20.7 and 12.4 per cent respectively.

Nothing new has developed in regard to the iron and steel situation, and with mills crowded in their efforts to overtake consumptive demand there is little prospect of any material change in the market for some time.

Steadiness is still the feature in textile markets. Sellers are not making any concessions in prices, and buyers do not force matters. There was a tendency to hold back the placing of new business, particularly in the cotton goods division. This was attributed to expectation of changes in the price of raw material.

Staple products have declined moderately, as a rule, with the exception of cotton and pork products. The variation was widest in corn, as might be expected, since that cereal was inflated much more than any other commodity. Exports have increased, but are still small, for the week only 843,374 bushels going out from Atlantic ports against 2,144,610 bushels last year and 2,992,232 in 1899. Wheat was also easier, partially because of conflicting estimates of foreign crops and needs, while exports from the United States were smaller than in the preceding week, especially as to flour shipments.

Failures during nine months of 1901 were 8,144 against 7,895 in 1900, but the small increase in number was more than offset by the decrease in amount of liabilities from $133,234,988 last year to $97,856,416 in 1901. Considering the many distressing events, strikes, drought, etc., occurring this year, indisputable testimony to the solid foundation of business is furnished by these statistics, showing a decrease of about 20 per cent in amount of bankruptcies as compared with 1900.

Last Grand Circuit Race.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 5.—The grand circuit races closed here yesterday, and for the first time in many years no sensational records were hung up. The programme for the week was the most attractive ever presented, but the weather cut the attendance down. Yesterday there was a bleak, raw wind, but the full programme of events was carried out, and those who attended were well entertained. No sensational time was made, but the finishes in all the heats were close and exciting.

Embassador White Arrives.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Andrew D. White, embassador of the United States to Germany, was a passenger on the Hamburg-American line steamship Auguste Victoria, which arrived in port last night from Hamburg, Southampton and Cherbourg. Also on board the Auguste Victoria comes Mme. Sembrich, the grand opera soprano.

Grave Charges Against Strikers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Cutting of telephone wires by the striking linemen and assaults on nonunion workmen by the strikers' pickets are charged in a statement issued by General Manager Hibbards of the Chicago Telephone company, and warrants for the arrest of two strikers on a charge of assault have been sworn out.

WILL CALL SAMPSON

A Difference Over the "Dear Schley" Letter the Reason.

HODGSON THE DAY'S STAR WITNESS.

Lieutenant Commander of Brooklyn Relates the Famous "Loop" Incident and Schley's Forcible Language to Captain Cook.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—In the Schley court yesterday afternoon the question as to whether the word in the "Dear Schley" letter should be "Santiago" or "Cienfuegos" again came up on a statement by Captain Lemly, who said he would continue to hold to the Santiago version.

Mr. Rayner then said if this was the case he would be compelled to summon Rear Admiral Sampson, the author of the dispatch, as a witness.

The testimony at the morning session of the Schley court of inquiry was not exciting. Lieutenant Dyson went into details regarding the supply of coal on the ships of the flying squadron at the time of the retrograde movement to Key West.

Commander Raymond P. Rodgers, among other things, testified that the Massachusetts and other vessels obeyed signals from the Brooklyn when the Cristobal Colon was bombarded.

Lieutenant Commander Hodgson, navigator of the Brooklyn, testified that when the famous "loop" was made at Santiago Commodore Schley replied to the protests of Captain Cook, "Damn the Texas; let her take care of herself." He thought the Texas was 250 or 300 yards away from the Brooklyn.

Commander Hodgson also told of the interlineation in the Brooklyn's log, when the word "port" was substituted for "starboard" in describing the turn of that vessel. He thought the change had been made the next day. He said it was not correct to say that the helm was put to port in order to bring the starboard battery to bear, the real reason for it being to bring the vessel around as quickly as possible to head off the Spanish ships. Still he thought she had made the longest turn.

The court adjourned at ten minutes to 4, with Commander Hodgson still under examination by Captain Lemly.

THE SCHLEY-HODGSON CORRESPONDENCE.

Copies of correspondence between Lieutenant Hodgson and Admiral Schley during the period from June 6, 1899, to Aug. 25, 1901, were given to the press yesterday, with the statement that the correspondence will be submitted to the Schley court of inquiry by Lieutenant Hodgson while on the witness stand. Most of it already has been published in the newspapers, although part of it has not been made public heretofore. On June 6, 1899, Admiral Schley wrote Lieutenant Hodgson, inclosing an editorial from the New York Sun alleging that a colloquy had occurred between Schley and Hodgson on the bridge of the Brooklyn during the battle of Santiago in the course of which the admiral is reported to have said, "Damn the Texas; let her look out for herself," in reply to Hodgson's remonstrance against turning the ship to starboard. Characterizing this as a "grotesque lie," the admiral asked Hodgson "to write me your denial of this oft repeated calumny."

June 8 Hodgson responded in a very long letter, dated at the New York navy yard, denying he authorized the publication of any conversation and making a long explanation of what he says occurred during the battle. He added that what was printed "as a part of a conversation between you and me is substantially correct, though not so as to the manner in which it took place."

Hodgson then tells of the rage with which the Brooklyn heard the sinister whisper upon her return to Guantanamo bay that they were "gun shy," and he says that he gave what he thought was a true explanation of that turn to many officers of the fleet, none of whom failed to agree with him. He explains that he thought that Admiral Schley regarded this turn as a strategical maneuver "looking to the further part the Brooklyn was to play in that day's battle rather than as an effort to avoid interfering with the fire of the other vessels of the fleet. In fact, I thought then, as I think now, that the turn to starboard caused more interference."

Then Hodgson gives his explanation of the turn. He tells of the belief that existed that the Spanish ships outclassed the Americans in speed and that in the absence of the New York the Brooklyn was the only American ship capable of preventing the escape of the Spaniards should they pass the fire of the battleships. The Spanish torpedo boats also were to be reckoned with.

Episcopalians Discuss Missions.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—Yesterday's deliberations of the triennial convention of the Episcopal church of America were devoted mainly to the missionary end and were of much interest. In joint session a resolution was adopted to adjourn the convention sine die on Thursday, Oct. 17. Petitions from representative cities anxious to secure the next triennial meeting were presented in behalf of Pittsburg, Boston, Cincinnati, Louisville and New Orleans.

Englishmen to Study Our Railways.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The White Star steamer Celtic, Captain Lindsay, which left Liverpool yesterday for New York, took several prominent officials of the Northeastern Railway company who are going to the United States for a month's study of the American railroad system. The party includes George Gibb, general manager, and Mr. Burt, traffic manager.

New Court House Needed.

The last thing which the Freeholders of Somerset county have taken up for discussion is a set of new buildings for the court house and other county offices. The Somerset County Bar Association has expressed its opinion in favor of new county buildings in no uncertain terms. So far, there has been no expression of opinion on the part of the Freeholders, but it is currently rumored that they will take up the subject for consideration at the next meeting of the Board Tuesday.

Anyone who has visited the Somerset county courthouse at Somerville and the offices of the county officials, located close by, can sympathize with those who are called upon to visit them daily. There are a few counties in New Jersey which are provided with even worse quarters, but they are very few and far between. There is no doubt but that Somerset county should have more suitable quarters and that the change cannot come any too soon.

While need of new county buildings is generally evident, it is a question what the Board of Freeholders will do with the proposition. Judging from the happenings of the last year it is safe to say that certain members of the board will oppose any such expenditure of funds, no matter for how good a cause.

There was the proposed armory for Company M. The Freeholders even went so far as to authorize its construction and appropriate the funds. They also planned to occupy rooms in the building. But because the estimates made according to the plans were a few hundred dollars more than the amount appropriated, the Freeholders promptly reconsidered their decision and gave up the whole project. It would have been easy enough to change the plans so that the building would come within the appropriation or else add the few hundred dollars necessary. The opponents of progress obtained control, however, and another step was taken backward.

Then there is the bridge over Giraud avenue, the building of which on proper lines is delayed because some Freeholders, fearful of spending a penny, insist that a cheap board floor be laid. They do not stop to consider that Somerset county will be much the gainer by the building of this bridge, the cost of which will be equally shared by Union county.

With these examples of the actions of certain Freeholders in mind, it certainly looks as if Somerset county had very little chance of getting the new court house and other county buildings. If, however, the Bar Association is able to bring sufficient pressure to bear to win its fight, it will accomplish a great and good thing for the county.

There are serious dissentions in the ranks of the Building Trades Council which appear to actually threaten the life of that organization. The masons were the first to withdraw from its membership and now the painters have followed the example. The trouble seems to be that the various unions preferred to settle the disputes with their employers without interference on the part of the officers of the Trades Council.

A vigorous advertising campaign has brought many an institution to the front regardless of the advantages of rival concern. Thus the head of a loan agency is thus quoted by the Philadelphia Record: "I have built up the largest business in my line in Jersey City in a comparatively little time, entirely by newspaper advertising. Yet the competition of many old-time concerns was strong."

City Collector Frank H. Smith has his troubles. Chief among them is the frequent desire on the part of many tax payers to get him to reduce the amount of their assessment. It should be remembered that he has only to collect the taxes, and that the other duty is given to the Commissioners of Appeals and to them only.

Another opportunity will be given to the local Republicans to enroll themselves on the records of that political party so that they can vote at the coming primaries. Monday evening the enrollment boards in the four wards will meet to receive additional names.

There has been a distinct rise in the general popularity of Frank Bergen among the firemen of North Plainfield. His unsolicited gift of $50 toward the expenses of the borough fire department's parade was responsible.

And now it is said that the Fourth ward Republicans will support City Judge William N. Runyon for a renomination and that the reported boom of Clarence L. Murphy is without foundation.

The Plainfield delegates to the Democratic State convention settled very effectively the question as to whether or not the county committee could control the acts of the delegates.

The prosperous era seems to have been felt in Garwood. Two of the large manufactories are preparing to make substantial additions to their present establishments.

Don't forget to let the Plainfield Water Supply Company hear from you when the water bill is paid this time. It is the only way to get the water meters.

While we would not have liked to see the America's cup go back across the water, there is not one who does not honor Sir John Lipton as a plucky adversary.

After a season in which much good has been accomplished, the Local Union of King's Daughters has decided to close the baby camp on the mountain.

Adams Council, of Newark, to pay a fraternal visit Tuesday evening. The members who are going will meet at the North Avenue station in time to take the 7:05 train for Newark. Celebrated Birthday Pleasantly.

One Stone Walk Needed.

While many residents of Elmwood place have been compelled to lay stone walks in front of their properties, one resident has been allowed to patch up an old board walk. Those who have laid stone walks feel somewhat indignant over the matter as they believe that one rule should apply to all.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, Oct. 5.—Rev. N. J. Sproul is the originator of a method for raising money which, to say the least, is rather unique. The Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Sproul is the pastor, was in need of several hundred dollars and it was determined to liquidate the debt. Accordingly invitations were issued by the social committee of the church to a banquet which was held Thursday evening in the parlors of the Presbyterian church. In this way seventy-five of the principal members of the church and congregation came to the banquet which was excellent in every way. Speeches were made by Rev N. J. Sproul, of the borough; by Robert Scott, of Brooklyn, and by Rev. D. R. Clawson, of Westfield. At the conclusion of the dinner, when the guests were in a more or less satisfied state of mind, an appeal was made to their pocket-book. A surprisingly liberal response was the result as $1,200 was immediately subscribed.

The sale was in Chancery between Cord and Christian Meyer, executors of Cord Meyer, deceased, complainants, and Fred S. Green and wife and others, defendants. The sale was to satisfy a foreclosed mortgage. The decree and costs were $28,544.37. The bidding started at $4,000. Mr. Green stayed in till it reached $9,000. He then dropped out of the competition and the land was knocked down to the complainants for $10,000.

WAR OFFICE CRITICISED.

Much Fault Found In England. Kitchener's Recall Demanded.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—"In spite of the pledges of the government the whole army machine is to be hauled back as soon as it may be to the old ruts of impotence, pretense and collapse," writes Rudyard Kipling in a striking letter to The Spectator upon the appointments of Sir Redvers Buller and Sir Evelyn Wood to command army corps.

This pungent sentence voices the national feeling that has prevailed this week without regard to party politics.

"Men see," adds Mr. Kipling, "that the chosen commanders are not quite in touch with the real army, which, with a little tact and a little seriousness, might so easily survive. It is not the triviality or ineptitude displayed in this matter that appalls, but the cynical levity."

Very much on these lines all the weeklies, regardless of politics, take the government to task. "The English people," again to quote from Mr. Kipling's letter, "have paid no small price in money and in blood that there might be born an army handled by fit and proved leaders."

The Spectator, although among the most cautious of the government's supporters, comes out boldly not only with a declaration that the appointments of Generals Buller and Wood are absurd, but also with a demand that Lord Kitchener be recalled. This demand is nicely but unmistakably worded.

"From the moment Lord Roberts left South Africa we seemed to lose our strategic grasp upon the country," says The Spectator, and it urges, though without much hope, that its suggestion be accepted and Lord Roberts be sent out again.

Winston Spencer Churchill, speaking last night at Oldham, delivered himself of another severe censure of the war policy of the government. He declared that the military situation in South Africa was now "not less momentous than when the Boer armies threw themselves into Natal at the beginning of the war" and that the empire today "confronts difficulties and dangers more embarrassing than those which hung over it in the black week of December, 1899."

CRANE RENOMINATED.

Massachusetts Republicans Hold a Peaceful State Convention.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—With one ballot which gave Herbert L. Parker of Lancaster the nomination for attorney general over Robert C. Harris of East Bridgewater the only contest in the Republican state convention yesterday was decided. The other nominations from that of W. Murray Crane for governor for a third term at the head of the ticket down through the list were unanimous, and the vote for Mr. Parker was made unanimous on motion of Mr. Harris.

The full ticket nominated follows: Governor, William Murray Crane of Dalton; lieutenant governor, J. L. Bates; secretary of state, W. H. Olin of Boston; treasurer, E. S. Bradford of Springfield; auditor, H. E. Turner of Malden; attorney general, H. L. Parker of Lancaster.

The keynote of the conference which was held in the Boston theater was the life and administration of the late President McKinley, deep feeling being shown in the address of the permanent chairman, in the resolutions adopted and the eloquent words of the senior senator of the state, the venerable George Frisbie Hoar, who addressed the delegates.

Pennsylvania Day.

BUFFALO, Oct. 5.—Pennsylvania celebrated at the Pan-American exposition yesterday in a most splendid manner. The commodious statehouse was crowded to the utmost capacity during the entire day. The formal exercises were held in the Temple of Music, the Hon. Jacob E. Ridgeway presiding. Music incidental to the occasion was furnished by the Seventy-fourth Regiment band of Buffalo. The address of welcome was delivered by the director general of the exposition, W. I. Buchanan, who expressed his gratification at the large number of Pennsylvanians present. The governor of the state, Hon. William A. Stone, responded. An address was given by General Frank Reeder, who spoke in place of General Boise Penrose, the latter being unable to come to the exposition.

Clark to Mine Coal.

CHEYENNE, Wy., Oct. 5.—Senator W. A. Clark of Montana will establish at once one of the largest coal mining camps in the west near Meeteese, in Big Horn country, where he has secured 5,000 acres of coal lands. He will also build a railroad to connect his camp with the Burlington at Cody City. Twelve mines will be opened and the coal shipped to the Pacific coast and intermediate points.

The Judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals, except those first appointed; the Justices of the Supreme Court, the Chancellor and the Vice-Chancellors shall hold their offices for the term of seven years, and shall at stated times receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointment; and they shall hold no other office under the government of this State or the United States.

The Judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals first appointed shall be appointed one for three years, two for five years and two for seven years. Judges of the Court of Common Pleas shall hold their offices for the term of five years.

Strike out Paragraph 2.

1. Resolved (the House of Assembly concurring), That the following amendments to the constitution of this state be and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to the senate and house of assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next, being the fifth days of said month, in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, the said newspaper to be designated by the president of the senate, the speaker of the house of assembly and the secretary of state.

2. The terms of the senators elected in the year nineteen hundred and two shall be extended to four years from the commencement of their terms; as soon as the senate shall meet after the election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and three the senators elected in that year shall be divided by lot under the direction of the senate into two classes, as nearly equal as may be; the seats of the senators of one class shall be vacated at the expiration of three years, and of the other class at the expiration of five years; the seats of the senators elected in the year nineteen hundred and four, and of all senators elected thereafter, shall be vacated at the expiration of four years from the commencement of their terms, so that one-half the number of senators, as nearly as may be, shall be elected every second year, at the same time that members of the general assembly are elected; and all vacancies caused by resignation or otherwise shall be filled for the unexpired terms only.

3. Amend Section III, of Article IV, by striking out the word "annually."

4. Amend Paragraph 7, of Section IV of Article IV, so as to read as follows:

KEEP YOUR WORD.

That Is the Only Way to Command Your Child's Respect.

Some one has said that the greatest trouble with women was that they did not keep their word. The average woman believes, with the proverb, that it is her privilege to change her mind; consequently when she makes a declaration it is by no means certain that she will abide by it. Here in a few words we have the secret why in nine cases out of ten the father of the family is more of an authority with the children than the mother. He almost invariably keeps his word with them; she keeps it only when she feels like it.

Children are more observing than most of us think. They form their opinions of people very early in life. A child will not obey a person for whom he has no respect. He has no respect for those who break their word. If a child's mother tells him to do thus and so and he knows from past experience that she means it, he will obey without a murmur, but no amount of spasmodic coercion will make a child obedient. "Wait until your father comes home!" is a phrase frequently heard in some households. A woman who has to depend upon her husband to establish family discipline is not a fit mother for her children. It is only too evident that they have no respect for her.

DON'T THREATEN CONTINUALLY.

Don't threaten continually. It does no good. Punishments and threats alike are not needed in a properly managed household. Begin with the child in the cradle and let him understand gently, but firmly, the meaning of "No." Be chary of your promises and only promise what you are sure you can keep. Having once made a promise, keep it, even if it causes you severe inconvenience. A little care and trouble expended in this direction during the child's infancy will more than repay you in after life.

The true love of your children means their obedience, and you cannot have their true love without their respect.

ELIZABETH MORRIS.

THE BILLIARD ROOM.

One Way In Which It May Be Furnished Attractively.

Billiard rooms, like smoking dens, should be treated with some degree of originality. In fact, the more striking they are the better. Oak is the favorite wood, and it can be stained in black, deep brown and in various shades of green, which are sympathetic with a somewhat eastern treatment of the walls. Much furniture is out of place in a billiard room, and the center of the floor should be unincumbered, with the exception of the long playing tables. Above all, the lighting should be faultless, and it is the usual thing to have drop lights which enable the player to see with greater accuracy.

Convenient racks for the cues and balls are a necessity. These racks may be carved in odd shapes if desired. High chairs for those who watch the game are also additional comforts.

The billiard room in the illustration is fitted in oak stained a deep brown. The ceiling is tinted a very light gold shade, and the frieze, which is in a peacock design, combines several shades of iridescent blue and gold. The fireplace is tiled in blue, and the fireplace furnishings are of bent iron. The chairs are of the dark oak carved heavily, and they are upholstered with blue leather cushions studded with gilt nails. The arched doorway is hung with old gold tapestry. The electric light globes are half of them iridescent blue and half of them gold. The recess in the rear of the room has a row of little windows, the panes of which are of different shades of yellow stained glass. The entire effect of this color scheme is very rich and original.

R. DE LA BAUME.

The Influence of a Laugh.

It is the woman who has the courage to be herself who attracts. Originals are so much more desirable than copies, no matter how accurate the copy may be. Let every woman dare to be herself, develop her own individuality, not blindly copy some other woman whom it may be her husband happens to admire.

Let every woman think for herself, act for herself and express her own honest opinions. Individuality when combined with that nameless something called manner is the most potent weapon in the possession of the sex. A good woman's laugh is better than medicine. A well told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sickroom.

Learn to keep your own troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your ills and sorrows.

"You are more sick of life than I thought. But I think, sir, our Phorenice judges your case very accurately. It was permitted me to hear the outbursting of this lady's rage. 'Shall I hew off his head?" said she. 'Pah! Shall I give him over to my tormentors, and stand by while they do their worst? He would not wrinkle his brow at their fiercest efforts. No; he must have a heavier punishment than any of these, and one also which will endure. I shall lop off his right hand and his left foot, so that he may be a fighting man no longer, and then I shall drive him forth crippled into the dangerous lands, where he may learn fear. The beasts shall hunt him, the fires of the ground shall spoil his rest. He shall know hunger, and he shall breathe bad air. And all the while he shall remember that I have Nais near me, living and locked in her coffin of stone, to play with as I choose, and to give over to what insults may come to my fancy.' That is what she said, Deucalion. Now I ask you again will you go back to meet her vengeance?"

"No," I said, "it is no part of my plan to be mutilated and left to live."

"So, being a woman of some sense, I judged. And, moreover, having some small kindness still left for you, I have taken it upon myself to make a plan for your further movement which may fall in with your whim. Does the name of Tob come back to your memory?"

"One who was captain of Tatho's navy?"

"That same Tob. A gruff, rude fellow, and smelling vile of tar, but seeming to have a sturdy honesty of his own. Tob sails away this night for parts unknown, presumably to found a kingdom with Tob for king. It seems he can find little enough to earn at his craft in Atlantis these latter days, and has scruples at seeing his wife and young ones hungry. He told me this at the harbor-side when I put my neck under the ax by saying I wanted carriage for you, sir; and so, having me under his thumb, he was perhaps more loose-lipped than usual. You seem to have made a fine impression on Tob, Deucalion. He said—I repeat his hearty disrespect—you were just the recruit he wanted, but whether you joined him or not, he would go to the nether gods to do you service."

"By the fellow's side I gained some experience in fighting the greater sea beasts."

"Well, go and do it again. Believe me, sir, it is your only chance. It would grieve me much to hear the searing-iron hiss on your stumps. I bargained with Tob to get clear of the harbor forts before the chain was up for the night, and as he is a very daring fellow, with no fear of navigating under the darkness, he himself said he would come to a point of the shore which we agreed upon, and there await you. Come, Deucalion, let me lead you to the place."

"My girl," I said, "I see I owe you many thanks for what you have done on my poor behalf."

"Oh, your thanks!" she said, "you may keep them. I did not come out here in the dark and the dangers for mere thanks, though I knew well enough there would be little else offered." She plucked at my sleeve. "Now show me your walking pace, sir. They will begin to want your countenance in the camp directly, and we need hanker after no too narrow inquiries for what's along."

So thereon we set off, Ylga and I, leaving the lights of the bivouac behind us, and she showed the way, while I carried my weapons ready to ward off attacks whether from beasts or from men. Few words were passed between us, except those which had concern with the dangers natural to the way. Once only did we touch one another, and that was where a tree-trunk bridged a rivulet of scalding water which flowed from a boil-spring towards the sea.

Presently, however, we came out through the trees, and the roughest part of our journey was done. We saw the ship riding to her anchors inshore a mile away, and a weird enough object she was under the faint starlight. We made our way to her along the level beaches.

Tob was keeping a keen watch. We were challenged the moment we came within stone or arrow shot, and bidden to halt and recite our business; but he was civil enough when he heard we were those whom he expected. He called a crew and slacked out his anchor-rope till his ship ground against the shingle, and then thrust out his two steering-oars to help us clamber aboard.

I turned to Ylga with words of thanks and farewell. "I will never forget what you have done for me this night; and should the high gods see fit to bring me back to Atlantis and power, you shall taste my gratitude."

"I do not want to return. I am sick of this old life here."

"But you have your place in the city, and your servants and your wealth, and Phorenice will not disturb you from their possession."

"Oh, as for that, I could go back and be fan-girl to-morrow. But I do not want to go back."

"Let me tell you it is no time for a gently nurtured lady like yourself to go forward. I have been viceroy of Yucatan, Ylga, and know somewhat of making a foothold in these new countries. And that was nothing compared with what this will be. I tell you it entails hardships and privations and sufferings which you could not guess at. Few survive who go to colonize in the beginning, and those only of the hardiest, and they earn new scars and new batterings every day."

"I do not care; and, besides, I can share the work. I can cook, I can shoot a good arrow, and I can make garments—yes, though they were cut from the skins of beasts and had to be sewn with back-bone sinews. Because you despise fine clothes, and because you have seen me only decked out as fan-girl, you think I am useless. Bah, Deucalion! never let people prate to me about your perfections. You know less about a woman than a boy new from school."

"I have learned all I care to know about one woman, and because of the memory of her I could not presume to ask her sister to come with me now."

"Aye," she said, bitterly, "kick my pride. I knew well enough it was only second place to Nais I could get all the time I was wanting to come. Yet no one but a boor would have reminded me of it. Gods! and to think that half the men in Atlantis have courted me, and now I am arrived at this!"

"I must go alone. It would have made me happier to take your esteem with me. But as it is, I suppose I shall carry only your hate."

"That is the most humiliating thing of all; I cannot bring myself to hate you. I ought to, I know, after the brutal way you have scorned me. But I do not, and there is the truth. I seem to grow the fonder of you, and if I thought there was a way of keeping you alive and unmutilated here in Atlantis, I do not think I should point out that Tob is tired of waiting, and will probably be off without you." She flung her arms suddenly about my neck and kissed me hotly on the mouth. "There, that is for good-by, dear. You see I am reckless. I care not what I do now, knowing that you cannot despise me more than you have done all along for my forwardness."

She ran back from me into the edge of the trees.

"But this is foolishness," I said. "I must take you through the dangers that lie between here and some gate of the city, and then come back to the ship."

"You need not fear for me. The unhappy are always safe. And, besides, I have a way. It is my solace to know that you will remember me now. You will never forget that kiss."

"Fare you well, Ylga," I cried. "May the high gods keep you entirely in their holy care."

But no reply came back. She had gone off into the forest. And so I turned down to the beach, and plashed into the water, and climbed on board the ship up the steering-oar. Tob gave the word to haul the anchor and get her away from the beach.

"Greeting, my lord," said he, "but I'd have been pleased to see you earlier. We've small enough force and slow enough heels in this vessel, and it's my idea that the sooner we're away from here and beyond the range of pursuit the safer it will be for my woman and brats, who are in that hutch of an aftercastle. It's long enough since I sailed in such a small, old-fashioned ship as this. She's no machines, and she's not even a steering manikin. Look at the meanness of her furniture, and (in your ear) I've suspicions that there's rottenness in her bottom. But she's the best I'd the means to buy, and if she reaches the place at the farther end I've got my eye on, we shall have to make a home there, or be content to die, for she'll never have strength to carry us farther or back. She's been a ship in the Egypt trade, and you know what that is for getting worm and rot in the wood."

"You'd enough hands for your scheme before I came?"

"Oh, yes. I've fifty stout lads, and eight women packed in the ship somehow, and trouble enough I had to get them away from the city. That thief of a port captain well-nigh skinned us clean before he could see it lawful that so many useful fighting men might go out of harbor. Times are not what they were, I tell you, and the sea trade's about done. All sailor men of any skill have taken a woman or two and gone out in companies to try their fortunes in other lands. Why, I'd trouble enough to get half a score to help me work this ship. All my balance are just landsmen raw and simple, and if I land half of them alive at the other end, we shall be doing well."

"Still, with luck and a few good winds it should not take long to get across to Europe."

THE SAMAR DISASTER.

General Chaffee Sends Details of the Bloody Affair.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The war department last night received the following dispatch from General Chaffee, dated at Manila, giving further details of the disastrous attack on the Ninth regiment:

"Sept. 29, while at breakfast, 6:45 a. m., company was attacked at signal of ringing convent bells by about 450 bolomen, 200 from rear of quarters, 200 front, simultaneously attack officers and quarters. Company completely surprised. Force attacking front gained possession arms. Fight ensued forthwith, in which many met death in messroom in rear. Enemy beaten off temporarily by about twenty-five men who had gained their arms. Sergeant Bettron assumed command, endeavored to collect the men and leave in boats, but was reattacked by the enemy. Strength of command, 3 officers, 72 men; killed, 3 officers, 40 enlisted men; missing, 6; wounded, 13; present 13. Party attacking officers in convent entered through church in large numbers, led by presidente. Probably 101 rifles with company, 26 saved; 15 of lost rifles had bolts drawn; 25,000 rounds ammunition lost. Ninety-five prisoners outside Cuartel joined in attack at signal. Boat of missing men capsized. Captain Bookmiller may pick up men."

Also the following, signed by Captain Bookmiller of the Ninth infantry, dated Sept. 30:

"Have returned to Balangiga. Drouillard explains conditions correctly. Landed yesterday. Inhabitants deserted town at firing of one shot. Buried three officers, 29 men; number bodies burned; quarters buildings fired as we entered. Secured or destroyed most of rations. All ordnance gone. Insurgents secured 57 serviceable rifles, 28,000 cartridges, 48 men of Company C. Ninth infantry and 1 hospital corps man killed or missing. Twenty-eight men accounted for. Found two in boat en route here. Buried dead, burned town, returned to Basey.

"De Roussey has sent strong company to chastise savages if found. No other details. Names of killed to be determined by elimination of survivors as soon as possible. June muster roll probably latest evidence to be had."

De Russey is the colonel of the Eleventh regiment, stationed near the scene of the attack. The muster roll referred to already has been published.

Noted Educator Dead.

ANDOVER, Mass., Oct. 5.—Death has removed a prominent figure in American academic life in Rev. Cecil F. P. Bancroft, for twenty-eight years the head of Phillips, Andover. He was a graduate of Dartmouth college, 1860, and of Andover Theological seminary, 1867. He was principal of the Lookout Mountain (Tenn.) institution since 1873, having had in this time about 1,000 pupils under his care. His death, although not unexpected to his friends, will come as a surprise to hundreds of his pupils throughout the land. Mr. Bancroft's age was sixty-one. The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon, and President Tucker of Dartmouth college probably will officiate.

Pennsylvania Murderer Captured.

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 5.—Lewis Grether, the burglar who shot and killed Adam Strune in Munro county about two weeks ago, was captured here in the cellar of his sister's house. He attempted to shoot himself when the policemen came upon him, but they seized his revolver as he pointed it at his head. Grether was wanted for burglary; and Strune, with a party of constables, was searching for him in the woods. They succeeded in finding him, and when the men were about to place him under arrest he suddenly drew a revolver and shot Strune dead. He then again made his escape, and his whereabouts was not discovered until yesterday.

Scranton Strike Still On.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 5.—The strike of the motormen and conductors of the Scranton Railway company inaugurated last Tuesday gives every promise of being a long drawn out struggle. General Manager Silliman announced that the company proposes to import men to run its cars, and that he is determined to live up to this promise is evidenced by the arrival of seventy-five men who were brought into the city from New York city.

IDEAL CONDITIONS MARKED HILLSIDE CLUB'S ANNUAL RECEPTION TO PARK CLUB GOLFERS.

Golf Competitions, Tennis Tournament and Social Functions Were the Attractions for the Day.

HILLSIDE CLUB MEMBERS WON THE TEAM MATCH.

FULLY FIVE HUNDRED OF PLAINFIELD SOCIETY FOLK WERE PRESENT DURING THE DAY.

Most of the Honors in Golf Were Carried Off By Members of the Entertaining Club—Tennis Tournament Played Up to Finals—Successful Reception and Dance in Clubhouse.

Great, indeed, was the success of the annual reception of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club to the Park Golf Club and its other friends, Saturday. With ideal weather, a course in the best of condition, exciting competitions in golf and tennis, and an assemblage of the prominent society folk of city and borough, there was nothing lacking to make the function complete in every particular. Fully five hundred people enjoyed the hospitality of the club.

For the golfiacs, the day was a busy one. In the morning, a mixed foursome handicap, eighteen holes, medal play, was the attraction. First honors went to Miss Daisy Elsberg, Park, and Jose A. Machado, Hillside, who won out from Miss Saidee Mae Howell, Park, and Robert Abbott, by half a stroke. There were twelve teams which competed.

The scores were as follows:

	G.	H.	N.
Miss Daisy Elsberg, Park, and Jose A. Machado, Hillside	113	18	95
Miss Saidee Mae Howell, Park, and Robert Abbott, Hillside	100	4½	95½

Miss Margaret Goddard and Harold Brown, Hillside	123	19	104
Miss Mary Tracy and Francis Clark, Hillside	130	24½	105½

The chief event of the day was the team match between teams of eighteen men each from the Hillside and Park Clubs, which was played in the afternoon. It was conducted on novel lines, handicap medal play, the match to be decided by the aggregate net scores. The combined scores of the Hillside men amounted to 1564, while the Park players were 70 strokes more. A silver putter went to the Hillside Club as the prize for the event.

The scores in the team match were as follows:

The scores in the team match also counted in a handicap competion, eighteen holes, medal play. There were also a number of other entries for the latter event. The Hillside men played with their regular handicaps, while the Park Clubites had been specially handicapped for the day, their handicaps at the home club having been reduced from four to five strokes each. In this event Gordon W. Abbott, , Hillside, won first prize, while S. St. John McCutchen, Park, and Dudley H. Barrows, Hillside, tied for second prize. The tie will probably be played off Saturday.

The scores for this event were as follows:

The scores of the active and associate members in the team match and open handicap counted for the weekly play for the Golf Committee cup and effected quite a change in the standing for the trophy. Dudley H. Barrows by winning first honors now holds the lead with 12 5-6 points, and C. Westley Abbott takes second place with 10½ points. E. T. Newkirk won second honors and now has a total of 2½ points. Third honors were divided between Robert Abbott and Howard Wright, each receiving a half point. The weekly play for the Mellick cup went by default, no one contesting.

WON BY SINGLE RUN FROM SCOTCH PLAINS.

St. Mary's Ended The Local Baseball Season With a Very Exciting Game.

PITCHER DOYLE'S WORK.

HE SAVED THE DAY AT MANY CRITICAL MOMENTS.

Score Was 4 to 3—Teams Were Evenly Matched—Bunched Hits Made St. Mary's Winning Run—The Summaries.

The baseball season in Plainfield ended Saturday afternoon when the St. Mary's nine defeated Scotch Plains by a score of 4 to 3, in one of the hottest games of the season. The Hope chapel and Clinton Avenue teams did not play.

ST. MARY'S, 4; SCOTCH PLAINS, 3.

The Scotch Plains baseball team, the organization which has enjoyed a winning streak during the entire season, met defeat in this city, Saturday afternoon, at the hands of the St Mary team after one of the most closely fought contests ever witnessed on local grounds. The score was 4 to 3. Over 1 200 people witnessed the game.

From the very outset the game was one of snap and ginger, the nerves of both players and spectators being strung to the highest tension. To many in the crowd it seemed like a return of the old Crescent days, the effect being heightened by the sight of "Billy" Lee on third, his first appearance in this city in many years. Much of the credit of the victory belongs to Doyle, the St. Mary pitcher, although all the members of the team played like veteran leaguers. Several times when matters were looking dubious for the home team, Doyle brought it out of the crisis by his superb handling of the leather. In the seventh inning with the score one against him, three men on base and not one out, "Larry" struck out three men in succession. This was only one of the several tight places where a hit meant one or more runs for the visitors but it was not forthcomtng. Doyle was backed up in superb form by every member of the team and it would be hard to mention the playing of any one in particular. It was a fitting climax to the St. Mary season.

The Plains pitcher, Harvey, was in good form, but when he allowed hits, they came in twos and threes which was all the Plainfielders needed. It was the bunching of hits which enabled them to get the winning runs in the eighth inning. Lee, on third, Krausie, on short, and Baldwin, on second, did exceptionally good work and formed a dangerous trio for the St. Mary batsmen and base stealers.

DOUGLAS FOR SHERIFF; OTHERS ARE WITHDRAWN

Compromise Effected at Last Moment Between Warring Factions at Convention.

SOMERSET REPUBLICANS.

NOMINATIONS WILL BE MADE AT AFTERNOON SESSION.

Convention Convened This Morning—During Recess Smalley and Cooper Were Withdrawn—Hoagland Will Be Renominated.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct 7—As usual Senator Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield, is in control of the Somerset county convention. The hour set for calling the meeting to order was 11 o'clock, and, long before that time, there was a large and eager crowd on the ground awaiting the result of the convention.

The work of the convention being to nominate a candidate for sheriff and also one for Assembly, the eyes of everyone was centered on the likely candidate. Though there was much dispute before the convention was called to order, it was clearly evident that the faction under the leadership of Senator Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield, was in control of the situation, and that, as on previous occasions, the division under the leadership of Former Chancery Clerk Thompson, of this place, was awaiting defeat.

At the primaries held throughout the county Saturday the Reed people made almost a clean sweep, obtaining at least thirty-one out of the forty-six delegates. In the home of E. E. Cooper, who has been nursing a boom for the shrievalty nomination, the Reed faction captured two out of the five delegates accredited and one delegateship in this, Warren township, was tied.

Senator Reed also obtained the entire list of delegates from Bernards, Montgomery township, Hillsborough township, in each of which there are five votes, making a total of fifteen. He also got five votes more as a result of the primaries held in North Plainfield, Friday evening, brought the number of delegates, who will guard his interests, up to twenty-two. In Franklin twownship and in Branchburg township he received four and three respectively, this together with one from Bound Brook brought the total up to thirty. The one tied in Warren would make the thirty-one odd delegates claimed.

Mr. Thompson made a complete victory in Bridgewater and Bedminster townships giving him ten delegates and he also obtained two delegates from Branchburg and one from Franklin, making the total fifteen. In Bridgewater there were 603 votes cast and Thompson achieved the victory by the narrow margin of eleven votes.

There were two formidable candidates for sheriff. E. E. Cooper, who worked under the sponsership of Thompson and Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, who is the principal lieutenant of Senator Reed. The setback of E. E. Cooper, on account of the poor showing made in his own district at the primaries, was looked upon as puting him out of the race.

Senator Reed, who is a member of the State committee, called the convention to order. William S. Gilhooley, of Bernards township, was elected temporary secretary. On taking the chair, Mr. Gilhoolp made a short address lauding the State Republican administration. When the roll was called, it was found that there were contests in Franklin and Warren townships and these were referred to the committee on credentials.

The delegates from North Plainfield selected for the various committees were: Recorder Thomas Doud, committee on permanent organization; B. A. Hegeman, Jr., committee on rules; Senator Charles A. Reed, committee on credentials. John Y. Barrett, of North Plainfield township, was chosen a member of the committee on resolutions. Immediately after the various township delegations had handed in the selections for the various committees the convention adjourned for a recess of half an hour.

During the morning an agreement or understanding was reached between the warring factions whereby a compromise was effected by the withdrawal of E. E. Cooper and Mayor Newton B. Smalley from the shrievalty contest. Thomas Douglas, of Bernards, is the compromise candidate and he will be nominated before the convention adjourns. There is no apparent opposition to Assemblyman Hoagland and all agree that he will receive a renomination.

The convention will re-convene at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

FOOTBALL SEASON OPEN FOR LOCAL ELEVENS.

Two Elevens Played Their First Games On Out of Town Gridirons Saturday.

ALIS A. A. TIED ELIZABETH.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL MET DEFEAT AT FLEMINGTON 23 TO 0.

Neither Side Scored In Alis Game Although Plainfielders Were Within Five Yards Of Goal Line—High School Boys Outweighed.

The football season for the local elevens opened Saturday. There were no games played in Plainfield, however, the City High School going to Flemington where it was defeated by the ex High School team of that place 23 to 0. The Alis A. A. played a tie game, 0 to 0, with the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. on the latter's grounds.

FLEMINGTON H. S. 23; PLAINFIELD H. S. 0.

The Plainfield High School football eleven journed to Flemington, Saturday afternoon, to meet defeat at the hands of the ex High School team of that place. The Flemington boys won by a score of 23 to 0. Vastly superior weight left no doubt as to the result. The showing made by the local eleven was, however, very satisfactory and the boys returned home in good spirits.

The Flemington eleven was composed of former members of the High School and averaged twenty pounds heavier per man. When the game began, the home team gained at win. As the Plainfield boys steadied, their opponents found scoring a more difficult matter and the last part of the game was fiercely contested. Most of the gains were made through tackle and guard, the Flemington backs being unable to get by the Plainfield ends, whose work was very commendable.

The score at the end of the first half was 11 to 0. Flemington scored in the last half with only thirty seconds more to play. Plainfield was rather weak on the offensive, the line failing to keep back the opposing backs.

The lineup was as follows:

FLEMINGTON H. S.		PLAINFIELD H. S.
E. Biddles	right end	Monroe
R. Slattery-Culver	right tackle	H. Moynihan
Broadhead	right guard	Bridgeman
Parker	centre	Van Pelt
Kinney	left guard	M. Moynihan
O. Biddles	left tackle	Tweedy
Lott-R. Slattery	left end	Thayer
Pederick	quarter back	VanAuken
Lovell	right half back	McVoy
Potts	left half back	Seaker
J. Slattery	full back	Cahoone

Score—Flemington, 23; Plainfield, 0. Touchdowns—Potts (2,) Lovell (1.) Goals on touchdowns—J. Slattery (2.) Referee—J. F. Reardon, of Flemington. Umpire—Lindley Best, of Plainfield. Time—Fifteen minute halves.

ALIS A. A., 0; ELIZABETH Y. M. C. A., 0.

The Alis A. A. football team opened the season Saturday afternoon by playing the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. on the latter's grounds. The game was sharp and hard fought, but despite the good work done by both teams neither was able to score, making a tie game.

The local eleven was seriously handicapped by the absence of several of its best players, otherwise the result would undoubtedly have been much different. In addition to this the Elizabeth players were much heavier than those of the local team, but despite these drawbacks the game was a good one all through. In the first half the Alis men twice placed the ball within five yards of the opposing goal, but were prevented from scoring. The Elizabeth team played together in good shape, but did a great deal of fumbling, which accounted for their not scoring.

County Convention Here.

ONE SCORE YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE.

Reception Given by Mr. And Mrs. Alfred T. Slauson in Honor of That Happy Event.

MANY GUESTS ASSEMBLED.

AFFAIR WAS HELD AT THEIR HOME ON EAST NINTH STREET.

Most of The Guests, Who Numbered 350, Were From Plainfield—Beautiful Decorations—Elaborate Gifts Received.

The twentieth anniversary of their wedding was fittingly observed by a reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thompson Slauson, of East Ninth street, at their handsomely appointed home Saturday evening. At least 350 people, the majority of whom were from this city, though not a few had come from New York and elsewhere, were the guests, who had assembled to congratulate the couple on their happy married career and to wish them long life together.

A profusion of cut roses and palms and potted plants adorned the large hallways and rooms. The tasteful floral decorations and the elaborate gowns of the women made the gathering a brilliant affair. Rogers' orchestra, of this city, occupied a position in the main hallway and throughout the evening rendered enchanting music. "Florodora" and other light operas as well as the catchy popular airs were among the selections given by the musicians.

Early in the evening the arrival of the guests was witnessed and a steady stream of friends were ushered in from them until a late hour. Assisting in receiving were: Mrs. John Trow, of Newark; Mrs. S. P. T. Borst, of New York; Miss Florence Tweedy, Mrs. John Doull Miller, Mrs. Howard Fleming and Mrs. William Patton, of this city. During the latter part of the evening dainty refreshments were served under the supervision of a Newark caterer. In remembrance of the china wedding the couple received a large number of tokens, many of them being quite costly.

A letter was received from Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, of New York, regretting his inability to be present. His absence was particularly felt by Mr. and Mrs. Slauson inasmuch as this famous clergyman officiated at the wedding celebrated just twenty years ago, October 5, 1881.

The nuptial ceremony took place in Madison Square church, New York, and was a society event of the time. Mrs. Slauson was Miss Emily Augusta Munn, a daughter of Stephen B. Munn, a noted lawyer in the metropolis. Their union has been blessed by four children, Harry, Tredwell and Sayre and Miss Carolyn Slauson.

Twelve years ago Mr. and Mrs. Slauson removed to this city and have since been prominent in local society. Mr. Slauson is a New York broker, having offices on Broad street, in that city.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

Rally Day Was Properly Observed at Grace M. E. Church Yesterday.

The services at Grace M. E. church, three in number, yesterday attracted large congregations.

At the morning service Rev. John Alfred Faulkner, professor of historical theology at Drew Theological Seminary, and the pastor of the church, Rev. G. W. Gardner, officiated. Dr. Faulkner chose as his subject the question, "What is the Church?" In order to properly bring out his thoughts, the speaker divided his subject into four parts: first, the Church is a society built upon Jesus Christ; second, the church is a society founded upon the teachings of Christ; third, the church is a society which observes the ordinances of Christ; and fourth, the Church is a society which lives the life of Christ.

The Sunday school rally, in the afternoon, was conspicuous by an address delivered by J. H. Manning, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. who drew lessons from the four words: admit, commit, submit and transmit. Miss Grace Carroll sang "He is Calling". "The Lord is My Shepherd" was rendered as a duet by the Misses Alice and Grace Carroll. Dyckman Winckler had charge of the musical part of the programme and was assisted by Michael Korff.

In the evening, Rev. Dr. Faulkner again delivered an address. His topic was "David as an Example of Kingly Men."

LOOK OUT FOR THE CICADA.

STATE ENTOMOLOGIST SMITH WARNS THE FRUIT GROWERS.

Big Brood of Seventeen-Year Locust is Due in This Part of Jersey Next Year.

A warning has been sent out by State Entomologist Smith, calling attention to the fact that a brood of the periodical cicada, or, as it is better known, the seventeen-year locust, is due to appear in New Jersey in 1902. This brood is one of the most numerous occurring in the State, and was recorded as being injurious in 1885, the date of its last appearance, in Burlington, Camden, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Passaic, Morris, Warren, Sussex, Somerset and Hunterdon counties. Its exact limits have not been defined, therefore it behooves fruit growers in all of these counties to be on their guard.

To avoid injury, growers in the sections above named are advised not to set out young orchards either in the fall of 1901 or the spring of 1902, if they can avoid it. If they do set, they should not prune too closely and should leave as many shoots and branches as possible, in which the insects may lay eggs without harm to the tree itself. These branches may then be trimmed out early in July when all danger is past. Fruit trees, or others, and shrubs, should not be trimmed too closely and where not absolutely required, should not be trimmed at all. No budding or grafting should be done either this fall or next spring as growing buds and grafts are especially apt to be injured. The attention of nurserymen is particularly called to this matter, that they may adopt such measures as seem advisable to them. Where sparrows occurr in large numbers, the danger of great injury is much reduced.

GAINING STRENGTH.

Quite Likely That City Republicans Will Back Wm. Newcorn For Assembly Nomination.

A responsible political factor is authority for the statement that William Newcorn, of the Fourth ward, is paving his way to an Assembly nomination at the hands of the coming Republican county convention, by making a compact with forces in Elizabeth. Fred Miller, of Elizabeth, appears to be the ostensible front of the arrangement in that city, and he is on the trail of a like nomination.

It is practically certain, according to a number of the leaders, that Mr. Newcorn will go to Elizabeth with his own ward, and it is not believed that much opposition will be made to him by the other ward delegations, unless the political checker board should, in the meantime, change considerably.

Two years ago Mr. Miller was defeated for the same nomination by Ellis A. Meeker, the present incumbent, and Judge Newcorn was put out of the race by Assemblyman Charles S. Foote, of this city.

DON'T OBEY THE LAW.

Local Sportsmen Still Continue to Shoot High-holders.

Although it is claimed by State game wardens that the shooting of high holders, or flickers, is contrary to the game laws, the killing of these birds still continues. Hardly a day passes but what sportsmen in this city can be seen carrying one or more specimens in plain view. One was seen yesterday who had ten in his game bag. Evidently the shooters question the legality of the alleged law, as they make no attempt to conceal the birds.

WITH THE CHURCHMEN.

A Busy Sunday In San Francisco. Divorce Question a Vexing One.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The first Sunday of the triennial Episcopal conference was devoted entirely to missionary sermons in the various churches of the denomination in this city and adjacent towns. The weather was perfect, and the attendance at all of the meetings was large.

The house of bishops of the Episcopal church today took up the remaining amendment to the constitution. As soon as this question shall be disposed of the bishops will take up the report of the committee on marriages and divorces. The committee has reported by a vote of 11 to 1 in favor of amending the canon of the solemnization of matrimony by adding the following section: "No minister shall solemnize a marriage between any two persons unless nor until by inquiry he shall have satisfied himself that neither person has been or is the husband or the wife of any other person living unless the former marriage was annulled by a decree of some civil court of competent jurisdiction for cause existing before such former marriage."

The committee in offering this amendment does not discuss the question of the remarriage of divorced persons nor refer to the belief held by many in the church that an innocent party in a divorce obtained because of adultery is entitled to marry again. The minority report, which is signed by Frank H. Miller, suggests that the following proviso be added to the proposed amendment:

"This shall not apply to any one producing a certified copy of a decree of divorce on the ground of adultery in which he or she is found to be the innocent party by a court of competent jurisdiction."

This report is one of the principal bones of contention in the present general conference.

THIS WEEK AT THE FAIR.

Illinois and New York Days the Principal Features.

BUFFALO, Oct. 7.—Another banner week at the Pan-American exposition opened today with Illinois day. Governor Yates and his staff, United States Senator W. E. Mason, Hon. E. A. Munger and a large delegation of Chicago city officials and others prominent in commercial, social and political circles were present.

The programme arranged for the occasion follows: Parade from the Niagara hotel, where the governor and his staff have their headquarters, to the exposition grounds, to the Temple of Music, where the formal ceremonies of the day were held. The speakers were Governor Richard Yates, Lieutenant Colonel F. O. Lowden, Senator W. E. Mason, Hon. E. A. Munger and the president of the exposition, J. H. Milburn.

Tomorrow both Brooklyn and Erie, Pa., will be in evidence, for that is their day, and exercises appropriate to the occasion will be held in the Temple of Music and the New York state building.

Wednesday will undoubtedly be the big day of the week. It is to be New York state day, and from the present indications thousands of visitors from all parts of the Empire State will make the exposition their objective point. The ceremonies of the day will include a parade of troops escorting the governor, nineteen separate companies being here or on their way to this city, the total number expected being about 3,000. One of the events scheduled for the afternoon in the stadium is a balloon race for a world's record and a prize of $3,000. The ceremonies at the Temple of Music include addresses by Governor Benjamin B. Odell, Senators Chauncey M. Depew and Thomas C. Platt and the orator of the day, St. Clair McKelvey. A reception will be given in the afternoon in the New York state building. The most superb display of fireworks, with the largest pieces ever constructed in the world, will be a feature of the evening.

Hazing at Beloit.

BELOIT, Wis., Oct. 7.—George F. Stockwell, a student in the preparatory department of Beloit college, was enticed from his room at the house of President Eaton at an early hour yesterday by members of the middle preparatory class. He was overpowered, divested of every article of clothing and compelled to walk ahead of a score of howling students, aided by the application of switches in the hands of his tormentors. His clothing was fastened to the top of a flagpole, and after he had been sufficiently "disciplined" he was allowed to go home to plan revenge. The outrage is the climax of a number of class fights this year.

Novel Way to Raise Money.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 7.—A novel plan was put into execution here by the McKinley Memorial association for the purpose of raising funds toward the erection of a McKinley monument. One hundred and six precinct voting booths were opened from 4 to 8 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of receiving voluntary subscriptions. A total of $6,815 persons contributed, the proceeds amounting to $6,801.90. The association expects to double this amount by solicitation.

A Hazardous Ocean Trip Begun.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 7.—Captain William Andrews, the veteran mariner, has left here for Europe in his fourteen foot boat, the Dark Secret. Accompanying him on the daring trip is his young bride, whom he wedded a few weeks ago. The captain is sixty years old, and this is said to be his seventh trip across the ocean in small boats. He expects to reach the English channel in about twelve weeks. In the boat were provisions for four months.

A WOMAN KIDNAPED.

Philadelphia Newspaper Men In a New Role.

THEY HELD A PRISONER FOUR DAYS

And Compelled Her to Give Up Jewels Worth Two Thousand Dollars and Sign Checks For Large Sums.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—Charged with kidnaping a woman and holding her a prisoner for four days, robbing her of jewels worth more than $2,000 and compelling her to sign bank checks for large sums of money is the story which the police unfolded here when they announced the arrest of two newspaper men, a stenographer in another newspaper office and a barber, all of whom are charged with complicity in the crime.

The men now locked up at the central police station are Howard K. Sloan, an unemployed reporter; Henry Wallace, society editor of one of the morning newspapers; J. Knight Findlay of Wayne, near here, stenographer in the business office of another morning paper, and Oscar S. Dunlap, a barber employed in one of the most prominent shops in the city. The victim is Mrs. Mabel Goodrich, the proprietress of an establishment on North Tenth street. The four men were arrested and will be given a hearing today.

Last Monday Mrs. Goodrich went to police headquarters and told a story of kidnaping and robbery so daring that the police at first doubted its truth. She said that for some time past a young man who represented himself as a resident of Germantown had been a frequent visitor at her establishment. He was well dressed and spent money freely.

Last Wednesday week, she said, he proposed a drive through Fairmount park. He asked her to dress in her best clothes and for her to wear all her diamonds and other jewelry, because on the return from the drive he intended to take her to the finest dining room in the city, and he wanted her to "shine" with the other women in the place. She accepted, and the next day she went out with him in a carriage with a pair of richly caparisoned horses and with a coachman on the box wearing stylish livery. At a lonely place in Fairmount park the carriage was stopped by a man whom she said represented himself as L. Clarence Gibbony, the secretary and attorney of the Law and Order society of this city.

This man, she went on to say, told her that he had a warrant for her arrest on the charge of keeping a disorderly house, but that the matter could be fixed up. He was invited into the carriage, and the next moment she was gagged and blindfolded. She was driven somewhere she did not know, but she noticed from one corner of the handkerchief over her eyes that the men paid toll at two tollgates and that they took her into a building where a fire engine and a hook and ladder truck were standing. She was kept a prisoner from Thursday night until Friday night without anything to eat or drink, and was then taken on another long drive, blindfolded, to a house where she was kept from Friday until Monday. In the latter place the men, who were masked, stripped her of the jewelry and at the point of a revolver compelled her to sign bank checks for various sums of money she had deposited in the Third National bank. They made her sign for more than she possessed, but compelled her to promise to make up the deficiency when they released her. The men, she said, then took her on another long drive and put her out of the carriage at Tenth and Poplar streets, about a mile from her house.

With other information the woman gave them, the detectives began to work on what they believed to be a fairy tale. They got several clews which led them to a fire station in North Wayne, fifteen miles from this city. The fire company is a volunteer organization, and the key to the place was kept in the nearest dwelling. The nearest house was occupied by a family named Findlay, and there the police learned that one of the sons, J. Knight Findlay, had been home but little during the past two weeks.

Getting a description of him, the police returned to the city and found the young man, who is only twenty-one years old, in the office where he is employed.

He was charged with the crime and broke down and implicated three others. Findlay said that he had impersonated the coachman, that Sloan, the unemployed reporter, acted the part of Attorney Gibbony, that the barber played the part of the rich Germantown resident and that Wallace, the society editor, had rented a house in Germantown where Mrs. Goodrich was to have been held a captive. He told substantially the same story as that narrated by the woman.

Severe Coast Storm.

CHATHAM, Mass., Oct. 7.—The most severe storm of the season is in progress along the coast, and a tremendous sea is running on the bar and at the shoals off Monomony. A large fleet of small schooners and some three and four masters have been driven southward along the coast and succeeded in getting an anchorage off Chatham.

Church Walls Fall on Worshipers.

READING, Pa., Oct. 7.—A dozen people were injured in St. Peter's Catholic church by the fall of a temporary partition erected on the inside of the outer wall as a protection against the elements during alterations of the building. A great quantity of timber and bricks fell inward upon a portion of the congregation.

CASTRO CRITICISED.

An Exile's Opinion of Venezuela's Intentions.

DECLARATION OF WAR DOUBTED.

Such a Movement on the Part of the President Would Be but Weakly Supported—Stories of Fighting Contradicted.

WILLEMSTAD, Island of Curacao, Oct. 7.—A press representative interviewed Dr. Alejandro Urbaneja, president of the executive committee of the Venezuelan Nationalist revolutionary party, regarding the political situation. Dr. Urbaneja is the virtual leader of the party and the personal representative of "El Mocho," General Hernandez. He was a cabinet minister under former President Crespo and is a prominent lawyer. Today he is in exile in Curacao.

"The Nationalists until the present time," said Dr. Urbaneja, "have passively witnessed President Castro's attitude and actions toward Colombia, but they are now compelled to protest against them. Neither the Nationalists nor the country at large has ever sustained the actions of Castro, actions which now promise an international war. The Nationalists do not desire war with a sister republic, nor would they follow Castro in such a war. On the contrary, they, as well as the country at large, would refuse to participate.

"If Colombia had ever really offended Venezuela, there would be no necessity for Castro's forcible recruiting, as at present, in order to obtain an army to punish the offending country. In such an event all Venezuelans would loyally and enthusiastically join to punish the offender.

"I do not think President Castro will declare war against Colombia. In the first place to do so legally he must obtain the consent of the Venezuelan congress, which will not convene before February next. In the second place I do not believe the members of the Venezuelan congress, although they are all partisans of President Castro, would ever consent to ruinous war with Colombia in order to help Colombian revolutionists.

"My principal reason for not believing a declaration of war will be made lies in President Castro's attitude toward the internal political situation. If he intended to declare war, he would attempt to unite all Venezuelans of all political creeds in a solid front against Colombia. Quite the contrary is the case. He is persecuting the numerous Nationalists, and the latter will before long lose patience, turn on their tormentor actively and in arms and declare against him in retaliation. In the improbable event of his declaring war against Colombia President Castro would receive only the support of a few of the most extreme of his partisans. The others would desert him."

Not a Shot Fired.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Oct. 7.—An envoy of the Venezuelan government who has just arrived at Maracaibo from the Colombian frontier wires the press correspondent at Caracas as follows: "For two weeks prior to Oct. 3 the Venezuelan troops concentrated between San Cristobal and Cucuta, estimated at 8,000 men, had not discharged a single shot against the Colombians massed before them under the command of General Valencia and estimated at 6,000. Both sides remained continually at 'shoulder arms.' The government of Venezuela before attacking awaits the answer of Colombia to the Venesuelan note. Three thousand Venezuelans are also massed at Guajira."

Platt Sees the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Senator Thomas C. Platt of New York was a guest at dinner with President and Mrs. Roosevelt last night. The senator remained at the White House until after 10 o'clock, when he returned to his hotel. Concerning his conference with the president the senator declared he had nothing to say, but perhaps would have something to give out later. President Roosevelt spent a quiet day. He went to the Grace Reformed church with Miss Ethel, his daughter. Mrs. Roosevelt, who left the White House at the same time with the president, stopped at St. John's Episcopal church, with her son Kermet.

He Maligned McKinley.

PENDLETON, Or., Oct. 7.—A blacksmith named McWilliams of Alba narrowly escaped being lynched by a mob at Pilot Rock. McWilliams, it is alleged, maligned the late President McKinley. A mob of men and boys secured a rope and started for the blacksmith. McWilliams fled here, having run and walked during the entire night.

Detroit Printing Plant Burned.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 7.—The job printing plant of the Detroit Free Press Printing company, 621 to 623 Fort street west, was damaged by fire to the extent of between $20,000 and $25,000. TRIBUTE TO M'KINLEY.

Ohioans In Washington Hold Memorial Services—The Last Words.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The sons and daughters of the late President McKinley's native state of Ohio who are now residents of Washington yesterday paid a last public tribute to the memory of their dead congressman, governor and president in a largely attended meeting at Chase's Opera House. The gathering was held under the auspices of the Ohio Republican association, but was not confined to Ohioans. About 3,000 persons were present. The decorations were appropriate to the occasion. The Marine band furnished the music and was stationed on the stage directly under a large crayon portrait of President McKinley, which was draped in graceful folds of black, the whole surrounded by an immense American flag.

The meeting was presided over by Colonel J. H. Brigham, assistant secretary of agriculture. The Rev. Dr. J. J. Muir delivered the invocation, and addresses were made by the Rev. Frank M. Bristol, the pastor of the Metropolitan church, which the president attended while in Washington; Judge Thomas H. Anderson, Hon. Alphonso Hart, Hon. D. K. Watson and Simon Wolf of Washington.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the reading of a letter from Dr. M. D. Mann, one of the president's physicians, to Mr. T. M. Sullivan, the secretary of the association. It was as follows:

"As President McKinley was dying I stood behind a screen in his room and heard him say his last words. His wife came into the room, and he said to her: 'Goodby, all; goodby. It is God's way. His will be done, not ours.'

"There was some further conversation with his wife in the way of leave taking, but this should not be repeated. About an hour later he said to his wife, 'Nearer, my God, to thee, e'en though it be a cross, has been my constant prayer.' He tried to say something more, but I could not catch it. I gave out at the time the first sentence as being the most appropriate to be remembered as his last words. I wrote them down at the time, so that there can be no question about it."

A letter from President Roosevelt regretting his inability to be present was read.

FATAL FREIGHT COLLISION.

Four Trainmen Killed on the Panhandle Railroad.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Oct. 7.—Four Panhandle railroad trainmen met their death near Onward, fourteen miles southeast of here, yesterday in a rear end collision of freight trains. The bodies of three of the dead were taken out badly mutilated, but the fourth was almost entirely consumed by flames which broke out soon after the wreck before the working crew could subdue the fire sufficiently to permit work in that portion of the debris.

The dead are Elbert Greely, conductor; Thomas H. Brosius, flagman; S. A. Galbreath, brakeman, and John Hutchison, fireman.

Wanderings of Woodruff's Guests.

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 7.—A special train of six coaches carrying 127 prominent Brooklyn people passed through early Saturday morning for Lieutenant Governor Woodruff's camp in the Raquette lake region. A barbecue was served at Camp Kill Kare, and then the lieutenant governor and his guests went to Blue Mountain lake. Last evening the party continued their journey to the Thousand islands and today went to Buffalo to celebrate Brooklyn day at the exposition.

Heir to a Fortune.

HUMBOLDT, Neb., Oct. 7.—Charles Loree, for many years an employee of this county, has been notified that he is heir to property in Kentucky and Virginia consisting of coal, iron ore and timber lands valued at $14,000,000, of which his share is about one-tenth. The property has been in litigation for several years, but has been settled through the efforts of John Loree of Cleveland, who is also an heir.

Costly Blaze at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 7.—Fire in the Pittsburg Clay Pot works in Allegheny damaged the plant to the extent of $280,000, injured six men and enforced an idleness of several months upon a force of 165 workmen. The injured men were firemen who were on the roof of the boiler house when the wall fell, and they were carried with it. None of them will die.

IN MANITOBA.

English Royalty Out For a Hunting Trip.

POPLAR POINT, Manitoba, Oct. 7.—The royal train conveying his royal highness the Duke of Cornwall and York and suit arrived here about 11 o'clock Sunday morning and were received by Senator Kirchhoffer and Lord Minto, governor general of Canada, who had arrived to meet the party. The distinguished guests are in excellent spirits and looking forward with great anticipation to the enjoyment of the shooting at Lake Manitoba. The shooting party consists of his highness the duke, Prince Alexander of Teck, Lord Crichton, Commander Godfrey Fossett, Sir Charles Cust and Major Maude.

After luncheon on the train Senator Kirchhoffer and his guests drove out to the lake, a distance of about twelve miles. On arrival at the landing a fleet of canoes were at the landing ready to convey the guests to the shooting lodge, which is a five mile paddle across the marsh slough. The canoe conveying the Duke of York was guided by John Atkinson, premier guide of Lake Manitoba shooting grounds, with Lord Minto in the bow, the other boats forming a fleet of honor.

The party reached the shooting lodge about 5 o'clock in the evening. Elaborate preparations had been made for their entertainment there, which highly delighted the guests. The country is wild in the extreme, but the site selected for the shooting lodge is an ideal spot and has the appearance of a shooting box. Outbuildings and a group of tents made a very pretty picture. The weather is perfect, and as game, particularly the ducks, are plentiful there are prospects of a splendid outing. All the shooting will be done from canoes, and the sportsmen were on hand in good time this morning to catch the early flight of the birds.

Alaska Postal Service Excellent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Postoffice Inspector John P. Clum has returned from a trip of inspection through Alaska. He has reported to the department that the service generally is in excellent condition, more particularly in the Yukon valley, where the various towns have a mail service of once a week in each direction. He established the northernmost postoffice in the United States and what is probably the northernmost postoffice in the world. This is at Point Barrow, where Rev. Dr. H. Richmond Marsh, the missionary at the little settlement, was appointed postmaster. This place, where the northernmost newspaper in the world is published once a year, will receive the mails once a year by a United States revenue cutter. Heretofore the few natives in the vicinity have had to send for their mail about 700 miles and often much farther.

New Trials For Powers and Howard.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Oct. 7.—The court of appeals having granted former Secretary of State Caleb Powers and James Howard new trials, the case of the former will be called here tomorrow. Powers has been removed from Frankfort to the jail here, and it is denied that his mind is giving away under the long confinement. Powers was convicted more than a year ago as accessory to the murder of William Goebel in January, 1900, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Howard was later convicted of the deed and sentenced to be hanged. Over sixty witnesses have been summoned, and it is expected that this trial will be conducted on lines of marked difference from that of last year. It is generally believed that both sides have secured much new evidence.

Mormonism Thrives In London.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The semiannual conference of Mormon missionaries in London came to a close yesterday with three services in the Finsbury town hall, which was crowded at all three. G. Q. Morris presided, and addresses were made by Messrs. Lyman, Eckersley and Emmett, apostles, and other Mormon leaders from the United States. Mr. Lyman referred to the work of the mission in London as a great success and predicted that the Mormon cause would have increased prosperity in Great Britain next year.

AMERICANS WARNED

Captain Connell Had Prepared For Filipino Uprising.

PACIFICOS LED IN SAMAR MASSACRE.

Most of the Guilty Ones Had Taken Oath of Allegiance, and Some, Including Balangiga's President, Actually Held Office.

MANILA, Oct. 7.—Major Morris C. Foote of the Ninth United States infantry, who has returned here from the island of Samar, was in Balangiga the day before the disaster to Company C. He says that Captain Connell had been fully warned and had taken what he (Major Foote) considered every necessary precaution. Information that a riot was brewing among the Filipinos came to Major Foote from a priest, who said that it was in the plans of the populace at both Balangiga and Basey to attack the garrisons and that the Basey garrison was to be attacked from a cockpit in the rear of the barracks. Orders were immediately given to demolish the cockpit, and extra guards were stationed.

There is intense feeling throughout the army because of the massacre, which would not be the case to any such extent had it been the work of ordinary insurgents. The latter might have been expected to commit such an outrage. Feeling is particularly intense in military circles because the authors of the massacre were pacificos, most of whom had taken the oath of allegiance and many of whom, including the presidente of Balangiga, were actually holding office.

Some of the after effects are already shown at many points, particularly at Baulan (Bauan?) and Caloocan, in the provinces of Batangas and Manila, where disaffection is manifesting itself, although it is not likely to be allowed to go far.

On the other hand, the officers and troops at all the garrisons throughout the archipelago feel that the disaster conveys a lesson to themselves of the necessity for increased vigilance.

Considerable interest attaches to the case of Oakley Brooks, a military prisoner ordered to be deported. The supreme court recently issued a writ of habeas corpus directing the production of the prisoner, but the military authorities refused to produce him on the ground that the only tribunal having jurisdiction of a military prisoner is the federal court. While the Philippine courts were established by the war powers of the president, the military authorities contend that they are to be regarded as provost courts until congress has acted.

Congressman Shafroth's Views.

DENVER, Oct. 7.—Congressman John F. Shafroth, who has been traveling in China and the Philippines for the past four months, has reached home. Speaking of the conditions in the Philippines, he said: "Peace has been practically restored. There is still a little insurrection in Samar, but aside from that everything is fairly quiet. I do not believe, however, that the retention of the islands will be profitable, as the government will have to expend a great deal of money on them even in times of peace."

London Anarchists Celebrate.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—A fairly numerous meeting of anarchists was held yesterday in a hall in Tottenham Court road, London, to hear a lecture on the assassination of President McKinley by H. Kelly of New York. The audience, largely composed of foreigners, applauded all references to "Saint" Czolgosz and his "meritorious" act. The speakers included Enrico Malatesta, the Italian anarchist, who described the assassination as "a deed of heroism." Kelly's lecture was a wild harangue in denunciation of Mr. McKinley's political career. He declared that they did not try to justify assassination, but rather to explain it as the outcome of "the oppression of workmen by capital." "If the killing of McKinley opens the eyes of the capitalists and induces them to treat the working people better," cried the agitator, "then great good will have been done."

A Feat at Railroading.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 7.—The Pennsylvania and Fort Wayne tracks were joined yesterday over the new elevated structure on the Liberty street side of the new Union station. At 11 o'clock traffic was suspended, over 1,000 men were set to work, and at 7:30 train No. 15, the Chicago express, passed over the new elevated tracks. Several trains in the meantime were sent through the Panhandle tunnel and backed to the Fort Wayne by the Ohio connecting bridge. The work is considered one of the most expeditious and stupendous feats of its kind performed in recent years.

Detective Assassinated.

WINFIELD, Kan., Oct. 7.—Detective Montgomery of the Santa Fe road, one of the oldest men in the secret service, was assassinated by an unknown man, who drove up to his house in a buggy and shot him as Montgomery sat in his parlor. The assassin escaped and left no clew. No definite cause is known for the shooting, but it is supposed to have been the result of Montgomery's energy in hunting down men who were alleged to be stealing from the railroad company.

Eighteen Injured In Collision.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 7.—Two cars on the Consolidated Street railway were in collision at the corner of Fair and Washington streets last evening, injuring eighteen people. Both cars were crowded and were under considerable headway on a down grade when they met.

The Campaign.

If the common reports are to be believed, Franklin Murphy, the Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey, is going to conduct a campaign on unusually aggressive lines. It is his plan to visit every city and town in the State, if for only a few minutes, and speak in person to the voters there. It will be a heavy undertaking but Mr. Murphy appears to be possessed of tireless energy and a sound physical constitution.

At the meeting of the Republican State committee last Friday, it was definitely settled that Mr. Murphy should remain at the head of that committee. There has been much discussion on this subject and Mr. Murphy has expressed himself as very reluctant to continue in the place. The Republican leaders have been of the opinion, however, that he ought to stay and so he has finally taken definite action in that direction. His right hand men are to be Chancery Clerk Stokes and State Senator McCarter. It is with their assistance that he intends to map out the campaign and conduct it to a finish.

While the local Republicans have done nothing definite so far, it is understood to be their intention to hold a big rally here shortly and allow the voters of Plainfield to see the gubernatorial candidate of the Republicans. There are many Plainfielders who have already met or seen him but a candidate is always a drawing card and Mr. Murphy may expect a warm reception in such a Republican stronghold as this.

It is also to be expected that Mayor James F. Seymour, the Democratic candidate, will appear in Plainfield before the campaign is over. It is not the way of this city to give the cold shoulder to any prominent man who happens to side with the party in the minority here. So Mr. Seymour can count on being well and fairly treated if he does decide to visit Plainfield.

It has been suggested that the municipal ownership agitation is dead. Don't you believe it. It is quiet for a time but it is just as likely as not to break out any day and sweep the city like an epidemic. Now that the water bills are out, you are liable to hear some talk about it. There is nothing like that which hits the pocket-book to make an impression on the public at large.

The turning out of the lights on the platform and in the railroad tunnel at the North Avenue station after 12 o'clock is a bit of parsimony that may prove very expensive to the railroad company. Thursday evening an elderly woman fell on the steps in the tunnel, owing to the darkness and narrowly escaped injury.

In these autumn days with the gorgeous coloring of the foliage, Plainfield shows to great advantage. No city or town in the country can boast of so fine and well kept shade trees as can our beautiful city. The well kept green lawns with the beauties of our foliage conspire to make a sight of rare beauty.

The men who are at the head of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club have a way of succeeding when they set about any undertaking. With the assistance of Dame Nature, who smiled her sweetest for the occasion, the annual reception of that club Saturday was an overwhelming success.

Judging from the results of the primaries of the Somerset county Republicans, Senator Charles A. Reed is still the leading factor in county circles and his choice for sheriff, Mayor N. B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, can have the nomination if he desires it.

It will devolve upon James E. Martine to be one of those who will formally notify Mayor Seymour of his nomination for governor by the Jersey Democracy. That is the least that the Democrats can do for the "Farmer Orator."

There is a draft of weights and measures ordinance which has been before the Common Council for many months. It certainly looks as if the provisions attached to it were too weighty for even the Councilmen to support.

Having seen the international yacht races settled satisfactorily, the people are now ready to turn their attention to politics. New York promises to have considerable along that line to invite attention this fall.

There are many words of satisfaction to be heard now that the driveways leading to the new east bound station are being put in proper condition.

FORMALLY OPENED.

Number of Young Men Attended the Opening of Y. M. C. A Saturday Evening.

The formal fall opening of all departments of the Y. M. C. A. took place Saturday evening. S. T. Ford, the well-known humorist and impersonator, entertained the audience for some time with his clever monologues. An excellent address on "Success," was given by L. W. Travell, principal of the Plainfield High School.

After the entertainment part of the programme, the men were invited to inspect the building under the supervision of Physical Director Heywood and Secretary Manning. A large number stayed and availed themselves of the opportunity.

LUCKY THIRTEEN.

Hoodoo Kept Away From the Wedding Celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McInnis Saturday Evening.

A host of friends tendered a very pleasant surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McInnis, of Grant avenue, Saturday evening, it being the thirteenth anniversary of their wedding.

A delightful evening was spent with music, singing and speaking. The surprise was made complete when Wm. Gray, after making a few remarks, presented Mr. McInnis with a handsome rocker and Mrs. McInnis with a large bouquet of cut flowers on behalf of the guests.

Refreshments were served at midnight and all departed for home after singing "Auld Lang Syne."

AT HOPE CHAPEL.

Sunday-School Held Rally-Day Exercises Yesterday Afternoon.

The pupils of Hope chapel Sunday-school held rally-day exercises yesterday afternoon. The programme as rendered consisted of exercises as follows: "The Soldiers' Drill," Harold and Morris Hunter, Joseph Muir, Harry Stewart and Harry Kenney; exercise, "Rally Day," May McInnis, Lizzie Porter, Eliza Slorah, Ruth Kenney and Hedrig Groteman; exercise, Edith Meyer, Lillian Shirley, Edith Nelson and Hannah Brandt; vocal selection, Miss Anna Warnock; recitation, "Rally Day," Jessie Duncan.

Will Notify Seymour.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, Oct. 7.—Mayor Seymour, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, will be formally notified of the action of the State Democratic convention this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The notification will take place at the Jefferson Club in the city. James E. Martine, of Plainfield, is a member of the committee appointed to await on Mr. Seymour.

His First Sermon.

Rev. L. E. Howard, of Providence, R. I., who recently received and accepted a call to the pastorate of Hope Memorial chapel, preached his initial sermons yesterday. In the morning his subject was "The Higher Law" and in the evening "Habits." Both were masterly addresses and were heard by large congregations.

Junius Flippin, of Park avenue, left Sunday for Lynchburg, Va., where he will enter a theological seminary and college.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hendrickson, of Middletown, N. J., are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street.

HILLSIDE CLUB'S ANNUAL RECEPTION.

of the spectators went to the sixth green where the approach and putting contest was held. Five teams tied for first place and the play off lasted way into the twilight. Miss Lida vanHerwerden and Howard de P. Wright, Hillside, finally won with Miss Helen Lee and Dudley H. Barrows, Hillside, second.

The scores were: Miss van Herwerden and H. deP. Wright, Hillside, 10; Miss Helen Lee and D. H. Barrows, Hillside, 10; Mrs. Samuel Townsend and Morgan T. Townsend, Park, 10; Miss May Evans and T. R. Van Boskerck, Hillside, 10; Miss Margaret Goddard and Effingham Pinto, Hillside, 10; Miss Edith Tracy and W. L. C. Glenney, Hillside, 10; Miss M. L. Tracy and Howard Tracy, Hillside, 11; Miss Adelaide G. Ball and William R. Faber, Park, 12; Miss Edith Van Boskerck and J. P. Murray, Hillside, 12; Mrs. E. R. Ackerman and Harry Munger, 14; Miss Marjorie Fleming and W. L. Glenney, Hillside, 14; Mrs. J. W. DeGraff and E. R. Ackerman, 17.

One of the strong attractions, although not witnessed by such a large crowd of spectators, was the lawn tennis tournament on Councilman George P. Mellick's courts for the championship of the club. Play was started in the morning and continued until it was too dark to play.

In the first round E. M. Daniel, 3d., was defeated by Thomas M. Day, Jr., 6-3, 6 0; F. W. Goddard defeated Miss Loizeaux 6-2, 6-2; A. D. Beers defeated Miss Helen Martin 6-0, 6-0; and Miss Schuyler defeated J. Hartley Mellick 6-2, 6 1. In the second round A D Beers defeated Miss Schuyler 5 6, 6 3, 6 5, and T. M. Day, Jr., defeated F. W. Goddard 6 4, 6-1. This finished the play for the day. To finish the tournament T. M. Day, Jr., will play A. D. Beers in the finals and the winner of that match will play Kenneth Bulkley, the present champion of the club and holder of the cup. Those who are fond of tennis watched the play and frequently applauded the contestants.

For those who did not care to brave the chilling wind which swept out of the north and watch the golf or tennis there was plenty of attraction at the club house during the afternoon. Autumn flowers and foliage were utilized for interior decoration. In the side room a banjo orchestra, in which were Brooks and Denton, the well-known banjoists, rendered popular and operatic selections. The reception committee, composed of Mrs George A. Chapman, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. O. T. Waring, Mrs. J. W. Beinhart and Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury, was on duty and looked after the welfare of the guests. Refreshments were served in the dining-room, which was also prettily decorated. A number of young women of the club assisted in serving. Those who presided at the tables and otherwise assisted in the dining-room were Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Mrs. W. E. Gibbs, Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Mrs. T. M. Day, Mrs. Florence Blake, Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, Mrs. Howard Tracy, Mrs. Craig A Marsh, Mrs Geo P. Mellick, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. Fred W. Yates and Mrs. L. S. Timpson.

The decorations were prepared under the directions of Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. Lucius Ryce, the Misses Holly and Miss Mary Whiton. In general charge of the whole affair was the house committee, which is composed of George P. Mellick, chairman, and Mrs. E. T. Barrows.

After a dinner was served to the club members and their guests the evening was devoted to a dance. The main room of the club house was rather small, but the affair was a delightful one nevertheless. The music was furnished by Brooks and Denton.

How He Gets a Hearing.

The time worn methods of securing an audience with the householder is a failure nowadays, and new ways must be devised. One enterprising odd job man has a new entering wedge which deserves notice, if only for its impudence.

He goes to the flat building and rings a bell. The householder answers down the tube.

"Hello. Is this Miss ——?" reading the name from the card index.

"Yes. What is it?"

"Pardon my asking," comes the answer, "but are you all church members in this house?"

The assertion that the entire household is righteous usually comes, and then the odd job man says:

"I am delighted to hear it. Delighted. But have you a piano that you want tuned or a sewing machine that needs mending?"

Sometimes he gets the job and sometimes he doesn't, but in any event he has secured a hearing.—Chicago Tribune.

Our Matches Are Too Explosive.

Generally speaking, foreign matches make less noise when igniting than American matches. The majority of the latter crack like a pistol shot when scratched. This effect results from the peculiar composition with which the American matches are tipped. Sweden, to which country the world is indebted for several other innovations in this line of business, originated what is called the "safety match," which will light only when scratched upon its own box. This result is attained by putting one important ingredient of the friction compound, the phosphorus, on the box rather than on the match.—N. Y. Tribune.

Early Use of Petroleum.

Petroleum has been known from ancient times. It was put to practical use as a fuel in the region around the Caspian sea much earlier than elsewhere. Under the name of "Sicilian oil," it was burned in lamps in Rome in the days of Pliny. It entered into use in the arts in China centuries ago, and was discovered by the early settlers in Canada and the United States. As first known petroleum came from springs, and among its first uses, apparently learned from the North American Indians, was its employment as a medicinal agent to cure rheumatism and neuralgia.—Scientific American.

Britain's Fate.

The two most powerful forces in the new century will be Russia and the North American republic, and to a great extent the fate of the English empire will depend on what these countries do or do not do. Of these two colossal empires, the American republic occupies a favored position. It is like a mighty island, and as such it will be almost beyond attack from the day when it shall have a navy that can cope with the vessels of England, and that day is sure to come in the near future.—Munich Allgemeine Zeitung.

Our Dumb Friends.

We shall respect ourselves none the less if we find animals are nearer to us intellectually than is generally supposed. About 100 smart men have been credited with the saying: "The more I see of men the better I like dogs." There is this much truth in the saying, that there are some men in this world whom animals would probably be ashamed to recognize as equals. Let us wait on the scientists. They may teach us much that will be helpful.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Help Wanted—Male.

Mrs. Hauskeep—Goodness! This meat is absolutely raw. This new cook is wretched; she never cooks anything half enough.

Mr. Hauskeep—Don't blame her. She's only a woman.

"What has that to do with it?"

"Well, 'woman's work is never done,' you know." — Philadelphia Times.

A Difference.

"Great Scott, Bjones, you look as though you had swallowed a haystack!"

"Nope. Not exactly. But you see it's the style nowadays to appear intellectual."

"Humph! If that's the case you ought not look as if you had swallowed anything."—Denver Times.

The Reason.

Mr. Frontpew—I am glad you belong to our church choir, my dear; it is such an orderly organization; I never see you whispering to one another during services.

Mrs. Frontpew—No, none of us are on speaking terms.—Ohio State Journal.

A Noah's Ark Handicap.

At a fancy fair got up the other day on a race course near Paris in aid of a military hospital, the chief attraction was a sort of Noah's ark handicap race. The trainers were ladies, who had their work cut out for them in the capacity of drivers as well. One sportswoman brought a guinea fowl, another a cock, a third a guinea pig. Others drove, pushed or pulled a tortoise, a duck, a hare, a rabbit, a sheep and a pigeon respectively. The guinea pig passed the winning post first, the hare, who started scratch, having gone off on a tangent, with its despairing mistress running after it, while the tortoise was sure, but too slow, and the others could not be got to finish the course, except the duck, which took second place.—London Telegraph.

Royalty's Cast-Off Raiment.

One reason why the confidential servants of royalty have been able to amass comfortable fortunes in spite of their moderate salaries is that they receive from their employers many gifts of old clothes and other things which they can turn into money. The outgrown raiment of Queen Victoria's children used to be quickly purchased by discreet persons from the confidential servants, who did not offer these perquisites to the world at large, but only to a select clientele. In Catholic countries the church and its various sisterhoods are glad to take over the leavings of royal and imperial families; for splendid robes can be turned into vestments for the Madonna or the priests or for altar draperies.—Detroit Free Press.

Roadside Philosophy.

Weary Wraggles—Funny how things go. The people you would like to have friendly to you turn away from you, while those whose company is distasteful to you force themselves upon you.

Dusty Roads—Weary, what're yer givin' us?

"Up at the farmhouse on the hill everybody turned away from me—all but the dog, and he showed a disposition to force his company upon me that was positively nauseating."—Boston Transcript.

A Curious Beetle.

The museum beetle is as queer a fellow as the bookworm. He lives in museums only, and eats exhibits. Wool, furs, bric-a-brac, wood, pictures, chemicals—anything which a museum contains is fare for the museum beetle, and he often does great damage to collections. He is small and dust colored. Care-takers know him well, and are ever on the lookout for him, but, despite their zeal, he manages, somehow, to thrive and multiply, and there is probably not a museum in the land that is not pestered with him.—Nature.

Summary Retribution.

"Behead the brass band," shouted the Chinese emperor.

The court favorite looked questioningly at the empress dowager.

"Certainly," said she. "If it will amuse him behead the entire band."

"But what reason shall I give?"

"Simply call attention to its lack of delicacy. As we were entering the Forbidden City it played 'The Old Home Ain't What It Used to Be.'"—Washington Star.

Kept Tab on Police.

During a recent raid on a swindler's den at Brunswick, England, the police found an album which contained not only the portrait of every member of the force, but accurate anthropometric descriptions and records of physical peculiarities for his identification. This is the first recorded instance of the Bertillon system being turned against the police.—New York Sun.

He Drew the Line.

"Hold on, there!" called Charon to the new arrival at the ferry over the Styx. "You wait until the next trip and I'll take you over alone."

"Why this distinction?" inquired one of the spirit passengers.

"Oh, he's one of those fools that rock the boat, and I didn't want to spoil the trip for the rest of you."—Baltimore American.

Overheard at Saratoga.

Mrs. Newlywed—Well, papa writes that he will indorse no more of your notes under any circumstances.

Mr. Newlywed—I'm glad of it! I'm tired of lying to my bankers about what a fine chap your father is.—Judge.

OCTOBER DAYS
PAN-AMERICAN

AT Chicago October was the great month in point of attendance at the World's fair. There is every reason to believe the same result will come to the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, where October is always a month of delightful weather. The Exposition in point of beauty and interest is at its climax, and the programme of special events is such as to attract and please. September started with great crowds, and only the tragedy in the Temple of Music, which stunned and shocked a world, halted an overwhelming success in that month. The Exposition management as a tribute of respect closed the gates for one day, Thursday, when the state funeral of the third martyred president took place. The crowds since then have poured to Buffalo. The Temple of Music, now hallowed and historic ground, has been the Mecca of thousands.

Buffalo has demonstrated her ability to care for great crowds satisfactorily, not only in hauling them to the Exposition by street car and steam railway at a fare of but 5 cents from any part of the city, but to house and feed them at prices in the reach of all. The stories of exorbitant prices were long ago shown to be fables, and every visitor who makes the slightest effort to get accommodation can do so wholly within his means.

The Exposition itself, with its beautiful buildings, its coloring by day, its magic lighting at night, its walks and courts, its canals and lakes, its fountains and statuary, its exhibits and its amusements, has been a delight to the 5,000,000 visitors who have already been to the Pan-American.

The Exposition Company opened up the month of October, beginning Monday, Sept. 30, with a Carnival week of splendid events, including a baby coach parade, with 3,000 school children singing in the procession, a monster pageant with the floats used in the New Orleans Mardi Gras and allegorical parade and the feature of the beautiful floral parade at Saratoga. These will take place on Thursday and Saturday, Oct. 3 and 5, but every day from Sept. 30 to Oct. 5 will be replete with interest. Special fireworks on the lake, with decorated and illuminated launches in a procession of fiery grandeur, will afford new and wonderful sensations to the visitors.

Thus October will be ushered in with a programme so arranged as to give the American public a delightful week.

The life saving drill, daily, has become one of the great attractions of the Exposition. It tells the story of the work of the heroic men who guard the shores of ocean and great lakes, always on the alert to drag from death's brink the shipwrecked sailor or passengers. The model camp of United States marines, the seacoast guns, the ordnance and all the exhibits showing war's panoply and our defensive measures have been a great educator to thousands of visitors. Some military company is always encamped in the park, and that part of the grounds is never without interest.

With the magnificent exhibit of the United States Government and the South and Central American States' buildings every visitor can spend a day. No exposition has ever provided in so compact a space, with such beauty of architecture and with so much care for the comfort of the visitor, so much. All exhibit buildings are free, including the Stadium, the great amphitheater, the art gallery, state buildings, and never was so much given for so little.

The gorgeous pyrotechnics—and no exposition has ever been so lavish in the display of fireworks—are free to all Exposition visitors. The programme provided by Pain in October includes the magnificent water carnival with gorgeous ballet, wonderful figures in liquid fire, and aerial bombs and rockets of startling beauty and mystifying construction.

To the millions interested in agriculture, stock and poultry rearing, the Pan-American Exposition especially appeals. The cattle show was a tremendous success and the sheep show, beginning Sept. 23 and continuing to Oct. 25, has proved an attraction for those interested, from every section from Maine to California and Canada. Among the states represented are Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Vermont, Ohio, New Jersey, Texas and Missouri. Of the total number of flocks on exhibition twenty-seven have been sent here from the Dominion of Canada, most of the exhibitors being located in the province of Ontario. The province of Quebec is also represented. During the course of the sheep show there will be held in the New York State building a series of meetings of prominent North and South American sheep breeders.

The Buffalo Review of Sept. 24 said that "this ought to be a great time for the farmers to visit the Pan-American. Every farmer in New York State, not to mention those in other parts of the country, ought to see the attractions of the Rainbow City during the next three or four weeks.

"The cattle show last week was a big feature of the Exposition, and this week there is a great sheep show in progress.

"The New York State farmers and the sheep raisers from other states will find it most interesting to compare the South American breeds with those of North America.

"It will surprise many to learn that the pavilions for animals at the Pan-American cover ten acres and are capable of housing 35,000 animals."

The programme for October so far as made up at this time is as follows:

Can Care For 250,000.

Director General Buchanan says the only problem now confronting the Exposition is how to find days enough within the closing weeks to adequately take care of the many attractions and features now being planned. He predicts a great attendance during the month of October and one far in excess of the highest estimates that have been made by the most sanguine. In answer to the inquiry as to whether or not Buffalo could take care of the crowds, he said there was no difficulty whatever in this regard; that Buffalo could easily care for 250,000 strangers every day comfortably and at reasonable prices.

In the Music Temple.

The organ recitals in the Temple of Music are daily features of the Pan-American Exposition. Many celebrated organists are on the programme for October. Victor Herbert's famous orchestra will be at the Temple of Music from Oct. 14 to the close of the Exposition.

A few months ago I saw the ad in a Philadelphia paper and sent for a sample package Ripans Tabules and was so much pleased with them that I then ordered one dozen. I am an inspector of freight cars and my work is all at night. Am fifty years of age. Working at night has a tendency to make me nervous and I can not sleep. Whenever I feel this way I always take a Ripans Tabule before going to bed, which effectually drives away the nervousness and produces sound, refreshing sleep without any after bad effects that other sleeping doses leave. For a regulator of the bowels without any pain or griping I have never found an equal to Ripans Tabules. I also find them as represented for heartburn or water brash.

WANTED:—A case of bad health that R-I-P-A-N-S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R-I-P-A-N-S on the package and accept no substitute. The New Woman

By Eliza Archard Conner

A woman writes to another, a young business woman of seventy or thereabout asking her when she is going to "settle down." The young business woman of seventy writes back that she expects to live a century and that she is never going to "settle down." Just so soon as a woman begins to give up active physical habits and intellectual exercise, just so soon as she begins to lie abed mornings and let her daughter button her boots for her, she is getting lazy in her mind. The mental sluggishness repeats itself immediately in her body. Her shoulders begin to bow over disgracefully, her body becomes heavy and lumpish around the hips—in short, it begins to settle down. Nature never meant a woman to misdevelop into a dumpling, but she does it of her own free will. It comes first from a mental sluggishness, particularly among women who do not have to work for their living. They let themselves lose through sheer laziness the bright, eager, enthusiastic minds of their girlhood, which nature gave them to start on, just because it is too much trouble to keep up. They eat too much, they lie abed too much, they walk too little and they do not exercise or think at all. Then the poisonous, murdering fat accumulates over their bodies, and they have "settled down," useless, physically incapable old women in the prime of their years. The mental laziness starts oftentimes in the first place through depending on others—husbands maybe, maybe daughters—to think for them and manage for them. It is the easier way when you first begin to slide down hill, but death and destruction are at the bottom. Don't ever "settle down."

You would not take poison into your stomach if you knew it. Well, worrying has the same effect on your body as that would have. It is a poison, sometimes not a very slow one either. You can't help worrying? Yes, you can. Make yourself think of something else.

What would become of husbands if their wives saw no more in them than other people do and knew them just as other people do?

Let us be proud of Florence West. She is only seventeen, yet in a three mile swimming race in New York bay she easily defeated five members of a life saving crew belonging to one of the government stations. All of them finished the course, but all were worn out at its close except the girl, who was as fresh as when she began.

It is surprising the number of men and women who find out after they are married that somebody else is their ideal.

Chicago has nearly 2,000 deserted wives on charity rations. It will be a good thing for those deserted wives to stir themselves and go and earn their own living.

Miss Carmelita Beckwith has written a charming and witty booklet called "Motoritis." It is the biography of a trolley car motor, told by itself, in which it shows to the reader that it has arms, shoulders, a "feeder," ears, etc. While it certainly has no hair, nevertheless "switches" are a part of its equipment, and it is constantly being shocked, particularly when it must run over "frogs." The little book shows a familiarity with the mechanism of an electric motor that is unexpected in a young lady.

Dr. Sawyer is said to be doing exceedingly well in Manila. Naturally, for wherever Americans are they know enough to take care of their teeth, which is more than people of other nations know.

Tob slapped his leg. "No savage Europe for me, my lord. Now see the advantage of being a mariner. I found once some islands to the north of Europe, separated from the main by a strait, which I called the Tin islands, seeing that tin ore litters many of the beaches. I was driven there by storm, and said no word of the find when I got back, and here, you see, it comes in useful. There's no one in all Atlantis but me knows of those Tin islands to-day, and we'll go and fight honestly for our ground, and build a town and a kingdom on it."

"With Tob for king?"

"Well, I have figured it out as such for many a day, but I know when I meet my betters, and I'm content to serve under Deucalion. My lord would have done wiser to bring a wife with him, though, and I thought it was understood by the good lady that spoke to me down at the harbor, or I'd have mentioned it earlier. The savages in my Tin islands go naked and stain themselves blue with woad, and are very filthy and brutish to look upon. They are sturdy, and should make good slaves, but one would have to get blunted in the taste before one could wish to be father to their children."

"I am still husband to Phorenice."

Tob grinned. "The gods give you joy of her. But it is part of a mariner's creed—and you will grow to be a mariner here—that wedlock does not hold across the seas. However, that matter may rest. But, coming to my Tin islands again: they'll delight you. And I tell you, a kingdom will not be so hard to carve out as it was in Egypt, or as you found in Yucatan. There are beasts there, of course, and no one who can hunt need ever go hungry. But the greater beasts are few. There are cave bears and cave tigers in small numbers, to be sure, and some river horses and great snakes. But the greater lizards seem to avoid the land; and as for birds, there is rarely seen one that can hurt a grown man. Oh, I tell you, it will be a most desirable kingdom."

"Tob seems to have imagined himself king of the Tin islands with much reality."

He sighed a little. "In truth I did, and there is no denying it; and I tell you plain, there is not another man living that I would have broken this voyage for but Deucalion. But don't think I regret it, and don't think I want to push myself above my place. This breeze and the ebb are taking the old ship finely along her ways. See those fire-buckets on the harbor forts? We're abreast of them now. We'll have dropped them and the city out of sight by daylight, and the flood will not begin to run up till then. But I fear unless the wind hardens down with the dawn we'll have to bring up to an anchor when the flood makes. Tides run very hard in these narrow seas. Aye, and there are some shrewdish tide-rips round my Tin islands, as you shall see when we reach them."

There were many fearful glances backward when day came and showed the waters, and the burning mountains that hemmed them in beyond the shores. All seemed to expect some navy of Phorenice to come surging up to take them back to servitude and starvation in the squalid wards of the city; and I confess ingenuously that I was with them in all truth when they swore they would fight the ship till she sank beneath them before they would obey another of the commands of Phorenice. However, their brave heroics were displayed to small purpose. For the full flow of the tide we hung in our place, barely moving past the land, but yet not seeing either oar or sail; and then, when the tide turned, away we went once more with speed, mightily comforted.

Tob's woman must needs bring drink on deck, and bid all pour libations to her as a future queen. But Tob cuffed her back into the aftercastle, slamming to the hatch behind her heels, and bidding the crew send the liquor down their dusty throats. "We are done with that foolery," said he. "My Lord Deucalion will be king of this new kingdom we shall build in the Tin islands, and a right proper king he'll make, as you untraveled ones would know if you'd sailed the outer seas with him as I have done." Beneath which I read a regret, but said nothing, having made my plans from the moment of stepping on board, as will appear on a later sheet.

Soon down the great estuary we made our way, and though it pleased the others on board when they saw that the seas were desolate of sails, it saddened me when I recalled how once the waters had been whitened with the glut of shipping.

They had started off on their voyage with a bare two days' provision in their equipment, and so, of necessity, even after leaving the great estuary, we were forced to voyage coastwise, putting in every likely river and sheltered beach to slay fish and meat for future victualing. "And when the winter comes," said Tob, "as its gales will be heavier than this old ship can stomach, I had determined to haul up and make a permanent camp ashore, and get a crop of grain grown and threshed before setting sail again. It is the usual custom in these voyages. And I shall do it still, subject to my lord's better opinion."

So here, having by this time completed a two-months' leisurely journey from the city, I saw my opportunity to speak what I had always carried in my mind. "Tob," I said, "I am a poor, weak, defenseless man, and I am quite at your mercy; but what if I do not voyage all the way to the Tin islands and oust you of this kingship?"

He brightened perceptibly. "Aye," he grunted, "you are very weak, my lord, and mighty defenseless. We know all about that. But what's else? You must tell all your meaning plain. I'm a common mariner, and understand little of your fancy talk."

"Why, this. That it is not my wish to leave the continent of Atlantis. If you will put me down on any part of this side that faces Europe, I will commend you strongly to the gods. I would I could give you money, or (better still) articles that would be useful to you in your colonizing; but as it is, you see me destitute."

"As to that, you owe me nothing, having done vastly more than your share each time we have put in shore for the hunting. But it will not do, this plan of yours. I will shamedly confess that the sound of that kingship in my Tin islands sounds sweet to me. But no, my lord, it will not do. You are no mariner yet, and understand little of geography, but I must tell you that the part of Atlantis there"—he jerked his thumb towards the line of trees and the mountains that lay beyond the fringe of surf—"is called the Dangerous Lands, and a man must needs be a salamander and be learned in magic (so I am told) before he can live there."

I laughed. "We of the Priests' clan have some education, Tob, though it may not be on the same lines as your own. In fact, I may say I was taught in the colleges concerning the boundaries and the contents of our continent with a nicety that would surprise you. And once ashore, my fate will be still under the control of the most high gods."

He muttered something in his profane seaman's way about preferring to keep his own fate under the control of his own most strong right arm, but saying that he would keep the matter in his thoughts, he excused himself hurriedly to go and see to somewhat concerning the working of the ship, and there left me.

But I think the sweets of kingly rule were a strong argument in favor of letting me have my own way (which I should have had otherwise if it had not been given peacefully), and on the third day after our talk he put the ship inshore again for victualing. We lurched into a river-mouth, half swamped over a roaring bar, and ran up against the bank and made fast there to trees, but booming ourselves a safe distance off with oars and poles, so that no beast could leap on board out of the thicket.

IT WAS ALL HE KNEW.

Master Sogback's Pleasing Recitation on Lynching Does Duty on Occasion.

"We will next have the pleasure, gentlemen," said Prof. Spriggs, the teacher of the Polkville (Ark.) school, addressing the members of the board of directors, who had gathered at the temple of learning on a certain Friday afternoon to see the pupils put through their educational paces, "of listening to an original composition on the subject of lynching, by Mr. Lafe Sogback."

Thus introduced, says a writer in Puck, young Sogback, a spindle-necked, bulging-browed youth of 14, advanced and unbosomed himself as follows:

"Lynchin' is harmful, debasin' and expensive. It breaks the limbs of the trees, disturbs the little birds in their nests, and is a mighty abrupt way of makin' angels. Like other bad habits, it grows on the persons who indulge in it—that is, it grows on the parties that do the lynchin'. It is not elevatin', except to the feller that is lynched. To everybody else that takes part in it it is debasin'. They get a sort of cravin' or appetite, after awhile, that nothing but lynchin's will satisfy. I have known men to ride 25 or 30 miles to help lynch some feller that wasn't even a distant relative of their'n; if he had fallen off'm a bluff and broke his back in two places they wouldn't have rid half so far to help him. Lynchin' is a very harmful amusement, and should not be indulged in except in moderation.

"Of course, the foregoin' remarks apply exclusively to white men. This is all I know about lynchin'."

REMOVED ELEVEN NEEDLES.

REMARKABLE OPERATION ON VICTIM OF COCAINE HABIT.

Points of Hypodermic Needles Found in Body—First Patient at Sanitarium at Dunellen.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

Dunellen, October 7—After having become so addicted to cocaine and morphia during a sad experience of eleven years past, that it is not uncommon for him to take ninety grains of cocaine as well as sixty grains of morphia daily, a former surgeon in the United States army is a patient in the Stirlingworth Sanitarium in this place. The case is the first one to be treated at the new institution, which has recently opened, and the result of an operation performed upon the victim of the deadening habits is awaited with interest.

Dr. Benton, the surgeon at the sanitarium, in the presence of Dr. Brakeley, of this place, has succeeded in removing from the patient's body eleven hypodermic needles, which had broken off in the body during this period of eleven years. In all but two of the incisions more or less pus was found. Under the course of treatment the patient is allowed to have as much cocaine and morphia as he may crave, it being claimed that the desire for the drugs will cease within a fortnight.

The history of the case is interesting to the medical fraternity especially inasmuch as the man has survived the effects of the pernicious habits after such a long time. Eleven years ago the man was operated on for appendicitis and it is said that the operation was unsuccessful and the victim suffered much pain. In a vain endeavor to stop the pain, the army officer became addicted to the drugs, with the present result. The result of the treatment at the sanitarium is awaited with interest.

TALKED ON EARLY CLOSING.

REV. E. M. RODMAN WAS FIRST PASTOR TO SPEAK ON SUBJECT.

Also Read a Statement From the Retail Clerks' Association, Giving Objects.

The first of a series of talks in favor of early closing was given last evening at Grace P. E. church by the rector, Rev. E. M. Rodman. Fifty members of the Retail Clerks' Association attended the service in a body. Mr Rodman said that both the employer and the employe have rights to be considered and he believed that the clerks were convinced that their employers would do that which is best for them.

Mr. Rodman then read a statement prepared by the association setting forth its objects. It claims that since the inauguration of the movement there has been a decrease in intoxication from the fact that men do not now remain on the streets in the evening. They claim that this decrease is fully 75 per cent. as shown by the police records.

After reading the statement Mr. Rodman made a few comments concerning it. In his opinion he believed that from 7 o'clock in the morning until 6 in the evening was long enough for any person to work. He also believed that the question would be solved to the satisfaction of all. Following Mr. Rodman's talk Rev. Mr. Johnson, of Trenton, preached an interesting sermon on the subject of "Humble Yourselves Before God."

Nationality of British Soldiers.

Among the infantry regiments of the British army ten are nominally Scotch, eight Irish, three Welsh, and 43 English. Of the English regiments it is interesting to note how they are apportioned among the various counties. There are ten for the counties which do not give a name to any regiment; of these the largest is Cumberland, and the most populous is Nottingham. Lancashire possesses seven regiments and a half and Yorkshire four and a half. The odd-looking fraction is accounted for by the York and Lancaster regiment. The populous counties of Surrey and Middlesex boast of only two regiments and one regiment respectively, though it is well known that the rifle regiments are largely recruited from London.—Albany Argus.

What Worried Him.

He was scratching his head with his penholder and seemed to be in considerable doubt about something.

"My wife's at the seashore and I'm writing to her," he explained.

"Well?" returned the caller, inquiringly.

"I don't know just what to say. If I tell her I am lonely and all that she may be sympathetic and come home on the first train."

"Then why don't you tell her you're getting along very nicely, considering the circumstances."

"I thought of that, but it's likely to make her suspicious, and then she'll come back on the first train, sure."—Chicago Post.

Widely Scattered Triplets.

An old soldier who had served his 21 years was discharged at Portsmouth. He went to the station with his wife and children and demanded three half fare tickets for his three youngest.

"How old are they?" asked the booking clerk suspiciously.

"Elivin years, all av them. They're thriplets," was the answer.

"Fine youngsters," said the clerk, "where were they born?"

"Pathrick was born in Cairo, Bridget was born in Bombay and Mickey was born in Madras," was the proud reply. —London Tit-Bits.

Erudition.

"Willie," said the woman with a sunbonnet swung from her elbow, "didn't I tell you to come into the house this minute?"

"Yes'm."

"Then why don't you obey me?"

"Because it is impossible," answered the boy, who is an example of what rapid education can accomplish. "The minute in which you spoke has now become last minute, and the present minute occupies the relationship of next minute to the precise period of your utterance."—Washington Star.

War's Wastage of Horses.

Roughly speaking, a corps requires to be remounted every four months, but one cavalry regiment records the staggering figure of 3,600 animals in a little over a year. It was the general opinion of experts that the members of the Household cavalry proved themselves the best "caretakers," and, despite their heavy weight, got as much work out of their mounts as any cavalry in the field. There was even one instance of a troop horse weathering the whole campaign and returning fit and well to ceremonial duties in London.—London Mail.

Abdul Hamid's Little Joke.

"Your excellency," said the grand vizier, "that French collector is cackling around here about that little bill again."

"What sayeth he?" asked Abdul Hamid, moodily puffing at his nargileh.

"He voweth that France will seize your realm unless the account be settled."

"Hum," sighed Abdul, taking a long draw. "France is a bird, but I hardly opine that she is a Turkey gobbler. I hardly opine that."—Baltimore American.

How to Play Trombones.

There is a story on record of a certain colonel of a regiment to whom, by long training, absolute exactness and uniformity had become second nature, and who complained to his bandmaster on one occasion that the trombone players were spoiling the appearance of the entire battalion. "You must see," he said, "in future, that the men move their sliding things in and out together!"—Good Words.

PRESENT TERM FINDS CITY SCHOOLS CROWDED

Supt. Maxson Made Annual Report to Plainfield Board of Education.

FIXED SCHOOL VACATIONS.

NEW PLAN FOR SCHOOL TICKETS TO BE GIVEN A TRIAL.

Will Stop Tendency Leading Toward Truancy by Severe Measures—Several Resignations Accepted and Appointments Made.

Several very important matters were taken up and acted upon at the regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education held last evening. Among them was the adoption of a temporary rule governing the use of school tickets on the local street railway, the passing of resolutions tending to stop the growing tendency of parents to keep children from school, and the fixing of vacations for the coming school year.

In routine matters, the custodian of school moneys reported that the receipts for the month had been $399.70 and the disbursements $12,677.18, leaving a balance of $442 30 divided between the general fund and Martin Act account. The tax collector's report showed a total of $399.70, including interest, collected and deposited with the custodian of school moneys.

The resignations of George W. Sandford, of the High School, and Miss Haven, of the Franklin School, were received and accepted, and the appointment of James Naonab and Miss Edith Whitney, to fill the vacancies, was confirmed.

Superintendent Maxson rendered his annual report in which he stated the fall term had opened with quite a full attendandance. In three of the schools, the High School, the Irving and Washington, there was a considerable increase. The total enrollment for the month was 2,384 The increase and promotions have produced a crowding in a number of classes, and he spoke of the manner in which the difficulty is being remedied at present. For permanent settlement nothing can be done until the erection of the new high school. He referred briefly to the change in the corps of teachers, inasmuch as one-fifth of the total number had resigned at the close of the past school year, and the difficulty experienced each year in filling their places with capable instructors.

On Mr. Maxson's recommendation, the grade which has heretofore been known as the fifth primary grade, will be included in the grammar department, but the rate of tuition will remain the same.

Mr. Maxson then brought forward the truancy question and asked that the board take some action in the matter. A statement, setting forth the difficulty experienced by him in this matter and the best possible remedy was read, after which resolutions offered by him were adopted. The full statement and the full course to be pursued by the board, will be found in another column.

General Superintendent Smith and Division Superintendent Collins, of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway, appeared in person before the board and asked that the matter of school ticket privileges on the company's lines, be definitely settled: The three-cent fare system, they said, has been subjected to abuse on the part of outsiders and they wished the practice stopped. They asked that the board adopt the identification card used in other cities with decided success. In this way pupils, in addition to having the three-cent school ticket, when riding, upon request of the conductor should exhibit a card issued and signed by their teacher.

Secretary Lounsbury informed the representatives that the board was not compelled to take any action in the matter whatever, but for the sake of assisting the company in its fight against outsiders, it was finally agreed to give the system a trial until the first of January, when if everything is satisfactory, it will be retained.

Superintendent Maxson stated that his annual report and financial statements was ready for publication. An auditing committee, consisting of Messrs. Probasco, Richards and Abbott, was appointed to certify it and order the usual number of copies printed.

The vacations for the ensuing school year were apportioned as follows: Christmas, from Friday, December 20, to Thursday, January 2; spring, the week following Easter Sunday; summer, from June 19 to September 9. On the recommendation of Mr. Maxson it was voted to purchase a new typewriter for the commercial department of the High School. On motion of President Probasco, Dr. A. F. VanHorn was appointed school medical examiner to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Murray. The Board then went into executive session.

CITY YOUNG FOLK TO WED.

MARRIAGE OF MISS ADA M. RUNYON AND THOMAS A. CUMING.

Will Take Place at Park Avenue Baptist Church Thursday Evening—The Bridal Party.

There is considerable interest evidenced in the approaching marriage of Miss Ada Marie Runyon to Thomas Adams Cuming, of Putnam avenue, which will take place Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B Runyon, of Stelton, and niece of Mrs. J. F. Brown and the late Rev. Dr. James F. Brown, for many years one one of the most prominent Baptist divines in this State.

The bridegroom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Cuming, of Putnam avenue, and a graduate of the Plainfield High School in the class of '93. For several years he has been active in religious, business and political circles in this city. He was also, for a number of years, local consul of the L. A. W. in this city, and is at present clerk of the Park Avenue Baptist church and president of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school Association.

The bridal party will be made up as follows: Maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Runyon, only sister of the bride; bridemaids, Miss Esther Thompson, of Belvidere avenue; Miss Mary A. Letson, of Stelton; the Misses Mary and Jeanette Giles, cousins of the bride; the Misses Helen F. and Henrietta W. Cuming, sisters of the groom. The best man will be Rev. John C. Whiting, formerly of this city, but now of New York. The ushers will be Henry F. Cuming, brother of the groom; Herbert L. Richardson, Charles Burdette Morse, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Arthur H. Serrell, of this city, and Benjamin W. Letson, of Stelton. The flower girl will be Miss Lillian Cuming, youngest sister of the groom, and the page will be Master David C. Smalley, Jr.

Prof. William F. Miller, of the Scotch Presbyterian church, Central Park West, New York, and formerly of the First Presbyterian church, this city, will preside at the organ. He will give a selection of classical works from 7 until 7:30 o'clock. Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. W. T. Dorward, of the Stelton Baptist church, will officiate at the wedding.

"KLONDYKE" OPEN.

Gang Bosses Went to Work Yesterday, But Entire Shop is Not Yet Open.

Fourteen machinists, who were formerly employed at the Aluminum Press Works, have secured positions at Waldron's machine shop at New Brunswick. An equally large number have secured employment at Elizabeth, while the remainder have scattered throughout the country.

A number of the gang bosses of the Aluminum shop resumed work yesterday, but it is not known when the entire shop will be opened. In case it should, it is not likely that any of the former employes who are out of town will return as all now have steady work.

Directions For Drivers.

To prevent any confusion among the equipages at the Fisk-Waring wedding in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Tuesday evening, the following directions are announced by Frank Hedden, who will be in charge.

Carriages containing guests from Plainfield will pass south from La Grande avenue to the Watchung avenue entrance of the church, leave passengers and turn, forming in line on the east side of Watchung avenue facing north.

Carriages containing guests from out of town will pass south from La Grande avenue to the Crescent avenue entrance of the church, leaving passengers and turn, forming in line on the west side of Crescent avenue facing north.

The church doors will open at 7:30 o'clock. Patrick S. Kiely,
Chief of Police.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR SEWER EXTENSION

Bid of P. J. Plunkitt, of Jersey City, Was Lowest For Netherwood Sanitary Sewer.

ORDINANCE PRINTING BIDS.

RESIDENTS PETITION AGAINST NEW HOSPITAL WITHOUT SEWERAGE.

Lots of Business Came Up Before Last Night's Session of the Common Council—The Union Veterans' Union Asked For Aid.

The principal business considered at the regular October meeting of the Common Council, held last evening, was that of receiving bids for the extension of the sanitary sewers in the east end of the city.

The regular order was suspended to receive the bids, five in number. The bidders, from the lowest figures up, are as follows: Patrick J. Plunkitt, Jersey City, $5,332 90; Arnold DeBoes Augen & Co., Elizabeth, $5 569.33; C. M. Meeker, Plainfield, $5,760.75; Harrison Construction Company, Newark, $5 924.76; Matthew Wade, Elizabeth, $6,606.15.

After the bids were considered by the Council, Mr. Tolles, chairman of the street and sewer committee, offered a resolution accepting the bid of Patrick J. Plunkitt, of Jersey City, after the necessary papers were executed according to the terms of the contract. It is expected that the work will be started very soon. The territory to be covered includes North avenue from Richmond street to Leland avenue, Leland avenue from North avenue to South avenue, South avenue from Leland avenue to a point 1,400 feet east, also South avenue from Richmond street to Central street.

The next matter considered was the bids for printing the city ordinances. The bid of A. L. Force was as follows: 500 copies, $1.10 per page; 700 copies, $1.40 per page; 1,000 copies, $1.55 per page, provided the book comprises 200 pages or more. If 100 pages or more the following prices: 500 copies, $1 35; 700 copies, $1.65; 1 000, $1 85. F. W. Bunyon's bid was 500 copies, $447.50; 750 copies, $470; 1,000, $494. The bid of the Monarch Printing Company was 500 copies $1 15 per page; 750 copies, $1.55; 1,000 copies, $1 75. The bids were referred to the finance committee.

The finance committee of the Third New Jersey Regiment, Antietam Command, Union Veterans' Union, asked the Council to make a suitable appropriation to enable the Command to entertain the New York and New Jersey Division in annual encampment to be held in this city, November 12 and 13. The matter was referred to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion as to whether the Council has the right to appropriate money for such a purpose.

A petition signed by fully one hundred residents of Park avenue and vicinity protested against the location of the new hospital at the corner of Park avenue and Randolph road, unless proper sewage disposal is provided The petition was headed by E. L. Finch and one hundred other residents interested. The matter was referred to the streets and sewers committee.

Residents of Dunellen avenue, between Albert street and Clinton avenue, petitioned the Council for three electric lights. The matter was referred. City Judge William N. Bunyon's quarterly report showed that 143 cases had been considered. Sentence was suspended on eighty-five, while twenty-eight were sent to the county jail. There were twenty-three fined and thirteen cases dismissed. The sum of $132 was collected in fines and $103 65 turned over to the city treasurer. Building Inspector Doane reported that fifteen building permits were granted during the past month.

Mr. vanHerwerden offered a resolution borrowing $6,000 to carry on the work of sewerage improvements, and another resolution offered by the same member provided for the borrowing of $4,500 for the general fund, $1,000 for the fire fund and $300 for the poor fund. Still another resolution by the same member provided for the correction of an error in the sale of a property in the Fourth ward under the Martin Act. The property is located on Rushmore avenue and was sold by mistake for another property.

Mr. Coriell reported on the petition received from Mrs. Kenyon and others asking for a fire box at the corner of East Third and Richmond streets. He stated that the committee would not recommend the location of such box as there are other boxes near the vicinity mentioned. Mr. Coriell also reported on the location of two fire hydrants on Jefferson and Dunellen avenues, by the Plainfield and Dunellen water companies. He stated that the hydrants had been tested, found to be all right and papers of agreements signed accepting the hydrants.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Gloak, the police committee secured an appropriation of $500 for winter police uniforms. On a motion offered by Mr. Gloak an auctioneer's license was granted to Charles Yaeger after payment of the regular fees. The Council then adjourned.

FISK-WARING WEDDING TAKES PLACE TONIGHT

It Will Be One of the Grandest Events of the Present Social Season.

ALL DETAILS ARE ARRANGED.

THOSE WHO WILL COMPOSE THE BRIDAL PARTY.

Ceremony Will Be Performed at Crescent Avenue Church This Evening at 8:30 o'Clock—Special Music—Reception at Mr. Fisk's.

Lavish preparations have been made for the Fisk-Waring nuptials and the smart set of this city as well as scores of society folk from far distant points are in a state of joyous expectancy eagerly awaiting the hour when they will witness the wedding ceremony. The marriage of Miss Louise Green Fisk, the attractive daughter of Former Mayor Fisk, of West Seventh street, to Lewis Edmond Waring, the son of O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, is arranged to take place at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the fashionable Crescent Avenue church. Aside from being the society event of the season in this city, where fashionable affairs of a similar nature are frequent, it will be the occasion of the uniting of two of the foremost families of wealth and position in this vicinity.

No means nor pains have been spared in making the nuptial function an elaborate and brilliant affair in every detail. The richest creations of the modiste's art and the most modern ideas of the floral artist will combine to lend enchantment to the beautiful religious service which will bring splendor and meaning to the event. Not only these attributes will make the ceremony a notable one, but the angelic music of the vested choir of twenty boys famed far and wide as the soloists of Grace church, New York, will sing the bridal choruses. James Helfenstein, the celebrated organist of Grace church, will have personal charge of the musical feast and he has prepared a grand programme, which will precede the ceremony.

The interior of the church edifice will be gorgeously decorated and the smart gowns of the women under the radiant electricity will make a truly charming scene, when the bridal party led by the choristers in their gowns of black and cottas of white move up the aisle to the majestic strains of the wedding march.

Laurens H. VanBuren, Rutherford Meade Shepard, Henry Wheeler Lowe, Augustus R Fisk, Charles W. Fisk and Richard S. Waring, of this city, and J. Cheney Wells, of South Bridge, Mass., and F. Raymond Lefferts and Edward Sawyer, of New York, are the chosen ushers. The bridemaids will be Miss Edith C. Fisk, Miss Helen Dunbar Talmage, Miss Helen Bushnell and Miss Florence Waring, of this city, Miss Esther D. Waterman, of Southport, Conn., Miss Evelyn L. Fisk, of Wilburtha, N. J., and Miss Margaretta Wood, of Pittsburg, Pa. The maid-of-honor will be Miss Fanny C. Cox. Attending the groom as best man will be his brother, Orville G. Waring.

The ceremony of the Episcopal church, noted alike for its simplicity and beauty, will be used by the officiating clergymen, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the church, and Rev. Harrison Ely Adriance, of New York. Each one will take his chosen part in the ceremony, while the choir chants bridal music.

Hundreds of vehicles will convey the invited guests, numbering in all probability 2,500, to the edifice, and when the service is completed it will take much skill on the part of Frank Hedden, who will act as carriage marshal, to avoid confusion.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party will leave post haste for the palatial residence of the bride's father, Former Mayor Fisk, on West Seventh street, where the wedding reception is to be held. The house has been temporarily enlarged to accommodate the large crowds of fashionable people who will gather there to congratulate the couple. A talented corps of musicians, known everywhere as the famous Brooks and Denton orchestra, will render a programme of popular airs and classical selections. The exterior as well as the interior of the residence has been transformed into a place of unusual splendor, and every detail will make it a scene of grandeur.

The guests from out of town will arrive in special cars shortly before 8 o'clock this evening and carriages will be in waiting to speed them to the church. After the ceremony they will likewise take their departure in special cars, which will run between Trenton and this city and New York and this city as well The list of 2:00 friends will come from this State and New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Maryland, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and other states.

ENDEAVOR STATE CONVENTION

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Marriage of Mrs. Mary J. Pound and William A. McClurg Yesterday Afternoon.

A quiet October nuptial event was the marriage of Mrs. Mary J. Pound to William Alexander McClurg, which took place at the residence of the bride, 255 East Second street, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was intended to consummate the happy affair in an unostentatious way and hence little publicity was attached to the wedding ceremony.

The house was prettily adorned with palms and potted plants on a modest scale. In the parlor, where the marriage service was performed, the flowers were tastefully arranged. The only attendants at the wedding were two ushers—Laurie McClurg, of Chicago, Ill., a brother of the groom, and George M. Griffen, of this city, a brother of the bride, the latter giving his sister away at the ceremony. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, used the Episcopal service.

When the nuptial function was concluded Mr. and Mrs. McClurg held a short reception and subsequently a wedding supper was served. Early in the evening the newly married couple departed for a fortnight's honeymoon. On their return they will reside at 255 East Second street.

The groom is the superintendent of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company and is an energetic business man who is well and favorably known in this vicinity.

SENATOR REED STILL LEADER IN SOMERSET.

Won Out In Bitter Factional Fight At the Republican County Convention.

MR. DOUGLAS FOR SHERIFF.

MAYOR SMALLEY WITHDRAWN BUT COOPER REMAINED IN THE FIGHT.

Hot Words Between Senator Reed And J. S. Frelinghuysen Commander Of The Thompson Forces—Reed Triumphed at Every Stage.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 8—The Republican county convention, held in the Court House here yesterday, was the hottest this town has been the scene of in many a day. The Reed and Thompson factions met in fierce conflict, and it must be confessed the Senator from North Plainfield carried off all the honors. He said to the reporter afterward that he had gotten all he wanted out of everything. The opening acts of the convention were given in yesterday's Daily Press.

When the different townships were requested to hand in the names of their delegates the first tiff between Senator Reed and J. S. Frelinghuysen, chief spokesman for the Thompson delegates, occurred.

Owing to a contest in the Franklin township delegation none of its delegates had credentials. It seems that out of five to be chosen two candidates for delegate had received eighty-four votes each and four others seventy-four each at the primary.

Senator Reed suggested that the matter be left to the decision of the committee on credentials to be appointed. One of the Franklin men thought that would not be fair, as that would leave them without representation on any of the committees. Mr. Frelinghuysen suggested that the two who had received the highest number of votes be recognized in the convention. This Senator Reed agreed to, providing Franklin and Warren, which were also laboring under a contest, be not allowed members on the committee on credentials, which would decide the standing of the delegates of the two townships. A resolution to that effect was passed.

During the appointment of the committees when Senator Reed's name was announced as North Plainfield's member of the committee on credentials, J. S. Frelinghuysen arose and said he had learned of a contest in the North Plainfield delegation and did not see why it should be represented on that committee if Franklin and Warren were not. W. L. Kliner then stepped forward and Mr. Frelinghuysen asked that his story be heard.

Before the chairman could recognize Mr. Kliner Senator Reed got the floor and said "the honorable senator from Raritan [Frelinghuysen] was fishing behind the net." He stated that the North Plainfield delegates were all there and had their credentials, calling attention to the fact that when the resolution was passed, excluding Franklin and Warren from the committee on credentials, nothing was then said of North Plainfield or a contest there.

B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of North Plainfield, said he thought it the most absurd thing he had ever heard of. If this claim were allowed he declared a contest could be got up in every delegation.

Chairman Gilbooly proceeded with the committees and failed to recognize Mr. Kliner. The North Plainfield delegates on the various committees were as follows: Permanent organization, Thos. Doud; rules, B. A. Hegeman, Jr.; credentials, C. A. Reed; resolutions, John Y. Barrett. A recess was then taken for half an hour to give the committees a chance to perform their duties.

On reconvening the committee on permanent organization made the temporary officers permanent. Thos. Doud, of North Plainfield, was elected assistant secretary. The committee on rules announced that the majority of the votes should decide.

The committee on credentials announced that in Franklin township it had seated Geo. A. Wolfe, P. J. Staats, Matthew A. Suydam, Abram B. Voorhees and James H. Fisher. This was made possible by one of the contestants not showing up. The Warren dispute was adjusted by allowing the two contestants each a half vote. They were John F. Mundy and Frank C. Elliott.

The committee on resolutions recommended a set that was adopted.

REPRIEVE FOR MISS STONE.

Extension of One Month's Time by Brigands Reported.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—"It is reported from Sofia," says a dispatch from Vienna to The Daily Express, "that United States Consul Dickenson and an envoy of the missionary society arrived there Saturday, intending to follow up Miss Stone, the abducted missionary, and to deposit a portion of the ransom. The brigands have extended the time for payment one month."

The Daily Telegraph publishes the following dispatch from Vienna:

"Mr. Dickenson and the director of the American mission had a long audience of Prince Ferdinand at Sofia. There is no doubt that Miss Stone was abducted under orders from the Macedonian committee."

State Department In Charge.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—A portion of the money in the hands of Kidder, Peabody & Co. has been sent to the state department at Washington, as the money is to go through that medium. After this meeting it was officially given out that the state department at Washington has agreed to take full charge of the delivery of the ransom to the brigands. If news comes that Miss Stone still lives or until the news of her death is received, collections for the ransom will continue to be made.

TREATY RUMORS.

England Hears of Provision to Abrogate Clayton-Bulwer Agreement.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Washington correspondent of The Daily Chronicle gives the alleged substance of a provisional canal treaty abrogating the Clayton-Bulwer treaty.

Commenting editorially upon these advices, The Daily Chronicle says:

"Englishmen will be startled to learn that we have abandoned our rights under the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and surrendered every disputed point without any compensation. The new treaty is apparently another instance of Lord Salisbury's placid indifference and Lord Lansdowne's impulsive generosity.

"It is said that President Roosevelt will recommend its adoption to the senate. Doubtless Great Britain will agree to it. Although it gives us nothing at all, it will have the advantage of getting rid of all our outstanding grievances with the United States."

Low's Resignation Accepted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Seth Low is no longer president of Columbia university. His resignation, tendered to the trustees on Sept. 25, was accepted at a meeting held last evening at the college library building. Professor Butler is a graduate of Columbia and has been connected with the college since 1885. Since 1895 he has been professor of philosophy and education. Mr. Low does not sever completely his connection with the university. He will be a member of the board of trustees.

In the morning of Oct. 3 Habib Oullah Khan announced that his father had expired at 3 o'clock that morning.

ONE WRONG RIGHTED

Statement Concerning Sampson and the Maclay Book.

APPROVAL OF HARSH TERMS DENIED

The Admiral Did Not Give His Consent to the Publication of Unjust Statements About Admiral Schley.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Colonel Robert M. Thompson of this city, president of the United States Naval Academy Alumni association, makes the following statement in connection with the Schley inquiry:

"There is one story which I am very anxious should be truthfully presented to the public. After Maclay's book was published Mr. Maclay stated that his proofs had been submitted to the commanding officers, including Admiral Sampson, and that they approved his statements. A reporter calling upon Admiral Sampson when he was ill in his bed obtained from the admiral what appeared to be a confirmation of this statement. The admiral was asked if he had seen and read the proofs of Maclay's book, and he said yes, but unfortunately he was too ill to go into the matter at any length and explain everything, and so the public was informed and today believes that Admiral Sampson entirely approved the statement that Schley was a coward and a caitiff, which was the gist of Maclay's charge against Schley.

"I am in a position to state the true facts, and you may absolutely rely upon them as the truth. The proofs were sent by Mr. Maclay to Admiral Sampson with a request that they should be read and corrected. The admiral at the time was not in good health and did not wish to undertake the labor, but his secretary pointed out that the Maclay history was a standard one and used at the Naval academy as a textbook. This volume brought the history down through the period of the Spanish war, and it was desirable that there should be no inaccuracies in it. The admiral therefore consented to read them, and he did correct a certain part of them, but as soon as he arrived at the part which contained the statement that Schley was a coward and a caitiff he was very much angered and said the statement was one the author had no right to make, that it was unjust and unfair to speak of any naval officer in such terms and declined to have anything further to do with the proofs.

"His secretary, impressed with the great desirability of having the statements of facts accurate and not believing that he was in any way responsible for the statements of opinions, did on his own account compare the book with the records and make on the margins a number of corrections. As these were in the same handwriting as those made when Admiral Sampson was giving his personal attention to the corrections Mr. Maclay was perfectly justified in his statement. The order of the secretary of the navy forbidding naval officers to make any statement for publication regarding this controversy, issued immediately after this interview, prevented the above correction being officially made."

Senator Beveridge at Home.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 8.—Senator Beveridge has arrived home from his six months' journey around the world. Most of this time was spent in Russia and the orient, but particularly in Manchuria and the Philippines, although a brief time was spent in England and in Germany. The senator went from one end of Manchuria to the other, penetrating the heart of the country. He also made an investigation of the conditions in the Philippines in comparison with those he found there on his visit two years ago. Marquis Ito, the Japanese statesman and diplomat, was the fellow passenger of the senator on his return trip across the Pacific.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 8.—State Superintendent of Prisons Collins has given orders that Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley, must be the subject of no notoriety while in Auburn prison awaiting electrocution. He must not be seen, and visitors must not be permitted to enter any part of the prison where knowledge might be gained of his location. The warden of the prison has been instructed to inform the guards and other employees of the prison that the divulging of any information concerning him or his doings shall be considered a grave breach of discipline and will be dealt with accordingly.

Window Glass Factories Start.

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 8.—Fires have been started in the furnaces of the trust window glass factories throughout the gas belt. The local managers and the superintendents are preparing for the starting of all the factories of the American Window Glass company on Nov. 1. There is a shortage of window glass blowers in Indiana. The deficiency will be made up in part within the next fortnight by over 200 Belgians who are coming from their native land to work in the gas belt factories.

Eighty Killed In a Church Fight.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—"In Pavlouka, a town of 4,000 inhabitants 120 miles from Kharkov," says a dispatch to The Standard from Moscow, "a quarrel between Stundists and Orthodox church people led to a free fight. The Russian church was wrecked. Eighty people were killed. The police were powerless, and troops were sent from Kharkov to restore order. The Russian priests escaped with the more valuable sacred images and altar vessels."

FROM FRIGID ALASKA

Annual Report of Department Commander Randall.

TELEGRAPH AND ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Over Four Hundred Miles of the Military Line Finished Under Difficult Conditions—Frequent Change of Troops Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The war department has made public the annual report of Brigadier General Randall, commanding the department of Alaska. General Randall lays much stress on the rigors of an Alaskan winter. The cold, he says, is intense and continues so from November to April, with severe and frequent blizzards. There is no dockage for ocean vessels at the supply port, Fort St. Michael's, and all supplies must be lightered from ships in open roadstead. If the weather is rough, the work of lightering becomes impossible.

General Randall says that the most important work in the department after providing for the housing and supply of troops was that of constructing the military telegraph line and military road through Alaska. The total length of line constructed up to the date of the report, Aug. 15, was about 400 miles. The work is being pushed as fast as possible, and by the close of navigation this year it is hoped that telegraphic communication between Fort St. Michael's and Fort Gibbon, 420 miles distant, will have been established. The construction of these lines, General Randall says, is attended with many difficulties peculiar to an arctic climate.

Owing to the isolation of army posts in Alaska and to the lack of facilities for instruction in drill and for convening court martials General Randall says troops left to serve there for several years must deteriorate in military efficiency. He therefore recommends that troops stationed in Alaska be relieved every two years and that only men with more than two years to serve be ordered there.

In conclusion General Randall says: "The location of department headquarters in Alaska for the past year is believed to have had a pronounced beneficial effect toward the protection of person and property and the establishment of good order in the territory. This has been accomplished without friction with the civil authorities and in harmony, it is thought, with the sentiment of all law abiding and self respecting civilians."

Vital Statistics.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Statistics compiled by the marine hospital service for 1,190 cities and towns in the United States having a population of 1,000 or more indicates for the United States an annual mortality for the last year of 17.47 per thousand of population according to the census of 1900. There were 36,240 deaths from phthisis pulmonalis, 648 from smallpox, 7,007 from enteric fever, 2,850 from measles, 2,237 from scarlet fever, 9,698 from diphtheria and membranous croup and 2,589 from whooping cough. The table shows North Dakota, with a death rate of 6.95 per thousand of population was the most healthy state in the country.

American Shipbuilding.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The commissioner of navigation in his quarterly report shows that 393 vessels of all kinds were built in the United States and officially numbered during the three months ended Sept. 30. Of this number 370 were built of wood and 23 steel. The total gross tonnage was 68,395 tons. Of the whole number built 261 were built on the Atlantic and gulf coasts, 1 in Porto Rico, 30 on the Pacific coast, 49 on the great lakes and 52 on the western rivers. This is an increase over the corresponding quarter of the previous year of 85 in the number built and a decrease of 20,395 tons in the gross tonnage.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 8.—Steamer advices say the island of Panay, in the Philippines, which has been affected by the plague, is now visited by famine. HODGSON TESTIFIES.

Story of Battle of July 3 Repeated In Schley Court.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Lieutenant Commander Hodgson again occupied the greater part of the Schley court of inquiry yesterday as a witness. He was followed on the stand by Captain W. M. Folger, formerly chief of the bureau of ordnance of the navy department, but commander of the New Orleans during the Spanish war. Lieutenant Dyson also was recalled to add some details to his former testimony concerning the coal supply of the American fleet during the Santiago blockade.

Commander Hodgson repeated and extended his story of the battle of July 3, giving the opinion that Commodore Schley's conduct on that occasion was such as that of a commander in chief should have been. He also explained at some length his correspondence with Admiral Schley concerning the alleged colloquy between them while the Santiago engagement was in progress. He said he had had no controversy with the commodore, but he repeated that the commodore had said, "Damn the Texas!" when told that that vessel was in danger.

Captain Folger said that the bombardments of the Cristobal Colon on May 31 had been eminently successful in developing the strength of the Spanish shore batteries and had shown them to be very weak. He also said that if the Spanish vessels had attempted to escape at night they could not have been seen by the blockading fleet in bad weather.

Death Ends Long Pastorate.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 8.—The Rev. L. Merrill Miller, D. D., dean of the state presbytery, is dead at the Presbyterian parsonage. He was born in Rochester Oct. 13, 1819, and had been an ordained minister for fifty-seven years, last May celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of his pastorate in Ogdensburg. It is said Dr. Miller officiated at 1,890 weddings, 1,460 funerals, preached 9,125 sermons, baptized 1,480 persons and received 1,330 persons into his church. At noon yesterday he visited the house of mourning of his oldest communicant and was to preside at the funeral in the afternoon, but was taken ill, returned home and died of heart failure.

Violent Storms In Europe.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Violent storms are raging along the French coasts, particularly Britanny. Many wrecks are reported in the channel. The harbor of Dunkirk and other northern harbors are crowded with vessels that have sought refuge. The storm extends even to the Mediterranean. Much damage has been done by wind and rain at Belfort and at other places inland. Telegraphic and telephonic communication has been interrupted. There has also been a sudden fall in temperature, and the first snows of the season are reported from Remiremont, Pontarlier and the Vosges mountains.

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 8.—A special to The News and Observer from Monroe, N. C., says: "The southbound through freight on the Seaboard Air line, consisting of forty cars and two engines, was wrecked about two miles west of here. The train was rounding a short curve, and the first engine jumped the track, tearing it up and causing the other engine and cars to pile up in a complete wreck. Engineer Dickard and a colored fireman were killed. The body of Engineer Dickard has not been found, being buried under the wreckage of cars and broken machinery."

ARBITRATION DECLINED.

Both Parties In Asphalt Controversy Refuse Minister Bowen's Offer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Both parties to the asphalt controversy, the New York and Bermudez company and the Warner-Quinlan syndicate, have declined to enter into the arrangement for an amicable settlement of their troubles, the foundation of which was laid by Minister Bowen at Caracas last week.

The New York and Bermudez company points out that a settlement of the kind proposed would expose it to similar attacks by individuals and corporations and that no arbitration save an international one to which Venezuela is a party could protect its rights. It already has asked for such an arbitration.

The Warner-Quinlan syndicate is willing to meet representatives of the New York company in this country in the effort to compromise, but it objects strongly to Mr. Bowen's proposition on the ground that the same purpose can be served by the legal trial now going on in Venezuela, which already has progressed at considerable expense to the parties.

In this state of the case the department of state can do nothing but await the developments in Venezuela.

Shamrock II. to Winter Here.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—From present indications it is highly probable there will be some very interesting racing among the ninety foot yachts next season. Sir Thomas Lipton has decided to keep the Shamrock II. in America this winter with a view of racing her next spring and summer against the Constitution and Columbia. The Shamrock is to be dismantled at once. Her mast will be taken out so that she can pass under the Brooklyn bridge, and she is to be towed after being stripped to New London, Conn., there to be laid up for the winter with the Constitution, which will also have a berth at that place. Sir Thomas Lipton is confined to his yacht, the Erin, which is lying off West Twenty-sixth street in the North river. His right leg, which was hurt while he was boarding the tender Porto Rico a few weeks ago, is giving him considerable pain.

The Scranton Street Car Strike.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 8.—Agents of the trolley company last night arrested nine men industriously engaged in greasing the rails on the two heavy grades in West Scranton. There were no strikers among them. They were locked up pending a hearing. The company had fifteen cars running yesterday. They carried very few passengers. Some few cars in the suburbs were stoned by boys in ambush, but otherwise the day was extremely quiet. There is no talk of a settlement. Each side has settled down to a finish fight. The company expects to import enough men to operate its lines without the aid of any of its old employees. The strikers rely upon the refusal of the public to ride on the cars to compel the company to capitulate.

Horse Show at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Oct. 8.—The Pan-American horse show has opened. The entries comprise some of the finest specimens of horseflesh in the country, and about 500 head have been entered. The judging will begin tomorrow in the stadium and will continue for two weeks. A feature of the show will be a daily parade of 400 of the horses about the grounds.

King Edward's Birthday.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 8.—Under a federal statute the birthday of the reigning sovereign is to be observed as a public holiday all over Canada. Consequently the day to be observed this year will be Nov. 9.

A DAY OF ORATORY.

Spirited Debate In the Episcopal Convention.

A CHANGE IN FORM OF WORSHIP.

It Is Believed That the Amendment Adopted Will Lead to a Large Increase In Membership—Sunday School Workers In Session.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—This was a day of oratory in the house of deputies of the triennial Episcopal convention. The debate which began last Saturday on the proposed addition to article 10 of the constitution prescribing the form of worship was continued all day and resulted in its adoption. As adopted it is as follows:

"But provision may be made by canon for the temporary use of old forms and directories of worship by congregations not in union with this church who are willing to accept the spiritual oversight of the bishop of the diocese or missionary district."

The debate was very animated, and until the result was made known it was the prevailing opinion that the vote would be much more evenly divided than it was. It was strongly urged by the advocates of the proposed change that its adoption would open the way to a great increase in the membership of the church, while its opponents regarded it as too radical an innovation.

The house of bishops adopted the amendment to article 1, section 13, of the constitution, already approved by the deputies, which in effect makes the presiding bishop of the church elective for a term of three years by a majority of bishops. It was voted, in view of the growing importance of missionary work in China, to divide the district of Shanghai into two departments to be known as those of Shanghai and Hankow. The bishops considered a number of reports and transacted much routine business.

The Daughters of the King elected a council and decided to hold meetings triennially hereafter, preferably in the convention city.

The American Sunday School institute elected Bishop Talbot of central Pennsylvania president and retained Rev. H. L. Duhring of Philadelphia as secretary-treasurer. Its sessions were addressed by several Sunday school workers.

Boralma Is Ill.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 8.—It was announced at a meeting of the Kentucky Trotting association that Boralma was too sick to meet The Abbot in the proposed $30,000 race Wednesday. He has congestion of the lungs. The directors then attempted to have Cresceus substituted and offered $5,000. Geers was willing, but Ketcham declined on the ground that Cresceus had all the work ahead of him that he could undertake. Geers, for Scannell, then consented to have The Abbot go against the world's record. Great crowds have arrived for the ten days' meeting, which opens with the $16,000 Futurity for three-year-olds today.

Philadelphia Kidnaping Case.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—The kidnaping case was before the court here yesterday. Buchanan and Findlay were tried on the charges held in $2,000 bail each on the charge of conspiracy of assault and battery and bail and committed to prison without on the charge of kidnaping and highway robbery. Wallace, who turned state's evidence, and Dunlap were committed without bail on the charge of conspiracy for kidnaping. The penalty for kidnaping is life imprisonment.

Two Burned to Death.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth Day and her three-year-old daughter were burned to death by the explosion of gasoline which the woman was using near a stove in a house in Highlandtown. Mrs. Day made a heroic effort to save the child, which cost her her own life. The clothing was almost entirely burned off of the bodies of the woman and child before assistance could be rendered, and they died within a few hours after the explosion.

Woman Accused of Fourteen Murders.

DAYTON, O., Oct. 8.—Mrs. A. J. Witwer, a widow residing in this city, has been arrested by the police at the instigation of the coroner and is held a prisoner at Central station pending an investigation into very serious charges. More Factional Strife.

The two factions, which have long fought for supremacy in the Republican ranks of Somerset county, met again in the county convention at Somerville yesterday for a renewal of hostilities. Again, State Senator Charles A. Reed and his friends triumphed.

At the last moment, the candidacy of Mayor N. B. Smalley was publicly withdrawn and the Reed cohorts lined up for Thomas Douglas, of Bernards, as a compromise candidate. The Thompson faction refused to accept the compromise and fought for E. E. Cooper but it didn't do any good. Douglass was nominated.

According to all reports, the scenes at the convention were decidedly thrilling and came, at times, very nearly equalling those of the Democratic State convention, recently held at Trenton. It also disabused the idea that the two factions among the Republicans of Somerset county have settled their differences. Senator Reed is, however, the recognized Republican leader of the county.

The baseball season in Plainfield is over. Without doubt it has been the most successful that this city has seen for many a year. While there has not been any one team which has been distinctively the representative nine of the city, there have been three teams which have been quite evenly matched. The contests between these three have been full of excitement and have furnished the rooters with their fill of good baseball. It is to be hoped that the coming season will see so many strong aggregations of baseball players on the local diamonds.

All Plainfield society with many prominent in the exclusive circles of New York and Philadelphia and other neighboring cities will assemble in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church this evening for one of the most elaborate weddings ever held in this city. A son and a daughter of two of the leading families of the city will be joined in the bonds of holy matrimony and no pains will be spared to make it an occasion long to be remembered. It promises to be one of the greatest events of the year for Plainfield's society circles

The football season has opened. For the first time in many years the Plainfield boys lack a gridiron of available location. Martine Common, where the games of the last few years were played, is no longer available, as several streets have been cut through the Common. Football is such a popular sport in Plainfield that it seems too bad that there cannot be found so convenient a location for a football field, where the people of this city can witness the contests as in the past.

The citizens of Warren township met yesterday afternoon and earnestly petitioned the Somerset County Board of Freeholders to build the stone road from Watchung to the Passaic valley. For lack of a proper thoroughfare, this side of the Watchung Mountains has been practically cut off from the Passaic valley. This road should certainly be built as soon as possible. If the Freeholders know their duty, they will see that the work is done at the first opportunity.

There is nothing, after all, so effective as a campaign of education. The officers of the Retail Clerks' Association have evidently discovered that fact and are preparing to win public opinion to their view of the early closing scheme if it is possible to do so. This series of sermons, the first of which was delivered by Rev. E. M. Rodman at the Grace P. E. church Sunday evening, promises to be a powerful factor in securing the desired end.

Although so much has not been said about it, the city school authorities appear to be pressed as badly for proper accommodations as were the North Plainfield school trustees. On this side of the brook, it is declared that relief can only come when the new High School is built. The present building would then be utilized by the other grades.

The residents of the eastern end of Netherwood will welcome the action of the Common Council in extending the sanitary sewers in their direction without delay. The Council decided to extend the sewers at a previous meeting. Last night, the contract was awarded and work will be started at once.

The Union county Republicans never had their outing after all and the mosquitoes of Recreation Park did not have their farewell repast. The Republican exhibits will be shown at a mass-meeting instead.

There is no doubt but the claim of the St. Mary's boys to the local baseball championship has been fully sustained during the season which has just come to a close.

Councilman Lee says that the proposed weights and measures ordinance is not dead but sleeping. Some day, he is going to wake it up.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Hon. James E. Martine, of Union county, was, as usual, dismissed with scant courtesy in the Democratic State convention. He received twenty votes in Union county and two from North Plainfield in Somerset county, and that was all out of 1,145 votes in the convention. His own county refused to give him even a complimentary vote, which they could have given without the slightest disadvantage to the sentiments of the majority of the delegates who favored Mr. Seymour. But 'twas ever thus. Mr. Martine has, as Delegate Hetfield well said, "given liberally of his time, his talents and his money for the benefit of the Democratic party," only to be flung aside when any honors are to be given out. But no matter; the "Farmer Orator" will be kindly remembered when those who fail to appreciate him will be forgotten.—Elizabeth Journal.

TEA TABLE TALK

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

In a recent issue of the Philadelphia North-America there appears a picture of four women, supposed to constitute the leading members of the anti-slang society formed in this city at Crosby & Hill's store. The photograph was evidently made up for the occasion, as the faces represented do not belong at that store. The clerks are highly indignant over the manner in which they have been misrepresented.

FOR GOOD ROADS.

Residents of Warren Township Want Macadam Road to Passaic Valley.

A meeting of the citizens of Warren township was held in Smalleytown yesterday afternoon for the purpose of selecting a delegation to present the claims of the voters to the Somerset county Board of Freeholders, whose aid is desired to procure a macadamized road from Watchung to Passaic valley. As a committee to meet the freeholders this afternoon the following were appointed: E. E. Cooper, Guy D. Peck, William Henry Rogers and Louis Casino. All signed a petition which will be presented.

Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly aborbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

AFTERNOON WITH LISZT.

FIRST FALL MEETING OF MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

Special Paper Prepared by Mrs. Weir-Lewis—Illustrated With Musical Selections.

The first fall meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club, held yesterday in All Souls church, was fully up to the average in attendance and was exceptionally interesting. "An Afternoon With Liszt" was the stated topic for discussion. A special paper had been prepared by Mrs. Weir-Lewis, and while reading it Miss Frances Weir illustrated the various thoughts brought out by the speaker by rendering some of the more celebrated compositions of the master.

Mrs. Lewis depicted the early life of Franz Liszt in the Germany of his day. She described the composer as the embodiment of the artistic, whose power of personality swayed the minds of his contemporaries and whose extatic of spirit controlled others. "His transcriptions alone stamp him as a master, and there is nothing in the history of art to parallel his re-creations. His original compositions also are among the world's treasures in the musical art."

The vicissitudes of his early career and the unexpected difficulties which he surmounted were noted as was his rise step by step to a high pinnacle in the realm of music. The travels of Franz Liszt to the various capitols of continental Europe and to London and the triumpths he scored were dwelt upon. The relation he bore to other masters of his day and of bye gone ages was a particularly interesting and instructive part of the sketch. His bringing Wagner to the fore was minutely detailed. Finally his introduction as an officer of the court, where he won fame as an artist of the first rank was told in a pleasing style.

During the course of her remarks there were a few interruptions only long enough for Miss Weir to render some work of the composer for the purpose of illustrating the talk. Among the selections rendered were "Hark, Hark, the Lark" and "Eri-King" by Shubert-Liszt and Liszt's "Nachtingall." The accomplished renditions of the masterpieces served well to bring out the intent of the sketch.

An informal discussion of music closed the meeting. One topic was "Is Wagner's Music Lasting?" and the other, "Is Music Necessary to a Liberal Education?" Neither question was decided, but the exchange of views proved to be both enjoyable and instructive to a great degree.

GREAT DAYS ...AT THE... PAN-AMERICAN

THE postponement of some of the special days has crowded many great events into the month of October. Toronto day opened the month with many thousand visitors from Canada on the 3d. Pennsylvania day, on Oct. 4, with Governor William A. Stone, his staff and several regiments of the national guard, made a splendid showing. New York day comes Oct. 9, following Brooklyn day. These two days will be the occasion for reunions of people west and east, as New Yorkers are found all over the Union.

The Citizens' Committee of Brooklyn has been hard at work for several months preparing for Oct. 8, and the programme which has been arranged promises a rare treat for those who are fortunate enough to gain admission to the Temple of Music during the time of its presentation. The special oration of the day will be delivered by the Hon. St. Clair McKelway, editor of the Brooklyn Eagle. The Hon. Ludwig Nissen will preside at the gathering, and other addresses will be delivered by Mayor Diehl of Buffalo, William C. Bryant, chairman of the Brooklyn Citizens' Committee, and Hon. W. I. Buchanan, director general of the Exposition. The music incidental to the occasion will be furnished by the Innes band of New York city. Elaborate fireworks have been planned for the evening.

On New York day Governor Odell will be escorted to the Temple of Music by sixteen out of town organizations in addition to the three located in Buffalo. Over 3,000 men will be in line, composing one of the largest and most imposing parades which has ever taken place in times of peace. All branches of service will be represented—infantry, cavalry, artillery, naval and signal. An elaborate programme has been arranged for the Temple of Music and a reception in the New York State building with magnificent fireworks in the evening.

Illinois day, on Oct. 7, is to be one of the great days of the Exposition. While the death of President McKinley made it necessary to postpone the day from Sept. 16, Governor Yates and the State commission have determined that the day shall be an event of great importance at the Exposition. Thousands of Illinois people are coming. The great middle west, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, with Michigan, have sent great crowds already to the Pan-American, and there is every indication that the attendance from that section will be greater than ever during the month of October.

Buffalo will have a great day on Oct. 19. At the Chicago fair Chicago day was the crowning event of the Exposition. So Buffalo people are laboring hard to make Buffalo day the climax in point of attendance.

Many nearby cities will have special days in October, notably Erie, Pa., on Oct. 10 and Dunkirk, N. Y., on Oct. 10. The list is constantly being added to. National Grange day, Oct. 10, will bring Patrons of Husbandry from every part of the nation. Atlantic City people and New Jersey people will visit the Exposition on Oct. 11, Atlantic City day.

Alaska day, on the 28th, will bring into prominence the products and people of that great golden land of the midnight sun, ice, snow and wealth. Every day from Oct. 1 to the 31st will be replete with interest, from Carnival week, which opens the month with the gorgeous floats of King Rex and the replica of Mardi Gras pageantry, to the magnificent pyrotechnic display on the night of the last day of the month.

No exposition ever held in the United States so appealed to the American public as has the Pan-American Exposition in its architectural beauty and symmetry, its gorgeous flowers, now in the fine beauty of fall bloom; its gardens and fountains and its special amusements, music and carnival features. "No person," said Secretary of Agriculture Wilson during a visit on Sept. 10, "should miss seeing the Exposition. It is magnificent beyond compare." Never again will the world see such an illumination. Not every city has the wonderful electric plant driven by Niagara Falls, and without some such plant it will be impossible to reproduce the solemn grandeur, the glorious beauty, the impressive radiance of this City of Light.

There are yet a few more weeks in which to see this vision with all its attendant beauties.

Conventions at Buffalo.

October will be a great convention month at Buffalo. Thousands of members of organizations will take this opportunity of visiting the Exposition at that time. Beginning with the International Cremation congress from Oct. 1 to 3, the month closes with the American Langshan club on Oct. 26.

National Grange Day.

Thursday, Oct. 10, will be National Grange day at the Pan-American Exposition. At a meeting in the city of Washington held in 1900 the National Grangers adopted resolutions setting aside this day, and a great assemblage of Patrons of Husbandry and farmers generally is expected.

OCTOBER FLOWERS.

There Is a Beautiful Display of Them at the Pan-American—The Gardens of the City of Light Are One of Its Most Attractive Features. Artistic Scenes Which the Lover of Beauty Should Not Fail to See.

The Pan-American is one of the greatest flower shows that ever was, but there are so many other things in which it is great that the rarity and beauty of its floral features are perhaps apt to be overlooked. If people would take more time to allow the artistic and beautiful features of the Exposition to impress their senses and permeate their inmost being instead of racing from one part of the grounds to another, trying to see every exhibit and every show on the Midway, they would go home feeling greater benefit from their stay in the Rainbow City.

The Pan-American is full of gardens which tempt the visitor to rest awhile and drink in the beauties of nature. It may seem surprising that in the month of October there are flowers worth looking at, but such is the fact. The rains of the past few weeks have kept the landscape as fresh and beautiful as in May and June, and as one flower goes out of the scene another takes its place. On opening day the hyacinths filled the air with their dainty fragrance, in June tulips lifted their proud heads, later in the month of brides and sweet girl graduates came roses, with their rich perfume, and as the summer passed the other flowers in their season sprang up as if by magic to take the place of those which had done their blossoming and served their turn in the entertainment of the visitors to the City of Light. And now one sees the tall canna, the gay geranium and such old fashioned flowers as grandmother's garden had—the phlox, the pink, the begonia, the petunia and other posies which are no less beautiful because they do not happen to be novel.

In entering the grounds by the Elmwood gate visitors pass two tall and curious looking trees, which perhaps few in their anxiety to reach the heart of the Exposition stop to notice. If they realized that they were century plants just budding, a thing which, as all know, century plants only do once in a long, long time, they would doubtless stop and look with open mouths and wondering gaze. It is a sight which one cannot see very often anywhere else. One of these century plants is nearly forty feet in height.

The Rose Gardens around the Woman's building, having for their background the outlines of the Spanish renaissance buildings about the main court and the Electric Tower looming up at its north end, with the Mirror Lakes and the Triumphal Bridge and the groups of statuary abounding, form a scene whose artistic aspect must appeal to even the least æsthetic visitor. The cannas are very effective decorative plants, with their tall leaves in green and red and brown. A rich canna one sees here is named Governor Roosevelt. It would seem appropriate now to change its name to President Roosevelt.

On the opposite side of the Triumphal Bridge is the Wooded Island, and here one roams amid old fashioned flowers, growing as though they had sprung up there all by themselves without any assistance from the landscape gardener and his corps of assistants. But of course that is not the case. The studied carelessness of the gardening of this island is only one of the pretty deceits employed to produce the impression that it is all the work of Mother Nature herself.

Have you seen the fairylike effects in the garden about the Fountain of Abundance at night? It is one of the new things. This small garden is very beautiful by day, and at night electric lights of different colors have been hidden among the flowers and planks, so that one sees the surface of the ground dotted with these little spots of light, bringing out the beauty of the flowers, and all forming a scene impossible to describe, but very charming indeed to witness. It is quite a pretty surprise even to old Pan-American visitors.

Did you ever notice in crossing the Court of Lilies, south of the Machinery building, a heavy vapor arising from the basin in the center of that court? Sometimes it has so much the appearance of smoke that people think something must be afire in the garden, but it is only the steam or vapor created by the heating of the water in that basin for the benefit of the tropical lilies which grow therein. These lilies, which are known as the Victoria Regia, have enormous leaves, some of them three feet in diameter.

Other gardens where there are flowers in bloom during this month of October are those in front of the United States Government building and the Horticulture group, where the gay geraniums and sweet petunias contrast their colors with the green flags growing in the basin and with the white statuary disposed along their slopes.

There was a floral fete at the Exposition during the first week of October, and this in its way, of course, was an affair of much beauty and magnificence; but, as a matter of fact, there have been floral fetes at the Pan-American since opening day.

WHEN A FRIEND VISITS YOU

Pay Attention to Her Comfort as Well as to Her Entertainment.

When your friend comes to spend a couple of weeks at your house, don't rush her to death.

Don't confront her immediately upon her arrival with a list of calls and entertainments mapped out for every day of her stay. Give her a chance to decide what she would like to do herself. Perhaps this visit she is paying you is a welcome break in a busy life full of duties. Perhaps she would like to rest, to take aimless walks through the shops, to enjoy the luxury for once in her life of being able to finish a book without being interrupted or, again, perhaps she would rather just sit and talk to you. In any case she doesn't want the sensation of being dragged from place to place and of having continually to make connections, as it were.

Of course I don't mean by this that you are to plan nothing in the way of her entertainment. It is the correct thing to give an informal lunch or dinner on the day after her arrival. This serves as an excuse for introducing her to your friends. They in turn will invite her to their homes and will propose little entertainments, and she can then make her choice of those which are congenial to her. If you are obliged to purchase theater tickets before her arrival, it is well to write and ask her which plays she would like to see. In every case you should consult her taste and not your own.

GIVE HER TIME TO REST.

See to it that her room is cheery and comfortable and let her feel that she is free to wander through the house as if it were her home. Don't get nervous and appear anxious lest she should not have a good time. Don't let her feel as if she were "company," but make her one of the family.

Now, as regards meals, don't attempt her favorite dishes unless you can do them well. In fact, nine chances out of ten she wants a change, and your ordinary bill of fare will be infinitely more pleasing to her. Don't keep continually urging her to eat more, and don't—I wish I could underline this—apologize for your own table as compared with hers. Above all, let the domestic machinery run smoothly during her visit that she may not feel ill at ease on account of upsetting your household arrangements.

The secret of successful entertaining is to make your guest feel thoroughly at home.

MAUD ROBINSON.

TO MAKE AT HOME.

Dainty and Simple Accessories For the Tailor Made Suit.

At this time of the year the shops are full of little accessories of dress which are useful to freshen one's summer tailor made and to make it look more seasonable. With the very short Eton jackets which have been so much worn this summer wide girdles are now being used both for ornamental reasons and because they really give additional warmth. These wide girdles are made of panne or folded ribbon, and, although they are very expensive to buy ready made, yet any clever girl can get them up at home with very little expense.

Another useful article with the Eton worn open is a soft blouse front, made on a fitted foundation. This should be of dressy materials, and by means of it a plain tailor made can be transformed into quite a costume suitable for church wear or calling.

NEW BELT AND FRONT.

The illustration presents a front and a girdle which are very easy to make. The material of the girdle is black taffeta or moire. It is draped on a boned foundation composed of canvas and featherbone, and it fastens under the arms with a row of invisible hooks. In front there are four jeweled buttons around which is laced a wide taffeta ribbon, which is fastened to the waist in two big loops.

The dainty front is of white chiffon over a white taffeta foundation. It buttons down the back. The chiffon is draped artistically into two puffs, and the V shaped space remaining is filled in with a fitted yoke of allover lace. At the waist line there is a draped sash belt of the same color as the gown.

Fish-spearing and meat-hunting were set about with promptitude, and on the second day we were happy enough to slay a yearling river-horse, which gave provisions in all sufficiency. A space was cleared on the banks, fires lit, and the meat hung over the smoke in strips; and when as much was cured as the ship would carry, the shipmen made a final gorge on what remained, filled up a great stack of hollow reeds with drinking water, and were ready to continue the voyage.

With sturdy generosity did Tob again attempt to make me sail on with them as their future king, and as steadfastly did I make refusal; and at last I stood alone on the bank among the gnawed bones of their feast, with my weapons to bear me company, and he and his men and the women stood in the little old ship, ready to drop down the river with the current.

"At least," said Tob, "we'll carry your memory with us, and make it big in the Tin islands for everlasting."

"Forget me," I said; "I am nothing, I am merely an incident that has come in your way. But if you want to carry some memory with you that shall endure, preserve the cult of the most high gods as it was taught to you when you were children in Atlantis. And afterwards, when your colony grows in power, and has come to sufficient magnificence, you may send to the old country for a priest."

"We want no priest, except one we shall make ourselves, and that will be me. And as for the old gods—well, I have laid my ideas before the fellows here, and they agree to this: We are done with those old gods for always. They seem worn out, if one may judge from their present lack of usefulness in Atlantis; and, anyway,

BEHIND ME I HEARD THE RUSTLE OF SOME GREAT BEAST THAT HAD SCENTED ME.

there will be no room for them on the Tin islands.

"Let me plead with you," I said. "This must not be."

The ship was drifting rapidly away with the current, and they were hoisting sail. Tob had to shout to make himself heard. "Aye, but it shall be. For I, too, am a strong man after my kind, and have ordered it so. And if you want the name of our hero that some day shall be god, you wear it on yourself. Deucalion shall be god for our children."

Solitary I stood at the brink of the forest, looking after them and musing sadly. Tob, despite his lowly station, was a man I cared for more than many. Like all seamen, I knew that he paid his devotions to one of the obscurer gods, but till then I had supposed him devout in his worship. His new avowal came to me as a desolating shock. If a man like Tob could forsake all the older gods to set up on high some poor mortal who had momentarily caught his fancy, what could be expected from the mere thoughtless mob when swayed by such a brilliant tongue as Phorenice's? It seemed as if I was to begin my exile with a new dreariness added to all the other adverse prospects of Atlantis.

But then behind me I heard the rustle of some great beast that had scented me, and was coming to attack through the thicket, and so I had other matters to think upon. I had to let Tob and his ship go over the rim of the horizon unwatched.

CHAPTER XIII.

ZAEMON'S SUMMONS.

Since the days when man was first created upon the earth by gods who looked down and did their work from another place, there have always been areas of the land ill-adapted for his maintenance, but none more so than that part of Atlantis which lies over against the savage continents of Europe and Africa. The common people avoid it, because of a superstition which says that the spirits of the evil dead stalk about there in broad daylight, and slay all those that the more open dangers of the place might otherwise spare. And so it has happened often that the criminals who might have fled there from justice have returned of their own free will and voluntarily given themselves up to the tormentors rather than face its fabulous terrors.

To the educated, many of these legends are known to be mythical; but withal there are enough disquietudes remaining to make life very arduous and stocked with peril. Everywhere the mountains keep their contents on the boil; earth tremors are every day's experience; gushes of unseen evil vapors steal upon one with such cunningness and speed that it is often hard to flee in time before one is choked and killed; poisons well up into the rivers, yet leave their color unchanged; great cracks split across the ground, reaching down to the fires beneath, and the waters gush into these, and are shot forth again with devastating explosion; and always may be expected great outpourings of boiling mud or molten rock.

Yet with all this there are great somber forests in these lands, with trees whose age is unimaginable, and fires among the herbage are rare. All beneath the trees is water, and the air is full of warm steam and wetness. For a man to live in that constant hot damp is very mortifying to the strength. But strength is wanted, and cunning also beyond the ordinary, for these Dangerous Lands are the abode of the lizards, which of all beasts grow to the most enormous size, and are the most fearsome to deal with.

There are countless families and species of these lizards, and with some of them a man can contend with prospect of success. But there are others whose hugeness no human force can battle against. One I saw, as it came up out of a lake after gaining its day's food, that made the wet land shake and pulse as it trod. It could have taken Phorenice's mammoth into its belly,* and even a mammoth in full charge could not have harmed it. Great horny plates covered its head and body, and on the ridge of its back and tail and limbs were spines that tore great slivers from the black trees as it passed among them.

Now and again these monsters would get caught in some vast fissuring of the ground, but not often. Their speed of foot was great, and their sagacity keen. They seemed to know when the worst boilings of the mountains might be expected, and then they found safety in the deeper lakes, or buried themselves in wallows of the mud. Moreover, they were more kindly constituted than man to withstand one great danger of these regions, in that the heat of the water did them no harm. Indeed, they will lie peacefully in pools where sudden stream-bursts are making the water leap into boiling fountains; and I have seen one run quickly across a flow of molten rock which threatened to cut it off, and not be so much as singed in the transit.

In the midst of such neighbors, then, was my new life thrown, and existence became perilous and hard to me from the outset. I came near to knowing what fear was, and indeed only a fervent trust in the most high gods, and a firm belief that my life was always under their fostering care, prevented me from gaining that horrid knowledge. For long enough, till I learned somewhat of the ways of this steaming, sweltering land, I was in as miserable a case as even Phorenice could have wished to see me. My clothes rotted from my back with the constant wetness, till I went as naked as a savage from Europe; my limbs were racked with agues, and I could find no herbs to make drugs for their relief; for days together I could find no better food than tree-grubs and leaves; and often when I did kill beasts, knowing little of their qualities, I ate those that gave me pain and sickness.

But as man is born to make himself adaptable to his surroundings, so as the months dragged on did I learn the limitation of this new life of mine, and gather some knowledge of its resources. As example: I found a great black tree, with a hollow core, and a hole into its middle near the roots. Here I harbored, till one night some monstrous lizard, whose sheer weight made the tree rock like a sapling, endeavored to suck me forth as a bird picks a worm from a hollow log. I escaped by the will of the gods—I could as much have done harm to a mountain as injure that horny tongue with my weapons—but I gave myself warning that this chance must not happen again.

So I cut myself a ladder of foot-holes on the inside of the trunk till I had reached a point ten man-heights from the ground, and there cut other notches, and with tree-branches made a floor on which I might rest. Later, for luxury, I carved me arrow-slit windows in the walls of my chamber, and even carried up sand for a hearth, so that I might cook my victual up there instead of lighting a fire in all the dangers of the open below.

[TO BE CONTINUED]

*Translator's Note.—Prof. Reeder, of the Wyoming state university, has recently unearthed the skeleton of a Brontosaurus, 120 feet in length, which would have weighed 50 tons when alive. It was 30 feet in height at the hips, and 25 feet at the shoulder, and 40 people could be seated with comfort within its ribs. Its thigh bone was eight feet long. The fossils of a whole series of these colossal lizards have been found.

THE TRIALS OF GOLDUS.

Why an Aged Chicagoan Wants a Wife and Neighbors Who Don't Object to Whiskers.

Moses Goldus lives at 118 De Koven street, Chicago. He has two hobbies—getting married and raising whiskers. That is why he has so much trouble and was in Justice Sabath's court the other day.

Goldus is 60 years old. Some time ago he married a woman who was 30. They settled down for love in a cottage, but it didn't last. First, young Mrs. Goldus wanted money for soda water. She got it. Then she wanted two cows. Goldus bought them. The next thing she touched Goldus for was a piano. She didn't know an octave from a washboard, but that didn't matter to Moses. He had the piano set up in his parlor. Still Mrs. Goldus wasn't satisfied. One day she told Goldus he would be a better looking man if he would shave off his whiskers. In the next breath she made a demand for a clean-shaven husband, and Goldus balked.

He said he wouldn't shave and he didn't. He was arrested and Mrs. Goldus showed her contempt for whiskers by getting a divorce.

Still there was no peace for Goldus and his whiskers. The ink was not yet dry on Mrs. Goldus' decree when John Snyder, a neighbor of Goldus', got his hands tangled in the old man's beard. Justice Sabath fined Snyder $10 and costs.

Now Goldus is looking for another wife.

DOG MAKES LONG TRIP.

Homing Instinct Leads a Newfoundland from Oklahoma to His Home in Iowa.

Half starved and with feet badly swollen and eyes sunk deeply in its head from privations endured during a long and wearisome journey, a large Newfoundland dog belonging to C. W. Franklin, of Muscatine, Ia., arrived home the other day from El Reno, Okla., having made the entire journey from that city afoot.

Arriving at his master's doorstep, the faithful animal collapsed, and would have died of fatigue but for the immediate use of restoratives. His long nails had been worn most entirely off in his run for home, and all four feet were swollen three times their usual size. In spite of his fatigue the dog is already recovering his former health and spirits.

Knowing his qualities as a watchdog, Mr. Franklin loaned him to a brother, Melvin Franklin, who, with his family, was about to start for El Reno in the race for Oklahoma land. The party left Muscatine on May 15 and arrived in El Reno July 18.

No further information was received until the dog's arrival gave evidence that it preferred a comfortable home in Iowa to the wild life of the land lottery district.

Mr. Franklin refused a neat sum for his dog, saying that no price would now tempt him to part with so faithful an animal.

Camera as a Detective.

A Mr. Steele, of Virginia, had missed various articles from his pantry, and his flour barrel had been the most frequently visited and the most to suffer. He tried in vain to detect the thief. Recently he fitted up a camera and placed it in a position that anyone disturbing the flour would unconsciously cause the plate of the camera to be exposed and a snapshot of the thief taken. Mr. Steele discovered that the plate had been exposed and, upon developing it, recognized the thief bending over the flour barrel.

SENATOR REED STILL LEADER IN SOMERSET.

Allegiance to the principles of the Republican party was proclaimed, the nomination of Franklin Murphy endorsed, the untimely death of President McKinley deplored and the bringing of swift justice to his assassin commended.

The Thompson delegates, about this time, remembered that they had had no dinner yet and, although Senator Reed informed them he thought the remaining work of the convention could be completed in a short time, an adjournment for one hour, until 2:30 o'clock, was taken.

It was the general idea of everybody during the recess that the two factions had compromised on the nomination of Thomas Douglas, of Bernards, for sheriff. Realizing that North Plainfield already had two big offices, Mayor Newton B. Smalley withdrew his name and Senator Reed backed Mr. Douglas. The Thompson faction laid low and clung to E. E. Cooper, of Warren, although it was rumored that he had also withdrawn, and the factions settled on Mr. Douglas.

Upon reassembling Assemblyman Henry W. Hoagland was promptly and unanimously nominated for member of Assembly.

When the nomination for sheriff was declared in order Mr. Gilhooley vacated the chair for B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and in a few words named Thos. Douglas, of Bernards, Warren named E E Cooper and Mr. Frelinghuysen for Bridgewater seconded him. He made a ringing speech, in which he constantly hit at Senator Reed.

When it came North Plainfield's turn the Senator seconded Mr. Douglas' name and said that when Mr. Smalley came there he had the majority of the delegates, but as North Plainfield already had two offices he was willing to withdraw for harmony's sake. He asked why they didn't withdraw the name of Mr. Cooper and wanted to know if he was not as much a faction man as Mr. Smalley.

Mr. Frelinghuysen hotly replied that Senator Reed admitted a faction and said three years ago good Republicans had been throttled and gagged in convention. Here Senator Reed said he wanted to know if the speaker was addressing a Republican or Democratic convention. Concluding, Mr. Frelinghuysen charged them with going to A. A. Clark's office during the adjournment and entertaining an offer for a compromise. The speaker sat down amid cheers and hisses.

Mr. Smalley said he had never been in Clark's office in his life. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., said he didn't know his footsteps were being dogged. He was used to walking through the streets without being watched He had merely been to the headquarters of the telephone company, in Clark's building, he said, to talk with his office in New York.

Senator Reed said if it were deemed necessary he would offer a resolution that the telephone office be removed. [Much laughter.]

A ballot was then taken and it resulted as follows:

	Douglas.	Cooper.
Bedminster	1	4
Bernards	5	–
Branchburg	3	2
Bridgewater	–	6
Franklin	3	2
Hillsboro	5	–
Montgomery	5	–
North Plainfield	5	–
Warren	2½	2½
Total	29½	16½

Mr. Frelinghuysen moved that the nomination of Mr. Douglas be made unanimous and it was carried.

There were four candidates for the nomination of two coroners, namely: Dr. C. B. P. Fisher, of Bound Brook; Dr. M. C. Smalley, of Gladstone; Dr. A H. Dundon, of North Plainfield, and Dr. M. Reed, of Rocky Hill. They received the following votes respectively: 26½ 25½, 22½ and 17½. The two former were declared the nominees.

When Chairman Gilhooly appointed Hon. C. A. Reed and Hon. L. A. Thompson to escort the candidates for Assembly and sheriff to the platform, the old court house was shaken to its foundations so great was the applause. The two factions had one purpose for a few soul-stirring momoments, any way. The candidates made short speeches.

In the completion of the executive committee, Newton B. Smalley was appointed in the First district of North Plainfield, John G. McLaughlin in the second and John Y. Barrett in the township.

Mr. Frelinghuysen presented a petition for the consideration of the executive committee, which asks for a change in the method of electing delegates. If this goes through, hereafter one delegates will be elected at each polling place.

The convention adjourned with cheers for the candidates, Senator Reed and Mr. Frelinghuysen.

BOARD OF EDUCATION DECIDES ON STRINGENT MEASURES.

Law Regarding Truancy Will be Strictly Enforced by the School Board.

At the suggestion of Superintendent H. M. Maxson, the resolutions contained in the following statement were adopted by the Plainfield Board of Education at last evening's meeting:

The new school law provides that every parent having control of a child within the school age shall send the child to school each day the school is in session. It also provides that

"In case any parent, guardian, or other person having control of any child shall fail to comply with the provisions of the law, such parent, guardian, or other person shall be deemed quality of a misdemeanor and shall, on conviction thereof, be liable to a fine of not less than one dollar nor more than twenty-five dollars for each offense, or to imprisonment for not less than five days nor more than three months."

In case the child is being taught in a private school or at home in such branches as are usually taught in public schools, the parent is exempt from action of the law.

In past years when the law was uncertain, I have found it practically impossible to compel the attendance of children whose parents were not disposed to co-operate with us; but I think the law is now in such a shape that parents can be compelled to see that their children attended school and every child secures his natural rights to an education. It will, however, probably be necessary to bring one or two cases before the court before it becomes fully understood that the law can be enforced.

I would therefore recommend that the board direct the truant officer to prosecute, in the name of the board, any parents that the superintendent of schools may find persistently neglecting to comply with the law regarding compulsory education.

The law also provides that

"Any such truant officer may, within the school district for which he shall have been appointed, arrest without warrant any child between seven and fifteen years of age found away from the home of such child during school hours, and who shall then be a truant from a school upon which he shall be lawfully required to attend."

I would recommend that the board direct the truant officer to stop any children that he may find loitering on the streets during school hours, and if they are not legally excused from attendance to arrest them and return them to school.

From the children that I see about the depots and the streets during school hours I think there must be quite a number of children attending no school, and the knowledge on the part of the children that a truant officer is on the watch for them will do much to prevent such absence.

ALLIANCE OF TWO PROMINENT FAMILIES MARKED BY MAGNIFICENT CEREMONIES.

Marriage of Miss Louise Green Fisk and Lewis Edmond Waring Took Place Last Evening.

WAS HELD AT THE CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

CHURCH CEREMONY AND RECEPTION WERE CONDUCTED ON AN ALMOST REGAL SCALE.

Detailed Description of The Brilliant Function Which Was One of The Greatest Events of The Season in Local Society Circles—Thousands of Guests—Wonderful Decorations — Valuable Gifts.

Magnificent, indeed, was the marriage of Miss Louise Green Fisk, daughter of Former Mayor Chas. Joel Fisk, of West Seventh street, to Lewis Edmond Waring, third son of O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, which was consummated amidst scenes of brilliancy at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, at 8:30 o'clock, last evening. Seldom has there been a like function in this city attended by such regal splendor, and never has there been a nuptial event surpassing it in true grandeur and unrivalled beauty of detail.

When the ceremony ordained by the Church was at an end, the mind reverts to the lavish display at the home of Former Mayor Fisk, where a charming wedding reception was held. Pictures of the imagination only suffice to give an idea of the fairyland surroundings made realistic by the elaborate decorations and gorgeous gowns of the great throng of women gathered in this paladial residence.

The undoubted social function of the season, to which the smart set of fashionable Plainfield had looked forward to in eager joyous expectancy, occupied but a few moments of fleeting time and then it was relegated forever to a sweet and lasting remembrance to be treasured not only by the happy young pair, joined together to the end of temporal life, and by the union of two prominent and wealthy families, but by a vast concourse of friends, who had the rare good fortune to witness the nuptial festivities. In no sense was the interest taken in the affair limited to those who have been socially connected with the two houses, for the public at large in this municipality and the surrounding country were closely following the details of everything pertaining to the nuptial function.

When the church doors of that stately looking house of worship opened, it took all the efforts that the body of ushers could command to attend to the seating of the invited congregation. It was then but 7:30 o'clock and the time of the ceremony was one hour distant yet, within a short interval, every available seat in the noble edifice was taken. The immense crowd of people, every member of which was eager to obtain a position of vantage, was a novel sight to behold. The rich frocks of the women and handsome appearance of the men, under the piercing rays of electric light, which flooded the interior, was a novel sight to behold. Withal there seemed to be perfect order, for all felt the solemnity of the place.

There appeared to be an air of stillness for a time, but it was broken suddenly by the majestic peal of the great organ high up in the gallery thundering forth its eloquent notes, while accompanying it was the sweet music of four stringed instruments. James M. Helfenstein, the celebrated organist of Grace church, New York, was seated at the mighty instrument, while the other musicians were Carl Venth, first violin; Charles Morenhout, second violin; Philip Herford, viola, and Hans Kronold, 'cello.

From then on until the arrival of the bridal party a charming set of selections befitting the occasion was rendered. In full, the programme was as follows: Overture, "Tannhauser;" "Vorspeil, Lohengrin;" "Andante Cantabile," Tchaikowsky; "Dream Music" from Hansell and Gretel; "Berceuse," Godard; duet from "Sampson and Delilah," and "Romanza," Carl Venth.

The decorations at the church were wonderfully elaborate and tastefully arranged. The pulpit platform was a veritable garden studded thickly with great palms and ferns, interspersed with huge quantities of Easter lilies, an extraordinary flower at such a season. The plants and flowers were arranged to reach a considerable height.

At the end of each separate pew, facing the fine aisles, were masses of Easter lilies tied with great wide white satin ribbons. Covering completely the front of the large gallery, extending from one corner of the front of the edifice around to the opposite corner in front, were long streamers of wild smilax clustered with a goodly share of white roses. Truly, nothing had been left undone by Hugh Graham, the Philadelphia florist, and his corps of assistants to beautify the interior of the noble structure.

Precisely at 8:30 o'clock everything was hushed, the word being passed that the bridal party had arrived. From the lecture room door leading into the church to the right of the pulpit came a band of choristers, robed in black gowns and immaculate cottas. It was the famous choir of Rev. Dr. Huntingdon's parish, Grace church, New York. It wended its way down the aisle singing as a processional, "Perfect Love" by Barnby, to the accompaniment of the great organ and stringed instruments. At the front entrance of the church the bridal party was met and then began the march up the aisle to the left of the main entrance.

Quickly the choir took up the strains of the bridal chorus of "Lohengrin," and sang with a will as it lead the way. The ushers came first. They were, in order, Laurens H. VanBuren and Rutherford Mead Shepard, of this city; J. Cheney Wells, of Southbridge, Mass., and F. Raymond Lefferts, of New York; Henry Wheeler Lowe and Augustus B. Fisk, of this city; Charles W. Fisk, Edward J. Waring, and Richard S. Waring, of this city, and Edward Sawyer, of New York. They wore dainty boutonnieres of gardineas and lilies of the valley.

Walking alone was one of the bridemaids, Miss Margaretta Wood, of Pittsburg, a daughter of Joseph Wood, one of the vice-presidents of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Then came the other bridemaids in pairs: Miss Evelyn L. Fisk, of Wilburtha, N. J., an aunt of the bride, and Miss Edith C. Fisk, of this city, one of the bride's cousins; Miss Helen Dunbar Talmage and Miss Helen Bushnell, both of this city; Miss Esther D. Waterman, of Southport, Conn., and Miss Florence Waring, of this city, a sister of the groom. The bridemaids were attired in elegant gowns of pink Louisianne silk, trimmed with white lace, plotted. They carried shower bouquets of Queen of Edgely roses, the shower effect being comprised of lilies of the valley.

Preceeding the maid of honor were the Misses Annie Gray Fisk, a sister of the bride, and Eleanor Waring, a sister of the groom, who acted as flower girls. They wore white muslin frocks, trimmed with old Irish lace, and had pink sashes. These young girls carried as baskets, real leghorn hats, filled with pink roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Fanny C. Cox, daughter of Mrs. Bowland Cox, of this city. She was gowned in white crepe de chine trimmed with Renaissance lace and carried a bouquet similar to the bridemaids, composed of Queen of Edgely roses with a shower of lilies of the valley tied with silver braid.

Leaning on the arm of her father, Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, was the bride, Miss Louise Green Fisk, bringing up the rear of the bridal procession. She was a picture of charming femininity, richly attired. The bride was gowned in white chiffon with yoke and sleeves of rose point lace of marvellous design. Her veil was of tulle, caught up on her head with a natty little bunch of entwined white roses. At her neck was a heart shaped pin of diamonds, the gift of the groom, and this was the only jewelry on her person. Her shower bouquet comprised lavender orchids and lilies of the valley.

When once the fore of the church was reached the choir boys separated ten filing up to the right of and facing the pulpit and eleven in the same position on the left side. In front of them the ushers stood, five on either side, and still in front of the ushers were the bridemaids, separated in the same manner. The maid of honor walked to a place just to the left of the centre, facing the groom, who was attended by Orville G. Waring, his brother, as best man. Miss Fisk, as she appeared, was met by the groom and the two faced the officiating clergymen, Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the church, and Rev. Harrison Ely Adriance, of New York.

In a few moments the betrothal was made, Rev. Mr. Adriance, taking this part of the service. Miss Fisk was given in marriage by her father. When the couple had plighted their troth, Elmer Marsh, one of the cadet choristers, gently sang, as a soprano solo, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." The solemnization of the marriage was performed by Rev. Dr. Richards, and the benediction was also pronounced by him, the entire service being that of the Episcopal church with the exception of a short prayer, which Rev. Dr. Richards introduced.

In leaving the church the order of the bridal party was reversed, the bride and groom leading the way down the aisle, while the choristers moving towards the lecture room sang as a recessional, the triumphal march from "Lohengrin." When Mr. and Mrs. Waring and the rest of the bridal party had departed, the congregation slowly left the church.

Immediately upon entering the residence of Former Mayor Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. Waring were surrounded by a multitude of friends all anxious to be among the first to shower congratulations. The scene of all this brilliancy was the spacious reception room, where the bridal party stood beneath a canopy effect of palms, draped with asparagus vine, orchids and white roses. Here the happy bride and groom received the sincere and hearty well wishes of the throng that greeted them.

Above the merry chatter of the guests, there wafted through the rooms the strains of the music furnished by Brooks & Denton's orchestra. The musicians occupied one corner of the extended porch, where they were hidden from view by banks of palms and flowers. The catchy airs rendered by the orchestra found a hearty response with the guests, who enjoyed the reception to the full. While the congratulations were being offered, the sumptuous wedding supper was served by Holland, of Philadelphia. Guests were served chiefly from small tables on the piazzas, while some necessarily were served in the dining room.

After the guests had greeted the bride and groom preparations were made for their departure. In such a throng it was hardly to be expected that they could escape without receiving all manner of hindrances, yet they succeeded in leaving the house on scheduled time. Mr. Fisk's handsome coach and his best team of thoroughbreds conveyed the bridal couple to the station, where they took the train for New York. The coach as well as the horses were decorated with white satin ribbons, and William Coleman, Mr. Fisk's faithful groom, was seated on the box and handled the spirited team with a master hand. Those of the guests who were quick enough to intercept the couple had the pleasure of showering them with rice and flowers.

After the departure of the bridal couple many of the guests remained and enjoyed the many social features and the dancing. It was in the small hours when the guests departed, carrying with them pleasant memories of one of the most brilliant weddings that Plainfield has yet seen.

Mr. and Mrs. Waring will spend their honeymoon at Jefferson, N. H., remaining there during October. Their favorite saddle horses were sent last Saturday to Jefferson and the couple will reach that place tomorrow.

The decorations at the home were grandeur itself. The whole scheme was intended to portray fairyland and indeed it was. The whole house was transformed into a beautiful garden.

Of course, the reception room was the centre of attraction. This room was filled with palms, asparagus vine, orchids and white roses. The mantel was banked with ferns, vines and white roses reaching to the ceiling. The effect in the library was green and pink, while in the hallway on either side there were palms and ferns, with light overhead drapings of asparagus vine and orchids. Along the railing from the first to the third floors, there was wild milax, interspersed with large clusters of white carnations tied with white satin ribbon.

The porch, extended for the occasion and enclosed with canvas, presented a scene of exceptional beauty. It represented a garden scene. The entire porch was lined and festooned with wild smilax, interspersed with thousands of minature electric lights, green and white. On the sides of the porch there were golden torches filled with bunches of American Beauty roses. In one corner of the piazza the garden scene was enhanced by a fountain scene, comprising a miniature electric fountain, shedding forth green and white lights. Here and there about the porch were bay trees brilliantly illuminated with various colored lights.

Extending from the sidewalk, across the lawn, to the house was a canopy. This led to the side porch, where the guests were received. From that point they ascended an outside stairway to the second floor. There they were shown to the various dressing rooms. With this arrangement none of the guests entered the rooms on the first floor, until after they had laid aside their wraps in the rooms above. The small tables on the porch where the supper was served were decorated with pink roses and lilies of the valley.

There were twenty-five hundred invitations issued to the wedding and nearly as many to the reception. Among some of the most notable guests from out of town were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Adriance, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Black, Charles Ellis, John C. Loughlin, Fred Loughlin, Gen. and Mrs. Charles F. Roe, Miss Roe, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tifft, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. HIT WITH A BASEBALL BAT.

WALTER L. LONG SERIOUSLY INJURED AT 71ST REGT. ARMORY.

Playing Indoor Baseball—Bat Slipped—Cheek and Ear Cut and Bruised—Confined to His Home.

Walter L. Long, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. B. Long, of Park avenue, is detained at home, the result of injuries received Monday evening in the Seventy-first Regiment armory, New York.

He, with a number of others, was playing a game of baseball, and at the time of the accident he was standing close to the man at the bat. The bat slipped and struck Mr. Long in the head. He was knocked down unconscious.

The surgeon of the regiment happened to be present and he responded at once. It was found that his cheek was badly cut and bruised, and his ear was also cut so that several stitches had to be taken to close the opening. One eye was injured and is now closed. The injuries are not serious, but the surgeon said it was a very narrow escape from a possible fatal injury.

Some of Mr. Long's friends, who live in this city, were present at the armory and they brought him home. Mr. Long is a member of the New York signal corps and frequently visits the armory for drill and athletic exercise.

DISCUSSED TANK.

May Roof It Over to Prevent Dust From Getting In The Water.

The North Plainfield Board of Health at 1 meeting, Monday evening, discussed at length the action of the Plainfield Water Supply Company in constructing a cover for the water tank on the mountainside. The purpose, it is declared, is to again bring the tank in service. This was bitterly fought some time ago by the board and it now declares that the covers will be detrimental to the public health, by reason of the water becoming stagnant. It was deemed best at the meeting to wait until the tank is actually used before taking any definite steps in the matter.

SECURED HEAVY DAMAGES.

MISS EDITH HART WON SUIT AGAINST TROLLEY COMPANY.

Verdict Brought in at Union County Court Yesterday Afternoon—Verdict For $5,000.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 9—Miss Edith Hart, of Cranford, one of the passengers hurt by the overturning of a trolley car at Westfield, on the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey railway, last spring, was yesterday awarded $5,000 damages in the Supreme Court.

Miss Hart's case was ably handled by Counselor R. M. Clark, of Plainfield, while Lawyer Bergen represented the traction company. The former reviewed the case in every detail and made a strong plea for his client, claiming that the young woman's injury, even if not permanent as declared by Mr. Bergen, was liable to recur and would under any circumstances cause her to lose the pleasures of the best part of her life.

Immediately after the jury retired Mr. Clark opened the case of Mary E. Hart, mother of the plaintiff, in the former suit, against the same company, she being injured under the same circumstances.

SHOWER PARTY.

Given to Miss Viola Huff as a Little Surprise at Her Home Last Evening.

A surprise party was given to Miss Viola Huff, of West Front street, last evening, by a number of her young women friends and associates. Miss Huff resigned her position at Woodhull & Martin's store last evening.

The affair was in the nature of a shower party. It is no secret that she and Julius Williams, of West Front street, are to be married at an early date. In view of this fact, their friends went to Miss Huff's home, each one taking a present. The gifts were both useful and pretty and will be greatly appreciated when the couple go to housekeeping.

Miss Huff was completely surprised and it was some minutes before she could recover from the effects of the surprise. There were thirty-five young women and one young man present. The latter happened to be the prospective groom. An evening of much pleasure was passed. Games and music were featured, while the refreshments served later in the evening were not the least of enjoyable features.

MUST NOT DEAL IN FIFTY-TRIP TICKETS.

Substance of Notice Sent to Local Dealers by New Jersey Central Railroad.

DEALERS ARE INDIGNANT.

LAW SAYS UNAUTHORIZED AGENTS MUST NOT LET OUT TICKETS.

Circular-Letter Calling Attention to the Law Received This Morning—How Tickets Have Been Rented Out by Local Merchants.

There is consternation among those in this city who rent out fifty-trip tickets over a new order just issued by C. M. Burt, the general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central.

As there is considerable business of this nature carried on by a number of local merchants, they naturally feel aggrieved at the attempt of the railroad officials to put a stop to the leasing of tickets. These tickets can be purchased for $18 and it has been the custom of many merchants, as well as the City Union, King's Daughters, to purchase these tickets and then hire them out. The purchasers of the tickets pay seventy-two cents a round trip, while those hiring the tickets are charged eighty cents. Thus a small revenue is derived.

The position taken by the railroad officials is that the State law prohibits such traffic in tickets, except by authorized agents, holding proper credentials. Except that this business cuts into the railroad business in the sale of regular excursion tickets, there seems to be no particular reason for the prohibition of the practice. Each merchant selling the tickets received a circular letter with a copy of the law this morning. Just what action will be taken by them is not known.

It is stated that the company cannot prohibit persons from buying fifty trip tickets so long as they are on sale, and that the purchaser has the right to loan that ticket out and receive such compensation as he may demand, providing the railroad company is not cheated. The company receives the sum asked for these tickets, and it is not for it to say who uses these tickets. There is no doubt but what the right to traffic in these tickets will be contested by those who have been buying them and the exact rights in the matter determined.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

Better amusement for so little admission money has never been known in New York than the prevailing bills at F. F. Proctor's four theatres. Sandow, the marvellous strong man, is the variety feature and David Belasco's production of "Mme Butterfly" is the chief dramatic number. The Proctor Stock Co. is presenting revivals of favorite old comedies at three houses and the vaudeville element at all of Manager Proctor's theatres is of the very best. What with continuous entertainment, a diversity of bills and exceedingly low prices, 15, 25 and 50c, it is little wonder that the Proctor theatres are packed to their capacity at all times. The Fifth Avenue Theater has a revival of the lively Broadhurst comedy "What Happened to Jones" as its dramatic offering. David Belasco's beautiful production of "Mme. Butterfly" will be the bill at the One-hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Mile Pilar Moran, the dainty French actress and pantomimist, will assume the role of Cho Cho San having been re-engaged because of her artistic success in the role last season. Eugene Sandow, the wonderful strong man, is the over-topping feature of the bill at the Fifty-eighth Street Theatre. His specialty is entirely new since he was last seen in America and he is stronger than ever. The Twenty-third Street Theatre has "My Friend From India" and the little curtain raiser, "The Sweetest Story," as its comedy offering by the Proctor Stock. Beginning Sunday, vaudeville concerts will be resumed at all of Manager Proctor's theatres in New York. The artists engaged will be specially employed for the Sunday shows and the selections will include all of the leaders in the ranks of the variety folk. The performances will be continuous and will be given both afternoon and evening, continuing without interruption until nearly midnight. The customary popular Proctor prices, 15, 25 and 50c will prevail at the Sunday shows.

This will be followed by a large affair to be given January 30 next, when the Rutgers College Glee Club will be the main attraction. This entertainment will be held in a public hall. NEW CANAL TREATY

A Neutral Waterway Will Be Provided For.

SENATE AMENDMENTS EMBODIED.

The New Convention Simply Supplies Deficiency In Old Treaty—No Principle Sacrificed by Either Great Britain or the United States.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—There has been no surrender by England to the United States in the matter of the new isthmian canal treaty, according to the best authority possible. It is said to be equally true that the United States has sacrificed no principle in these negotiations, and the effect of contrary statements is deprecated as likely seriously to jeopardize the chances of the consummation of the convention which shall finally and peacefully settle an issue that has been a source of danger for the past fifty years.

It is said that what actually has happened is that each side has preserved the underlying principle of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and the new convention will provide for a waterway neutral at all times and open to commerce of the world. The Clayton-Bulwer treaty, however, drawn half a century ago, has proved to be defective in mechanism for giving effect to this purpose. The new treaty simply provides this mechanism. England is relieved from the guarantee, which in her case was only troublesome and which, being assumed by the United States in toto, is quite as effective.

As viewed from the American point of view even there was no surrender on England's part in seeking this relief, inasmuch as the above mentioned principle is reiterated and affirmed as binding upon the United States. As for the form of the treaty, it may be stated that it embodies in substance the amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty which were adopted by the senate and beyond that the changes are believed to be textual rather than substantial.

Australia's Protective Tariff.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 9.—In the federal house of representatives yesterday the commonwealth tariff bill was introduced by the Right Hon. Charles Cameron Kingston, who congratulated the house that from this moment free trade existed among the states of the commonwealth. Mr. Kingston explained that the new tariff would be on lines of moderate protection. It was proposed, he said, to raise the necessary revenue, £9,000,000, as follows: Two million one hundred thousand pounds from customs and excise duties on stimulants and the remainder from import duties of three classes, fixed, composite and ad valorem. He estimated that £2,362,000 would be raised by ad valorem duties at an average rate of 18.7 per cent. He also announced that the government intended to introduce a system of bonuses in order to encourage the establishment of new industries.

Huntington Amendment Killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—The feature of yesterday's sessions of the triennial Episcopal convention was the reconsideration and defeat of what is known as the Huntington amendment to the constitution, which was adopted by the house of deputies Monday, providing for the use of modified forms of worship by congregations willing to accept the spiritual oversight of a bishop. An error was discovered in recording the vote of the Nebraska delegation, which had been entered in favor of the amendment, whereas a poll of the members showed that they were opposed to the measure. A general missionary mass meeting was held at the Mechanics' pavilion last night. The attendance was estimated at 10,000. The music was provided by a vested choir of 4,000 men and boys.

Franchise Law Constitutional.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 9.—In the supreme court Justice Betts decided that the franchise tax law is constitutional. The case came up in the matter of the assessed valuation of the Troy Gaslight company by the state board of tax commissioners. The proceedings in which these reductions were made were in the nature of certiorari and were brought not only for the purpose of reviewing the action of the state tax commissioners relative to valuation, but also to raise the question of the constitutionality of the franchise tax law.

Fast Walkers.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The leaders in the six day walking match at Industrial hall are setting a fast pace for the weary trailers. The first to make the double century was the veteran Cartwright, who made that distance at 8:45 p. m. At 9:11 Hegelman made his 200 miles, and at 9:29 Glick had covered the same distance. Glick walked his two hundredth mile in exactly twelve minutes, which is considered a noteworthy feat. Thirty men are left out of the original forty-nine who started.

Fifteen Negroes Shot by White Caps.

LEWISBURG, Tenn., Oct. 9.—Fifteen negroes were wounded, four of them fatally, by White Caps near Caney Springs, a few miles from here. Several of the wounded are women, one of whom had her eyes shot out. Numerous thefts committed in the Caney Springs vicinity recently have greatly aroused the community, and the White Cap organization is the result.

Caribou For New York Zoo.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Seven Newfoundland caribou were added to the animals in the New York Zoological park in the Bronx. Their arrival gives to the Zoological park the largest herd of Newfoundland caribou in captivity.

TURKS DID THE DEED

President of Macedonian Committee So Charges.

BULGARIAN TROOPS SEEK MISS STONE

On Good Authority It Is Stated That the Sultan of Turkey Ordered Abduction of the American Missionary.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Daily Mail has received the following dispatch from its Vienna correspondent:

"In reply to a telegram I addressed to him today General Zontschew, president of the Macedonian committee, denies that the committee had any hand in the abduction of Miss Stone. He adds: 'The committee desires the support of the civilized world for the Macedonian cause and therefore would not commit such a folly. The Turks did the deed, and Turkey must be made responsible.'

"M. Danew, the Bulgarian foreign minister, indignantly denies the suggestion that the Bulgarian government is not doing its best to rescue Miss Stone. He says 3,000 troops are engaged in the search for her."

The Turks Did It.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 9.—Dr. M. Mesropian of this city, a physician and a native of Armenia, who has lectured in eastern cities on the atrocities practiced upon the Armenians by the Turks, declares that the abduction of Miss Stone, the American missionary, by brigands in Bulgaria was the work of the sultan of Turkey. "I am sure it was he who ordered the brigands to carry off Miss Stone," said Dr. Mesropian. "He ordered her to be taken across the Bulgarian border so as to divert suspicion from himself. It is a move in retaliation for the enforced payment of the $90,000 indemnity that the United States exacted of Abdul Hamid for the burning of American missionary buildings. I believe it would be better for the government to send a warship over there than to pay the ransom. Missionaries will not be safe after Abdul Hamid has received the ransom. They will be abducted everywhere. The sultan is determined to be revenged for the loss of that $90,000, and the abduction serves a double purpose, the return of the money and the behest of fanaticism. There is no crime the Turk won't commit in the name of his religion."

State Department Doing Its Best.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Not since the successful attempt to save the life of John Hays Hammond, the American engineer implicated in the Jameson raid, has the state department put forth such energetic efforts to save a human life as it is now exerting in behalf of Miss Stone, the American missionary who was captured by Bulgarian bandits. A sum of money has been forwarded by the agency of the cable to Spencer Eddy, the United States secretary of legation at Constantinople, who has shown remarkable energy and ability in unearthing the ramifications of the plot which resulted in the kidnaping of Miss Stone.

Anarchist Paper Seeks Re-entry.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Abraham Isaak, the publisher of a paper in Chicago called Free Society, formerly The Firebrand, which was barred from the mails by the Chicago postmaster last week, has applied for re-entry of the publication to the second class. Postmaster Coyne forwarded a copy of the paper, containing an article by Emma Goldman on the assassination of President McKinley, for a ruling on the question of its re-entry to the mails under any classification. The department will call for further information from Postmaster Coyne and probably will test the subscription list of the paper.

Light Cabinet Gathering.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Only four members of the cabinet attended the cabinet meeting, Secretaries Hay, Root, Long and Gage being absent from the city. Those present were Attorney General Knox, Postmaster General Smith and Secretaries Hitchcock and Wilson. Nothing important developed at the meeting. The president talked over the work of the various departments with his advisers. He has begun already the preparation of his message to congress and desires to familiarize himself with all the questions pending in the departments.

Liquor Dealers Not Indicted.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Oct. 9.—The grand jury has ended its sittings and failed to indict the liquor dealers of Atlantic City for selling on Sunday, despite the charge of Supreme Court Justice Hendrickson at the opening of the present term of court. The Law and Order league of Atlantic City presented much testimony against the hotel proprietors and saloon keepers, and the action of the grand jury was awaited with interest. In discharging the jury Justice Hendrickson gave a reprimand.

Galveston Flooded.

GALVESTON, Tex., Oct. 9.—A foot and a half of rain fell here during the last twenty-four hours. This is the heaviest rain ever experienced here. The streets are flooded, and some damage has been caused to goods on ground floors of stores and by leaking roofs.

Exequatur For Consul Norton.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 9.—An irade just issued grants the exequatur of Thomas H. Norton of Cincinnati as United States consul at Karput, so long withheld by the Turkish government.

Railway Building In Kongo State.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 9.—It is announced that the government of the Kongo State is about to begin the construction of 1,000 kilometers of railroad in the upper Kongo district.

CHARTS INACCURATE.

Commander Wainwright So Testifies Before Schley Court.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Yesterday morning's proceedings of the Schley court of inquiry were rather tame and devoid of material points. Commander Wainwright, who directed the Gloucester at the battle of Santiago, was the principal witness. He admitted that the charts made by the board of navigation were in some respects inaccurate.

Lieutenant Dyson and Lieutenant Commander Hodgson were again on the stand, but added little of value to their original testimony.

Lieutenant Bristol was the principal witness at the afternoon session. He told of the blockade off Cienfuegos. Asked what orders he had to meet the contingency of the sudden appearance of the Spanish squadron, he said that he had none.

As watch officer, he said, he should have had such orders.

Lieutenant Bristol told of the battle at Santiago and said that at the close of the chase of the Colon the Brooklyn was leading the Oregon.

Lieutenant Bristol did not see the Brooklyn's famous "loop," but he declared that Schley's ship led all the others in the chase of the Spanish squadron and was ahead of the Oregon at its close.

His chart, he maintained, was correct.

Lieutenant Bristol was still on the stand when, at 4 o'clock, the court adjourned.

No Special Bounties.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Both the treasury department and the department of justice are being flooded with inquiries concerning the alleged discovery by a lawyer in Brooklyn of some old laws granting $64 state and $192 federal bounties to soldiers for services in the recent Spanish-American war. This statement, together with one that several thousands of cases are pending now before the attorney general of the United States which are to be decided in favor of the claimants within a few days, has been disseminated widely. The statements are not true. No such cases are pending before the attorney general for his action or decision. Congress passed no laws granting any bounties whatever to soldiers in the Spanish-American war. Extra pay was granted to soldiers in certain circumstances, but in nearly all such cases those entitled to the extra pay have received it.

Chinese Buy Cheap Goods.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The state department has received from United States Consul Henry Miller, at Newchwang, an interesting report on the subject of foreign goods in China. It is one of the traits of the Chinese people, he says, to treat the things they use very carefully, and hence cheap and poorly made articles which would be useless in a twinkling in America last long in the service of the Chinese. This characteristic makes the Chinese market for flimsy, gaudy articles a good one in many lines. One peculiar feature of the Chinese import trade, it is stated, is the great quantity of old iron imported—horseshoes, railway spikes and general scrap iron. This is worked over, welded together and put to various uses. This, he says, is a good illustration of the economy of the Chinese people.

Carrie Nation In Jail Again.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Carrie Nation, the Kansas saloon smasher, is in jail here because she will not pay a fine of $20, give a peace bond or leave the city. She entered a saloon here late Monday night, accompanied by 400 women and men, but was arrested before she could do anything. When tried before Mayor Sweeney, it was shown that her only offense was entering the saloon. She was given the alternative of leaving town or going to jail for thirty days. Habeas corpus proceedings will be brought for her release.

Tidal Wave Struck Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 9.—Severe seismic disturbances, probably caused by volcanic activity in the Pacific raising the level of the ocean, occurred about 9 o'clock Monday night. The Pacific coast of Nicaragua was flooded to a depth of eight feet, and considerable damage was done.

Schley on Retired List.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Rear Admiral W. S. Schley has ended his active career in the navy, and today he goes on the retired list by operation of law on account of age. His retirement will have no effect whatever upon the court of inquiry.

HEALTH IN THE PHILIPPINES.

General Sternberg Reports Very Satisfactory Conditions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Surgeon General Sternberg has resumed his duties at the war department after an absence of several months spent in an inspection of the medical department of the army in the Philippines. In regard to his visit he says:

"I found the health condition very satisfactory. I was very much surprised to find that in the lowlands, which are devoted to rice culture, there is comparatively little malarial fever. Similar localities in our own southern states are very much more unhealthy. Malarial fevers are somewhat more prevalent at higher levels, but the summits of the mountain ranges are as a rule quite healthful.

"Typhoid fever is not as prevalent as it is in most parts of the United States, and the mortality from that disease in the Philippines has been much less than it was in our camps in the United States during the Spanish-American war. Dysentery is the most serious disease with which we have to contend, but where the troops are supplied with pure water and not exposed to the hardships attending a 'hike' this disease does not prevail. No doubt as conditions become more favorable and troops are provided suitable barracks the mortality from this disease will be very much reduced.

"Pulmonary consumption is quite prevalent in the Philippines, and a considerable number of cases have developed among our own soldiers. These cases are at once sent to the United States and are treated in our sanitariums at Fort Bayard, N. M. The plague continued to prevail to some extent in Manila, the victims being mostly Chinese or natives. At the time I left Manila only three cases had occurred among our soldiers, and I do not anticipate any extension of the disease among our troops.

"I found the supply depots loaded with supplies and the hospitals in an excellent condition. The female nurses are doing excellent work, and all with whom I conversed were contented and desirous of remaining in the service. The hospitals, which were built by the Spaniards and which we now occupy, are well located and well adapted to the climate. They have been put in sanitary condition and are in every way satisfactory.

"The convalescent hospital at Corregidor island is well located and probably will be enlarged."

The Shamrock II. Will Stay.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—It is settled that the Shamrock II. is to stay in American waters this winter, and next summer she will probably be seen in races on Long Island sound and elsewhere. Sir Thomas Lipton said that the yacht would be laid up at Erie basin and not at New London, as originally intended. The tall steel mast will be taken out and all her other spars taken on shore and stored for the winter. By reason of the great height of the mast the yacht will either have to sail around Long Island in the spring to get into the sound or fit out at City Island, for the spar is far too long to go under the Brooklyn bridge at any stage of the tide.

The Duke Leaves the West.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Oct. 9.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York have bidden farewell to the west and are once more speeding eastward on their special train. They will reach the lakes today and tomorrow afternoon will be in Toronto, where an elaborate programme for their reception and entertainment has been arranged. The duke and duchess met again at Poplar Point last evening. The duchess arrived from the west in the morning, and he came down from the hunting lodge of Senator Kirschhoffer in the afternoon. Poplar Point is in the center of the great Manitoba wheat belt, and an exhibition of thrashing was given for the benefit of the royal party.

An Inconvenient Statute.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Mr. Tracewell, the comptroller of the treasury, in his annual report recommends an amendment to section 3648, revised statutes. This section prohibits the advance of public money in any case, including contracts for the performance of any service or the delivery of articles of any description. It is pointed out that the government is in constant need of express service and of light and water for its public buildings, also of telephone service and daily, weekly and monthly publications, for which payment must be made in advance. In the comptroller's opinion discretion in these matters should be vested in the several heads of departments.

Gardner Defeated by Forbes.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 9.—Clarence Forbes won the decision over Oscar Gardner in the ninth round of what was scheduled as a twenty round bout. Gardner made a poor showing.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The Delano ore mill at Boulder, Colo., was burned; loss, $100,000.

The new Argentine minister has presented his credentials to the president.

The plant of the McMahon Biscuit company in Chicago was burned; loss, $250,000.

The New York Yacht club gave a reception and dinner to Sir Thomas Lipton last night.

Burglars stole jewelry valued at $5,000 from Claus Spreckels' house in San Francisco.

Four trainmen were killed in a railway collision on the Central railroad near Oriskany, N. Y.

A loss of $500,000 was caused by the burning of a lumber yard and railroad cars at Arkansas City, Ark.

The national purity convention at Chicago met to condemn football, fishing, anarchy and theaters.

AN ISLAND STORMED.

Belated Report of Liberal Activity In Colombia.

BRITISH STEAMER UNDER FIRE.

The Quito Repeatedly Shot at Off the Port of Tumaco—The Warship Icarus Sent From Panama.

COLON, Colombia, Oct. 9.—The previous cabling of this dispatch has been prevented:

A force of Liberals numbering at least 250 attacked Morro island, commanding the entrance to the port of Tumaco, Sept. 24. The island had all along been garrisoned with fewer than a hundred troops, well supplied with arms, ammunition and commissary stores, including more than 150 head of cattle and other provisions in proportion.

The landing was effected before daybreak by means of canoes. Simultaneously the island was stormed from the other end by Liberals on the mainland.

Morro island is surrounded by shallow sand banks, and the only means of approaching Tumaco is by the narrow river, which is within easy range of the island.

The British steamer Quito, bound from Guayaquil, Ecuador, for Panama and touching at ports between, anchored off Morro island on the night of Sept. 26 and, weighing anchor at daybreak, started up the stream toward Tumaco. The Liberals fired a shot across her bows.

Suspecting the situation, she immediately turned, but rifle shots and one cannon continued to be fired at her, the former striking her several times and the latter once, the ball making a hole right through her above the watermark, though the damage in other respects was slight.

The Quito then steamed to the farthest point the tide would permit and again anchored. The firing was now resumed, but it ceased after a few minutes, the Liberals having discovered the imprudence of their action.

It is significant that shortly after the Quito incident became known the British warship Icarus left Panama for a destination not made public, but presumably Tumaco.

The steamship agents have been officially notified not to accept freight at that port.

The situation on the isthmus is unchanged and quiet.

British Subjects Outraged.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 9.—The newspapers here print a number of letters from Bocas del Toro and other ports of Colombia complaining of outrages on British subjects, including women. Strong appeals are made to the government to send a warship for their protection and also to demand compensation. Over 100 refugees have arrived here from Colon.

Many Applicants For Land.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The interior department has received dispatches from Oklahoma officially reporting the results of throwing open to entry the lands included within the recently opened domain of the Wichita and the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache reservations and drawn for but never applied for by lucky contestants. At El Reno 196 entries were allowed Saturday and Monday. There also were twenty applications under soldiers' declarations and forty-three simultaneous applications that were in conflict, which cover twenty tracts, making a total of 259 entries. From Lawton, Okla., Register McKnight and Receiver Maguire telegraphed that 319 persons presented applications for the lands at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. It took all of that day to arrange them and to determine the conflicts with entries already made. There have since been seventy entries.

Shot Wife and Himself.

DUBOIS, Pa., Oct. 9.—John Bennett of this city, forty-seven years old, shot and killed his wife, then shot himself and fell dead by her side. Bennett formerly kept a livery stable here, but lately has been out of business. He and his wife quarreled a week ago, the woman going to the home of her parents, on the outskirts of the town. Bennett appeared at the house in the afternoon and spent three hours with his wife endeavoring to persuade her to return to their home. She refused, and he left, but returned late in the evening and called his wife to the yard. A moment later the inmates of the house heard the two shots and, running out, found the man and woman both dead, each having been shot through the brain.

Cars Run Without Passengers.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 9.—The trolley strike has entered upon its second week, with hopes of an amicable adjustment further off than ever. The result rests with the public. Thus far very few passengers are being carried. Forty cars run regularly on all except two lines, but some of them do not have a single passenger on a round trip. The company officials say they will keep on adding to the number of cars in operation until every one of the eighty regular cars is in service. They feel confident that in the course of a few weeks the public will patronize them.

Arctic Explorer Coming.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 9.—Dr. Stein, the arctic explorer, has left Louisberg, C. B., for Washington. He denies that Dr. Deidrich is insane and says that probably Peary and the doctor are both to blame for the disagreement. Dr. Stein does not know that Peary discovered gold in the north, but believes it is there in plenty.

The Truancy Question.

It would be natural to suppose that even if the children did not realize the value of an early education, their parents would, and that they would therefore compell the sons and daughters of the community to attend school. In most cases this is true, but the city school authorities have had occasion to discover that it is not a universal law.

Parents have deliberately allowed their children to remain at home or roam the streets during the time when the law of the State says that they should be in school. It so happens that the State law makes provision for just such cases and the Plainfield Board of Education has decided to duly enforce those provisions.

There is no doubt but that the public schools are one of the greatest safeguards of American liberties. Their influence is remarkably far reaching. With proper education, the dangerous classes, including the anarchist and his friends, sink into obscurity and eventually disappear. This fact has long ago been recognized and the legislators of the State deemed it a necessity that all children should attend school for a stated period at least. So compulsory education was provided for in the State statute book.

There are always a few children, however, who evade the law and play truant almost continually. Local truant officers were appointed some time ago to gather in these youthful violators of the law. Then came several cases in which it was discovered that the children became truants with the full consent of their parents. Now more stringent methods are to be taken, and the State school law regarding truancy will be enforced to the letter.

Plainfield's smart set flocked to the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last evening to see one the most elaborate weddings of the year. It was conducted with splendor and elaborateness, the like of which has never been excelled in Plainfield. Every detail was looked after and the entire function was carried through without a mistake. The fact that both bride and groom were almost life-long residents of Plainfield and had hosts of friends here, besides being prominent society leaders, made the event one in which the entire city felt a direct interest.

That the public memory is short, declares the Philadelphia Record, is the despair of the virtuous and the delight of rogues. Only by the stimulus of repetition can the people be kept alive to facts, even when to remember would be to the popular advantage. The advertiser who keeps forever at it can alone have the assurance that people will know where to go when they want what he has to sell. It is cheaper in the long run to be persistent in advertising than to make newspaper announcements only at intervals.

It is to be hoped that the Common Council will eventually get the city ordinances printed. It has even gone so far as to secure bids for the work so there seems a fair prospect that some action may be expected in the dim and distant future. It is practically impossible at the present time for any layman to find all the city ordinances. If published in book form, the people would have least have an opportunity to see what they ought to do.

The Republican city committee is going to meet this evening to prepare for the formal opening of its campaign. It will probably mean a mass meeting with Franklin Murphy and other prominent Republicans to speak What is going to trouble the Republicans most, however, will be to find a suitable hall in which to hold the rally.

The State convention of the Christian Endeavorers will be held at Trenton tomorrow. Plainfield will undoubtedly be represented by delegates from most, if not all of the local societies. The programme this year is one of more than the usual interest.

At the Somerset county convention Monday, the fight waged so hot that Senator Charles A. Reed was forced to call the members' attention to the fact that it was a Republican, not a Democratic convention.

The work of securing the names of the voters in this State has begun. Yesterday, the election officers is this city started on their rounds.

SCHOOL ANNEX CLOSED.

Borough Health Board Deems it Advisable After Contagious Diseases Was Found There.

A case of scarlet fever is responsible for the closing of the new annex to the Somerset street school. It was found yesterday that Madeline Sutton, of Chatham street, had contracted a case of this description and rumor developed-that the condition of the new school room, 103 Somerset street, which was formerly occupied as a butcher ship, was responsible for it.

Upon notification the Borough Board of Health visited the school room this morning and afterwards had a conference with Superintendent Wightman, the result being that the room was abandoned and Spencer's Hall on the same thoroughfare substituted. Neither the Board of Health nor the school officials believe that the condition of the room is responsible for the cause of scarlet fever, but in order to allay any imaginary fears, it was deemed best to abandon the room.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, Oct. 9 — The Borough Council held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening. The proposed ordinance ordering the building of several hundred feet of new flagging, which was to come up for a third reading, failed to receive the attention of the members. Under the proposed regulation, if the property owners who were to be affected should refuse to stand the expense, it would fall upon the Council, and as the Council has exhausted the borough funds the members did not care to lay themselves liable to the expense of building sidewalks, and therefore have let the matter drop. Another proposed ordinance which came before the Councilmen was that of regulating the fire department. They went over this with the result that three of the minor sections were dropped out. After attending to some minor affairs the meeting adjourned until November.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley was the recipient, Monday, of an interesting letter from Lewis S. Thomas who left Dunellen several weeks ago for the Philippine Islands and is now at Manila awaiting an appointment as teacher of English in one of the native villages. Mr. Thomas writes that the cost of living is high and but that it is fairly good and that the climate is very dry and hot. He also says that the prevailing mode of locomotion would not find general favor in Dunellen as it consists of a small cart to which is fastened a peculiar sort of donkey. Mr. Thomas is in good health and has not been affected by any native fevers.

The Dunellen Literary Circle held a meeting Saturday evening, at the home of Harry Boice, of Randolphville. They made the journey to the place of meeting in a large stage. The evening's programme consisted of readings by Oscar A. Douglas and Miss Mary Doolittle, and a paper by Mrs. John Herbert. The subject of Mrs. Herbert's composition was, "The Evening Ride That Was to Been the Supper That Was." The paper was well written and received much applause. A bountiful repast was then served after which the guests departed for their several homes.

A Republican primary was held for the purpose of electing two delegates to attend the New Brunswick county convention October 10, Monday evening, in the Borough Hall. Henry Garretson was elected as president and Wilson Fredricks as clerk of the meeting. The two delegates, who were elected with the power, if unable to attend personally, of appointing their own alternates, were Adam Dealaman and Wilson Fredricks.

The seventeenth annual convention of the Union county W. C. T. U. will be held in Trinity Reformed church, Plainfield, tomorrow. There will be three sessions, 10, 2 and 8 o'clock. The local union will take part and be represented by a large number of members.

The death of John Moore, a well known young man of this place, occurred at his home on North avenue yesterday morning at 7 o'clock. The cause of death was consumption. Notice of the funeral services will be given later.

Rev. George Angleman, of Piermont, N. Y., will conduct the Methodist prayer meeting this evening. Mr. Angleman is a former resident of Dunellen.

Albert Conklin and Grover Kratzer, of the borough, have enrolled as students in the evening session of the Plainfield Business College.

The trustees and the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church are repairing and cleaning the audience room of the building.

Invitations have been issued for a dance to be given by the Dunellen A. C. in Apgar's Hall, Thursday evening, November 14.

Miss Mary Moynihan and Miss Cathy Moynihan have returned home after a few days' visit with relatives in Newark.

Mrs. C. F. Brower left yesterday for Jamaica, L. I., where she will spend a few days at the home of her sister.

Mrs. N. Wade has returned home from an extensive trip through Canada and to the Pan-American Exposition.

Miss Margaret Wilcox has returned home from a trip to the Pan-American Exposition.

John Fedderman, of Brooklyn, is about to make his home in Dunellen.

NEW MARKET

(Special Correspondence.)

New Market, Oct. 9—A Republican primary to elect delegates to the Middlesex county convention was held in Friendship Hall Monday evening. The delegates elected were Henry G. Hummer, of Piscataway, and Thomas H. Brantingham, of South Plainfield.

Most of the weeds and grass has been cut from the township highways, in accordance with the ordinance passed by the Township Committee.

Mrs. Daniel A. Runyon, of Easton, has returned home after spending a week at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Nancy M. Runyon.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dayton have rented the Nelson B. Dunn house, part of which they will soon occupy.

ALLIANCE OF TWO PROMINENT FAMILIES.

Walter Sullivan, of San Antonio, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. John U. Hussy, of Sewickley, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Godlev, of Haverford, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fairbairn, of Westfield; Judge and Mrs. L. E. Griffith, of Troy, N. Y.; James Kellogg, the Misses Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Helfensteine, Edgar A. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Percy McKensie, of Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, A. D. Shepard, Jr., Burritt Shepard, R. M. Shepard, of Fanwood.

In addition to the names of the guests given it can truly be said that nearly all of Plainfield's society was present to witness the ceremony and join in the festivities at the reception.

The wealth of wedding gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Waring not only include the costliest, but comprise nearly everything of use and beauty that one could wish for. They occupied a large room and hallway on the third floor, where they were seen in all their beauty to the best advantage. Words cannot describe adequately the endless variety of presents that have been received.

One of the notable gifts is a grandfather clock, Tiffany make, from Isaac Farlee Ritchey, uncle of the bride. A solid silver service, Gorham make, which took the first premium at the Paris Exposition, is a gift of Mrs. Ritchey, grandmother of the bride. She also gave a solid oak carved dower chest filled with a complete set of the finest linen.

A gift of great value is a set of solid silver knives, forks, spoons, etc., seventeen dozen in all, in a case, from Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, parents of the groom. The gift of the bride's parents include complete furnishings for their new home at the corner of West Seventh street and Arlington avenue, which they will occupy next month.

There are a great number of elegant pictures, paintings, etchings, etc., the work of celebrated artists, and a number of gold clocks, and an endless variety of silverware. Nearly every gift bears the monogram of the bride. There are a number of gifts of the famous Tiffany Favrile glassware.

The interchange of gifts among the members of the bridal party was pleasing. The groom's gifts to the ushers were heavy gold cuff buttons and the bride's gifts to the maid of honor and bridemaids were gold chain bracelets set with seven jewels. The flower girls received plain gold bracelets.

Some of the gifts include the following: Cut glass and silver loving cup, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller; silver vase, Gen. Charles Miller; silver vegetable dishes, Mrs. Daniel Runkle, great aunt of the bride; silver soup tureen, Mrs. Harvey Fisk, grandmother of the bride; pearl necklace, Pliny Fisk, uncle of the bride; terrapin set and silver ice pitcher, Alex. G. Fisk and Wilbur C. Fisk, uncles of the bride; enameled watch, Miss Evelyn Fisk; an etching, by Whistler, Miss Edith Fisk; diamond bar-pin, Miss Margaretta Wood; long gold chain, set with pearls, Miss Fanny C. Cox; gold rim leather card case, Miss Helen Bushnell; silver tray, Miss Helen Talmage; painting, Miss Eleanor Waring; set tea dishes, Miss Annie G. Fisk; bronze vase, Mrs. Thurber, aunt of the bride; Dutch fire irons and dogs, Miss May Fisk, aunt of the bride; gold purse, Miss Waterman; silver jewel box, the Misses Florence and May Waring; bronze statue, Charles Miller; a series of three pictures, hunting scene, Col. and Mrs. J. M. Schoonmaker; linen spreads with point lace, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers; statuette, Mrs. J. Lawrence Myers; painting, Mrs. Joseph Wood; candelabra, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Beinnart; painting, L. H. VanBuren; cut glass bottles covered with etched silver, Michael M. VanBuren, an associate in business with the groom; silver bowl, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Adriance; silver after-dinner coffee set, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard.

Still other gifts include electric clocks, cut glass, china, mantel ornaments, bric-a-brac, dinner chimes, Shakespeare's works, silver novelties in unique design, Oriental rugs and everything that is both useful and ornamental. Under the soft light of many incandescent lamps, the full beauty of these gifts was admired by the guests who thronged the home.

Mr. Waring, the groom, is the son of Orville T. Waring, a prominet officer in the Standard Oil Company and a man who has attained much success in the business world. The groom is a leader in Plainfield society doings and is connected with a number of noted organ zations, among which are the Reform Club, of New York, the Baltusrol Golf Club, the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club and the Union County Hunt Club. He is the general manager and eastern agent of the General Manifold Company, of which Gen. Charles Miller, of Franklin, Pa., is the president. Mr. Waring's offices are in New York city.

Mrs. Waring is the elder daughter of Charles Joel Fisk, a former mayor of this city, who the senior member of the firm of Harvey Fisk's Sons, a long-established and famous New York house of bankers, the offices of which are in Nassau street. Mrs. Waring was graduated from Miss Masters' School, at Dobb's Ferry, on the Hudson, two years ago. She made her debut together with Miss Fanny C. Cox during the winter of 1899. Since then she has figured prominently in all the events of the local smart set.

Shortly before 8 o'clock, two special trains bearing guests and immediate relatives of the two families arrived at the North Avenue station. One from Trenton was comprised of but one car and was in charge of Conductor Charles Dodwell. The other came from New York City and brought a large number of guests in three cars. They were immediately taken by carriage to the Crescent Avenue church.

Previous to and immediately after the ceremony, the scene outside the church was one of unusual activity. To provide transportation facilities for the immense throng of guests to and from the Fisk residence, 350 vehicles were required. The task of keeping this succession of equipages in order devolved upon the capable Frank Hedden and it was performed in his usual able manner. During the entire evening not a break or accident of any kind, occurred to disarrange the long line.

Some idea of the number may be gleaned from the fact that every available carriage in the city had been engaged together with forty coaches and ten wagonettes from Elizabeth, Rahway, Westfield, New Brunswick, Somerville, Bound Brook and Dunellen. On the Watchung avenue side of the church, the line extended as far as Kensington avenue and on Crescent avenue to Park avenue. Mr. Hedden was assisted in calling by Bertram Frezee and Gilbert Murray.

For the purpose of maintaining order among the vast throng of outsiders at the church Chief of Police Kiely detailed ten of his men to patrol the vicinity. On the Watchung avenue side Sergeant Frederickson assisisted by Patrolmen Saunders, Flynn, Cash and Higgins kept everything in the best of shape while Roundsman Flynn and Patrolmen Saffron, Myers and McGinley performed a similar duty on the Crescent avenue side. Chief Kiely and Patrolmen Overbaugh and Totten were stationed in front of the church and guarded the carriages during the entrance and exit of the bridal party.

At the Fisk residence Roundsman Mattox and Patrolman Gamo were in charge as were also Firemen Townley and Day of the local fire department. Chief Doane attended to the fire department end at the church.

HENRY WAS INDIGNANT.

German Barkeeper Did Not Fancy the Alias Given to Him by a Limb of the Law.

Walter Richards was a persistent joint keeper in Topeka, Kan., and his barkeeper was Henry Schmidt. One day the city attorney drew warrants for the arrest of both men, but, not remembering the name of the German, the document was made for "Walter Richards and his barkeeper, John Doe." In due time the men were arrested, but Schmidt was highly indignant that he should be called John Doe. "Dot iss not mine name," he said to those who would listen. "Better go down to the court and make the judge fix it," said the joker, who had listened to Henry's tale of woe. And Henry did go down to the court to fix it. Marching up to his honor he said: "Chudge, do you know me?"

"DOT ISS NOT MINE NAME."

"Well," said the judge, in some surprise, "I have seen you often, but I don't seem to remember your name."

"Mine name, chudge, iss Henry Schmidt, aber in Chermany it was Heinrich Schmidt. More as ten thousand peoples in Tobeka know Henry Schmidt. For more as ten year I drove dot bread vagon for Henry Vesper, und for more as two years I draw dot beer far Van Roberts. Dot bolicemans come und dells me I vas John Doe, und make me arrested. Mine name vas Henry Schmidt, not John Doe! So long as America in I have been, I more vas not insulted. If my name not back be schanged, I get me by Mr. Overmeyer some injunctions out."

And with head erect and indignation oozing from every pore Mr. Schmidt walked out of the court never to be called back again, for the judge, though stern, was possessed of humor.

THE BELLED BUZZARD.

Famous Bird Has Returned to Boone County, Mo., After a Lapse of Several Years.

From Columbia, Mo., comes the news that the "belled buzzard" has returned once more to Boone county. Such has been the rumor for several days, and now it has been positively verified by C. S. Ballew, of Harg, Mo., six miles east of Columbia, who saw the great bird at close view.

The belled buzzard has been famous for more years than men can remember. It has a bell fastened to its throat, and has a small iron band also. Sometimes many years elapse between the parting and the coming of the bird, but it never fails to return. The buzzard had been given up for dead this time, and the drought-stricken farmers were even puzzled when they heard a tinkling in the sky and saw the grim bird soaring, but when the bell flashed in the sunlight they knew that the old-time visitor had come again.

This may be the last visit of the famous bird, for it is very old. Mr. Ballew said that the buzzard had turned gray. It seemed weary and sluggish, and apparently indifferent when he approached, and did not fly until he had a good view of the bell, the origin of which is unknown.

There is something sinister in the arrival at this time of the strange visitor, which, perhaps, has seen the dawning of two centuries, and people talk about the bird at times with a touch of superstition.

Bees That Do Not Sting.

Several colonies of stingless bees have been discovered in the island of Montserrat, in the West Indies. Efforts are being made to introduce them in this country, as their honey-producing qualities are fully equal to those of the common variety of bee.

Advice to People Who Have Weak Hearts.

The following letter and reply is an extract from the editorial page of the New York Evening Journal of December 28, 1899:

"I have an ailment of the heart—i. e., it beats heavily after every meal, no matter how light a meal, thereby causing much worry and expense. I have been to eight doctors, who all say 'it is simply a functional disorder of the stomach.' Still they cannot give me any relief with their medicines. Please do not advise me to row, box, swim, or exercise in any form, as the least exercise will set my heart abeating hard, heavily and rapidly. I am anxiously awaiting your advice."

"We think we can give this man with his weak heart some good advice. First, let him rest absolutely, lying down for at least thirty minutes before he eats anything, and let him rest—but NOT go to sleep—another half hour after eating. Let him try eating about 50 per cent of the amount which he eats now—even less, if possible. Let him take NO solids for breakfast. Let him above all eat very slowly, chewing every mouthful at least twenty times—as did Gladstone—and swallowing nothing without first reducing it to almost impalpable pulp, no matter how long that may take."

Good advice, every word of it. In addition to the above, the man should take a Ripans Tabule after each meal. It will benefit him. It will benefit anybody having a like trouble. Some people think they have heart trouble when it is really only a digestive disarrangement. A Ripans Tabule, taken after eating, materially aids digestion, drives away that full feeling, puts the stomach in prime condition, stimulates the action of the liver, and relieves the depressed and suffocating sensation in the chest and around the heart. There are thousands of people in all parts of the country who stoutly attest that Ripans benefit them in many other ways also. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief.

What We Shall Wear

One of the most important considerations now occupying the feminine mind is the question of coats and other wraps for the approaching cold weather. The handsomest semidress cloaks are three-quarter length and mostly made of smooth surfaced goods, such as melton, kersey and cravenette coverts in the heavy weight. They are stitched in various ways and garnished with large buttons, sometimes very fancy, but generally plain ones. Almost all the sleeves are bell shaped. Flat men collars are nearly always seen, faced with velvet. Box coats are next in style, and they are of the same materials, and all the season's colors are represented in them. But the light tans, biscuits and drabs are the best form after black. There are many all black coats. Rain coats, raglans, Newmarkets and ulsters are all among the longer garments, and those half fitting are pretty and useful, but the box shape in a long coat is something awful to contemplate. Short jackets with reefer fronts and Russian blouse back or fitted backs are among the most useful as well as most becoming of all the garments. Even the fur jackets of Persian and seal are made in this style except where the intention is to have a long or half long garment. Even the three-quarter coats in seal are fitted in the back and hang loose in front.

Capes are made both long and narrow and wide and short. "You pays your money and you takes your choice." Many velvet capes are seen, most of them to match the dress, which is quite as apt to be in color as black. Particularly one finds handsome gowns of velvet or velutina made so that there is a waist to match the skirt and a cape to match that. I saw one suit of this kind which was just about finished in one of the principal houses here. It was composed of a blouse, a long skirt and a beautiful cape. This cape was at least one-third covered with handwork in jet beads, and down the front and around the high collar extended a border of rich black fur. The cape was twenty-eight inches long. It was full, but not excessively so.

The waists are so many and so varied in form as well as in material that one can do no more than speak of them in a general way. The tucked taffeta in all its varieties is with us still and probably will be for some time to come. There is a new kind of taffeta waist with something deliciously quaint and old time about it. The fronts are brought down by shirrs to a point, and the neck is cut out in a pompadour square, which this filled in with a pretty silk mull guimpe laid in fine tucks. This kind of waist opens in the back. Another in this style of waist is open all the way down the front, with a white chemisette and bretelles over the shoulders. The material is black taffeta, and the bretelles are of the same, but bordered with a row of pink ribbon, and this is sewed down with featherstitching in black floss. Most waists and bodices now are arranged with a view to making the shoulders appear broader by means of epaulets or bretelles. Some of the waists have enormous collars somewhat in sailor shape and lined with some stiff material. The Louis XV. coat is seen quite often in material to match the dress skirt. This kind of coat is very jaunty and dressy even when trimmed simply with buttons and stitching.

I am sorry to say that most of the skirts except those for every day and walking skirts will be very tight around the top and very flaring around the bottom and as much too long for the wearer can walk in. The flare is very decided. The top of these ultra fashionable ones is so tight that it has been found necessary to invent an underskirt without any top at all, so that the dress can be worn. The skirt in question is nothing more or less than a pair of silk or muslin drawers with the top cut off and set to an elastic, and they are to be worn as though they were some sort of frilled garter. All other skirts are cut with a yoke, and this is generally made of very fine and thin material so as to take up the least room.

By degrees, too, I began to find how the large-scaled fish of the rivers and the lesser turtles might be more rapidly captured, and so my ribs threatened less to start through their proper covering of skin as the days went on. But the lack of salads and gruels I could never overcome. All the green meat was tainted so powerfully with the taste of tars that never could I force my palate to accept it. And of course, too, there remained the peril of the greater lizards and the other dangers native to the place.

But as the months began to mount into years, and the brute part of my nature became more satisfied, there came other longings which it was less easy to provide for. From the ivory of a river-horse's tooth I had endeavored to carve me a representation of Nais as last I had seen her. But, though my fingers might be loving and my will good, my art was of the dullest, and the result—though I tried time and time again—was always clumsy and pitiful. Still, in my eyes it carried some suggestion of the original—a curve here, an outline there—and it made my old love glow anew within me as I sat and ate it with my eyes. Yet it did little to satisfy my longings for the woman I had lost; rather it whetted my cravings to be with her again, or at least to have some knowledge of her fate.

Other men of the Priests' clan have come out and made an abode in these Dangerous Lands, and by mortifying the flesh have gained an intimacy with the higher mysteries which has carried them far past what mere human learning and repetition could teach. Indeed, here and there one, who from some cause and another has returned to the abodes of men, has carried with him a knowledge that has brought him the reputation among the vulgar for the workings of magic and miracles, which—since all arts must be allowed which aid so holy a cause—have added very materially to the ardor with which these common people pursue the cult of the gods. But for myself I could not free my mind to the necessary clearness for following these abstruse studies. During that voyage home from Yucatan I had communed with them with growing insight; but now my mind was not my own. Nais had a lien upon it, and refused to be ousted; and, in truth, her sweet trespass was my chief solace.

But at last my longing could no further be denied. Through one of the arrow-slit windows of my treehouse I could see far away a great mountain-top whitened with perpetual snow, which our Lord the Sun dyed with blood every night of His setting. Night after night I used to watch that ruddy light with wide-straining eyes. Night after night I used to remember that in days agone when I was entering upon the priesthood it had been my duty to adore our great Lord as He rose for His day behind the snows of that very mountain. And always the thought followed on these musings that from that distant crest I could see across the continent to the Sacred Mount which had the city below it where I had buried my love alive.

So at last I gave way and set out, and a perilous journey I made of it. In the heavy mists which hung always on the lower ground, my way lay blind before me, and I was constantly losing it. Indeed, to say that I traversed three times the direct distance is setting a low estimate. Throughout all those swamps the great lizards hunted, and as the country was new to me I did not know places of harbor, and a hundred times was within an ace of being spied and devoured at a mouthful. But the mga gods sun desired me for their own purposes, and blinded the great beasts' eyes when I slunk to cover as they passed. Twice rivers of scalding water roared boiling across my path, and I had to delay till I could collect enough black timber from the forests to build rafts that would give me dry ferriage.

It will be seen then that my journey was in a way infinitely tedious, but to me, after all those years of waiting, the time passed on winged feet. I had been separated from my love till I could bear the strain no longer; let me but see from a distance the place where she lay, and feast my eyes upon it for awhile, and then I could go back to my abode in the tree and there remain patiently awaiting the will of the gods.

The air grew more chilly as I began to come out above the region of trees, on to that higher ground which glares down on the rest of the world, and I made buskins and a coat of woven grasses to protect my body from the cold, which began to blow upon me keenly. And later on, where the snow lay eternally, and was blown into gullies and frozen into solid banks and bergs of ice, I had hard work to make any progress among its perilous mazes, and was, moreover, so numbed by the chill that my natural strength was vastly weakened. Overhead, too, following me up with forbidding swoops, and occasionally coming so close that I had to threaten it with my weapons, was one of those huge man-eating birds which live by pulling down and carrying off any creature that their instinct tells them is weakly and likely soon to die.

But the lure ahead of me was strong enough to make these difficulties seem small, and though the air of the mountain agreed with me ill, causing sickness and panting, I pressed on with what speed I could muster towards the elusive summit. Time after time I thought the next spurt would surely bring me out to the view for which my soul yearned, but always there seemed another bank of snow and ice yet to be climbed. But at last I reached the crest, and gave thanks to the most high gods for their protection and favor.

Far, far away I could see the Sacred Mountain with its ring of fires burning pale under the day, and although the splendid city which nestled at its foot could not be seen from where I stood, I knew its position and I knew its plan, and my soul went out to that throne of granite in the square before the royal pyramid, where once, years before, I had buried my love. Had Phorenice left the tomb unviolated?

I stood there leaning on my spear, filling my eye with the prospect, warming even to the smoke of mountains that I recognized an old acquaintance. Gods! how my love burned within me for this woman! My whole being seemed gone out to meet her, and to leave room for nothing beside. For long enough a voice seemed dimly to be calling me, but I gave it no regard. I had come out to that hoary mountain-top for communion with Nais alone, and I wanted none others to interrupt.

Her Grief Was Great.

"Where did you get the lid?" chanted Mr. Darley, thoughtlessly, when his wife appeared with her new summer hat on her head.

She straightway burst into tears. "I didn't think," sobbed she, "that you would be heartless enough to call my new Gainsborough by that horrid name."

And nothing could comfort her, not even her husband's penitent offer to pay for the hat.—Judge.

Sacred Days of Various Lands.

The first day of the week, as everyone knows, is the Christian Sunday. Monday is the day kept sacred by the Greeks, Tuesday is the Persian day of worship, on Wednesday the Assyrians worship, Thursday is a holy day among the Egyptians, the Turks keep Friday, and the Jews Saturday, as their Sabbath.—Sunday School Times.

Handicapped by Circumstances.

"He has told me that he loved me," said the fair girl, confidingly, "but I don't know whether to marry him or not."

"Don't you think he tells the truth?"

"I am sure he does his best to tell the truth. But, you see, he works in the weather bureau." — Washington Star.

A Singularity of the Calendar.

No century has ever begun on a Wednesday, a Friday, or a Sunday, and the same order of days is repeated every 20 years. January and October of each year always begin with the same day. So with April and July, so with September and December, so with February, March and November.—N. Y. Sun.

BOERS IN CAPE COLONY.

Five Commandos Closely Pursued by the British.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—In his weekly report to the war office Lord Kitchener says that since his last report 50 Boers have been killed, 36 wounded, 244 taken prisoners, and there have been 60 surrenders.

Lord Kitchener adds: "General F. W. Kitchener was engaged on Sunday near Vryheid with the enemy, who were trying to move north. General Bruce Hamilton was also engaged. The results of these fights have not been reported. Fetherstonehaugh and Methuen are moving against Delarey's and Kemp's commandos, which have scattered since the attack on Kekewich at Moedwill."

Lord Kitchener locates five Boer commandos in Cape Colony. These, he says, are being pursued by the British columns and are lightly engaged almost daily.

Roberts Pleads For Patience.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 9.—Lord Roberts, after distributing medals to the troops, alluded to the concern of the nation over South African affairs and to the attacks of the press on the government for not doing more. The government, he said, relied on Lord Kitchener, whose every request for men, horses and stores had been complied with. He exhorted the people to be patient.

HEROIC FIREMEN.

They Carry Explosives From the Hold of a Burning Ship.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Firemen risked their lives in a heroic and successful effort to remove dynamite cartridges and nitroglycerin from the hold of a burning ship at pier 12, East river, last night.

Flames and smoke were discovered coming from the portholes of the three masted schooner Criffel, which arrived recently from Liverpool and had been reladen for sailing.

The bark was laden with petroleum, and in addition many cases of high explosives were stored in the hold.

Those on board who knew the nature of the cargo were panic stricken when the fire was discovered, fearing that a terrific explosion would take place.

Firemen from two truck companies that arrived first at the pier, although warned of their danger, rushed aboard and, climbing down into the hold, carried out the cases of explosives in their arms.

The fire tug New Yorker soon arrived and got the fire under control.

But for the ready work of the firemen, however, a disastrous explosion would have taken place, as the flames reached the spot where the dynamite was stored only a few seconds after it had been removed.

Philippine Arithmetics Seized.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The representative of a book publishing house called on Assistant Secretary Taylor at the treasury department to ask for relief from the seizure of several thousand arithmetics by the secret service. These arithmetics were printed for use in the schools of the Philippines and contained pictures of American coins. As any facsimile of an American obligation is in violation of the counterfeiting laws the arithmetic was suppressed. The publishers contend that a wrong has been done, as the pictures were educational to the Filipinos and necessary to the information of the children in the schools. The question will be taken up by Secretary Gage on his return to Washington, about the 18th of the present month.

A California Land Suit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Millions of dollars' worth of valuable lands in California are involved in the cases of the Kern Oil company et al. against C. W. Clarke and the Gray Eagle Oil company against C. W. Clarke, which were argued before Assistant Attorney General Vandevanter at the interior department yesterday. The hearing, which will continue, is on a motion for a review of the department's decision of last April in favor of the two companies. These companies are the mineral claimants in the litigation, while Clarke selected the lands involved in each case under what is known as the lieu land forest reserve act. The two companies assert their right under the placer mining law.

Armour's Will Filed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 9.—The will of the late Kirk B. Armour has been filed in the probate court. By its terms the estate is left share and share alike to the widow, Mrs. Annie H. Armour, and the three children, Andrew Armour, Lawrence H. Armour and Mary Augusta Armour. In addition Mrs. Armour is left without reservation the homestead at Armour and Warwick boulevards. Mrs. Armour and C. W. Armour are made executors of the will without bond. While no public bequest is mentioned in the will, it is known that this was not overlooked by Mr. Armour.

Football Accident Results Fatally.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 9.—Robert McKee, the left tackle of the Alma college football team, who was injured in the game with the Detroit Athletic club here Saturday by being bunted in the abdomen, is dead in the Brainerd hospital at Alma. McKee was taken direct to the hospital at Alma from here, and, although he was painfully injured, his condition was such that no fatal result was expected. McKee was a senior and expected to go to Chicago to take a theological course at the McCormick university.

GOLF.

The next team match arranged by the team from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will be played October 26 with Harbor Hill. The match will be played on Harbor Hill Golf Club course. The team was scheduled to play at New Brunswick last Saturday, but the game went by default.

The qualifying round of the women's national golf championship was played at Baltusrol yesterday and there were some great surprises. Miss Frances C. Griscom failed to qualify and four were tied with 97 strokes for first honors. Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers with a net score of 100 was tied with Miss Marion Oliver, of Albany, for fifth position, and she has an excellent chance of improving her position. Miss Lida vanHerwerden, of Hillside, made a net score of 116, failing to qualify. She has been playing a strong game and better things were expected of her. Mrs. Rogers and Miss Curtis are paired for today's play.

In the final round of the annual fall golf tournament at Princeton University yesterday F. O. Reinhart, of Plainfield, a freshman, defeated L. Conklin, of the sophomore class, 3 up and 2 to play, thus winning the championship of the university and the right to have his name inscribed on the Pyne trophy cup. The course was in fine condition and both men played in good form. Reinhart was strong in driving and putting and Conklin excelled in approaching. George T. Brokaw, of New York city, a senior, has offered a cup to be competed for in an inter-class tournament. Each class will be represented by ten men. The following schedule has been arranged for the matches: Oct. 14, seniors vs. the juniors; 15, the seniors vs. the freshmen; 17, the juniors vs. the freshmen; 18, the juniors vs. the sophomores; 21, the sophomores vs. the freshmen; 22, the seniors vs. the sophomores.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The City High School football team will play its second game of the season Saturday. In all probability the eleven, which will buck up against the local aggregation, will be the team representing the Somerville High School, on the gridiron. No ground has yet been selected, but the choice lay between the old Crescent Oval and the Hope chapel grounds, provided permission may be obtained to use the latter field.

BEFORE THE PROSECUTOR.

Two Plainfield Young Men Were Suspected of Implication in Young Women's Death.

Inquiry into the sudden death of Miss Christina Knoes, an eighteen-year-old girl, who died at the home of her employer, Rev. Dr. J. H. Howard, of Rahway, early Sunday morning under peculiar circumstances, resulted yesterday in two Plainfield young men who had been in her company Saturday night, appearing before Prosecutor English. The young men exonerated themselves from all blame of her death and were not detained. The case caused a sensation in Rahway but competent doctors yesterday declared the girl had died of heart disease.

Roof-Dwellers in New York.

Perched high up in midair, atop the lofty office buildings, are little homes as quiet and secluded as though they stood beside some country lane, instead of directly above throbbing, hurrying, maddening Broadway. Several years ago some inventive architect devised the plan of locating the caretakers and their families on the roofs of the buildings of which they have charge. The plan was so satisfactory in every respect that it has been very generally followed. Within an area of a few blocks in the down-town district dozens of families are living thus, above the eaves of the tallest buildings in the world. They form a quaint and interesting colony.—Ledger Monthly.

English Speaking in Mexico.

The constant growth of knowledge of English here is made evident by the new demand on the part of Mexican youth for books and periodicals in this language. One dealer in books and periodicals in English says that half his customers are Mexicans. They have learned the language with such a degree of thoroughness that they demand English reading. How many people to whom English is a mother tongue buy Spanish books and periodicals? The native booksellers say they are very few.—Mexican Herald.

Destruction of Patriotic Memorial.

Military necessity does not hesitate to obliterate patriotic memorials. A tower built at Gravelotte as a tribute to German soldiers who there fell in battle has been blown up by the engineers because it commanded new works outside of Metz. A first principle of warfare is that the most precious lives and the most cherished structures must be sacrificed if need arise.—Youth's Companion.

A Misnomer.

Mrs. Noozy—I think it's the most ludicrous thing to call that man in the bank a "teller."

"Because they simply won't tell at all. I asked one to-day how much my husband had on deposit there, and he just laughed."—Philadelphia Press.

Chance for Him.

"Is there no place in public life for me?" said the chronic officeseeker, wearily.

"Well," replied the successful politician, thoughtfully, "I think you would fit in all right at an inquest."

Good Enough for Him.

Uncle—I invited Jimmie to sleep with me last night and thought the mosquitoes would eat Jimmie and let me alone.

Uncle's Friend—How did it work?

"Oh, the mosquitoes let me alone, but they made Jimmie kick me all night."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A $10,000 Purchase of Men's and Boys' Fall & Winter CLOTHING

A Manufacturer, being hard pressed for ready cash, we bought his entire stock at a wonderful price concession; in fact he conceded us almost everything except the right to use his name. This is the kind of chance we are always on the lookout for, and which enables us to hold our inimitable Clothing sales. The purchase includes all kinds of Men's and Boys' Clothing in the Latest of Fall Styles, excellent materials, supplemented by superior workmanship, and at prices at least 33 per cent. below the cost to the manufacturer. Too Earthly for His Vision.

Milwaukee has a popular preacher who has an unfortunate habit of conversing aloud with himself in the flesh as well as with his Lord and Master in the spirit. Usually his monologues are confined to the back streets, where few people are to be met with. This is not always the case. He was pedestrianating on Wisconsin street recently, trying to select the subject for his Sunday sermon, in which the pros and cons were set forth in articulate speech.

While undergoing this ordeal he was met by a little woman, a member of his church, and her four-year-old daughter.

The parson had his eyes fixed on space, straight ahead, and was carrying on his debate with unusual energy. As they passed him by without notice, the child, looking up at her mother, remarked:

"Mamma, our preacherman is preacherlating to hisself, and he didn't see us, did he?"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Lime Honey Best in the World.

The "tree of a thousand uses," as the lime has been called, was formerly planted in England much more than it is to-day. The little row of pollard limes in front of the old farmhouse or the substantial thatched cottage is still a familiar site of unspoiled south country villages, while avenues of tall and ancient limes are very pleasant features of some of the large country homes, the manor houses in particular. It is claimed that the best honey in the world is made from the limes. Kowno honey is said to be made from no other flower. It is of a greenish hue. In Lithuania there are forests of lime trees, and the honey made there is particularly fine.—London Express.

Encourages Matrimony.

The English government gives away $50,000 a year, more or less, to encourage matrimony among the women employes of the telegraph service. Women enter the service at an average age of 16. After six years, when the operator has reached the official marriageable age of 22, she is entitled to an allowance from the state. For each year of service she can draw one month's pay. As her salary is $25 a month, she can then claim $150. If she waits until she is 28 she can draw $400. In practice the average amount paid has been found to be about $200.—Detroit Free Press.

Spinal Curvature.

Examination of 21,000 college students in the United States shows that curvature of the spine affects one out of 18 noteworthy students, while among those who are athletic rather than studious the proportion is only one in sixty. More than five per cent. of applicants for examination for admission to college were found affected by scoliosis, presumably from too constant addiction to the stooping posture while studying. Growth of this dangerous disease requires checking, if learning is not to develop a large class of deformed and unhealthful Americans.—Chicago Chronicle.

Vehicles for Armies.

Armies are adding so many curious vehicles to their impediments that it is a grave question in some quarters whether their mobility will not be seriously impeded in future wars. There were the movable forge, the movable ermatorium, the hospital, the ice machine, and now comes the traveling disinfecting apparatus. The latter is a wagon so fitted that it can readily move from camp to camp to disinfect the clothing of the soldiers.—N. Y. Sun.

MURPHY'S FLYING TRIP TO CAPTURE VOTES.

Republican Candidate for Governor Will Cover New Jersey in Eighteen Days.

SPEAKERS TO GO WITH HIM.

HIS ITINERARY HAS NOT YET BEEN DEFINITELY SETTLED.

Attorney General Griggs is Going on the Stump and May Visit Plainfield—Senator Kean is Also Going to Talk—Republicans Lack Local Orators.

Although the Republican party appears to be sanguine of the outcome of the gubernatorial campaign, no stone will be left unturned by it in the active hunt for votes in the campaign about to be inaugurated by a flying trip of eighteen days duration, which Franklin Murphy, the nominee, will shortly make. Eminent sons of New Jersey, famed for their oratorical abilities, will be called into service to present the issues of the campaign to the voters in every county throughout the State.

The State committee held a conference Tuesday afternoon which lasted until evening, and during the deliberations many suggestions were made as to the course to be pursued by the party leaders from now on until election day. United States Senator John Kean, of Union county, was among those who had gathered to exchange expressions of views and he took an active part in the proceedings. He gave an account of how matters stood in his home county and just what is needed for successful result.

An attempt was made at this meeting to arrange an itinery for the tour of the State by the candidate in a period covering but eighteen days. When the meeting adjourned no definite plans were announced inasmuch as final arrangements had not been completed.

Mr. Murphy attended the Morris county convention, which was held at Dover, this morning, and this afternoon he is at Paterson in attendance at the Passaic county convention. It is his intention to make speeches at each meeting as he has a peculiar and happy faculty of expressing himself clearly. A reception has been arranged to take place at East Orange, Saturday evening.

The State committee has not, as yet, appointed the campaign speakers, but it is expected that a list of orators will be announced in a day or it is known, however, that Former United States Attorney-General John W. Griggs will be among the prominent speakers and it may be that during the campaign he will visit this city. A mass-meeting will be held here October 31, but just who will be called upon to participare in it is not known. One thing is certain, however, and that is some good stump speakers will be here.

The city executive committee, of Plainfield, appears to be alive to the situation and although there is no expression of fear on its part that the Democrats will meet with any success in any of the four wards of the city, an aggressive campaign will be made by the majority party in an effort to cut down the Democratic vote as much as possible. Unfortunately there are not many local stump orators, but there are plenty endowed with that quiet persuasive manner of argument, which has telling effect in the political world. The party has a great advantage in the fact that it is systematically organized in every ward and it does not need much to stir up the proper amount of enthusiasm.

Among those who are likely to take an active part in speechmaking in various sections of the State are Congressman Fowler and Senator Kean as well as Attorney General Griggs. Senator Stokes, of Cumberland, who spoke in this city last spring, will be one of those who are counted upon to deliver ringing speeches. Senator McCarter, of Essex county, may also be called into service.

It is understood that stump orators of National reputation, from other states, will be invited to make addresses during the campaign. In fact the Republican party will conduct a wide awake canvas until it is time to commence casting the votes.

RELIEF ASSOCIATION WORK.

YEAR'S WORK REVIEWED AT ANNUAL MEETING OF ASSOCIATION.

Officers Elected and Other Business Transacted—Regarding the Finances.

The members of the Plainfield Relief Association met yesterday in annual session at the rooms, 544 West Front street. The president, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, conducted the business of the meeting and interesting reports of the work during the past year were presented. Every department of work showed improvement over a year ago and the reports were all very encouraging. When it is remembered that the association is maintained entirely by voluntary subscriptions, the work accomplished is considerable and of much importance.

The report of Mrs. Henry Lapsley, treasurer, showed the total receipts to be $3,215 54, and the balance on hand $29.36. These figures show that much money has been expended in carrying forward the worthy enterprises of the association. The members hope that contributions will increase and that the people of Plainfield will feel it their duty to assist in the relief work. There are constantly cases for relief, but owning to limited means all cases cannot be helped.

The election of officers to serve during the coming year was as follows: President, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers; vice-president, Mrs. C. E. Rider; treasurer, Mrs. Henry Lapsley; secretary, Mrs. Charles E. Brooks; Board of Managers, Mrs. David J. Yerkes, Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. J. E. Tracy, Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, Mrs. S. S. Guion, Mrs. I. N. VanSickel, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, Mrs. Lawrence Myers, Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, Mrs. John M. Whiton and Miss Thickstun.

GIRL TORN TO PIECES BY AN EXPRESS TRAIN

Six-Year-Old Maggie Galuska Instantly Killed at Jersey Central Crossing at Lincoln.

IT OCCURRED YESTERDAY.

FREIGHT TRAIN HID EXPRESS FROM SIGHT UNTIL TOO LATE.

Skull Was Crushed and Body Terribly Mangled — Crowd Witnessed the Fatal Accident—Burial Permit Issued by County Physician.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, October 10.—A shocking fatality occurred at the crossing of the New Jersey Central Railroad tracks at this place yesterday afternoon. Maggie Galuska, the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Galuska, was struck and killed by the 4:38 express train from Bound Brook. Death must have been instantaneous as the skull was crushed and the body terribly mangled, parts of it being strewn along the tracks for thirty feet.

The terrible accident was witnessed by a number of people who gathered the remains together and placed them in the small building used as a freight station. They were viewed later by County Physician Smith, of New Brunswick, who granted a burial permit. They were later taken to the home of the grief-stricken parents.

In company with a number of other children, Annie had been playing on the south side of the Lehigh Valley and New Jersey Central tracks during the afternoon. As they were starting home, the engine of a freight train on the latter road stopped at the Greenbrook tanks for water. The rear end of the train obstructed the grade-crossing and, in order to allow pedestrians to pass, the forward part was detached, making a small space between the cars. The rear cars obstructed the view of trains on the other tracks.

As the little girl walked through the passageway unconscious of the approaching express, she emerged directly in front of it. Before the engineer could reverse his train, she was struck and hurled high in the air.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning from the Catholic church at Bound Brook and interment will be made at that place.

Working on the Streets.

Street Commissioner Gavett's men have completed the turnpiking of Prospect avenue and have been placed on Woodland avenue to perform similar work. An extra gang has been at work removing surplus gravel and rubbish from the small bridge over Cedar brook on Richmond street, near Watchung avenue. The space beneath the bridge had become nearly choked up and was greatly in need of attention.

ITS THIRD SANCTUARY WAS DEDICATED TODAY

Reformed Church of Rockaway Formally Took Possession of New Stone Church.

RARITAN CLASSIS PRESENT.

ELABORATE CEREMONIES ARE BEING HELD THERE ALL DAY TODAY

Morning and Afternoon Services With Many Addresses—History of the Church Dating Back to First of Last Century.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, October 10—The Reformed Dutch church, of Rockaway, an imposing structure that cost $15,000, was dedicated by the Classis of Raritan at Whitehouse station today. The building is of grey stone taken from Cushetunk Mountain, west of the town, and the style of architecture is Gothic. It will seat 600 people, is lighted by acetylene gas and heated by steam.

At 10:30 o'clock Rev. Dr. Jones, of Bayonne, father of the pastor, Rev. Harry T. Jones, preached the sermon. At noon an elaborate dinner was served in Bonnell's Hall.

At 3 o'clock addresses will be made by Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, of Somerville, Rev. B. V. D. Wyckoff, of Readington, Rev. T. Walker Jones, of Bedminister, and Rev. W. E. Davis, of Lebanon. Rev. Dr. J. P. Krechting, of New Germantown, Rev. Mr. Conrow, of Lamington, Rev. Dr. E. E. Roberson, of High Bridge, and Rev. C. E. Walton, of this place, participated in the services.

There was an immense crowd of visiting clergy and people from a distance. The Somerset male quartette, Messrs. Tunison, Demaray, Totten and Ditmors, from Somerville, sang.

The church has a long and interesting history. The first edifice was erected in 1819, after the founders had worshiped in a barn in the apple orchard of Abraham VanHorn for over fifteen years. The second church was constructed in 1849. This burned in 1898, after a meeting of the Classis of Raritan had had its fall session there. The women had cooked them a dinner in the church kitchen and a defective flue did the rest.

Services were held in Sullwell's Hall until July 4, 1899, when that too, burned. Since then the congregation has worshiped in Bonnell's Hall. In 1899 the corner-stone for the present edifice was laid by Miss Louise Brown with a silver trowel.

WHAT THE COW DID.

Jury Brought in a Verdict Giving Hoffman $15 Damages in Justice Hand's Court.

A verdict of $15 damages was rendered for the plaintiff by Justice Hand in the case of Hoffman against Lambertson which was tried before him, yesterday afternoon. The hearing was continued all the afternoon and was hotly contested by the counsel on each side. Hetfield & Hetfield represented the plaintiff and William Newcorn the defendant.

Hoffman sued for $200 damages which amount he claimed was sustained by him through Lambertson's cows. The animals, he claimed, wandered about his premises, destroying the garden and clothing hung in the yard. The defense maintained that the cows were not those of Lambertson's and also that the suit was brought for the purpose of venting spite.

The verdict will undoubtedly be accepted and no appeal taken.

ONE OF THE FINEST WEDS.

ARTHUR A. M'GINLEY MARRIED TO MISS ANNA L. DRISCOLL.

Ceremony Was Performed at St. Mary's R. C. Church Yesterday Afternoon.

In the presence of a host of relatives and friends, Arthur A. McGinley, one of the most popular patrolmen in the city's police department, was united in marriage yesterday afternoon to Miss Anna L. Driscoll, daughter of Jeremiah Driscoll, of New York. The ceremony wrs performed by Rev. Father Smyth in St. Mary's church precisely at 4:30. It was one of the prettiest wedding taking place this fall.

Miss Driscoll, who was attired in a becoming traveling gown of bisque colored cloth and carried bride roses, was attended by her sister, Miss Kathryn Driscoll, of New York. The latter's gown was of castor colored cloth. She carried pink roses.

The groom's attendant was an intimate friend, John Powers, of this city. The bride entered the church escorted by her brother-in-law, Everard Polhemus, of New York, who gave her away in marriage.

Following the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the future home of the young couple at the corner of Richmond and East Third streets, where Mr. and Mrs. McGinley tendered a reception to their most intimate friends. It was concluded last evening by the serving of a sumptuous repast. They have deferred taking a wedding trip until a more favorable opportunity.

Mr. McGinley enjoys a large circle of acquaintances in this city, by all of whom he is well liked. His bride, although a native of New York, has been a resident of this city for the past four years and in that time has become very popular. Both were remembered by their many friends with a generous number of pretty and appropriate gifts.

WILL COMBINE COUNTY AND CITY PRIMARIES.

Republican City Committee Called The Union Primary For Monday Evening.

TO HOLD MASS MEETING.

CITY COMMITTEE DECIDED TO RETURN TO OLD METHOD.

Any One Can be Voted For at The Primaries Without Previous Nomination—Committee Appointed to Arrange Mass Meeting.

The Republican city executive committee met last evening with all the members present except the chairman, Mayor O. L. Jenkins and John Keely. Assemblyman Charles S. Foote occupied the chair.

It was decided to hold the city and county primaries Monday evening, when there will be nominated three members from each ward to the membership of the city committee, regular ward Councilmen and delegates to attend the county convention, to be held at Elizabeth Wednesday, and delegates to the city convention to be held Tuesday evening, October 22, there will be nominated three Councilmen-at-large, a city judge and a member of the Board of Education.

The method heretofore in vogue, that of making nominations prior to the primaries, was abolished, and the old rule regulating such primaries will prevail. Those who attend the primary will be privileged to vote for anyone whether they have been nominated or not. This will not prevent, however, nominations being made before hand if anyone desires to do so.

The members from the Second and Third wards opposed the plan of allowing "snap" primaries, as they term the scheme permitting nominations to be made at primaries. The First and Fourth wards supported the plan and the members from those wards carried the motion.

A delegation of colored people was received at the meeting. They have organized what is known as the Union Colored Republican Club and it is their desire to hold a mass meeting. The matter was referred to Mayor Jenkins.

It was decided by the committee to hold a mass meeting in this city October 31, when all the candidates on the Republican ticket will be present and speak. A committee, consisting of Messrs. Buckle, Foote, Murray and Newcorn, was appointed to arrange for the meeting.

EMPIRE STATE DAY.

Large Attendance of New Yorkers at Buffalo.

GOVERNOR AND OFFICIALS PRESENT.

Orator of the Day McKelway Generously Applauded—Reception and Luncheon in Honor of Governor Odell.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 10.—New York state day at the Pan-American exposition was all that the state commissioners had labored so earnestly to make it. It was a grand success and an inspiring manifestation of state pride. The railroads and trolley lines brought thousands of citizens of the Empire State and surrounding commonwealths to participate in the ceremonies, which were marked by a brilliant military display, exercises befitting the dignity of the occasion, matchless oratory and a general enjoyment of the exposition by every one.

The exposition's and city's honored guest, Governor Odell, surrounded by a galaxy of brilliant men conspicuous in the services of the state and nation, was greeted with cheers and applause throughout the progress of the day's festivities.

The day began with threatening skies, but happily the clouds held their moisture until late in the evening, giving the visitors a delightful Indian summer day. The formalities began at 10 o'clock, when 150 members of Squadron A, New York cavalry, clad in their handsome uniforms of blue, black and yellow and mounted on spirited bay steeds, moved down North street to the home of William C. Warren, who is entertaining the governor during his stay in the city.

The governor, accompanied by his staff, Daniel N. Lockwood of the New York state Pan-American commissioners and a delegation of the governor's friends from Newburg, left Mr. Warren's house for the city hall shortly after 10 o'clock. Here the governor was met by a distinguished body of men composed of state senators, assemblymen, officials from various cities, Pan-American officials and representative business men of the city, who acted as his honorary escort in the parade to the exposition grounds.

A salute of nineteen guns greeted the governor when his carriage arrived at the Lincoln parkway entrance to the exposition grounds. The troops marched down the west side of the Court of Fountains through an avenue of densely packed people to the stadium. That classic structure was crowded long before the arrival of the troops, about 16,000 people occupying every available foot of room. A wave of applause swept over the vast throng when Governor Odell entered the southeast gate at 12:30 and took his place on the reviewing stand. The troops made a brilliant picture as they marched into the tribune with flying colors and massed in close formation, facing the governor's stand.

After the review Governor Odell was escorted to the Temple of Music. That now historic structure was surrounded by an immense crowd, and it was with difficulty that a passageway was forced through the throng for the governor and the other guests. Hon. Daniel N. Lockwood presided over the ceremonies. Governor Odell was greeted with great applause at the opening and closing of his speech.

St. Clair McKelway of Brooklyn, the orator of the day, was then introduced. He was given a generous reception, and his oration was interrupted frequently with enthusiastic applause.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies in the Temple of Music a reception and luncheon was given in honor of Governor Odell in the New York state building. One thousand invited guests were present.

At 4 o'clock the governor again entered his carriage and was driven to the stadium, where he witnessed an exhibition of artillery and cavalry maneuvers by the state troops.

The final event of the day was a dinner in the New York state building, given by the state commissioners in honor of Governor Odell.

Boston Balloonist Won.

BUFFALO, Oct. 10.—The balloon contest from the stadium of the Pan-American exposition grounds between Professor Charles Litchfield of Boston and Leo Stevens of New York for a purse of $3,000 was won by the Boston aeronaut. The men started at the same moment, and their balloons rose rapidly to a high altitude before the parachutes were cut loose. Litchfield's balloon ascended about 200 feet higher than did Stevens', deciding the event in his favor.

Rockefeller-Aldrich Wedding.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 10.—In the presence of a gathering which included relatives and friends and guests representing to an unusual degree the legislative and financial interests of the United States, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of New York and Miss Abby Green Aldrich, daughter of United States Senator N. W. Aldrich, were married at Warwick Neck, the senator's summer home, yesterday. A fairer day could not have been desired. The sun shone brightly, making pleasant the trip of the guests who were brought down the bay from Providence in special steamers.

No Effort by Spanish Ships to Ram American Vessels—Enemy's Shore Batteries Not Formidable at Any Time.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—In the Schley naval court of inquiry yesterday Lieutenant Mark L. Bristol completed his testimony begun on Tuesday, and three new witnesses were introduced. They were Rear Admiral Henry C. Taylor, who as captain commanded the battleship Indiana during the war with Spain; Lieutenant Commander Templin M. Potts, who was navigator of the battleship Massachusetts during that period, and Lieutenant Edward F. Leiper, who was on the New Orleans during the war, the last named being still on the stand when the court adjourned for the day.

Admiral Taylor related incidents of the battle off Santiago on July 3, including the Brooklyn's famous turn. He said that none of the Spanish ships had made any effort to ram the American vessels when they came out of the harbor at Santiago. Commander Potts' testimony dealt especially with the bombardment of the Colon. Answering a question from Judge Advocate Lemly as to the conduct of Commodore Schley during that engagement, he said it was that of a man laboring under great mental excitement and of a man who was anxious to discharge as soon as possible a disagreeable duty. Lieutenant Leiper expressed the opinion that the Spanish shore batteries at Santiago had not been at any time formidable.

During Commander Potts' examination Mr. Rayner secured permission from the court to introduce as evidence the order of Secretary Long to Admiral Sampson, dated April 6, in which he was admonished against the exposure of the American vessels to the fire of strongly fortified ports. The paragraph in that order which he especially wished to have considered reads as follows:

"The department does not wish the vessels of your squadron to be exposed to the fire of the batteries at Havana, Santiago de Cuba or other strongly fortified ports in Cuba unless the more formidable Spanish vessels should take refuge within those harbors. Even in this case the department would suggest that a rigid blockade and employment of our torpedo boats might accomplish the desired object—namely, the destruction of the enemy's vessels—without subjecting unnecessarily our own men-of-war to the fire of the land batteries."

This dispatch also contains the following order:

"The department further desires that in case of war you will maintain a strict blockade of Cuba, particularly at the ports of Havana, Matanzas and, if possible, of Santiago de Cuba, Manzanillo and Cienfuegos."

A Skirmish With Botha.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Lord Kitchener reports to the war office that his brother, General F. W. Kitchener, engaged Commander in Chief Botha's main body of Boers twenty miles northeast of Vryheid, on the Natal border, last Sunday. The Boers retired to the north. General Kitchener is keeping in touch with them. The British had a lieutenant and two sergeants killed and ten men wounded. Other Boers who are without wagons are reported near N'Parankulu, and a British southern column is approaching that point.

No Confidence In Roosevelt.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10.—The river and harbor congress has completed its deliberations here and adjourned sine die, after which the members took an excursion to Annapolis and other points on the Chesapeake bay. The only incident of note was the practical squelching of a resolution expressing confidence in President Roosevelt, which, instead of being adopted at once, was referred to a committee, much to the displeasure of those who favored its immediate passage.

Pan-American Awards.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The total number of awards just announced by the Pan-American exposition judges are 3,193, divided as follows: Gold medals, 887; silver, 1,159; bronze, 1,147. There were also 1,384 exhibits that received honorable mention. The United States heads the list of prize winners with 601 gold trophies, 663 silver, 562 bronze and 470 honorable mentions. Mexico comes next with 78 gold medals, 151 silver and 139 bronze.

Vermont Postoffice Robbed.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The store and postoffice kept by James Dodge at North Hero, Vt., were broken into and $150 worth of stamps and about $200 in money, besides considerable merchandise, were taken. The burglars blew open the safe with dynamite and nearly wrecked the building, blowing the safe into pieces. They stole a boat and escaped and have not been captured.

Against Fraudulent Oil Companies.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 10.—The state of Texas is starting prosecutions against fraudulent oil companies. More than 100 of that class sold millions of dollars of worthless stock during the early stages of the oil excitement. The suits will be tried at Austin, where the Travis grand jury is investigating.

Monument Unveiled.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The monument to the late Grand Commander Charles Eide of the Knights Templars was unveiled yesterday afternoon. Right Eminent Sir Charles H. Armitage of Albany delivered the oration.

TERRIFIC BOILER EXPLOSION.

Six Injured by Falling Walls—Buildings Demolished.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 10.—Last evening a large boiler in the brass foundry of the Hayes Manufacturing company on West Eleventh street exploded with terrific force and completely demolished the three story brick building in which it stood. Adjoining this building and directly back of the Liebel House, which fronts on State street, was another three story brick connected with the hotel by a covered passageway across the alley. The first floor of this building was used as a storeroom, the second for sleeping rooms for some of the girls and an ironing room and the third floor as the hotel kitchen, the covered passageway leading direct to the dining room, which is on the second floor of the hotel.

This hotel annex was also completely demolished, nothing but a portion of the side wall remaining.

At the time of the explosion supper was being served, and six girls who were in the kitchen were carried down in the wreck. A general fire alarm was sent in, and in a very few minutes the entire fire department was at work extinguishing the flames which had started and rescuing the injured, who were as follows:

Mrs. Ella Dolan, cook, badly burned and cut, found wedged against hot cooking range and may die; Frances Levenbuski, silver girl, both legs and one arm broken, badly cut, injured internally and will die; Anna Schimagau, kitchen girl, slightly injured; two Polish kitchen girls, only slightly hurt; May Bentley, dining room girl, slightly hurt; Jack Davidson, porter in saloon, very seriously cut about neck and shoulders by glass; Charles Whandon, watchman in building where explosion occurred, slightly hurt.

The hotel was badly injured by the concussion, all the windows being wrecked, as were all the plate glass windows in the stores in that vicinity. The drift of the explosion passed through the hotel barroom, and that part of the hotel was completely wrecked. How any one escaped serious injury seems marvelous.

The cause of the boiler explosion is unknown. Damage to the Hayes Manufacturing company and to the hotel amounted to about $50,000.

Army of the Cumberland.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 10.—The Society of the Army of the Cumberland left the selection of its next annual reunion to its committee on time and place of meeting, which named Washington. The idea is to have the reunion on the occasion of the unveiling of the monument to General Sherman, and the suggestion met with unanimous approval. The meeting will be coincident with the meeting of the Army of the Tennessee. The following officers were elected: President, General D. S. Stanley, Washington; corresponding secretary, General H. V. Boynton, Washington; recording secretary, John W. Steel, Oberlin, O.; treasurer, Major John W. Tweedale, Washington; historian, Major Charles E. Belknap, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Gomez Defends Senor Palma.

HAVANA, Oct. 10.—General Maximo Gomez in an open letter to the press says that the recent reply of Senor Estrada Palma to the request for a definition of his views as to the policy he would follow if elected president of Cuba should not be interpreted to mean that Senor Palma believes that the army ought not to be paid. "His words with reference to the army," continues General Gomez, "are inspired by the loftiest patriotism. With him I believe that some formula should be devised to pay a sacred debt without throwing a heavy burden upon the republic."

Cornwall's Eastern Trip.

CHAPLEAU, Ont., Oct. 10.—The special train of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall swung around the north shore of Lake Superior yesterday and during the night made the run down through the province of Ontario for the city of Toronto. North Bay was reached early this morning, and the royal train was transferred from the Canadian Pacific railway to the line of the Grand Trunk. Brief stops for short formal receptions were made during the morning at Orillia, Barrier and Newmarket, and the royal train entered Toronto early in the afternoon.

Captain Tilley's Traducers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—It was said at the navy department that the reports of misconduct on the part of Captain Tilley have emanated for the most part from Samoan missionaries. Rear Admiral Silas Casey will proceed to Tutuila aboard his flagship, the Wisconsin, and personally investigate the charges preferred against the captain. Navy department officials are very loath to believe the stories of unbecoming conduct preferred against him, as his conduct heretofore has shown no such trend.

New Steel Dock Ready.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The navy department has been informed that the big floating steel drydock built at Sparrows Point, destined for the naval station at Algiers, La., will be started on its journey south next Tuesday. An arrangement has been effected by which the government does not come into possession of the dock until it is delivered at its destination, the risks of the voyage being assumed by the builders of the dock.

NOTED INVENTOR GONE.

Dr. Tuttle, Who Made the Explosive Thorite, Dies Suddenly.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 10.—Dr. H. H. Tuttle, well known as the inventor of the explosive thorite, dropped dead at his home in this city yesterday. He was born in Iowa Dec. 19, 1844, came to Tacoma in 1889 and practiced medicine until about three years ago, when he abandoned his profession to study further the subject of explosives, in which he had become interested.

Thorite, the explosive which Dr. Tuttle discovered, was the result of experiments which he undertook in Tacoma shortly after the discovery of gold in the Klondike, when miners were in need of some explosive that could be used in the frozen ground of that region. It proved to be a wonderful invention and at once attracted the attention of army circles at Washington. Arrangements were made for testing the new explosive, and its test fully justified the claims Dr. Tuttle had made for it.

It possessed remarkable qualities for use in projectiles intended to pierce heavy armor plate. Congress had passed a bill appropriating $50,000 for the purchase of the thorite invention in conjunction with the Issam shell, but certain provisions were embodied which prevented the negotiations being carried to a successful termination.

Spanish Claims Commission.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Spanish treaty claims commission met informally yesterday and discussed regulations to be formulated covering the taking of testimony by the commissioners appointed some time ago. All of the members were present except Commissioner Dilkma. Daily sessions will be held here. Nov. 20 has been fixed as the date for the hearing of a motion to dismiss the cases growing out of the sinking of the Maine for want of jurisdiction. The amount of claims of all kinds filed with the commission is $57,581,807. Of this amount $1,890,000 is on account of deaths resulting from the sinking of the Maine and $135,000 on account of injuries received in that disaster. Claims for assault by Spanish and Filipinos in the Philippines and compelling the removal of the claimant from that country were filed amounting to $151,400.

Arrested In London.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The state department has been informed by cablegram from the American embassy at London of the arrest at that place of John Morgan, who is wanted for larceny committed in the District of Columbia. John Harkes, who is alleged to have been Morgan's pal and concerned in the same larceny, which was committed at the Pennsylvania station last inauguration day, was arrested in London about a week ago, so that the pair are now under detention at Bow street awaiting extradition to America. Officers will leave Washington next week for London to bring the prisoners back for trial.

More Gas In Erie County.

BUFFALO, Oct. 10.—A gas well with a pressure of 1,000,000 feet of gas a day has been tapped in Ebeneser, Erie county, by the United Gas company, a rival of the People's Gas company. The tapping of the well was made last Sunday, but was kept secret. The well was sunk on leased land within thirty feet of a well recently drilled by the People's Gas company. Other wells are now being sunk despite the statement that the supply of natural gas in this vicinity is decreasing. Landowners are bargaining for 1 per cent royalty on each 1,000 feet of gas taken from their premises.

Rich Find of Gold.

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 10.—A rich find of gold has been located seventy miles north of Tucson, and the vein is 200 feet wide and 6,000 feet in length. A canyon cuts through the vein for 200 feet, exposing the ore on either side the entire length of the cut. It is asserted that from the bottom of the canyon to the surface the outcroppings of ore will run from $5 to $1,000 to the ton. The amount of gold in sight is estimated at the enormous sum of $7,000,000.

JOHN MOST ON TRIAL.

Anarchist Says Inflammatory Article Was Not New.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—John Most, the anarchist, was brought up for trial yesterday in the court of special sessions, charged with violating section 675 of the penal code by publishing the editorial entitled "Murder versus Murder" in his paper, Die Freiheit, on the Saturday following the assassination of President McKinley. Assistant District Attorney Herman read the editorial, which advocated the murder of rulers, and then Lawyer Hilquist, who appeared for Most, put the prisoner on the stand.

The defendant testified that the article had been printed some years ago in Detroit and that he merely copied it. Die Freiheit, although dated Saturday, he said, was distributed on Friday several hours before the shooting of President McKinley.

Justice Hinsdale adjourned the trial until next Monday.

Carnegie School In Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 10.—In developing the proposition made by Andrew Carnegie at the exercises incident to Founders' day last year the trustees of Carnegie institute have adopted plans for the erection of one of the largest and most complete schools of technology in the world. Since then the trustees of the Carnegie institute have had experts at work on the plans and scope of the proposed school. These plans and suggestions have been collected and embodied in a comprehensive report which will be forwarded at once to Mr. Carnegie for his approval or amendment. The proposed school will be built at a cost of several millions of dollars by Mr. Carnegie, and he will also be asked to give at least $5,000,000 for maintenance. The city of Pittsburg will be asked to contribute sixty acres of ground for a site.

Postal Cards Bear McKinley's Head.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The postoffice department has decided to place the late President McKinley's head on the new issue of postal cards which will appear shortly after Dec. 1 next. The design, as explained by Acting Postmaster General Madden, includes the year of birth and year of death immediately at the left and right respectively of the name "McKinley," which will be directly under the head. Above the head will be the words, "Series of 1901," and above that, "One Cent." The inscription, "United States of America," now appearing on postal cards, will be abandoned and replaced at a point lower down so as to leave the space at the upper part of the card, about one-third of the width of the card, clear for postmarks.

A New Potato Disease.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—An alarming disease has made its appearance in the potato fields of France, according to a report received at the state department from United States Consul Covert at Lyons, dated Aug. 30. The disease, it is stated, causes the leaves of the potato to dry up, while the stem of the plant becomes thin and covered with yellowish spots and finally dies. The veins of the leaves fill with a gummy substance and are infected by bacteria. The disease first attacks the roots and then invades all parts of the plant.

NEW MARRIAGE RULE

Episcopal House of Bishops Takes Important Action.

DIVORCED PERSONS ARE BARRED.

Only Exception Is When Marriage Was Legally Annulled For Some Cause Existing Before Marital Relations Began.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The action of greatest importance taken yesterday by the triennial Episcopal convention was the adoption by the house of bishops by a vote of 37 to 21 of canon 36, which relates to the solemnization of marriage. All of its provisions had previously been argued except those contained in section 4, which forbade the marriage of persons divorced for any cause not existing before marriage.

"For any cause not existing before marriage" is understood to refer to such causes as insanity, inability to execute a contract, the existence of a living wife or husband or like reasons which practically render the marriage null and void. This section has been a bone of contention, a strong element in the church holding that the remarriage of the innocent party to a divorce granted on the ground of infidelity should not be forbidden. The bishops have refused to accept this view of the matter.

The question is by no means settled, as the whole subject is now to come up in the house of deputies, where it is expected to cause a protracted debate. The canon as finally passed by the house of bishops reads:

"First.—The solemnization of matrimony in this church, in which the mutual consent of each party entering into this state of life is given in the presence of a minister, who, having pronounced them in the name of the Holy Trinity to be man and wife, invokes the divine blessing upon their union.

"Second.—The requirements of the laws of the state regarding the conditions for the civil contract of marriage shall in all cases be carefully observed before the marriage is solemnized.

"Third.—No minister shall solemnize the marriage of any person who is a minor under the law of the place of marriage unless the parent or guardian of such minor is present and consenting or shall have given written consent to the marriage or is permanently resident in a foreign country. No minister shall solemnize a marriage except in the presence of at least two witnesses, the minister or the witnesses being personally acquainted with the parties. Every minister shall without delay formally record in the proper register the name, age and residence of each party. Such record shall be signed by the minister who performs the ceremony and, if practicable, by the married parties and by at least two witnesses of the marriage.

"Fourth.—No minister shall solemnize a marriage between any two persons unless nor until by inquiry he shall have satisfied himself that neither person has been or is the husband or the wife of any other person then living, unless the former marriage was annulled by a decree of some civil court of competent jurisdiction for cause existing before such former marriage."

The bishops have yet to consider canon 37, providing for the discipline of persons marrying after having been divorced. This will also cause a lively discussion.

The report as amended will now go back to the house of bishops for action on the amendment.

The house of deputies will today take up the canon on marriage and divorce.

Both houses unanimously selected Boston as the place for holding the next triennial convention.

A general reception to the delegates was given last night at the Mark Hopkins Institute of Art. It was largely attended and was one of the most brilliant social functions ever held in this city.

Mrs. Muir's Demands Granted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Chancellor Magie at Trenton, N. J., has awarded Mrs. Ella McPherson Muir, daughter of the late United States Senator John R. McPherson of New Jersey, an annuity of $20,000 from her mother's estate. The amount is what Mrs. Muir asked for. Chancellor Magie said he would approve of the payment of a part of the income to Mrs. Muir, reserving such portion as may be necessary to pay taxes and other expenses, this to be determined by the executor.

The statement shows that the total receipts from customs sources during the eight months ended Aug. 31, 1901, were $10,455,029; for the same period of 1900, $10,682,484, and for 1899, $9,491,314.

About That Nomination.

There seems but little doubt that J. S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerville, who captained the Thompson cohorts at the Somerset county convention at Somerville Monday, was responsible for a large share of the excitement which made the convention such a thrilling one. The trouble is that Mr. Frelinghuysen has aspirations to go to the State Senate when the term of Senator Charles A. Reed expires. He wants the Republican nomination, of course.

Before the convention convened it was well known that the Reed forces had captured a majority of the delegates and that their choice was bound to be the choice of the convention. With a view, perhaps, of conciliating the others, the name of Mayor N. B. Smalley was withdrawn at the last moment and that of Thomas Douglas, of Bernards township, substituted. A compromise candidate he was termed, but there is no doubt but that he was just as strong a supporter of Senatar Reed as Mayor Smalley.

It is now apparent that Mayor Smalley's name was used in connection with the nomination simply to defeat Former Assemblyman E. E. Cooper and not with any real intention of giving him the nomination. What with the State senator and the surrogate, North Plainfield has pretty nearly his share of the county offices. This fact the Republican leaders in Somerset county apprently recognize and so the shrievalty nomination went to a part of the county which, although quite important, has had but little recognition from the Republicans.

Those who saw Mr. Frelinghuysen at the State convention, where he was chairman of the Somerset county delegation, and at the county convention, when he appeared as spokesman for the Thompson faction, did not find it difficult to judge that he had not been long in politics. He is undoubtedly ambitious but he will have to learn much before he can outwit the "tall Sycamore of Somerset."

No Cause for Fear.

A petition, signed by a number of Plainfielders, was presented to the Common Council, Monday evening, protesting against the location of the new buildings for Muhlenberg Hospital at the site at the corner of Park avenue and Randolph road, unless the system of sanitary sewers be extended there. The petition states that the new hospital would be a menace to the health of the neighborhood and the entire city, as well.

It certainly would be a nice thing if the sewers could be extended out Park avenue to that point but it does not seem likely that men of such known business ability as go to make up the membership of the Board of Governors of the Hospital are likely to establish anything which is going to be dangerous to the city's health. As Charles J. Fisk, who is chairman of the building committee of the hospital, happens to be the president of the Plainfield Board of Health, it certainly looks as if the city's health would not be forgotten.

The rumor circulated to the effect that Clarence L. Murphy had ambitions for the Republican nomination for the city judgeship did have foundation in fact. Little headway, however, was made with the boom, and when it was ascertained that there is no opposition to the present incumbent, William N. Runyon, nothing further was done. Mr Murphy is looked upon favorably by the party leaders, it is understood, but it is generally considered that the period of his activity in the party councils has been too brief to entitle him to honors.

This new edict of the New Jersey Central Railroad regarding fifty-trip tickets is not likely to prove wonderfully popular with the public at large. At present, it is possible for any reputable person to go to New York and return for eighty cents. If this law is enforced, it will cost a dollar unless the purchaser is willing to make a considerable outlay. If the company is going to do away with the present method, it should certainly replace it with some other that will give the man of modest means an equal chance.

There need be no scare among the residents of North Plainfield over the appearance of one case of scarlet fever in one of the borough schools. Immediate action was taken by the health authorities to prevent any possible spread of the dread disease and it is now under complete control. Such things are not pleasant, of course, but the present case is not one which need cause any worriment by parents whose children are attending the sessions of the borough public schools.

The young men from this city who are students at Princeton University, and there are several, are rapidly coming to the fore. In golf and football they have distinguished themselves. No doubt they will be heard from more later on.

An agreement has been reached whereby Wednesday, October 16, will be "New Jersey Day" at the Pan-American Exposition. The original date set was changed on account of the great National calamity.

Another damage suit has been decided against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company. Those accidents proved rather costly experiments for that corporation.

Both political parties have promised to wake up a little local enthusiasm in the course of a week or two. At present there appears to be but very little interest in politics in Plainfield.

The winning of the Princeton University golf championship by Frank O. Reinhart, of this city, speaks well for the ancient and royal game as played in Plainfield.

Don't forget to speak a word for the introduction of water meters when you pay your water bill this month.

HAIR-RAISING ESCAPE.

Maniac Chases Undertaker from Room When He Had Gone to Lay Out a Corpse.

Locked with a corpse, a paralyzed old man and a powerful maniac in a room in a house far from any other habitation, Peter Mitchell, an undertaker of Elizabethport, N. J., had a hair-raising escape the other day.

Mitchell got an order at midnight to go to the residence of John J. Williams, in Linden township, where the latter's wife, Annie, aged 65, had just died. Williams for many years was an Elizabeth merchant, but is now slowly dying of paralysis. He has a son and daughter. The son, Albert, met the undertaker at the door when he reached the house, and, taking him into the room where the body was lying, pointed to it and exclaimed:

"There lies Queen Victoria and I am the Son of God."

The startled undertaker saw at once he had a madman to deal with, and his alarm increased when the maniac locked the door and demanded that Mitchell should take an oath that he would properly perform the funeral services, for which the lunatic said he would give him a check for $1,000. In order to humor the madman and get him to open the door the undertaker agreed to all this, and the lock was turned. Mitchell breathed freer, and was about to depart when a sudden impulse came over the madman, and he struck him a blow on the chest, following it up by another one.

The undertaker lost no time in dashing out of the house and made for his wagon, which was some distance away and outside the grove in which the dwelling is located. The maniac pursued him, shouting and cursing, but Mitchell is a good sprinter and increased his lead. On reaching the wagon he jumped in and ordered his assistant to drive rapidly away. The baffled madman was left yelling in the road.

HORSE FINDS DIAMONDS.

Old Sorrel Makes a Discovery Which Brings Its Master Three Hundred Dollars.

According to a New York special Jim Murray, the Far Rockaway hackman, has rechristened his ancient sorrel "Sherlock Holmes." For days Far Rockaway has been buzzing with excitement over the loss of $3,800 worth of diamonds by Mrs. Sarah H. Katz, wife of a glove manufacturer, who was stopping at the Belvidere.

Although $300 was offered, nobody could find the diamonds. All the detectives tried. Thursday afternoon the old sorrel was standing on the beach with head drooping meditatively. Suddenly he began to paw in the sand with his right foot. Murray glanced at the spot where the sorrel was pawing, and saw a package covered with a handkerchief, and when he opened it a handful of diamonds rolled out.

Murray drove at top speed to the police station. Mrs. Katz identified the diamonds as hers. She remembered that on the day they were lost she had carried them in a handkerchief when she returned from bathing. At night Murray was celebrating the christening of Sherlock Holmes with a part of the $300 reward.

Carnegie's Tale of Woe.

Andrew Carnegie is a dyspeptic. A young friend once said to him that he envied him his wealth. "Ah," said the millionaire, "I am really not to be envied. How can my wealth help me? I am 60 years old, and I cannot digest. I would give you all my millions if you could give me your youth and health."

R·I·P·A·N·S
Did Her GREAT GOOD.

It is interesting to note the generally beneficial results which come from the use of Ripans Tabules. A lady living in Hoboken, N. J., says: "Ripans Tabules have done my daughter, Clara, great good. She has gained in weight and has color in her cheeks."

A WIFE'S ALLOWANCE.

Should She Have Any Money to Call Her Own?

A certain prosperous man hands over to his wife $50 every week. He never asks what she does with it, would not even mind if she gave some of it regularly to his mother-in-law. He is generosity itself, his wife says, and she ought to know. She uses it for the housekeeping, for her own clothing and family and personal expenses as she sees fit.

Yet this highly favored wife feels like a pauper and tells her husband so. She has said to him:

"When I was a cashgirl working for $2 a week, I was more independent than I am now. You put your money into my hands to spend as I like, but whenever I part with a dime that is not wanted for our own expenses I feel as though I was using your money and I had no right to do it."

"But you know every cent I have is yours as much as mine," answered the husband. "I have perfect confidence in you, and I know you will always use the money wisely."

"But I don't want always to spend it wisely," said his wife in turn. "I was a poor working girl, as you know, and always had my own money. There are those who were kind to me then. I could always make them little presents in return or do favors for them or lend them $5 if I wanted to, because my money was of my own earning and it was nobody's business how I spent it. There is Aunt Harriet. She was richer than we were when I was at home with my parents. She was always helping me, always me pretty things I could not afford to buy. Now Aunt Harriet is very poor, while I am married to a man who is richer than she ever was, yet I have not really a penny of my own that I can give her to make her more comfortable."

"But don't I tell you that my money is yours?"

"I know you tell me so, and I know you mean it, but that does not make me feel free to spend it on my relatives. No self respecting woman could do that. I am entitled to my board and clothes, which I get and have no fault to find with either, but I am also a housekeeper and homemaker and a busy one. I have nothing of my own, not a cent of wages in return for the employment in which most of my time is spent. What I want is this, and don't think me unreasonable, please. At the beginning of the year let us fix a certain sum, whatever seems to you right, and let it be mine regularly every week, to do just what I wish with, to save or to spend, without question or accounting. Then if I want to give Aunt Harriet a dollar or treat an old schoolmate to an ice cream I shall not feel as though I am stealing your money."

The husband, being an up to date man, at once saw the reasonableness of his wife's request. When the new year opens, pretty Mrs. Blank will receive her regular wage as housekeeper and homemaker.

Most husbands are generous; few are just. The tyranny of position influences them unconsciously. Many a man who pats himself on the back for being the most "indulgent" husband alive holds a constant checkrein on his wife without knowing it. A well to do man thinks nothing of buying $10 worth of cigars to burn up in smoke and bestow on his friends, but would he not consider himself rather ill used if his wife should spend $10 at a time for ice cream and candy with a few friends?

Many a girl earning $5 a week and paying her own board is more independent financially—yes, and happier—than the wife of a man worth $100,000. She can develop her own individuality. She can exercise her own tastes to the extent of that $5 as the rich man's wife cannot do at all.

This pauperization of wives has continued since money began to be the lever of liberty. It is time it ceased among civilized men. Let a married woman have her regular allowance, small or great, according to the family means. Let American husbands institute a salary for wives. SUSAN PEPPER.

What Baby Should Weigh.

The baby of normal weight tips the scales down at birth at the seven pound mark. If he or she is much heavier or much lighter, he or she is at odds with the average. A peculiar feature of baby weight is that during the first days of its life the youngster—that is, the perfectly normal youngster—loses one pound. Thus examination made on the second or fourth day will show a weight of six pounds only. But after the first week, at the end of which time the lost pound should be regained, there is a steady advance. Ten pounds should have been reached by the time the baby is eight weeks old, and when it is twenty weeks old the weight should be fourteen pounds. At seven months old the figure should be sixteen pounds, and the year old baby should have a mark of twenty-one pounds to its credit. And so the future citizen or citizeness goes on building up until at the age of two years it is able to point with pride to a record of twenty-seven pounds.

But at length the voice calling my name grew too loud to be neglected, and I pulled myself out of my sweet musing with a start to think that here, for the first time since parting with Tob and his company, I should see another human fellow-being. I gripped my weapon and asked who called. The reply came clearly from up the slopes of the mountain, and I saw a man coming towards me over the snow. He was old and feeble. His body was bent, and his hair and beard were white as the ground on which he trod, and presently I recognized Zaemon. He was coming towards me with incredible speed for a man of his years and feebleness, but he carried in his hand the glowing symbol of our Lord the Sun, and holy strength from this would add largely to his powers.

He came close to me and made the sign of the seven, which I returned to him, with its completion, with due form and ceremony. And then he saluted me in the manner prescribed as messenger appointed by the high council of the priests seated before the Ark of the Mysteries, and I made humble obeisance before him.

"In all things I will obey the orders that you put before me," I said.

"Such is your duty, my brother. The command is that you return immediately to the Sacred Mountain, so that if human means may still prevail, you, as the most skilled general Atlantis owns within her borders, may still save the country from final wreck and punishment. The woman Phorenice persists in her infamies. The poor land groans under her heel. And now she has laid siege to our Sacred Mountain itself, and swears that not one soul shall be left alive in all Atlantis who does not bend humbly to her will."

"It is a command, and I obey it. But let me ask of another matter that is intimate to both of us. What of Nais?"

"Nais rests where you left her, untouched. Phorenice knows by her arts—she has stolen nearly all the ancient knowledge now—that still you live, and she keeps Nais unharmed beneath the granite throne in the hopes that some time she may use her as a weapon against you. Little she knows the sternness of our priests' creed, my brother. Why, even I, that am the girl's father, would sacrifice her blithely if her death or ruin might do a tittle of good to Atlantis."

"You go beyond me with your devotion."

The old man leaned forward at me, with glowering brow. "What!"

"Or my old blind adherence to the ancient dogma has been sapped and weakened by events. You must buy my full obedience, Zaemon, if you want it. Promise me Nais—and your arts, I know, can snatch her—and I will be true servant to the high council of the priests, and will die in the last ditch if need be for the carrying out of their order. But let me see Nais given over to the fury of that wanton woman, and I shall have no inwards left, except to take my vengeance and to see Atlantis piled up in ruins as her funeral-stone."

Zaemon looked at me bitterly. "And you are the man the high council thought to trust as they would trust one of themselves? Truly we are in an age of weak men and faithless now. But, my lord—nay, I must call you brother still; we cannot be too nice in our choosing to-day—you are the best there is, and we must have you. We little thought you would ask a price for your generalship, having once taken oath on the walls of the Ark of the Mysteries itself, that always, come what might, you would be a servant of the high council of the clan without fee and without hope of advancement. But this is the age of broken vows, and you are doing no more than trim with the fashion. Indeed, brother, perhaps I should thank you for being no more greedy in your demands."

"You may spare me your taunts. You, by self-denial and profound search into the highest of the highest mysteries, have made yourself something wiser than human; I have preserved my humanity, and with it its powers and frailities; and it seems that each of us has his proper uses, or you would not now come to me. Rather you would have done the generaling yourself."

"You make a warm defense, my brother. But I have no leisure now to stand before you with argument. Come to the Sacred Mountain, fight me this wanton upstart empress, and, by my beard! you shall have your Nais as you left her as a reward."

"It is a command of the high council which shall be obeyed. I will come with my brother now, as soon as he is rested."

"Nay," said the old man, "I have no tiredness, and as for coming with me, there you will not be able. But follow at what pace you may."

He turned and set off down the snowy slopes of the mountain, and I followed; but gradually he distanced me; and so he kept on, with speed always increasing, till presently he passed out of my sight round the spur of an ice-cliff, and I found myself alone on the mountain side. Yes, truly alone. For his footmarks in the snow, from being deep grew shallower and less noticeable, so that I had to stoop to see them. And presently they vanished entirely, and the great mountain's flank lay before me trackless and untrodden by the foot of man since time began.

I was not shaken by any great amazement. Though it was beyond my poor art to compass this thing myself, having occupied my mind in exile more with memories of Nais than in study of those uppermost recesses of the higher mysteries in which Zaemon was so prodigiously wise, still I had some inkling of his power.

Zaemon, I knew, would be back again in his dwelling on the Sacred Mountain, shaken and breathless, even before I had found an end of his tracks in the snow, and it behooved me to join him there in the quickest possible time. I had his promise now for my reward, and I knew that he would carry it into effect. Beforetime I had made an error. I had valued Atlantis most, and Nais, my private love, as only second. But now it was in my mind to be honest with others even as with myself. Though all the world were hanging on my choice, I could but love my Nais most, and serve her first and foremost of all.

CHAPTER XIV.

SIEGE OF THE SACRED MOUNTAIN.

Now my passage across the great continent of Atlantis, if tedious and haunted by many dangers, need not be recounted in detail here. After some days I passed the black forest and the country from there onward had at one time carried a sturdy population which held its own firmly, and, as its numbers grew, took in more ground, and built more homesteads farther afield. The houses were perched in trees for the most part, as there they were out of reach of cave-bear and cave-tiger and the other more dangerous beasts. But others, and these were the better ones, were built on the ground, of logs so ponderous and so firmly clamped and dove-tailed that the beasts could not pull them down; and once inside a house of this fashion its owners were safe, and could progue at any attackers through the interstices between the logs, and often wound, sometimes make a kill.

But not one in ten of these outlying settlers remained. The houses were silent when I reached them, the fire-hearth before the door weed-grown, and the patch of vegetables taken back by the greedy fingers of the forest into mere scrub and jungle. And farther on, when villages began to appear, strongly walled, as the custom is, to ward off the attacks of beasts, the logs which aforetime had barred the gateway lay strewn in a sprouting undergrowth, and naught but the kitchen middens remained to prove that once they had sheltered human tenants. Phorenice's influence seemed to have spread as though it were some horrid blight over the whole face of what was once a smiling and an easy-living land.

At last I found myself within a half-day's journey of the city of Atlantis itself, with the Sacred Mountain and its ring of fires looming high beside it, and the call for caution became trebly accentuated. Everywhere evidences showed that the country had been drained of its fighting men. Everywhere women prayed that the battles might end with the rout of the priests or the killing of Phorenice, so that the wretched land might have peace and time to lick its wounds.

Sabbath in the Suburbs.

Mrs. Parke—Henry, we are in a terrible dilemma.

Mr. Parke—What now?

Mrs. Parke—Why, there is no gasoline in the house, and unless some is procured we will have no breakfast. If we take it from the incubator the little chicks will die from exposure. If we take it from the automobile we must stay at home all day. What is to be done?—Chicago Daily News.

In the Smoking Car.

"Here's a good one," said the man from Denver. "What's the difference between a pen and a pencil? Give it up. A pen has to be driven, but a pencil has to be lead, see?"

"The automatic bell buoy beats 'em both," murmured a quiet little chap who had gone on at Cleveland. "It rights itself."—Philadelphia Press.

A Reasonable Conductor.

Pickey—And just because you had lost your nickel the conductor made you get off the car and walk all the way home.

Bilkey—Oh, no. He only put me off. I could have sat by the roadside all night if I had wanted to.—Baltimore World.

Taken On.

Hoax—Funny! Did you ever notice it?

Joax—Notice what!

"Why, in the beginning of the world a rib became a woman, and now it's ribbons that become a woman."—Philadelphia Record.

Hardly Suitable.

First Tramp—Bill won't get much if he goes 'round askin' fer help wit' a high hat an' a cane.

Second Tramp—Well, I don't suppose he'll dress dat way durin' business hours.—Puck.

Absentminded.

Blithers—Poor Bingley is so absentminded.

Blathers—Is he?

"Yes, sometimes he pays his rent in advance."—Ohio State Journal.

His Experience.

His Friend—And you can't get moneyed men to consider the matter?

The Promoter—No. Money talks, but I've found it a mighty poor listener.—Puck.

HAS MADE PROGRESS

Marconi's Wireless Telegraph More Than an Experiment.

Young Inventor Claims That It Will Play an Important Part in the Industrial and Trade Life of the Future.

In a recent lecture delivered before the British Society of Arts, Guglielmo Marconi, the perfecter of wireless telegraphy, reported progress. Marconi has been actively at work for several years on the commercial installation of his system throughout the world and in developing, experimentally, new devices and methods of transmitting signals through space without wires. An authoritative statement from him amounts to a summary of what has been accomplished up to date with the new wonder.

First reports of the work of the wireless telegraph indicated that, while it was extremely interesting from a scientific standpoint, in practice it possessed such important limitations as to make it of no great commercial value, except in a few places where conditions were peculiar. The reports of the failure of the system as tried during the operations of the British army in South Africa tended further to confirm the idea that the wireless telegraph would never reach a position of great industrial value.

To people possessing these ideas, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, the statements of Marconi will carry great enlightenment. By a number of most ingenious inventions and devices he has done away with the principal drawbacks at first experienced, and has developed a new system of wireless telegraphy which is as far ahead of the one used by him at the beginning as his first work was in advance of the original experiments of Hertz and Henry. In fact, he states that the system and apparatus he first put in use are out of date and practically valueless, and are being rapidly superseded by his new inventions.

The principal and vital objection observed in the first installations of the wireless telegraph was that there was no way of protecting messages from the disturbances caused by other messages or by meteorological conditions. Privacy of messages was impossible, and too many stations caused hopeless confusion of signals. By the invention of an object which looks like a big cylinder of copper, with a wire reaching from the ground up through its center, Marconi has succeeded in making the messages sent at one station receivable only at the particular station intended. He has thus made it possible to increase greatly the number of stations in a given locality without causing trouble. A flexibility of operation approaching that of the wire telegraph has been the result.

GUGLIELMO MARCONI.
(Inventor and Perfecter of Wireless Telegraphy.)

Other great improvements recently developed in wireless telegraphy have reduced enormously the height of the wires necessary to transmit and receive signals, and have increased the distance to which messages can be sent. A portable apparatus which can be attached to a railroad car, and be ready for use even when the train is moving, is another development of interest. According to Marconi, the problems which proved too severe for wireless telegraphy in the Boer war in South Africa are now easy of solution.

Marconi devoted a large part of his address to refuting the statement that the wireless telegraph was not yet a commercial proposition. He named a score of places in various parts of the globe where public messages were being handled at regular rates with profit. Over 35 ships of the British navy have been provided with the apparatus, and practically all lightships and detached lighthouses belonging to Great Britain have been fitted with it. Many lives and much property have been saved with its assistance. The Borkum lightship, belonging to the German government, on Borkum riff, reports 565 commercial messages received from May to October, of which 518 came from ships, mostly the North German Lloyd steamers.

If improvements continue to be made in the next five years as in the last five it is safe to say that wireless telegraphy will play a large part in the industrial and commercial life of the near future.

Why Everybody Laughed.

At a revival meeting in a Georgia town a man arose and said that he was the wickedest man in the city. "I'd go to perdition if I should die to-night," he concluded. Immediately an old deacon started the hymn: "If you get there before I do, look for me—I'm coming, too." Then the deacon wondered why everybody laughed.

SPORTING.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The Alls football team has elected Harold Chandor as manager for the coming season. He has already prepared a good schedule, which embraces games with all the crack organizations in this vicinity.

The North Plainfield Grammar School football eleven will line up against the Lincoln Grammar School team, of Westfield, on the old cricket grounds Saturday morning. The game will be called at 10:30 o'clock.

David S. Pond and Mellick Tweedy, of the class of 1901, Plainfield High School, and Fred Brown, of Somerville, a graduate of Leal's School, are playing on the Freshmen's eleven at Princeton University. The Freshmen team develops material to a large extent for the 'Varsity eleven.

The members of the Alls team are confident they can make a better showing with the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., than that of Saturday and will attempt to prove it in a second game. At the conclusion of last Saturday's game, arrangements were at once made for a second contest to take place the latter part of the season on the same grounds. Last year the Alls team defeated the Elizabeth eleven by a score of 16 to 0.

GOLF.

The first round of match play in the women's national championship golf tournament at Baltusrol yesterday found Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers a winner over Miss Harriot P. Curtis, of Essex county, one up. Mrs. Rogers will meet Miss Lucy Herron, of Cincinnati, and the result will be watched with considerable interest. There is no doubt but what Mrs. Rogers has improved her game greatly since the last championship play.

NEW JERSEY'S LEADING GROCERS.

41st ANNIVERSARY SALE.

More than four decades, yea—a lifetime of honest merchandising. Nothing strange about it; simply the survival of the fittest. Forty-one years ago we started business and at once introduced quick-selling low prices on Groceries and Provisions in Newark. Today our fourteen large stores control the trade in the largest portion of New Jersey. Not a week lapses that we do not receive letters from towns, where we are not as yet represented, asking us to establish stores there. Growing, growing, growing all the time by the unfailing power of fine, standard qualities at the lowest of low prices. No secret about our success, either. We buy for cash only in quantities commensurate with our enormous business; we buy the highest grade of goods obtainable, considering quality only, never paying exorbitant prices for fancy labels; we buy each and every article handled in our stores direct from the producer and manufacturers only. We can't better that policy. You save money when buying from us for cash; don't have to make up for the man who don't pay for his groceries, like at the credit stores. You save money when buying from us; don't have to pay for an expensive system of bookkeeping, like at the credit stores; you save all middlemen's profits when buying from us, and you buy better groceries at retail for less money than the small stores are compelled to pay to the jobbers for inferior grades.

We have always been liberal users of printers ink, keeping you informed from week to week concerning our business; it's costly, but it is one of the obligations of great retailing, and we meet it. Compare the prices quoted in our weekly advertisement with those that you are now paying, if trading elsewhere; we guarantee you a saving of 20c to 30c on each dollar. Please figure out how much you can save in one year on your household expenses, then give us a call. We will be pleased to have your trade. Our establishment is at your service. The prices we quote today are for our Anniversary sale only; it takes place on FRIDAY, the 11th.

SATURDAY, the 12th.

SEEK TO ELIMINATE ALCOHOL FROM MEDICINE

Resolution Passed by Women's Christian Temperance Union at Its Convention Yesterday.

RELATED ITS PROGRESS

THREE SESSIONS HELD IN TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Reports Read And Superintendents Chosen—Addresses Made in Afternoon And Evening—One Speaker Sure That Papers Were Tampered With.

The afternoon session of the W. C. T. U. convention was continued yesterday after lunch was served in the Sunday-school room. At 1 o'clock there was an executive committee meeting and a meeting of the county superintendents. At the meeting of superintendents plans for the coming year were made and an informal discussion of the work proved very helpful.

At 2 o'clock there were devotions led by Mrs. J. U. Underhill, of Rahway, followed with reports. The executive committee reported the appointment of superintendents as follows: Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss S. J. Keron, Elizabeth; Young Women's Branch, Miss O. R. Yates, Plainfield; evangelistic, Mrs. W. H. Dalland, Elizabeth; literature, Mrs. W. H. Morse, Westfield; mother's meeting and purity, Mrs. E E. Rainear, Elizabeth; Sabbath observance, Mrs. M. Winter, Plainfield; non-alcoholics in medicine, Mrs. C. W. Scott, Elizabeth; peace and arbitration, Mrs. J. U. Underhill, Rahway; social meeting and red letter days, Mrs. M. F. Francis, Elizabeth; prison and jail, Miss S. J. Keron, Elizabeth; scientific instruction, Mrs. J. H. Lansley, Elizabeth; soldiers, sailors, railroad and motormen, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, Plainfield; Sunday-schools, Mrs. F. R. Baker, Westfield; press, Mrs. L. H. Noe, Elizabeth; unfermented wine, Mrs. Scriven Stoddard, Elizabeth; tower mission, Miss M. L. Underhill, Rahway; work among foreigners, Mrs. C. W. Scott, Elizabeth.

All of the above superintendents made reports showing progress and improvement in the several departments. The reports were listened to with considerable interest.

Mrs Ervilla Fisher, as chairman of the committee on resolutions, presented an interesting report. The allegiance of the members to the cause of temperance was reaffirmed. Congress was commended for its action in abolishing the canteen from army posts. It was resolved to seek the prohibition of the use of medicines containing alcohol, and to use every effort to put an end to polygamy. It was also resolved to put forth every endeavor to lessen the importation of liquor in the new possessions of the United States and its use in State reservations. The members deplored the assassination of President McKinley, which was believed to be the result of intemperance and anarchy. The members and pastor of Trinity Reformed church were thanked for the hospitality extended in the use of the church for the convention.

The invitation received from the Rahway Union to hold the school of methods at the above place was accepted. The meeting will be held next spring. During the memorial service it was reported that ten active members had died during the past year, also one honorary and one member of the Loyal Temperance Legion.

A short address by Mrs. J. T. Ellis, National superintendent of legislation, interested all. She took "Legislation" for her subject, and told of the work being accomplished in the cause of temperance in the abolishment of the army canteen and otherwise. She said that she was sure the newspapers have been tampered with for reporters in Washington had told her that their papers wanted only one side of the army canteen question, the side which would show its defects. She said that Gen. Miles' endorsement of the doing away with the army canteen as the best thing for the American army is most encouraging.

Before the afternoon session adjourned Mr. Boyer, a well known temperance worker from Elizabeth, was introduced to the convention, and he made a few stirring remarks urging the members to increase their efforts for temperance.

The evening session brought the convention to a close. The church quartette was present and rendered appropriate music. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., pastor of the church, conducted the devotional exercises, after which a response was received from the Union County Sunday-school convention at Westfield, in reply to greetings sent them.

Mrs. Tomlinson introduced Mrs. T J. Ellis, the speaker of the evening. She is National superintendent of legislation, and has been working in Washington during the past six years in the cause of temperance. Mrs. Ellis took for her subject "God in Government." She reviewed the history of this country, showing how God has favored the people. She then dwelt at some length on the great evil of the times, intemperance, and told of the work being accomplished by the 300,000 members of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Ellis said that two-thirds of Texas as well as Kentucky is prohibition, and that Mississippi has the best of all laws outside of prohibition.

Mrs. Ellis then told something of her experience in Washington with the president, congressmen and senators in her endeavors to secure the abolition of liquors from the government building as well as the army canteen. She affirmed that the abolishment of the canteen was the best thing for the army, and it was endorsed by officers as well as soldiers. She said that the late President McKinley strongly favored the bill doing away with the canteen and was glad to sign the bill.

Again Mrs. Ellis stated that the New York papers will not print both sides of the question, preferring to give the side which favors the canteen. The speaker concluded her remarks by urging the women to put forth every effort in the glorious work of temperance and to work for the absolute riddance of liquor from the land.

SETON-THOMPSON COMING.

He Will Deliver Two Lectures at the Casino Tuesday Afternoon and Evening, October 22.

It is the gift of but few lecturers to interest children and grown up folks equally, but Ernest Seton-Thompson has this charming faculty. The little ones in his audiences sit with breathless attention as he relates his experiences in Yellowstone Park with the bears; and Old Grumpy and Little Johnny are certain to live in their memories for many a days.

From the grown-ups' point of view the account of the long hunt of the old gray wolf, whose wit for many months successfully matched man's, and whose fate came at last so pathetically and so sadly like that of many a human downfall, gave fresh insight into this romancer's keen sympathy with all life, and his gift of portraying in exquisite coloring the wonderful humanness of even the shaggiest, most uncouth wild thing.

Mr. Seton-Thompson is coming to the Casino Tuesday afternoon and evening, October 22.

Democratic Primaries.

Democratic primaries will be held in North Plainfield this evening. Four delegates will be named for the Somerset county convention to be held at Somerville Monday. In the first district the meeting will be held in the Somerset Street school-house and the second district Saengerbund Hall will be used. The primaries will be called at 8 o'clock sharp.

Thought He Meant No Harm.

Oliver Peel, a twelve-year-old boy, was arraigned before Justice Nash this morning, charged by Mrs. Harriet Huber with stealing a bicycle belonging to her son. Although the police claimed the lad tried to sell the wheel, the court thought he intended no harm and dismissed the case.

Surprise on Elmwood Place.

A surprise party was given to Miss Lulu Vail, of Elmwood place, last evening, when twenty-five young folks called at her home. The evening was spent in playing games and in dancing, and everyone had a good time. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Colored Republicans Met.

The members of the Southern Republican League met last night at 118 East Front street. There was a large number present, J. C. Connett made an interesting address. There will be a regular meeting, Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

DEMOCRATS ALIVE TO THE SITUATION.

Will Wage Strong Warfare to Capture Gubernatorial Chair.

FIGHT TO BE MADE HERE.

WILL HOLD MASS MEETING IN THIS CITY.

Seymour Will Make Flying Tour of State, Stopping Here—"Farmer Orator" Martine to Go on Stump as Usual.

The Democratic leaders throughout the State have been in close touch with one another during the past week and quietly though energetically plans have been laid to conduct a determined campaign in an effort to land Seymour in the gubernatorial chair. In the opinion of several prominent politicians there is uphill work before the Democratic State executive committee and much depends upon the ability to cope with the odds, undoubtedly against the party.

Here in Plainfield, a stronghold of Republicanism, the task of making any considerable headway is recognized as being a difficult one, but the leading spirits in the minority party's councils says that an active campaign will be conducted. To this end, the Democratic City executive committee met last evening and mapped out the lines of work. It is intended to invite the nominee, James M. Seymour, to this city. He will attend a mass meeting held under the auspices of the city committee.

Together with the candidate other prominent speakers in the party's ranks will address the meeting. Among these will probably be State Chairman William B. Gourley, of Paterson, who has long been counted on as a good stump speaker. William Heppenheimer, of Essex county, who made a conspicuous speech at the recent State convention, may also be asked to lend his services toward making the proposed meeting a success. Naturally the "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine will be depended upon to make one of his unusually good addresses.

Mr. Martine, who represents Plainfield Democrats in the pow-wows of the party in the State, will attend the session of the State committee to be held at Jersey City tomorrow morning. He has already been asked by State Chairman Gourley to make an address in the latter's city—Paterson.

The Passaic county Democratic convention will be held in Paterson, next Tuesday and it is on this occasion that "The Farmer Orator" will deliver what will probably be his first speech of the campaign. From then on he will be an active factor on the stump until after election day rolls around.

In all probability Mr. Martine will be among those selected to accompany Mayor Seymour on a tour of the entire State. The action of the Republican nominee, Franklin Murphy, in announcing his intention to make a personal canvas of the State, led the Democratic State committee to decide to follow the course. The first gun of the campaign will be fired Monday when Mayor Seymour proposes to make his initial address. Personally he is not counted upon as an orator, but it is said by Democratic politicians, that nothing can be lost by bringing him in contact with the people as he is said to have a winning personality.

The fight will be directed simultaneously from different sections of the State. The main headquarters will be at the Hotel Washington, Jersey City, and it will keep in communication with the sub-headquarters. In Essex county the the headquarters will be at Newark, where Col. E. L. Price will be in charge. Hon. J. W. Lanning will conduct the campaign in Mercer county, and his headquarters will be in Trenton. Down in Camden Judge Howard Carrow will direct the work. The Hudson county headquarters will be at Jersey City. Collector "Bob" Davis will command the work there. Here in Union county there will be several to look after the interests of the party, among whom will be James E Martine, of this city. The headquarters for Union county will be the Young Men's Democratic Clubhouse, at Elizabeth.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL'S BIRTHDAY

WAS PLEASANTLY CELEBRATED BY JUNIORS LAST NIGHT.

Fourteenth Anniversary Observed—Programme of Addresses, Stories and Musical Selections.

The fourteenth anniversary of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., was observed last evening in a pleasant manner. There was a large attendance of members as well as delegations from Benevolent and Somerset Councils, of this city, and Councils from Westfield, Scotch Plains, Dunellen, Bound Brook and Princeton.

Harvey B. Thorn, past councilor, presided. Past Councilor David Bodine reviewed the history of the Council. It was organized fourteen years ago with nearly fifty members. Today there is a membership of 252 and there is a large balance in the treasury. It is the oldest Council in the city and has steadily grown. Two Councils, Somerset and Benevolent, are the outgrowth of it and all three seem to be in a healthy condition.

The programme opened with a piano solo by A. W. Pangborn, of Somerset Council, after which S. V. Sanford, of New York, entertained the Juniors with short stories and witty sayings. He was followed by Past State Councilor Dennis, of Princeton, who gave a rousing talk setting forth the objects of the order.

Robert M. Clark, of Somerset Council, then gave several vocal solos, after which Mr. Perkins, of Princeton, gave a humorous recitation. The programme was concluded by Mr. Sanford, who continued to entertain with his humorous sayings.

After the programme refreshments were served by a committee consisting of John Kriney, Henry Kliner, George Boisterli, George Townley and Ephraim Compton. While the refreshments were being enjoyed the members had a social time, during which congratulations were offered Franklin Council upon the successful completion of its fourteenth year.

YOUNG PEOPLE WEDDED IN PRETTY CEREMONY

Marriage of Miss Ada M. Runyon and Thos. A. Cuming Took Place Last Night.

PARK AVE. BAPTIST CHURCH.

Effective Arrangement of Bridal Party—The Gowns—Reception to Relatives and Bridal Party—Decorations at the House.

In the presence of a congregation which filled the attractive edifice, Miss Ada Marie Runyon, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Runyon, and Thomas Adams Cuming, both of this city, were married last evening in the Park Avenue Baptist church. Much attention had been given in arranging the details of the nuptial function and in all respects it proved to be an elaborate affair, and one that will be pleasantly remembered by the many friends of the happy young couple, who witnessed the marital event.

The floral decorations, which abounded in the church edifice, were well arranged. The pulpit, starting from the foot of the altar and rising gradually to the extreme rear, was adorned with stately palms and potted plants, which were extremely effective. To the left of the pulpit, there was the same profusion of decoration in the choir loft, where the thick settings of blooming plants completely hid the organist from view. Trailing around the church windows were strands of green entwined with smilax and studded with various white flowers and this general scheme of green and white floral dedorations was in evidence in various other parts of the edifice.

At the edge of the lower pulpit a white altar had been erected and bordering on each side of it were large palms, and the background was also a profusion of greens. Immediately over a cushion at the foot of the altar, hung a floral bell filled with electric lights. Stanley, of this city, prepared the elaborate decorations.

When the doors opened at 7 o'clock simultaneously there began a programme of music, William H. Miller, organist of the Scotch Presbyterian church, New York, being at the keyboard of the large instrument in the church. The selections were "Grande Offertoire" in D. minor, Batiste; "Daybreak," Spinney; "Grand Choeur," Guilmant; "Return of the Reapers," Gregh.

It was 7.30 o'clock when the organist began the strains of the "Marche Cortege" and the ushers came up the aisle and met the bridemaids at the head of the church and escorted them to the church door.

The bridal procession moved up the aisle, while "Lohengrin" was being played. The ushers were Benjamin W. Letson, of Stelton, N. J.; Henry F. Cuming, brother of the groom, Charles Burdette Morse, Arthur Harold Serrell, Dr. Norman Hayes Probasco, and Herbert L. Richardson, all of this city.

Following them were the six bridemaids: Miss Mary A Letson, of Stelton, N. J.; Miss Esther Thompson. Miss Helen F. Cuming, Miss Henrietta W. Cuming, sisters of the groom, Miss Mary A. Giles and Miss Jeanette Giles, cousins of the bride, all of this city. They were gowned in white silk mousiline, draped with white satin sashes, and carried shower bouquets of pink roses. Each one had a bridal rose arranged in her hair.

Then came the flower girl, Miss Lillian Cuming, youngest sister of the groom, in a gown of pink silk mousseline draped with a pink sash. She was accompanied by a page, David C. Smalley, Jr., who wore a suit of velvet, with a white satin vest, bearing the wedding ring on a silver plaque.

Last was the bride with her sister, Miss Elizabeth Amelia Runyon, who, as maid of honor, was gowned in pink silk mousseline, draped with a pink satin sash, and wearing a pink rose in her hair. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The bride was attired in a gown of imported white satin, trimmed with seed pearls, chiffon and pearl trimmings. The train was trimmed with heavy plaits of white satin, flounced with Irish point lace. A tulle veil was caught up by orange blossoms and a diamond sunburset, the gift of the groom Her shower bouquet was of bridal roses and lillies of the valley, entwined with white satin ribbon, from which hung streamers of satin baby ribbon dotted with rosettes. She carried a rare handkerchief of Brussels point lace, a gift of an aunt.

At the altar the bridal party was met by the groom and his best man, Rev. John C. Whiting, of New York. The young couple faced the officiating clergymen, Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the church, and Rev. Mr. Dorward, of Stelton, and while the organist played softly the "Evening Song" from Tannhauser," the ceremony was performed. The ritual used by Mr. Richardson was that of the Episcopal church with the exception that at two separate places in the service Rev. Mr. Dorward read selections from the Baptist ceremony. When the benediction was pronounced Mr. and Mrs. Cuming moved through the west aisle to the church door, preceded by the page and flower girl, who strewed the pathway with roses, cosmos and other flowers, while Mendelssohn's wedding march was being played. Following them came the maid-of-honor and best man and in their rear were the bridemaids and the ushers in pairs. As the party passed out of the church the bell in the tower was rung.

A wedding reception was held at the home of the bride. Congratulations were showered upon the young couple by relatives and friends. Refreshments were served by an Elizabeth caterer. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Cuming left for New York. On Friday they leave for a tour of the south.

During their honeymoon they will visit the battlefields of the Civil War, returning by way of Luray and the Shenandoah Valley, visiting Washington and Gettysburg. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Cuming will take up their residence at their new home at the corner of Putnam and Carlton avenues.

The gifts presented to the bride consisted of silver, cut glass, fine paintings, bric-a-brac and furniture. The ushers received gold stick-pins representing miniature wedding bells with pearl clappers.

The bride's presents to her maid-of-honor and the bridemaids were hand-painted silk fans with ivory handles. The flower girl and page were also remembered.

Mr. Cuming is a real estate broker, doing business in this city and New York, where he was born. He is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, class of '93. He was the local consul of the L. A. W. He has taken an active interest in the Park Avenue Baptist church, and is president of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school Association and is also clerk of the church he attends.

The bride removed to this city from Stelton, N. J., where her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Runyon, were well known. She is a niece of the late Rev. Dr. James F. Brown, who was a prominent figure in Baptist circles. Mrs. Cuming is a direct descendent of the original Beune Runyon, of Piscataway.

RETAIL CLERKS' CASE PRESENTED IN LETTER.

State Argument For Early Closing in Note Addressed to Clergymen.

HELPS TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

ADVOCATES OF DAYLIGHT PURCHASING AND NO SALES SUNDAY.

Fear Break of Agreement—Wish Aid of Churches in Cause—What Police Records Show—Claim Home Is Cradle of Good Government.

The following communication, received from the Retail Clerks' Association, was read at the evening service at Grace Episcopal church, Sunday, by the rector, Rev Erskine M. Rodman:

"Having been assured of the assistance of the ministers of this city in our worthy cause, and deeming it a just one,

"We, the retail clerks of Plainfield, would kindly ask you to state our aims and objects before your worthy congregation, believing if they were properly informed of same, we would obtain their hearty support and co-operation.

"The Retail Clerks Association was called into existence so that the custom, so long established, of keeping the retail stores open from early morn until late at night could, if possible, be abolished.

'Our object is to unite all retail clerks, regardless of sex, creed or nationality, into one grand fraternity, thereby elevating our calling, increasing their usefulness, promoting their welfare, and protecting them in case of sickness and distress; also to shorten the hours of labor and assist the clerks in their worthy cause.

"Our objects are honorable, humane and just, the puniary ones being to protect our members and to abolish the unnecessary evil of selling goods on Sunday, and educate the masses to the custom of daylight purchasing; believing that the home is the cradle of good government, we crave sufficient cause to cultivate home ties and associations.

"We have, as yet, only partially succeeded in closing the retail stores at 6 o'clock, and to obtain the success we so earnestly strive for, we appeal to you for your aid and assistance. Not only have we been partially successful in shortening the hours of the clerks, but we have also decreased the sale of intoxicating liquors in our beautiful city.

"Since the early closing movement went into effect the saloon keepers have been complaining that the Retail Clerks' Association have been the cause of their night business decreasing twenty five per cent. The streets being deserted at night, there being no congregation of men on saloon corners, we claim we thereby benefit the wife, mother and children.

"In this cause we believe we have been more successful than other organizations. Having been informed that some of our merchants contemplate opening their places of business until 9 and 10 o'clock. Should such be the case it would be the cause of all merchants remaining open until late in the evening thereby increasing the sale of intoxicating liquors this we wish to prevent and, with your hearty support we can be successful.

"The city police records show since our early closing movement went into effect the arrests have been seventy-five per cent. less than ever before. Another good deed done by the Retail Clerks' Association.

"We, kindly ask you to give to us your support for our worthy cause, do your shopping by daylight, and benefit humanity in general."

LITERARY.

The October magazine number of The Outlook is particularly strong in fine portraits. Among the full-page portraits are those of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the Duke and Duchess of York, Seth Low, the fusion candidate for mayor of New York, three Episcopal dignitaries (Bishops Clark and Nichols and Dr. Dix) printed in connection with an article on the great Triennial Convention of the Episcopal church, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the Prime Minister of France, and Bisop Whipple, who died last month. ($3 a year. The Outlook Company, 287 Fourth avenue, New York.)

Scribner's Magazine for October has an attractive colored cover by Walter Appleton Clark—the first design of this kind that he has made. Theodore Roosevelt contributes the first of two hunting articles in that spirited manner which makes "The Wilderness Hunter" one of the best outdoor books ever written. These articles, called "With the Cougar Hounds," describes his adventures while hunting the mountain lion last winter in Colorado. Gen. Francis V. Greene's second article on the Regular Army covers the period from the War of 1812 to the Civil War. Walter A. Wyckoff, "The Workers," concludes his present series with an account of his experiences in the Chicago slums, giving particularly several police court incidents. There are three short love stories—"Over Sunday," by Carolyn Wells, solves a most amusing situation; "Oscar and Louise" is the love story of a Danish overseer and a French maid, told with charming humor by Margaret Sutton Briscoe and illustrated by Louise L. Heustis; "A Triumph's Evidence" is a story of love and politics in the Middle West by Wm. Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kansas, Gazette. Mr. Mitchell's romantic serial, "The Pines of Lory," continues to be a most charming bit of fiction, full of humor and sentiment. It will be concluded in November.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

Greater "Arizona's" second month at the Academy of Music, New York, ended Saturday night with Mr. Gillmore's big theatre crowded to the doors. Its ninth week at the Academy—the 29th week of "Arizona" in New York within the year—makes of Monday night a milestone by which all comparative and contemporary theatrical success must be measured. It has been a long time since an American author, or any author for that matter has given the metropolis as thoroughly good a play as Augustus Thomas' "Arizona," and it is just as long a time since the metropolitan public has given an American author such substantial reward of attendance and appreciation as it has bestowed upon "Arizona." The big production will remain at the Academy of Music indefinitely—probably as long as the midwinter holidays.

M'KINLEY MEMORIAL.

Officers Chosen and Plans Made Public.

TO BE A POPULAR TESTIMONIAL.

Admirers of the Martyred President In All Parts of the Country Invited to Contribute to the Fund.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 11.—At the conclusion of a meeting of the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association held at Senator Hanna's office here the following statement was issued to the public:

"The McKinley National Memorial association, having been incorporated according to law, met in Cleveland yesterday for the purpose of effecting an organization by the election of officers and adoption of regulations for its government.

"The president of the United States, at the request of Mrs. McKinley and members of the family, named a board of trustees.

"The trustees, having qualified, proceeded to the election of officers, choosing as president Hon. William R. Day, Canton, O.; vice president, Hon. Marcus A. Hanna, Cleveland; treasurer, Colonel Myron T. Herrick, Cleveland; secretary, Ryerson Ritchie, Cleveland.

"The purposes of the association as defined in its certificate of incorporation are the erection and maintenance at Canton, O., of a suitable memorial to the late president and raising the necessary funds for said purposes and after fully providing therefor the surplus of such funds, if any, to be devoted to such memorial as may be provided for the late president at the national capitol. The memorial will be erected at Canton, that city having been his home throughout his public life and selected by him as his final resting place.

"The memorial is to be in the highest sense the sincere expression of all the people of the country of their love for President McKinley and of their admiration for the qualities expressed so eminently in his life and deeds.

"It is the purpose to have the offerings of the people voluntary, with a full opportunity to all to contribute.

"The co-operation of the governors and officers of the states and municipalities of the United States and all religious, educational, civic, patriotic, fraternal, benevolent and other organizations is cordially invited.

"All public officials, organized bodies and the press are requested to take immediate steps to secure at the earliest possible time a full response to this appeal. The association looks to the press of the country to lend its efficient aid to the collection and forwarding of subscriptions.

"Moneys may be deposited in banks and other financial institutions, with telegraph, telephone and express offices and with postmasters, who are requested to receive and transmit them to the treasurer promptly.

"The trustees of the association will receive subscriptions. Subscriptions abroad may be received by the embassadors, ministers and consuls of the United States, and in Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands by the respective governors thereof or persons authorized by them. Remittances may be made directly to Colonel Myron T. Herrick, treasurer, Cleveland, O.

"The association will prepare and distribute to all donors to the fund a souvenir certificate which will be worthy of preservation as evidence of the holder's participation in the work. The name and postoffice address of each contributor should be forwarded to the treasurer of the association with the fund remitted for preservation in the permanent archives of the association.

"It is hoped that the response of the people will be so liberal that a memorial may be erected which will fittingly honor the memory of our martyred president."

Good Roads For the South.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Southern railway has entered upon a scheme for the improvement of the wagon roads of the south in pursuance of the policy of President Spencer to encourage the growth and development of all territory tributary to the Southern system. A good roads special train of ten cars will leave here shortly for the south under charge of President W. H. Moore of the National Good Roads association and will make frequent stops at points along the Southern railway for the purpose of building sample roads and arousing interest among the people in the subject. The aim is to educate the southern people in practical roadbuilding and to impress on them the economy and benefit to be derived from fine roads.

French Anarchists Sentenced.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Laurent Tailhade, editor of Libertaire, the anarchist sheet, was tried before the correctional police tribunal for the article he published in Libertaire during the visit of Emperor Nicholas to France inciting to the murder of the czar, President Loubet and the French ministers as "tyrants and oppressors of the people." He was sentenced to imprisonment for one year and to a fine of 1,000 francs. M. Grandidier, manager of Libertaire, was sentenced to imprisonment for six months and to a fine of 100 francs.

Auto Records Broken.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Henri Fournier, crack chauffeur of the world, with W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., as his riding companion, smashed seven world's auto records for a track at the Empire City track. Driving the machine with which he won the Paris-Berlin race, Fournier covered six miles in 6m. 47s., which was fifty-two seconds under the record held by Albert C. Bostwick.

MORMON CHIEF DEAD

President Snow Is Stricken at Salt Lake City.

PROBABLE SUCCESSOR JOSEPH SMITH

Deceased Was Born In Ohio, Educated at Oberlin College and Converted to Mormonism at the Age of Twenty-two.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 11.—Lorenzo Snow, fifth president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, better known as the Mormon church, died unexpectedly at his private residence, the historic Beehive House, yesterday afternoon after an illness that had been serious only since Wednesday. The immediate cause of his death was hypostetic congestion, superinduced by aggravated bronchitis. Several weeks ago President Snow contracted a cold. He was at his desk, however, attending to business as late as Tuesday. The following morning he was seized with an attack of nausea which continued at intervals throughout the day. His physicians were called and remained in constant attendance until death came.

President Snow's death dissolves the first presidency, of which he was the head, his two counselors being Joseph Smith and Rudger Clawson. Until his successor shall be chosen, which may not be until the annual conference next April, the leadership of the church will devolve upon the council of twelve apostles, of which body Mr. Smith is the recognized head. Unless death should come to him in the meantime Mr. Smith will be the next president of the church.

President Snow leaves a large family, the members being scattered throughout the world.

Lorenzo Snow was born in Mantua, Portage county, O., April 3, 1814, and received a classical education at Oberlin college. He became a convert to Mormonism in 1836 and immediately began proselytizing. Since then he has been one of the most active and prominent members of the church organization. He has been on numerous foreign missions, the most important being that to Great Britain in 1840, where he became president of the London conference.

In 1848, at the head of a train of 100 wagons, he made the overland trip from Illinois to the present site of Salt Lake City, and in all the work of founding and building up this city he was a leader. For thirty years, commencing with 1852, he was a member of the territorial legislature, chiefly as presiding officer of the upper house. In 1855, with fifty families, he founded and named Brigham City, in northern Utah, which was his home for many years. In 1886, during the agitation against the practice of polygamy, he was convicted of unlawful cohabitation and sentenced to three terms of six months each, but later was released on a writ of habeas corpus. On Sept. 13, 1896, he was chosen president of the church in succession to Wilford Woodruff.

The Episcopal Convention.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—The triennial convention of the Episcopal Church of America accomplished much routine work yesterday, but made little progress toward disposing of the canon on marriage and divorce, which came up before a committee of the whole in the house of deputies. The popular interest in the subject was evidenced by the crowded galleries, a large majority of the spectators being women, nearly all of whom remained until the hour of adjournment. The discussion, however, was of a purely technical character. Quibbles over words and the punctuation of sections, to which there was little opposition, took up much time.

General Wood's Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The war department has made public the annual report of Major General Leonard Wood, commanding the department of Cuba, for the last fiscal year. General Wood says the general conduct of the American troops in Cuba continues to be excellent, and, as heretofore, complaints against them from civil authorities and individuals are extremely rare. The total number of deaths of officers and enlisted men during the year was sixty-seven, a percentage of loss of 1.25. Yellow fever has now been almost driven from the island owing to the energetic war upon mosquitoes and the sanitary precautions adopted.

Delaware Day at the Fair.

BUFFALO, Oct. 11.—Governor John Hunn of Delaware, his full military staff, Lieutenant Philip Cannon and almost all the members of the Delaware legislature visited the exposition grounds yesterday to celebrate Delaware day. There was no special ceremony, previous arrangements having been canceled on the announcement of the death of the president.

LITTLE WAR TALK.

Fight With Venezuela Not Thought Imminent at Bogota.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Oct. 11.—A civil engineer who has just arrived here on his way to Caracas from Bogota, which he left Sept. 7, asserts that up to the time of his departure there was very little talk in Bogota of war with Venezuela. The members of the cabinet and high officials there did not seem to consider war imminent. They appeared to be more deeply concerned with the revolution and with their efforts to put it down. One of the members of the cabinet admitted to the engineer that the Tachira invasion and the engagement in July under General Rangel Garbiras were mistakes on the part of Colombia and regrettable.

In the opinion of the engineer the Liberal movement was strong throughout the entire country, only needing ammunition to succeed. He describes the influence of the priests in Colombia as extreme and detrimental to the country. According to his statement, exchange and national bank notes were rapidly rising when he left.

In his judgment Colombia will never declare war nor will she again invade or attack Venezuela, having too many home troubles to be able to afford to do so.

A fair estimate of the Colombian forces would be, he thinks, 8,000 on the Santander frontier, 1,800 at La Hacha, 300 at Santa Martha and 700 at Barranquilla.

Situation at Colon Serious.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 11.—The British steamer Barbadian, which has just arrived here, brought further refugees from Colon, Colombia. They say the situation there is still serious, that trade is entirely crippled and that they left Colon in order to avoid compulsory military service. They add that a couple of days ago the rebels commenced to attack a town near Colon, but desisted owing to an order from the commander of the United States gunboat Machias. Another attack on Bocas del Toro is feared.

TAMMANY NOMINATES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The county and borough convention of Tammany Hall for the county of New York and the borough of Manhattan was held in Tammany hall last night. The convention was called to select candidates for justices of the supreme court, sheriff, district attorney, county clerk, register, judge of the city court, four coroners and president of the borough.

Richard Croker was enthusiastically received when he entered the convention. Commissioner of Charities John W. Keller presided.

The nominations made by the convention were: For justices of the supreme court, Robert A. Van Wyck (now mayor), Charles W. Dayton (former postmaster), Charles H. Knox and Morgan J. O'Brien (now a justice); judge of city court, John P. Schuchman; sheriff, John T. Oakley; county clerk, George H. Fahrbach; district attorney, Henry W. Unger; register, Frank J. Goodwin; president of the borough, Isaac Fromme; coroners, Edward T. Fitzpatrick, Edward W. Hart, Jacob E. Bausch and Antonio Zucca.

A Detroit Mystery.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 11.—The mystery surrounding the finding of a woman's body buried in a shallow grave under a log in the woods near Royal Oak, a village twelve miles from this city, became deeper as the result of yesterday's developments. It was thought to be more than probable that the body was that of Lizzie Jeffreys, who has been missing from Birmingham since last June. Her father and brother came from Appin, Ont., to examine the remains. Just as they expressed their belief that it was Lizzie's body a telegram was received from Appin stating that a letter had just arrived from her which was posted in Detroit Wednesday night. The letter said that the girl could be found by inquiring at the general delivery of the Detroit postoffice.

Miss Stone Heard From.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—A cable dispatch was received at the state department yesterday morning from Spencer Eddy, secretary of the American legation at Constantinople, confirming the dispatch received Wednesday from Consul General Dickinson saying that Miss Stone, the missionary captured by Bulgarian brigands, had been located and was alive and well on Saturday. The state department has not yet been advised by Mr. Dickinson of his efforts to see the ruler of Bulgaria in regard to the case.

None Left to Tell the Tale.

OIL CITY, Pa., Oct. 11.—Harper's nitroglycerin factory at Ridge Farm, four miles from this city, was blown up. The cause of the explosion will never be known, as the only persons about the place at the time were instantly killed. They were Clarence Ward, aged thirty-three, the manufacturer, and his assistant, Frank Gross, aged twenty-five. Ward's body was blown to atoms, and Gross was decapitated. Windows were shattered for a radius of two or three miles.

Ten Thousand For a Life.

ROME, N. Y., Oct. 11.—In the supreme court here yesterday a verdict for $10,000 was awarded against the Central Railroad company for the death of Felix Isenecker of this city, who was killed by the Empire State express here June 28, 1901. The company conceded that death was caused by its negligence.

THE SCHLEY COURT.

Flaw In Evidence Against the Admiral Admitted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Just before the Schley court of inquiry adjourned yesterday Judge Advocate Lemly introduced Lieutenant J. H. Holden, formerly watch officer on the Scorpion, as a witness. Lieutenant Holden signed the entry in the Scorpion's log giving the particulars of the receipt of a message for Commodore Schley from the Eagle which that vessel had brought from Captain McCalla on May 19, 1898, when the flying squadron, then bound for Cienfuegos, fell in with Captain McCalla's subsquadron, which had just left that port. The government had sought to show that by this message Commodore Schley had been notified that the Spanish fleet was not in the harbor of Cienfuegos, and Lieutenant Commander Southerland of the Eagle had testified that he had megaphoned to the Scorpion that there were only a torpedo boat and several cannonieros in that harbor. Captain Lemly told the court that the log of the Scorpion did not show the receipt of the message in this form and that he was prepared to admit that the evidence did not carry that message to Commodore Schley.

Other witnesses were Lieutenant Commander W. H. Schuetze, who served on the Iowa, and Lieutenant A. W. Grant, who was on the Massachusetts, who testified concerning the general campaign of the flying squadron. Lieutenant Edward F. Leiper concluded his testimony, begun Wednesday.

AMERICANS REPULSED.

Compelled to Await Re-enforcements In a Fight With Filipinos.

MANILA, Oct. 11.—A detachment of the Twenty-first company of Macabebes encountered a large force of insurgents near Lipa, province of Batangas. Lieutenant Beau of the Macabebes was killed, and one of the force was wounded. The enemy was strongly intrenched. After two hours' fighting the Americans retreated to await re-enforcements. The insurgents numbered over 300, were armed with Remington and Mauser rifles and apparently had plenty of ammunition.

Martin, a teacher at Mauban, was captured by insurgents while visiting a neighboring town under an escort of native police. The next day his captors, relenting, tied him in a hammock and carried him to a point within a mile of the town and released him, saying he was a noncombatant.

The entire police force of Catanag, province of Tayabas, numbering eleven, have been carried off by insurgents armed only with bolos. Presumably the police made no resistance, as they were well armed with carbines and revolvers.

The Scranton Street Car Fight.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 11.—A nonunion man was assaulted by a crowd of sympathisers of the striking street car men yesterday afternoon in West Scranton, and when Patrolman John McCollgan interfered the crowd turned on him. The officer and the crew vanquished their assailants, and one of the latter, John Carver, a driver, went to the hospital with a broken arm, the result of a blow from the officer's club. Fifty new imported men have arrived from New York and, it is said, will be put to work at once opening up additional lines. The company is running forty-five cars, but they continue to make their trips with very few passengers, most of them running empty trip after trip.

Indiana's Trip Declared Off.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—On Sept. 20 the navy department issued an itinerary for the battleship Indiana. She was to take a number of landsmen on board on a training cruise through the West Indies. The publication was misinterpreted as indicating a demonstration on the coast of Venezuela. The Indiana was to approach no nearer that country than Port of Spain, but to remove any cause for criticism the navy department has canceled the itinerary and hereafter will refrain from publishing the projected movements of ships.

BOTHA IS IN RETREAT

Boers Hotly Pursued by British Under Hamilton.

BRODRICK ANSWERS TRADUCERS.

Says Kitchener Has Had All the Troops Asked For and the Government Has Entire Confidence In His Leadership.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—A dispatch to the Central News from Durban, Natal, says the Boer commander General Botha is in full retreat and is being hotly pursued by General Bruce Hamilton's troops and other British columns.

Lord Kitchener reports to the war office that the constabulary have recaptured a seven pounder which they had lost last July. He also states that General Botha, the Boer commander in chief, who has recently been operating in Zululand, has crossed the Pivaan river on his way north.

The secretary of war, Mr. Brodrick, replying to Sir Charles Howard Vincent's offer to raise fresh troops or do anything else to assist the government, declines the proposal and in doing so lengthily reviews the British position in South Africa obviously in answer to the persistent and searching criticisms of the ministerial journals and members of parliament that the government is languidly content to let the war drag on. Mr. Brodrick says, to begin with, that nothing Lord Kitchener has asked for has not been promptly met. He adds:

"We have roughly 200,000 men and 450 guns in South Africa, and over 100,000 men are under training at home. We have no difficulty, therefore, in keeping the field army up to its requisite strength by drafts, and if a further call be made we are in a position to meet it with the utmost promptitude. Notwithstanding this there seems to be an impression abroad that the close of the war is retarded by a scarcity of troops or the want of mobility of our columns."

This impression Mr. Brodrick combats by reciting what the war office is doing—providing supplies for 314,000 persons directly or indirectly connected with the war, feeding 248,000 horses and mules and maintaining four months' reserves of food for men and animals. Sixty-nine mobile columns, perfectly equipped, are now in the field, and 10,000 remounts are being landed monthly, besides those captured.

Mr. Brodrick says the anxiety can be set at rest at home. The government has never interfered with Lord Kitchener, in whose vigorous prosecution of the war they have entire confidence. He points out again the vast extent of the country.

Alluding to Lord Kitchener's sending back poorly trained yeomanry, Mr. Brodrick replies that they would have been trained earlier but for the opinion of military advisers in South Africa and at home up to November, 1900, that no fresh troops were needed.

"When Lord Kitchener asked for 9,000 more," says the war secretary, "the government sent out to him 61,000 fresh troops during the first six months of 1901, besides arms for 20,000 local levies."

Kitchener's Scouts Captured.

HEILBRON, Orange River Colony, Oct. 11.—Thirteen of Kitchener's scouts have been captured in a Boer ambush.

Lynching of Outlaw Jones Prevented

MADISON, Fla., Oct. 11.—Will Jones, the negro desperado who killed two people and seriously wounded several others, has been secretly removed from this county to Leon county and is now in jail at Tallahassee. He is wounded in nearly a dozen places and is expected to die. Late at night a mob of would be lynchers appeared at the jail and demanded the negro, but he had been removed only a short time before. Another one of Jones' victims has died, Anderson, the white man who was hunting and was shot down by the outlaw as he was creeping up on a bird. This makes three deaths to date.

Won After Seven Years.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 11.—After trying for seven years, Ed Geers landed a Transylvania stake. Urging Onward Silver, tired from seven fast heats, to his top speed, following one of the most sensational drives through the stretch in the recollection of veterans, he captured the first money in the $6,000 event. The last finish, as nearly all the previous ones had been, was thrilling, only a short neck measuring the victory. The Abbot made an unsuccessful attempt to break the world's wagon record, covering the mile in 2:06½.

Low Average For Corn.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The monthly report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the average condition of corn on Oct. 1 to have been 52.1 per cent as compared with 51.7 last month, 78.2 on Oct. 1, 1900, 82.7 at the corresponding date in 1899 and 81.8 the mean of the October averages of the last ten years. The average for the entire country is the lowest October average ever recorded.

It makes a very powerful beacon and sustains the highest candle power of any oil burning light in the world.

Republican Primaries.

The action of the Republican county committee in calling the primaries to elect delegates to the county convention for Monday evening, has resulted in precipitating the local campaign of the G. O. P. with unexpected suddenness. The city committee had decided that it was best to unite all the primaries this fall in one and at that one meeting elect delegates to the county and city conventions, members of the county and city committees and nominate candidates for ward Councilmen.

The date for these primaries has been set for Monday which means, on that day, the Republicans will have to settle on their candidates for ward Councilmen. As there has been little or no talk on the subject heretofore, the Republicans will have to do a little hustling to search out their candidates and prepare for action.

As far as the delegates to the county convention are concerned, there is little probability of any fight. Assemblyman Charles S. Foote is not a candidate for renomination and the name of William Newcorn is understood to be the only one, at present, for consideration from Plainfield.

As the booms for the nominations to be made at the city convention are not developed yet, any fight over the delegations to that convention is hardly to be expected. City Judge William N. Runyon will undoubtedly be renominated, but there are candidates for the three members at large to the Common Council which are yet a subject for conjecture.

This holding of the primaries so soon will probably result in the begining of political activity in Plainfield. Despite the advent of cold weather there has been comparatively little doing in the political line, and both parties have felt that something was needed to put renewed life into the party workers.

The scheme to have primaries at which nominations are to be made to be followed by voting primaries will not be tried by the Republicans of Plainfield this year. The sub-committee on primary rules, of the executive committee, reported in favor of it but the entire committee voted it down and instead did away with the sending of nominations by mail. What the advocates of the first project term "snap" primaries will now be in order. It will be impossible now for the party leaders to tell until the primary begins whether or not they will have to fight to elect their ticket.

It costs money to advertise in the newspapers, says the Philadelphia Record, but the returns amount to a great deal more than the cost in the long run. Advertising, too, is a necessary means of protection against competitors. As a rule the concern which does not persistently keep its name before the public will lose the bulk of its trade to more enterprising establishments. The house which advertises most will have the largest trade in its line.

Think of it. The Somerset county Freeholders actually voted to spend money for the improvement of property. This time it is a macadam road from Watchung to the Passaic valley. Surely it must be a mistake.

—A meeting of the Women's Veterans Relief Union will be held in G. A. R. Hall this evening.

REQUESTED TO DECORATE.

MAYOR SMALLEY ISSUES PROCLAMATION REGARDING PARADE.

Wants All Borough Citizens to Decorate for Firemen's Parade Next Thursday.

Already many citizens of the borough have arranged to have their residence and places of business appropriately decorated for the fire department parade, which will be held Thursday. To the end that the display may be general, Mayor Newton B. Smalley has issued a proclamation calling upon the boroughites to aid in making the affair a success.

The proclamation is as follows:

The North Plainfield fire department will parade through the borough Thursday, October 17 and there are many reasons why all our citizens should join in making it a success. Both the Warren Engine Company and the West End Hose Company are composed of our own citizens, who without compensation or thought of reward voluntarily devote their time and energy to the protection of our property.

On this occasion they will have as their guests numerous other companies from various parts of the State, which will be in a sense guests of the borough. The high character of the members of our own department, their valuable service to the borough, and the pride which we naturally feel for our own, all inclines us to assist in making this occasion pleasing and creditable.

It is earnestly requested that buildings along the line of march be suitably decorated, and that all join in showing our appreciation of our fire department and its guests.

Newton B. Smalley.
October 11, 1901. Mayor.

TWO HACKMEN UP.

Violation of Hack Ordinance Still Continues at Station.

Two more hackmen had the customary fine of $5 or thirty days placed over their heads in the City Court, this morning, for violating the hack ordinance. They were Harry Huff and John Kelley.

City Judge Runyon stated that he felt reluctant to fine any of the hackmen, but the city ordinance continues to be so openly violated that in the future stricter measures will be adopted to stop the practice.

Chief Kiely afterward instructed the officers in court to arrest all offenders when detected and lock them up instead of notifying them to appear in court.

UNINVITED GUESTS.

Had Already Been There and Taken the Silverware.

On returning to her home yesterday afternoon, having been away from early in the morning, Mrs. John Stein, of Morris avenue, found that some one had entered through a window and stolen a quantity of plated silverware. A bureau drawer had also been pried open with a shovel taken from the cellar but nothing of value was procured. The matter was reported to Chief Kiely and the police are investigating.

Quilting Day.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Warren chapel held an affair yesterday in the nature of a quilting party. Scotch Plains, Oct. 11—Judge Clark acted the part of arbitrator in a neighbors' misunderstanding several days ago. One of the residents went before the Judge and wished to begin an action against his neighbor for damage done by the latter's chickens scratching up the lawn. The Judge advised that a more peaceful settlement could be made if the neighbor and owner of the chickens came together and talked the matter over, and in this way avoid a suit. And it was done.

In Judge Clark's court, in the case of Morel against Carlson, the defendant's counsel, Attorney Walsh, asked for a non suit on a technical point. The court granted the request and another summons was immediately issued, returnable on Tuesday, October 15, at the same hour.

O. G. Norseen. The reception accorded him was one of the most pleasant affairs in which this progressive church has yet participated. At its close pastor and people were thoroughly acquainted and ready to assist each other in the interests of the congregation.

Following a brief service of song and prayer, lead by Morris Jorgensen, the following interesting programme was rendered: Recitation, Miss Elsa Norting; selections by a string quartette composed of William Nord, violin, Joseph Tinglof, piano, Miss Hannah Svard and Miss Christinia Olsen, guitars; recitation, Miss Arlin Brown; duett, Messrs. Nord and Tinglof; recitation, Joseph Lusie; selections, string quartette. Mrs. Utterborg, of Westfield, an accomplished pianist expected to be present but was unavoidably detained.

The address of welcome to Mr. Norseen was made by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church. He complimented the congregation on possessing such an able pastor as the new incumbent and predicted a steady growth under his leadership. Mr. Norseen responded in well chosen words and thanked the assemblage for the good will extended him.

Following the programme, the women of the church served refreshments and a social hour was spent while Mr. Norseen took occasion to personally greet each member of his flock. The committee in charge of the refreshment part of the occasion consisted of Mrs. Matilda Jensen and Miss Mary Anderson.

ALMOST CARRIED AWAY.

Well Wishers Nearly Went Along With Bridal Couple.

When Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Ouming departed for their wedding trip last evening they were accompanied to the North Avenue station by a merry party, composed of the ushers and other members of the bridal party. In the excitement of bombarding the newly married couple with confetti, rice and old shoes the well-wishers narrowly escaped being carried to New York on the 9:58 train. Their plan to apprise the passengers of the train that a bride and groom were on board was successfully carried out and caused much amusement.

Officers Were Elected.

A meeting of the Sewing Circle of the Swedish Lutheran Gethsemane church was held last evening at the residence of Mrs. Jacob Geier, of Madison avenue. In addition to the transaction of several business matters, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Herman Keller; secretary, Miss Hilda Bostrom; treasurer, Mrs. Jacob Geier; assistant treasurer, Mrs. John Gjetelsen.

Next Early Closing Address.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has consented to talk to the members of the Retail Clerks' Association at the meeting to be held in the church Sunday evening. The members will attend the service in a body and Mr. Herring will talk on the early closing movement and will speak of many features in its favor.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 13—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Dark days and their lessons.—Ps. cvii, 1-15.

The One Hundred and Seventh Psalm is in all probability not historical. The psalmist selects a number of incidents in life which are general in which he shows the goodness of God in delivering man and calls upon all who have thus been delivered to praise the Lord for His goodness. The experiences described in the psalm come in some of their forms to all men at some time. There are dark days in every life, and sometimes there are days so dark that it seems as if the light has forever gone out of our lives. But all who trust God find that it is not so and that, while "weeping may endure for the night, joy cometh in the morning."

There is no intimation in the word of God that we shall not have dark days in our lives. Some Christian people seem to think that the Bible teaches that God's people are exempt from trouble in this life. Nothing could be further from the truth. The Bible emphasizes the fact that "in the world we have tribulation," but it urges us in spite of it to be of good cheer because Christ has overcome the world. It teaches that God will be with us in trouble and that He will sustain us, but it nowhere suggests that we shall be free from adversity and affliction. Let us have no such a misunderstanding of the Scriptures as this, for, if we do, when trouble comes, as it surely will, our faith in God will be shaken or perhaps even destroyed.

2. Paul urged the Corinthians to practice the grace of giving under the inspiration of the benevolence of others. "I speak not by commandment, but by occasion of the forwardness of others." Paul would not use his authority to command them to give, but appealed to them to be inspired by the benevolence of others. Others had been forward in giving. Their forwardness should be emulated by the Corinthians. The liberality of others should inspire us to liberality. Christian liberality should receive a tremendous uplift under this stimulus today. It is an age of philanthropy and of liberality. Colleges, libraries, hospitals and institutions of various characters are the objects of great liberality. These gifts should spur Christian people to greater giving. Benevolence should inspire benevolence.

3. Paul urges the Corinthians to practice the grace of giving under the inspiration of the example of Christ. "Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, how that though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might become rich."

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Make a special study of systematic and proportionate giving.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 20-22; Prov. iii, 9, 10; xi, 24, 25; Mal. iii, 6-12; Math. vi, 1-4; Luke xiv, 13, 14; Acts xx, 35; I Cor. xvi, 1, 2; II Cor. ix, 6-8.

Being Content.

When those hours come upon us in which we yearn for the wings of a dove that we may fly away and be at rest, let us strive to overcome our sadness by the cheering influence of hope. Let us go to God for that "peace that passeth understanding," and thus change the burdens of life into blessings. There is no sorrow which may not in this way be alleviated, no wound that may not by this balm be healed. In doing so we will indeed be carried away from our sorrows and trials to a condition of holy rest in God. This is after all the great blessing. As Hunt says, "Being content, the poorest man is rich, while he who counts his millions hath little joy be he otherwise."—Christian Leader (Universalist.)

Without Prayer.

A modern writer on Christian ethics says of prayer that, "whatever else it is—duty, privilege or spiritual exercise—it is also a necessary element of the spiritual life. When it stops entirely, life stops. To be without prayer is to be without God." These are uncompromising assertions, but they cannot be denied. They are according to Scripture and to all human experience. But what a ghastly testimony they bear against those who restrain prayer before God, who go to a prayerless bed and rise to a prayerless day's work, who are neither drawn by joy nor driven by sorrow to the mercy seat, but live from day to day and week to week like the beasts that perish!—Christian Intelligencer (Baptist).

Earthly Trials.

The earthly trials that come to us are God's means of securing our heavenly joy. They lie upon the road we have to travel, and they help us forward. As means of sanctification they make us meet for the inheritance. If Christ prepares mansions for His people it is by preparing them for the mansions. The affliction is not merely light compared with the weight of glory, but it actually worketh that very glory and secures it. It holds a chief place among the "all things" that work together for good.—Sunday at Home.

The Survival of the Fittest.

What the scientists term the survival of the fittest is one of the commonest laws of God. It operates everywhere, and we are all subject to it. Jesus often spoke hard things just to test His followers. He sought to create character, and not appearances. One reality with Him had more force than a thousand semblances.—Presbyterian Journal.

Give Thanks.

In everything give thanks. Let it become a chronic habit to be grateful. —Ram's Horn.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 13. "Dark Days and Their Lessons"—Text, Ps. cvii, 1-15.

"Oh, that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His wonderful works to the children of men!"

No possible precaution can fully protect from danger in this world. There is no place of absolute safety. No wisdom can prevent mistakes, no care entirely avoid error. There is no sanctuary where sin cannot enter, no paradise secure from temptation. No flight or fortitude can escape suffering. Sometimes it seems as if all life is labor, pain and one long wail. We wish so much and yet so little; we shrink and tremble, but in spite of all are obliged to endure.

We cry for release and help, and so often the only apparent answer is a deepening of the gloom and heavier burdens. Does God care? Why does He let others have all that heart can wish and deny us the little which we crave?

Why, indeed? But that He may give that which is better than things, the best we can have or He can give—soul filling and satisfaction.

Are you hungry and thirsty, soul tired and heart sick, wandering alone in the wilderness of the world? Then cry unto God, and when you cry be willing to let Him lead. He will lead in the right way. Stop tugging and pulling against Him; let Him lead. He will bring you to a city; He will show you companionship in place of your selfishness. Do you suffer? So do others, so do all, and some far more than you do. Let your soul go out in sympathy for them. You will not forget your own sorrow, but you will by it know how to feel with others and help them. Relieving them, you will not lose yourself, but your pain will be blessed, so that in suffering still you will find the companionship of fellow sufferers and of the Christ most satisfying. You will come to ask not to be relieved from pain, but, rejoicing that you are counted worthy to suffer for and with Him, you will ask only that God shall lead.

No aggregation of wealth, health, honor, beauty, luxury or any combination of earthly benefits can satisfy the soul. Ease is not the condition of highest happiness. We are so made that we crave the nobility of soul life and can be satisfied with nothing less.

Pain is not evil; pleasure is not good, while the cross of Jesus Christ lifts before us the one excellent white soul who has shown us that the path of life leads through Gethsemane and over Calvary, beyond the tomb in the garden to the day of resurrection, ascension, glorification.

Days of darkness bring down our souls with labor till we know our needs and cry to God, and He saves us out of all our distresses.

So I journey on, not knowing;
I would not if I might.
I would rather walk in the dark with God
Than walk alone in the light.
I would rather walk with Him by faith
Than walk alone by sight.

Praying For Strength.

If you have any trial that seems intolerable, pray—pray that it be relieved or changed. There is no harm in that. We may pray for anything not wrong in itself with perfect freedom if we do not pray selfishly. One disabled for duty by sickness may pray for health that he may do his work, or one hemmed in by internal impediments may pray for utterance that he may serve better the truth and the right. Or if we have a besetting sin we may pray to be delivered from it in order to serve God and man, and not be ourselves satans to mislead and destroy. But the answer to the prayer may be, as it was to Paul, not the removal of the thorn, but instead a growing insight into its meaning and value. The voice of God in our soul may show us as we look up to Him that His strength is enough to enable us to bear it.—J. F. Clarke.

Assurance of God's Love.

Assurance of God's love and favor impels and sustains the Christian throughout the entire course of his life. It arouses to increased activity and liveliness in duty, imparts zest to prayer, creates instant and constant obedience, begets diligence, keeps alive hope and wards off discouragement. As on eagle wings, it bears up the soul in its flight to the skies. Like the spirit in the wheels of Ezekiel, it moves and lifts up the man of God, or like the weights of the clock puts and keeps in motion all the wheels of obedience. It makes its possessor, as in the case of David, run in the way of God's commandments.—Presbyterian.

A Safe Speed.

If you are slow in religion, don't conclude that you are going backward, though it may seem so, because some lightning express train rushes by you. You may still be carrying precious freight and will reach your destination at last. Your slow and sure progress may save a "head on smash up" if you are not so very slow as to be damaged by another train that is coming after you. Keep up a good, safe speed. —Christian Standard.

A Right and a Wrong Side.

Like most garments, everything in life has a right and wrong side. You can take any joy and by turning it around find troubles on the other side, or you may take the greatest trouble and by turning it around find joys on the other side. The gloomiest mountain never cast a shadow on both sides at once.—Reformed Church Messenger.

The Better Way.

Who cries for most in truth may least require;
Who most demands risks gaining his desire;
Who most devours is oft the lankest grown;
Who gives God all finds all at last his own!
End then the endless, graceless, fruitless strife—
Who findeth loseth, loseth findeth, life!

Hung up His Cane in the Closet
The experience of an Illinois ex-Justice of Supreme Court, eighty-one years of age, with Ripans Tabules goes to show that they are especially beneficial to elderly people: "For many years I was troubled with indigestion, sour stomach and sick headaches, to which paralysis added an almost torpid condition of the bowels and a decided lameness of my whole left side, arm and leg. I tried Ripans Tabules and am more than pleased with the results. For months I have had no sour stomach or sick headache, my bowels are regular and my lameness has so far disappeared that I have hung up my cane in the closet and do not use it any more."
WANTED:—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. RIPANS on the tongue, and is sent by druggists. RIPANS may be had at any drug store. Ten samples can be had for five cents, or one dozen for 60 cents, by addressing the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York. Ripans Tabules may be had at any drug store. THE WINTER UNDERWEAR.

Stylish Lingerie Is More Elaborate Than Ever.

The winter underwear is as elaborate as ever. Yokes, sailor collars and Marie Antoinette fichus are all seen upon nightgowns, but boleros of sheer lace are the newest.

Some of the newest petticoats are made with an elastic band, which enables them to be worn garter fashion below the hips. This is on account of the sheath fitting dresses which are now the craze. In all the underskirts and slips the fullness is held in most carefully until the knees are reached. It is then allowed to flare out gradually until close to the bottom the garment ends in a mass of ruffings.

White petticoats will continue to be the smart thing for evening and dressy wear. The newest French models, many of them, show appliqued yellow lace figures.

A simple gown for a young girl is shown in the illustration. It is made of heliotrope veiling over taffeta of the same shade. The skirt is gathered slightly to a full pointed lace yoke, and it is trimmed at the bottom with three folds. The waist is made with a full blouse of mull tucked and trimmed with lace insertion. The bolero is trimmed with a collar and revers of this mull edged with the lace, and the undersleeves are made of it. The bolero is held together in front by means of straps and bows of narrow black velvet, and at the base of the collar there are also a narrow tie and bow of the same ribbon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

ACCESSORIES OF DRESS.

The Latest Way to Tie a Sash—The Green Leather Fad.

Gray suede belts are being very much worn with the new fall tailor mades. Next in favor come patent leather belts. Owing to the craze for green, pocketbooks, chatelaines and girdles are being made in this vivid color, but well dressed women still regard these articles askance.

The newest sash is tied twice, first in two small and then in two wider loops. These two bows are ten inches apart, and after the last bow the ends are allowed to hang free to the bottom of the skirt. A pretty fan shaped bow is composed of three pointed ribbon ends appliqued on the waist and two long ends hanging on the skirt. Very often these ends are studded with small jeweled buttons, and the large central knot is passed through a buckle.

The attractive child's frock in the illustration is made of fine white organdie over pink taffeta or lawn. The waist is laid in fine tucks, which serve to give fullness to the skirt. The latter is trimmed around the bottom with three rows of narrow white shirred ribbon. The irregular pointed bolero yoke is of cream lace edged with a quilling of the narrow ribbon. The sash is of white silk mull, fastening with a large rosette on the left side and with the ends decorated with ribbon bows and quillings. The full sleeves reach only to the elbow and are trimmed with accordion plaitings of the mousseline de soie. JUDIC CHOLLET.

An army was investing the Sacred Mountain, and its one approach was most narrowly guarded. Even after having journeyed so far, it seemed as if I should have to sit hopelessly down without being able to carry out the orders which had been laid upon me by the high council, and earn the reward which had been promised. Force would be useless here. I should have one good fight—a gorgeous fight—one man against an army, and my usefulness would be ended. No; this was the occasion for guile, and I found covert in the outskirts of a wood, and lay there cudgeling my brain for a plan.

In that covert of the woods I lay a day and a night raging with myself for not discovering some plan to get within the defenses of the Sacred Mountain, but in the morning which followed there came a man towards me running.

"You need not threaten me with your weapons," he cried. "I mean no harm. It seems that you are Deucalion, though I should not have known you myself in those rags and skins, and behind that tangle of hair and beard. Zaemon laid a command on me. He came to my house. I asked his pleasure. It was to find you when you came in here from some distant part of the land and deliver to you his message.

"Then tell me the message,' said I.

"You are to make a great blaze. You may fire the grasses of the plain in front of this wood if you choose. And on the night which follows you are to go round to that flank of the Sacred Mountain away from the city where the rocks run down sheer, and there they will lower a rope and haul you up to their hands above."

He took himself off then, and I wasted no more precious time. The grass blazed up for a signal almost before the messenger's heels were clear of it; and that night, when the darkness gave me cover, I took the risk of what beasts might be prowling, and went to the place appointed. There was no rope dangling, but presently one came down the smooth cliff-face like some slender snake. I made a loop, slipped it over a leg, and pulled hard as a signal. Those above began to haul, and so I went back to the Sacred Mountain after an absence of so many toilsome and warring years. There were none to disturb the ascent. Phorenice's troops had no thought to guard that gaunt, bare, seamless precipice.

The men who hauled me up were old, and panted heavily with their task, and, until I knew the reason, I wondered why a knot of younger priests had not been appointed for the duty. But I put no question. With us of the Priests' clan on the Sacred Mountain it is always taken as granted that when an order is given it is given for the best. Besides, these priests did not offer themselves to question. They took me off at once to Zaemon, and that is what I could have wished.

The old man greeted me with the royal sign. "All hail to Deucalion," he cried, "king of Atlantis, duly called thereto by the high council of the priests."

"Then being king, I can speak without seeming to make use of a threat. I must have my queen first, or I am not strong enough to give my whole mind to this ruling."

"She shall be brought here."

"So! Then I will be a general now, and see to the defenses of this place, and view the men who are here to stand behind them."

I went out of the dwelling then, Zaemon giving place and following me. It was night still, but there is no darkness on the upper part of the Sacred Mountain. A ring of fires, fed eternally from the earth-breath which wells up from below, burns round one-half of the crest, lighting it always as bright as day, and in fact forming no small part of its fortification. Indeed, it is said that in the early dawn of history men first came to the mountain as a stronghold because of the natural defense which the fires offered.

There is no bridging these flames or smothering them. On either side of their line for a hundred paces the ground glows with heat, and a man would be turned to ash who tried to cross it. Round full one-half of the mountain slopes the fires make a rampart unbreakable, and on the other side the rocks run in one sheer precipice from the crest to the plain which spreads beyond its foot. But it is on this farther side that there is the only entrance way which gives passage to the crest of the Sacred Mountain from below. Running diagonally up the steep face of the cliff is a gigantic fissure, which succeeding ages (as man has grown more luxurious) have made more easy to climb.

Looking at the additions, in the ancient days, I can well imagine that none but the most daring could have made the ascent. But one generation has thrown a bridge over a bad gap here, and another has cut the living stone and widened a gap ledge there, till in these latter years there is a path with cut steps and carved balustrade such as the feeblest or most giddy might traverse with little effort or exertion. But always when these improvers made smooth the obstacles, they were careful to weaken in no possible way the defenses, but rather to add to them.

Eight gates of stone there were cutting the pathway, each commanding a straight, steep piece of the ascent, and overhanging each gate was a gallery secure from arrow shot, yet so contrived that great stones could be hurled through holes in the floor of it, in such a manner that they must irretrievably smash to a pulp any man advancing against it from below. And in caves dug out from the rock on either hand was a great hoard of these stones, so that no enemy through sheer expenditure of troops could hope to storm a gate by exhausting its ammunition.

But though there were eight of these granite gates in the series, we had the whole number to depend on no longer. The lowest gate was held by a garrison of Phorenice's troops, who had built a wall above them to protect their occupation. The gate had been gained by no brilliant feat of arms—it had been won by threats, bribery and promises; or, in other words, it had been given up by the blackest treachery.

And here lay the key-note of the weakness in our defense. The most perfect rampart that brains can invent are useless without men to line them, and it was men we lacked. Of students entering into the colleges of the Sacred Mountain there had been none now for many a year. The younger generation thought little of the older gods. Of the men that had grown up among the sacred groves, and filled offices there, many had become lukewarm in their faith and remained on only through habit, and because an easy living stayed near them there; and these, when the siege began, quickly made their way over to the other side.

Phorenice was no fool to fight against unnecessary strength. Her heralds made proclamation that peace and a good subsistence would be given to those who chose to come out to her willingly; and as an alternative she would kill by torture and mutilation those she caught in the place when she took it by storm, as she most assuredly would do before she had finished with it. And so great was the prestige of her name that quite one-half of those that remained on the mountain took themselves away from the defense.

There was no attempt to hold back these sorry priests, nor was there any punishing them as they went. Zaemon, indeed, was minded (so he told me with grim meaning himself) to give them some memento of their apostasy to carry away which would not wear out, but the others of the high council made him stay his vengeful hand. And so, when I came to the place, the garrison numbered no more than 80, counting even feeble old dotards who could barely walk; and of men not past their prime I could barely command a score.

Still, seeing the narrowness of the passages which led to each of the gates, up which in no place could more than two men advance together, we were by no means in desperate straits for the defense as yet, and even if my new-given kingdom was so far small, consisting as it did of the Sacred Mountain, and no other part of Atlantis, at any rate there seemed little danger of its being further contracted.

Another of the wise precautions of the men of old stood in good stead then. In the ancient times, when grain was first grown as food, it came to be looked upon as the acme of wealth. Tribute was always paid from the people to their priests, and presently, so the old histories say, it was appointed that this should take the form of grain, as this was a medium both dignified and fitting. And those of the people who had it were not forced to barter their other produce for grain before they could pay this tribute.

A DAMP RECEPTION.

The Ducal Party Welcomed to Toronto In a Driving Rain.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 11.—The entry of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York into Toronto was marked by a great popular demonstration of welcome. A storm that sent rivulets of muddy water through the streets and took the starch out of the decorations swept over the city, but wind and rain had no appreciable effect upon the throngs that turned out to aid in the welcome and show of loyalty. Wrapped in waterproofs or sheltered under umbrellas, the people waited for hours in the sodden streets and warmed themselves with cheers when the prince and princess finally came. Despite the storm many of the finer effects of the reception that represented months of preparation were not lost, and the entire programme was bravely carried out.

The larger reception at Toronto was the culmination of a series of smaller ones that began far up in the Muskoka lake country and extended from Huntsville on to Toronto. When the ducal train swept into the specially constructed depot in North Toronto, outside in a great L shaped stand 6,000 school children were crowded, and in the square made by the depot and stand were the mounted and foot troops designated as escort and guard of honor. The sharp voices of the children arose in a great choir of greeting, the troops presented arms and off in a field near by a battery hammered away on the royal salute as the train halted. Two bands gave time to the immense chorus as it rolled out "God Save the King," "The Maple Leaf" and other patriotic songs. Drenching rain fell on the young singers, but they kept their time and tone and waved their flags.

Eleven thousand troops have been massed here for the military review which is to take place today, and they were lined up along the route. Back of them, from the depot to the municipal building, were banked solid crowds. It is estimated that 40,000 visitors have come into the city for the fetes in honor of the duke and duchess, and few of them were kept indoors by the rain. All along the line there were hearty cheers for the prince and princess. The decorations kept their color despite the storm and were pretty even without the sunlight. At the city hall another large chorus sang a welcome, and the formal addresses of welcome were presented.

New Lighthouse Completed.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 11.—The new Hog Island shoal lighthouse in Mount Hope bay, built to replace the old lightship, has been completed. It will be equipped within a few days with a revolving light and a siren fog trumpet of large proportions. The structure is of cast iron an inch and one-eighth in thickness and was erected at a cost of $35,000. It is sunk six feet in the ledge, and the top of the lantern stands 52½ feet above the high water mark.

Canal Will Be In Good Hands.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The National Zeitung, discussing the Washington dispatches that purport to summarize the contents of the projected treaty between the United States and Great Britain regarding the isthmian canal, says: "Not only for Great Britain, but for all commercial nations, it is a matter of extraordinary significance that one of the most important routes of navigation of the future will be exclusively in the hands of the Americans."

Ernest Seton-Thompson Arrested.

DENVER, Oct. 11.—Ernest Seton-Thompson, a noted writer on wild animals, and John Goff, Colorado's famous guide, who accompanied President Roosevelt on his mountain lion hunt, have been arrested in Rio Blanco county for violation of the game laws of Colorado. The arrest was made by a deputy game warden. The specific charges against the men were those of baiting bear trap with venison and running dogs after deer.

Big Money Order Business.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The forthcoming report of Superintendent Metcalfe of the money order system will show that the money orders sold at postoffices throughout the country during the past fiscal year reached a total of $300,000,000 in round numbers. This is an increase of almost $40,000,000 over the previous year.

Increased German Emigration.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The emigration from Bremen and Hamburg from Jan. 1 to Sept. 30 was 156,448, which is an increase of 5,943 upon the emigration for the corresponding period last year. Emigration to Argentina is increasing.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMCND.

It was positively announced yesterday by Captain Overbaugh, of the local policemen's baseball nine, that the third game in the series arranged with the Elizabeth policemen's team would not be played. It was intended to have the concluding contest this week, but the Elizabeth captain stated that his men were unwilling to play on account of the coolness of the weather. It is understood, however, that a series of games will be arranged early in the coming spring to be played during the summer.

Last Saturday's baseball game between the St. Mary's and Scotch Plains teams was indeed a fitting close to the season of the National pastime in this city. Until this summer baseball in Plainfield was rapidly joining the "has been" ranks, but with three local teams in the field contesting for honors during the past few months, its downward impetus was checked. Large crowds have witnessed every game while the enthusiasm and rivalry has been unbounded. With better accommodations, and equally good teams, next season should see a rival of the sport such as has not been seen since the Crescent League disbanded. Saturday's game was witnessed by scores of rooters of mature years who have seen hundreds of contests between professional organizations, and they were unanimous in expressing the opinion that none were better played or the teams more evenly matched. The close of the contest resulted in hundreds of dollars changing hands.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The Plainfield Association Football Club will open the season tomorrow afternoon on the Clinton avenue grounds with the crack Hoboken team. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock sharp. The Plainfield team has been strengthened by the addition of some new players, who had a reputation on the gridiron on the other side of the Atlantic. Report says the Hoboken eleven is a very strong organization and is also captained by a former Plainfield player, Andrew Cowley. In consequence the game should be an exciting one.

GOLF.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Cranford Golf Club will take place tomorrow evening.

The only events on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course tomorrow will be the weekly play for the Mellick and Golf Committee cups. On Saturday, October 19, there will be the semi-finals for the Fisk handicap cup.

Contrary to expectations, Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers was defeated at golf yesterday by Miss Lucy Herron, of Cincinnati, on the course at the Baltusrol Club. Mrs. Rogers was looked upon as a formidable factor in the semi-final and final play, but she was defeated by the narrow margin of 1 up.

LAWN TENNIS.

The finals and championship round of tennis will be played tomorrow afternoon at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds on the courts owned by Councilman Mellick. T. M. Day and A. D. Beers will play the finals and the winner of that match will play Kenneth Bulkley, the present champion.

LOOKING FOR FIGHT.

Had Face Battered and Was Then Fined By City Judge Runyon.

Thomas Caulfield and J. S. Jones were prisoners in the city court this morning, charged by M. Leichtentritt and Robert Humphrey with assaulting them on West Front street shortly after last midnight. From the appearance of Jones' face it looked as if he had been used for a punching bag while the complainants' visages were free from all marks of a fracas.

The testimony developed the fact that Jones and Caulfield had followed the other two from North Plainfield for the purpose of starting a fight because Humphrey had openly declared "he was a responsible man." Jones admitted crossing from one side of Front street to the other for the purpose of coming up to the two men when the latter had taken all possible means to avoid them. City Judge Runyon fined him and Caulfield $6 or thirty days. Both paid.

Retail Clerks' Entertained.

At the regular meeting of the Retail Clerks' Association held last evening, the members were entertained with a pleasing musicale. In addition to numerous selections by concert phonograph, several members gave vocal solos and Miss Josephine Mulphy recited. Afterward an informal dance was held in which all present participated.

NEW JERSEY'S LEADING GROCERS.

41st ANNIVERSARY SALE.

More than four decades, yea—a lifetime of honest merchandising. Nothing strange about it; simply the survival of the fittest. Forty-one years ago we started business and at once introduced quick-selling low prices on Groceries and Provisions in Newark. Today our fourteen large stores control the trade in the largest portion of New Jersey. Not a week lapses that we do not receive letters from towns, where we are not as yet represented, asking us to establish stores there. Growing, growing, growing all the time by the unfailing power of fine, standard qualities at the lowest of low prices. No secret about our success, either. We buy for cash only in quantities commensurate with our enormous business; we buy the highest grade of goods obtainable, considering quality only, never paying exorbitant prices for fancy labels; we buy each and every article handled in our stores direct from the producer and manufacturers only. We can't better that policy. You save money when buying from us for cash; don't have to make up for the man who don't pay for his groceries, like at the credit stores. You save money when buying from us; don't have to pay for an expensive system of bookkeeping, like at the credit stores; you save all middlemen's profits when buying from us, and you buy better groceries at retail for less money than the small stores are compelled to pay to the jobbers for inferior grades.

We have always been liberal users of printers ink, keeping you informed from week to week concerning our business; it's costly, but it is one of the obligations of great retailing, and we meet it. Compare the prices quoted in our weekly advertisement with those that you are now paying, if trading elsewhere; we guarantee you a saving of 20c to 30c on each dollar. Please figure out how much you can save in one year on your household expenses, then give us a call. We will be pleased to have your trade. Our establishment is at your service. The prices we quote today are for our Anniversary sale only; it takes place on FRIDAY, the 11th.

SATURDAY, the 12th.

If you can't come, send us your orders by mail or telephone. They will receive quick and careful attention.

PARTY LEADERS IN TRIAL OF STRENGTH.

French and Carney Factions of Borough Democracy Divided Honors at Primaries.

FIGHT OVER COMMITTEEMEN

DAVID CARNEY DEFEATED BY JOHN H. VANWINKLE, JR.

Carney's Candidate Was Elected in Second District—Fight in First District Was Very Hot—The Delegates Elected.

Spirited contests in each of the two districts lent considerable excitement to the Democratic primaries held in the borough last evening. Trouble of a factional nature made its appearance at the primaries held to elect delegates to the Democratic State convention, and this caused a political fight to the finish between the two forces, one led by Assessor Elston M. French and the other by County Committeeman David J. Carney. The result was that each lost his own district in the trial of strength.

The purpose of the primaries was to select delegates to the county convention, which meets Monday, and also to name county committeemen. Two delegates and one committeeman were elected from each district.

In the First district where Mr. Carney resides, the contest was the more interesting. The meeting was held in the Somerset street schoolhouse. After the committeeman had called the meeting to order, Charles H. Lyman was chosen chairman and John Carney was selected as secretary. The election of delegates was first taken up and it resulted in a victory for the faction led by Mr. French, Andrew Love, Sr., and John T. Case winning the contest. The vote was John T. Case, 31; Andrew Love, Sr., Charles Dressler, 19. The name of W. J. Conroy was also among the list nominations, but it was withdrawn on the understanding that he was not a candidate.

Three challenges were made during the balloting, all by Mr. Carney. Newton Honeyman and Charles Campbell, it was claimed, are Republicans and John Bogan, it was alleged, is not a naturalized citizen. Mr. Campbell admitted the claim, while the other two stoutly denied it and were allowed to vote.

Even closer then this was the contest for committeeman, in which John H. VanWinkle, Jr., of the law firm of John H. VanWinkle & Son, won the honor, when pitted against Mr. Carney, himself. The vote was VanWinkle 27, Carney 22.

In the second district, the primary was held in Saengerbund Hall, and there matters took a more peaceable turn although there was a lively contest for the committeemanship. Lewis B Bird called the primary to order.

The regular officers chosen were David D. Smalley, chairman, and Lewis B. Bird, secretary. No fight was made for the delegates and the only two nominated, F. M. Ward and L. C. Kline, were chosen by acclamation.

The test came when Walter Linbarger, who is recognized as a friend of Mr. Carney, and Lewis B. Bird, a supporter of Mr. French, were nominated. The result of the ballot was Linbarger 14, and Bird 8, the former being declared elected.

FAMOUS LECTURER.

Ernest Seton Thompson is Coming to Plainfield to Speak.

Ernest Seton-Thompson, the famous wild animal lecturer, under the management of Major J. B. Pond, for the past two seasons has been speaking twice a day to Eastern audiences in order to supply the demand for his lectures. There have been only two or three other such successes on the lecture platform during the past two decades.

For many years Mr. Seton-Thompson has made a sympathetic study of the habits and mental traits of wild animals. He has painted them; he has written about them in "Wild Animals I Have Known," and other charming books; and now he is talking about them to delighted audiences everywhere. Usually children form a large portion of his afternoon audiences, and his lectures are of such high educational value that in many cities the school boards have made a ruling that any child may be excused from school for the purpose of attending one of Seton-Thompson's matinees.

He is to lecture in the Casino on Tuesday afternoon and evening, 22d inst.

HIGH PRAISE.

Postoffice Inspector Cortelyou Visited Local Office With Gratifying Results.

A regular inspection of the postoffice in this city has just been completed by Postoffice Inspector James F. Cortelyou, who is a brother of George B. Cortelyou, secretary to the President.

The inspector spent Thursday and Friday in this city and after completing his work said that he found the office and every department of it in first-class condition. He complimented Postmaster E. H. Bird very highly for the condition of affairs. Not a single complaint had the inspector to make about the office and in his opinion the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield are receiving the best possible service.

Mr. Cortelyou made a thorough inspection in every detail of office work and was much pleased with the way in which the business is done. He told Mr. Bird that the office would get one of the best ratings of any in his district; that everything was found to be in the best possible condition. This is most gratifying to Postmaster Bird and those around him and all are naturally proud of the showing made.

BRAKEMAN BURNED IN WRECK OF OIL CARS.

Disastrous Results of Rear End Collision on New Jersey Central Railroad.

SIXTEEN CARS DESTROYED.

FLOOD OF BLAZING OIL THREATENED CRANFORD'S RESIDENCES.

Fire Departments of Cranford, Westfield and Plainfield Were Summoned—Traffic Blocked For Four Hours—One Death.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Cranford, October 12.—As a result of a rear end collision on the New Jersey Central Railroad, a flood of burning oil covered the tracks at Cranford Junction, late last evening, destroying sixteen cars and a locomotive, stopping all traffic for four hours and threatening destruction to the many handsome residences in the immediate neighborhood. A brakeman was pinned under the wreckage of the caboose and before his companions could cut him loose the flames swept over him and he was burned to death. That was the only fatality. Thousands of people visited the scene.

The wreck itself was not a serious one and would have caused but little trouble had it not been for the accompanying flood of oil. The east bound freight, drawn by engine No. 455, had stopped at Cranford. It extended back to what is known as Johnson's crossing, a mile west of the station. Another train, east bound, drawn by engine No. 356, Engineer James Harriman, was following it closely. There is a grade at that point. It is supposed that the fog hid the signals from sight until it was too late to get the train entirely stopped in time.

At the rear of the first train were a number of tank cars of the Standard Oil Company, filled with oil and gasoline. The big engine of the second train crashed into the caboose of the other and telescoped it. Seven of the tank cars were derailed. The last of the tank cars was split open and the contents were soon spreading over the tracks, along the ditches at the side and over a cross street which led to South avenue.

When the crew of engine No. 356 saw that an accident was inevitable, they jumped and escaped with slight cuts and bruises. There was a brakeman in the caboose eating his supper. He was pinned under the wreckage. In a few minutes two of the trainmen were at work with axes trying to release him.

All of a sudden there was a flash and a roar. In some way the inflammable liquid which covered the ground, caught fire. In an instant it had spread to the last tank car and a huge volume of flames sprang into the air. The would-be rescuers had to flee for their lives.

It was not long before the other tank cars were blazing. The fire also spread to the cars of the second train. The fore part of the first train was uncoupled leaving the seven tank cars there and the rest of the train proceeded to Jersey City. Nine cars of the second train were abandoned and the rest were backed out of danger.

Within ten minutes after the fire started, which was at 10:10 o'clock, there was a deafening explosion and the top of one of the tank cars blew out. Three others followed. The flood of oil slipped down the gutter of a cross street and the residence of George Dann, nearby, began to smoke. Other residences were threatened.

A few minutes after the blaze started, the Cranford fire alarm sounded. Chief Charles Wood, who had been in that office just two days, telephoned to Westfield for aid. The Westfield department responded promptly. The railroad officials telegraphed to Plainfield and Chief T. O. Doane, First Assistant Chief J. W. Murray, Jr., with No. 1 steamer and No. 3 hose wagon arrived here at 12 o'clock.

The Cranford and Westfield departments confined their efforts entirely to protecting adjacent property refusing to turn a stream on the burning cars and tracks for fear of spreading the blazing oil. The oil in the streets finally burned itself out.

When the Plainfield department arrived, work was started to save the tracks and extinguish the burning freight and coal cars. By 1:30, the tracks were sufficiently cooled so that the first west bound passenger train managed to slip through on the west bound freight track. Several streams of water were kept on the cars as they

AFTER REDUCTION IN FARES.

COMMITTEE FROM BOARD OF TRADE WILL ACT.

Has Been Appointed to Interview Jersey Central Officials on This Subject.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trade a committee was appointed, which includes L. B. Woolston, F. W. Runyon and James E. Martine, to wait upon C. M. Burt, of this city, passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, and lay before him the matter of cheaper fares for Plainfield citizens. This matter has been discussed frequently by the board for the past few years, and now that several of the head officials of the railroad have located within the city limits, the matter will be pushed with vigor.

The committee expects to meet Mr. Burt in a short time and during the conference one of the important matters to be broached to him will be the question of an eighty-cent excursion ticket between Plainfield and New York. Now that the railroad officials have decided to abolish the fifty trip tickets so commonly used by local travelers, the action of the committee in asking for a substitute ticket, will meet with the commendation of the entire community.

While the New York fare will be the main point for argument it is the intention of the committee to ask for other concessions all of which have been deemed necessary for a long time.

In addition to the party Miss Aimee Emmons gave two delightful readings. Refreshments were served at the close.

FOUGHT OVER AN OUTING.

TOOK THE MATTER INTO JUSTICE SMALLEY'S COURT.

Families Quarrelled Over Their Share of Expenses in a Trip to South Branch.

A case of unusual interest was tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Smalley. Although the consideration amounted to only $15 it required the whole afternoon to try it. The case was that of Patrick Reagan and Catharine Reagan against Patrick Gunning and Catharine Gunning. William Newcorn represented the plaintiff, while Francis J. Blatz represented the defendant.

The plaintiff sued the defendant for making dresses, the pasture of cows and for balance due on some hay. The defendant filed an set off including a milk bill, a pair of spring chickens, washing done, and the balance of $4.20 from a $5 bill given to Mr. Reagan by Mrs. Gunning to pay car fares for the two families on a trip to South Beach in 1900.

Mr. Reagan produced an account of expenditures for the outing to South Beach showing the $3 60 was spent for refreshments, leaving a balance of $1 40. The two families, it was proven, had been on good terms for years and never quarreled.

The trouble between the families commenced when Mrs. Gunning demanded of Mr. Reagan the balance due from the $5 used on the trip to South Beach. Each side produced accounts to prove their case. Mrs. Gunning admitted that if the suit hadn't been brought she would not have charged the plaintiff for the laying of a carpet.

After hearing all the evidence, Justice Smalley reserved his decision until next Tuesday

TO ENLARGE HOTEL.

Changes to Be Made at the Hote Netherwood Before Next Season.

The management of the Hotel Netherwood has announced that the resort will be enlarged before the opening of the spring season. All during the present season there has been a demand for the rooms en suite, and at no time has there been any vacant rooms in the more ornate parts of the hotel. This condition of affairs has brought about the decision to extend the size of the present structure in order that there may be ample room for all who desire to sojourn at the resort next year.

As yet no plans have been made concerning the details of the proposed improvement, but it is said that the contemplated addition will be fully in keeping with the present structure architectially, while the interior arrangements will be on an elaborate scale. It is intended that the work be rushed, so that the opening of the hotel will not be delayed beyond the usual time in the spring.

MOVED FREIGHT HOUSE.

Progress of Improvements by the New Jersey Central Railroad at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 12—In view of the contemplated improvements by the New Jersey Central Railroad here, the freight house was Wednesday removed to Bridge street. It had stood so many years at the foot of Union street that it looks odd not to see it there.

The new spur so that the South Branch Railroad trains will be run direct to the depot here, and not be required to back over Bridge street, is about completed.

Work on the erection of a covered station, for that road, opposite to the regular depot building, will be started in a few days, as will also the tunneling for a subway from one station to the other for the use of passengers.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly aborbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

IS STILL A CAPTIVE.

Brigands Holding Miss Stone Now on Turkish Soil.

BULGARIAN TROOPS ARE ON GUARD.

Search by Ottoman Troops Abandoned, Fearing Fatal Results. A Call For More Ransom Money.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—In answer to inquiries concerning the measures being taken by Bulgaria for the rescue of Miss Stone, the American missionary captured by brigands, a dispatch dated at the royal palace, Sofia, and signed by Prince Dobrovitch, prefect of the chancellery, says:

"His royal highness requests me to say that the band of brigands which captured Miss Ellen Stone, the American missionary, is now on Turkish territory and that the Bulgarian government is taking most energetic measures to guard the boundary line and arrest the brigands in case they should attempt to cross into Bulgarian territory, while at the same time taking care not to endanger the life of Miss Stone or her companion in misfortune."

America's Course In the Matter.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—After detailing the history of the abduction of Miss Stone The Spectator remarks: "President Roosevelt and the Washington cabinet maintain justly that the sultan is responsible, as it is his misgovernment which provokes and protects brigandage, and they intend to demand reparation from the porte. It will not be limited, we imagine, to £25,000. The porte will be requested to punish the authors of the outrage, and as Turkey is sure to shuffle and America is tired of being played with a naval demonstration is quite on the cards. The sultan will of course yield to the first show of force."

A Second Appeal For Money.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The misunderstanding existing in various parts of the country, indicated especially in private advices received here, as to progress of the fund to ransom Miss Stone, the missionary, is considered to be of sufficient reason for the issuance of another appeal for funds by the clergymen who signed the first one. The idea is to impress upon the people of America the danger which still threatens Miss Stone.

Search For Miss Stone Abandoned.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 12.—In compliance with a request from Washington the search by Ottoman troops for the abductors of Miss Stone, the American missionary, has been abandoned, it being feared that the brigands would kill her should they be closely pursued. Arrangements are now being made to pay the ransom demanded.

Otis Favors the Canteen.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Major General Otis makes two reports this year, having divided his time between two departments. As commander of the department of Dakota he alludes to the considerable reduction in the strength of his command, which was drawn upon from other quarters. One of the most interesting points in the report is a suggestion made by Major Philip Reade, Fourth infantry, the inspector general of the department, to the effect that chaplains be placed in charge of the post exchanges and that the canteen be re-established in the interests of morals, temperance, discipline and health. Another suggestion is that a chiropodist be employed for each foot regiment.

Had Five Husbands.

MIDDLETOWN, O., Oct. 12.—The fact has just been developed that Mrs. Mary Belle Witwer, suspected of being a wholesale poisoner, has had five husbands instead of four. John Williams, whose name has not heretofore figured in the affair, left two days after the marriage ceremony had been performed and is the only one of the five husbands living. His present whereabouts is unknown. Mrs. Witwer secured a divorce from Williams on money furnished by Frank Brown, a Middletown paper hanger, who died some time after his marriage to Mrs. Witwer.

Labor Convention Called.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The formal call has been issued for the twenty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Labor to be held at St. Thomas college, Scranton, Pa., beginning at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, Dec. 5 next. The committee on credentials will meet five days previous to the convention and the executive council three days previous.

Sixteen Walkers Left.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Only sixteen men remain in the weary six days' walking match at Industrial hall, several more having dropped out of the contest. Tracy of Kinderhook, N. Y., who assumed the lead Thursday, is still in front, and predictions are made that he will never be headed. Peter Hegelman is his nearest competitor and is seven miles behind Tracy.

Rebels Finally Routed.

MANILA, Oct. 12.—The company of Macabebes and detachment of the Twenty-first infantry who were forced to retire when attacked by 300 rebels at Batangas for want of ammunition made another attack on the rebels and routed them.

Want Carnegie For Rector.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A mass meeting of the students of St. Andrew's university unanimously asked Andrew Carnegie to become lord rector of the university in succession to Professor James Stuart, whose term expires in November.

REPORT ON THE NAVY

NEW RECRUITING SYSTEM A SUCCESS

Much Attention Paid to Gunnery Training—Barracks Recommended Instead of Receiving Ships. The Year's Enlistments.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—In his annual report to the secretary of the navy Rear Admiral Crowninshield, chief of the navigation bureau, speaks of the reduction made during the past year in the strength of the Asiatic fleet, which was drawn upon to furnish two vessels to re-establish the European station and will be further diminished in order to permit of the commissioning of at least two training ships and an increase of the north Atlantic squadron by two gunboats and of the Pacific squadron by possibly one.

It is particularly desirable to have some small ships for gulf service on the Atlantic side. It is said that the operations on the Asiatic station were marked by uniform success and that the conduct of our sailors and marines in China in the main was all that could be asked for. The American fleet in conjunction with the army in the Philippines, it is stated, has hampered materially the inflow of arms and munitions to the islands.

A new system of recruiting the navy was adopted, recruiting officers going to different parts of the country instead of waiting until the men presented themselves at receiving ships. The system is said to have been an undoubted success.

Much attention has been devoted to gunnery training, and the report says that the department is about to undertake a long cherished project and establish two gunnery training ships on the Asiatic station.

The department is about to follow up the precedent established last year in the creation of a torpedo boat reserve station at Norfolk by establishing four other stations at Port Royal, Charleston, Pensacola and a second one at Norfolk.

Admiral Crowninshield declares that the time has come when, in the interest of the health of the sailors, of their correct drilling, of their comfort and of economy, the United States navy should follow the example of every first class navy and provide barracks in place of receiving ships. It is figured that the government would save annually by this course nearly $150,000 or the interest on twice the sum required to provide barracks for 6,000 men. It is recommended that congress appropriate for such barracks at New York $800,000 and for League Island and Mare Island $400,000 each.

Sailors were enlisted during the year to the number of 9,896, making the total men in service 18,825. From this number there were 3,158 desertions.

Cresceus Trots For Charity.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 12.—Cresceus yesterday afternoon lowered the world's trotting record on a half mile track one-quarter of a second. The record was previously held by himself, having been made on the Toledo track one year ago. It was 2:09¾. He trotted yesterday afternoon for the benefit of the charitable institutions of the city, and more than 40,000 people gathered to see him. This is the home of George Ketcham, the owner, trainer and driver, and last spring before starting on the circuit Mr. Ketcham in a letter to Mayor Jones announced that he would give an exhibition trot on the Toledo track for the benefit of all of Toledo's charitable institutions. The offer was at once accepted. The result is that they will now receive about $18,000.

Bank Employees Rewarded.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The employees of the National Broadway bank and the Broadway Savings institution are $20,000 richer than they were yesterday. After fifty-three years of service in the bank Francis A. Palmer, president of the bank, retired, and after addressing the employees of both concerns he distributed among them $20,000 in cash. Each of the beneficiaries received a sum of money in accordance to the length of time he had been in service. Some of the older employees found that their shares amounted to $3,000.

The Church, Not Its Treasurer, Short.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 12.—General W. H. Skirm, who was alleged to be $40,000 short in his accounts as treasurer of the First Methodist church of this city, has submitted his report. This shows that instead of being short the church owes General Skirm $14,960.69. The special church committee and the trustees upon examining the report and checking the vouchers announced the acceptance of the report and certified to its absolute correctness.

Fatal Electric Road Collision.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 12.—In a head end collision between a lemon train and a work train on the Santa Monica electric road four men were instantly killed and seven injured, five seriously. The accident occurred on a steep grade half a mile east of Sherman. The rails were wet from a fog, and a curve in the road shut off the sight of the work train until it was only a few yards distant.

Texas Town Wiped Out.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 12.—Insurance men at Dallas have been informed that nearly all the town of Alba, 100 miles east of Dallas, has been destroyed by an incendiary fire. It is reported that only two business houses of seventeen in the town are left. A large quantity of cotton was also burned.

SOME CENSUS FIGURES.

Final Report on Population Shows More Males Than Females.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The final census report on the population by sex, general nativity and color of the several states and territories has been issued. This last bulletin of the series covers the entire country. It shows that the males number 39,059,242 and constitute 51.2 per cent of the total population in 1900, while the females number 37,244,145, or 48.8 per cent. There is a slightly larger proportion of females now than ten years ago.

There is a difference in favor of males at the present census of 1,815,097 as compared with an excess of males for the equivalent area in 1890 of 1,560,370.

There has been an increase in total population of 13,233,631, or 21 per cent, since 1890. There are 65,843,302 native born persons and 10,460,085 foreign born persons, the latter element constituting 13.7 per cent of the total population in 1900 against 14.8 per cent ten years ago.

As to color and race the population in 1900 is made up of 66,990,802 white persons and 9,312,585 colored persons.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Episcopal Delegates at San Francisco Discuss the Subject.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—The question of marriage and divorce was before both houses of the triennial convention of the Episcopal Church of America yesterday. The bishops adopted a substitute for the proposed canon 37 providing for the discipline of persons marrying again after being divorced. The principal change made by the substitute is the provision that such person may receive the sacrament on the written consent of a bishop.

The house of deputies began the eagerly awaited debate of section 4 of the proposed canon 36, which virtually prohibits the remarriage in the church of divorced persons. The discussion will be continued on Monday. The only vote reached during the day was on a proposed modification of Dr. Huntington's amendment providing for determining the cause of divorce in the case of a divorced person applying to be married. This was defeated.

Five missionary bishops were voted for and named by the house of bishops to the house of deputies, where the final election must take place.

Fireman Scalded to Death.

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 12.—In a wreck on the Norfolk and Western road near Dublin, Va., Frank Lavender, a fireman on a Cripple Creek passenger engine, met a horrible death. While running from Pulaski to Dublin his engine crashed into another engine attached to the rear end of a freight train which was standing on the main line. Both engines were badly wrecked, and Fireman Lavender, whose legs were caught by falling coal from the engine's tender, was scalded to death by steam. Hanging from the cab window, he begged piteously for help, but the bystanders were powerless to aid him owing to the fast escaping steam. The dead fireman was from Pulaski and had been married only a month.

Adrift at Sea.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The Hamburg-American steamship Graf Waldersee, which arrived in port from Hamburg, Boulogne and Plymouth, brought in two fishermen who were picked up in an exhausted condition after having been adrift without food or water for five days. The men were discovered about noon on Oct. 7 when the Graf Waldersee was in latitude 46.05, longitude 48.39.

General Porter Sees the Sultan.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 12.—The sultan received in private audience yesterday General Horace Porter, United States embassador to France, and Mrs. Porter. To the former he presented a valuable souvenir, and upon the latter he conferred the Grand Cordon of Chefakat. Later in the day General Porter and Mrs. Porter took tea in the Yildiz park.

Storm Did Much Damage.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—Further reports of the ravages of the recent storm have been received from various points. In Gotha a whirlwind did much damage. The Burschenschaft monument, in process of erection near Eisenach, was partly demolished. The Rhine is rising rapidly. It has already risen sixteen feet at Cologne.

Building's Total Collapse.

BAY CITY, Mich., Oct. 12.—A heavy framework of girders supporting the roof of one of the buildings at the Michigan Chemical company's new plant, in process of erection, fell yesterday afternoon. One man was killed and three seriously injured.

Yale's Large Registry.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 12.—The official registration figures at Yale show an increase of over 200 over last year. The total number of students this year will be about 2,750. The recently established department of forestry shows an increase of twenty-two.

ORDERS SENT SCHLEY

Captain Chadwick Before the Naval Court.

THE COMMODORE PLEDGED LOYALTY.

Sampson's Congratulatory Dispatch Not Approved by the Flagship's Commander—Five Other Witnesses Were Examined.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Captain F. E. Chadwick, who was in command of Admiral Sampson's flagship, the New York, and who also was chief of the admiral's staff during the war with Spain, testified before the Schley naval court for a short time yesterday afternoon. He was the last witness called, and when the court adjourned he was still under cross examination by Mr. Rayner, who stated that he had only a few more questions to ask him. There was considerable interest in Captain Chadwick's appearance because of his close relationship to the commander in chief of the north Atlantic squadron.

Captain Chadwick's testimony related very largely to dispatches sent by Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley while the latter lay off Cienfuegos in May, 1898, and to the code of signals agreed upon between Captain

CAPTAIN CHADWICK.

McCalla of the Marblehead and the Cuban forces operating near Cienfuegos. He said this code had not been sent to Commodore Schley by dispatch because Captain McCalla had expected to join the commodore immediately and communicate the code to him.

He also told of being present at an interview between Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley, in which the latter had expressed his intention to be loyal to the commander in chief.

He related in detail the change of opinion concerning the whereabouts of Cervera's fleet by Admiral Sampson on May 21, between the sending of the two dispatches of that date by Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley, one of which was dated at Key West and the other at Havana. Captain Chadwick said he had not approved Admiral Sampson's dispatch of May 28, congratulating Commodore Schley on his accomplishments to that date.

Five other new witnesses were heard during the day, two of them being officers of the New York. One of these was Lieutenant C. C. Marsh, the flag secretary of Admiral Sampson, who testified concerning dispatches to Commodore Schley, and the other was the ship's flag lieutenant, Lieutenant E. L. Bennett. Lieutenant Theodore G. Dewey, a nephew of Admiral Dewey, who served on the Massachusetts; Lieutenant Adelbert Althouse, also of the Massachusetts, and Lieutenant Francis Boughter, who served on the Marblehead, were the other new witnesses of the day.

Miners Rescued From Burning Mine.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Oct. 12.—There was an explosion of gas in the Fairmont Coal company's New England mines yesterday. The gas ignited from a shot fired by one of the miners, the loose coal at once taking fire, and a big blaze resulted and filled the mine with smoke at a point where it prevented the exit of the miners for a time. The men were thus penned in for about four hours, and it looked for awhile as if there would be many fatalities. The flames were finally shut off by the putting up of brattices, and the men all came out unhurt. There were a mule killed and a horse crippled, but no further damage was done. The fire is still raging in the mine, but it is believed will be under control in a short time.

Cornell's Dean Resigns.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 12.—The students and a good many members of the faculty of Cornell university were startled by the announcement that Professor Horatio Stevens White, dean of the university faculty and head of the department of German, had tendered his resignation to take effect next September. Professor White resigns to accept a professorship of German in Harvard university. Professor White is a graduate of Harvard, but has been a member of the faculty of Cornell university for twenty-eight years.

National Congregational Council.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 12.—The national council of the Congregational church met here today, and many delegates from distant points were present at the opening exercises. This body embraces the entire country, and all places in America in which the Congregational church has a foothold will be represented. The council met in the State Street church, and the sessions will continue until next Friday.

High Protection For Austria.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—From inside sources in Vienna the Berliner Post learns that the new Austrian tariff bill, which is now complete, quite equals the German in high protective duties.

The Relief Association.

Many people have remarked on the fact that Plainfield, of all the suburban cities in close proximity to New York, is singularly free from poverty and crime. There are always a few people in every community who utterly refuse to help themselves and try to live on the misdirected charity of their neighbors. Plainfield possesses its share of such characters. Then there are a number of cases, remarkably few when compared with those in other cities, of persons who are really in need and are worthy objects for the charitably inclined people of the city.

It is to aid the latter class that the Plainfield Relief Association was formed. Working in direct connection with it is the Organized Aid Association, the object of which is to investigate all cases and ascertain whether or not they are really worthy ones. When the case is favorably reported on, it generally falls upon the Plainfield Relief Association to give the desired aid. Sometimes it is money, medicine, clothing or food. More often it is an opportunity to earn sufficient to provide the bare necessities of life.

According to the regular course of events, there are always some of the inhabitants of this globe who are placed in very unfortunate circumstances so that they have to secure aid from their neighbors. It is therefore the duty of the more fortunate ones to assist the others as far as their means permit. If the people of Plainfield will remember that fact and make regular contributions to the treasury of the Relief Association, they will be advancing a very worthy cause and doing much good for their own fellow-citizens.

There is undoubtedly much misdirected charity in this world. The motives of the giver are the best in the world but they cannot accomplish the desired ends as they might do if the effort was made through some organized body like the Relief Association. The Relief Association is not a wholesale distributor of charity. It is simply a means whereby the unfortunate are given an opportunity to retain their self respect and yet secure aid in time of need. It is an institution which any one need not be ashamed of applying to for aid in time of destitution.

If the people of Plainfield will bear these facts in mind and make regular contributions to the association, they will be advancing one of the greatest and most valuable of the local institutions and one which deserves the heartiest support and co-operation from all the people of the city.

Now it is up to the Democrats of Somerset county to select the men for their county campaign. Three years ago the Democrats managed to elect a sheriff on account of the factional disturbances in the Republican ranks. They are hoping that history will repeat itself this year.

The time for the closing of the Pan-American Exposition is drawing near. Despite the shooting of the President there, which it was feared, would cast a gloom over the remaining days of the exposition, the attendance this month has been the largest since the exposition opened.

It has been announced that Councilman vanHerwerden, of the Second ward, was a candidate for renomination at the hands of the Republican party this fall. It is understood, however, that there is some opposition to him in that ward and his name may be withdrawn.

WILL RESERVE SEATS.

H. M. Maxson Tells of Y. M. C. A. Star Course Entertainments This Season.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Permit me to call the attention of your readers to the opening of the sale of reserved seats for the Star Course of entertainments at the Y. M. C. A.

Last year we instituted the custom of reserving a seat for each purchaser of a course ticket. All members of the Y. M. C. A. may also reserve a seat on presentation of a membership ticket and the payment of fifty cents. The plan proved so acceptable to our patrons last year that it is continued this year, the sale opening Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at Hodge's pharmacy in the Y. M. C. A. building. From all accounts received of the talent engaged, this year's course promises to be the best we have yet presented in our building. H. M. Maxson,

Chairman entertainment committee.

TWELVE PROSPEROUS YEARS.

SUCH HAS BEEN THE HISTORY OF MIANTONOMO TRIBE.

Anniversary Was Appropriately Celebrated By the Red Men Last Evening.

The twelfth anniversary of Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order of Red Men, was appropriately celebrated in the wigwam last evening. There were present members from Wetumpkah and Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribes, and several members of the Board of Great Chiefs. Great Prophet Wm. Newcorn, as chairman of the committee on the anniversary, was in the chair.

When Miantonomo Tribe was instituted there were fifty-nine members. The membership at present is 230, and there is a substantial sum in the treasury. The tribe is one of the most progressive in the State.

Great Chief of Records Daniel Stevens, of Camden, gave a stirring talk in which he congratulated the tribe. He reviewed some of the important happenings during the past year which were of interest to all. Remarks were also made by Past Great Prophets William J. Smyth, of Oceanic; William Newcorn and Past Sachem William A. Westphal, of this city.

The entertainment part of the programme consisted of recitations by Ferdinand O. Smith, piano solos by Nate Samuels and Harvey Patterson, and songs and dances by the Black Diamond quartette. This part of the programme was greatly enjoyed and encores were repeatedly given.

After the entertainment refreshments were served and a smoker enjoyed. The committee in charge consisted of William Newcorn, A. J. Stiglitz and Charles Holstein.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Construction Work Brisk—Labor Well Employed at Good Wages.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Failure of a few overcapitalized industrial corporations to pay interest on their stock is no criterion of conditions in manufacturing, although an influence of some weight in the stock market. Reports from all sections of the country agree that there has seldom if ever been such vigorous prosecution of constructive work. Widely divergent lines exhibit similar symptoms. Lumber advances in price because the demand exceeds the supply. Steel, fuel, wearing apparel, etc., all enjoy great activity. It is not exceptional to hear that all previous records are being surpassed. Labor is well employed at good wages, and the buying power of the people is more than sufficient to meet the advance in the cost of living of 4.6 per cent over prices prevailing a year ago.

Scarcity of cars retards freight movement, but railway earnings for September were 10.1 per cent larger than in 1900 and 17.4 per cent above 1899.

Wholesome activity is still the feature at iron furnaces and steel mills.

Footwear shops are still producing at full capacity not only in the old established New England factories, but in this state and at the west and south.

Quiet conditions prevail in the dry goods market not because of light demand, but through the strong views of sellers, which prevent export sales as well as domestic business.

Slightly better relative prices have been established by the leading cereals, wheat making a fair gain, while corn lost a little of its exceptional strength. Nothing of interest has transpired as to the domestic wheat situation; harvesting progresses satisfactorily and mills are grinding at a liberal rate. There is no evidence of holding back for higher prices.

Liabilities of failures for the first week of October were $1,938,663, of which $775,550 were in manufacturing and $874,158 in trading lines. Failures for the week numbered 231 in the United States against 223 last year and 34 in Canada against 32 last year.

For a McKinley Memorial Arch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The organization of the William McKinley National Memorial Arch association, whose purpose is to have a two million dollar arch erected by a national popular subscription to President McKinley to be placed at the Washington approach to the proposed memorial bridge to connect Washington with Arlington, is being rapidly completed. Henry B. F. MacFarland, one of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, is president, and Secretary Gage was chosen treasurer of the association. The president and cabinet will be named as honorary vice presidents.

September Postal Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The gross postal receipts for September at fifty of the largest postoffices were $4,225,752, a net increase of $328,822, or 8.2 per cent over last year. Receipts at only two offices decreased—namely, Jersey City, N. J., $3,760, or a little over 17 per cent, and Grand Rapids, Mich., $268, or over 1 per cent. Columbus, O., showed the largest increase, 30 per cent, with Los Angeles, almost 29 per cent, a close second. The receipts of New York were $881,511, an increase of 8.2 per cent, and Chicago $697,160, an increase of 1.2 per cent.

Stirling Must Die.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Amos Stirling, colored, twice convicted of murder in the first degree, has been refused a new trial, and the death sentence was imposed. Stirling was accused of complicity with Henry Ivory and Charles Perry, also colored, in the murder of Professor Ray Wilson White, law instructor in the University of Pennsylvania, on the night of May 19, 1900. Perry and Ivory were hanged in the county prison last Tuesday.
